MEET MEN OF OWN WEIGHT.

NEW YORK, January 29—Had the boxing world been out in on the long distance conversation between the president of Madison Square Garden, in New York, and Charles "Pop" Foster, in Vancouver, B.C., it would have realized that it is never so bad that it can't get worse.

Mr. William F. Carey, on this end of the line, had just finished counting the receipts of Friday night's fight between James J. Braddock and Ernie Schaaf, and Mr. Carey was in a doleful mood. The receipts amounted to $14,337.70, and that's not much to a place that held 203,000 at boxing matches of four years ago.

But if Mr. Carey had a temperature to start with, imagine his anguish as he listened to the manager of Jimmy McLarnin from far-off Vancouver:

"It's no use, Mr. Carey. The boy weighs 146 pounds now, and he wouldn't fight below that if he could get Benny Leonard. You'll have to get him welterweights after this."

$100,000 GO GONE BLOOEY

A $100,000 match, the only one in sight, and it's gone. There will be no return meeting between Jimmy McLarnin and Bill Petrolle. McLarnin has made his last fight against lightweights and junior welter weights.

McLarnin, always a terrific card here established a world's indoor record for $10 ringsides in a return match with Ray Miller, who had previously defeated him at Detroit. They drew $106,000 at the Garden. Against Ruby Goldstein he drew $96,000.

Petrolle, who handed Jimmy the worst pasting of his career, would have been as good a card as Miller or Goldstein in a return bout. It was the only hope of the Garden for a sell-out show under present conditions.

Both Carey and Tom McArdle talked to Foster, and Jimmy's manager convinced both men of his sincerity.

"We have abandoned all negotiations for a McLarnin-Petrolle match," McArdle said. Foster said Jimmy's right hand is still out of commission, but that he hopes to have him ready by March. We would like to match him with Tommy Freeman for the welterweight title. Otherwise we will offer him Young Jack Thompson or Jackie Fields."

Eddie Shea, conqueror of Bat Battalino in a bout staged at Chicago last Friday, yesterday was offered a match with Fidel LaBarba, the man Battalino refuses to fight. The Garden wants it for the February 20 date.

Shea is an old timer who caught his second wind about eight months ago, and has since made a clean sweep of the best fighters in the division. Incidentally, LaBarba and Battalino were among his victims.

However there was a lot of discussion about the LeBarba decision, and LaBarba is eager for a return match. The bout would decide the leading contender in the featherweight division, now that Chocolate has become a lightweight.

FRIENDS HONOR GALWAY PASTOR

Rev .Father V. J. Gillogly Guest of Honor at Social Evening.

PLEASANT PROGRAM.

KINMOUNT Jan. 29—On Monday evening a number of parishioners of Kinmount and Galway met at the home of J. J. Doherty, of Kinmount, to wish God speed to their deeply and dearly loved pastor, Rev. V. J. Gillogly, who is soon leaving them to take charge of Victoria Road parish.

A pleasant evening was spent in cards and music and after a dainty lunch served by the hostess, an appropriate address was read to Father Gillogly by David Curtin, of Galway, and a substantial cheque was presented by John Pearson, of Kinmount.

Mr. Parker, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Kinmount, also spoke a few words on behalf of the young people, for the deep interest he had always taken in the young men of the parish.

Although taken by surprise, Rev. Father Gillogly thanked everyone most heartily for their kindness, saying that his work in the parish had always been a pleasure due to the goodwill and co-operation of his people. The reverend gentleman pointed out that he would not be far away and would always take an interest in the welfare of the Galway and Kinmount parish.

NEED FOR ACTION IS SEEN BY KING

PROBLEMS URGENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., January 29 (C. P.). — With the declaration that in some parts of Canada to-day the distress is greater than it has ever been, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, has issued a statement calling upon the Prime Minster to shed some light on when Parliament will meet. Notwithstanding that the Government has had a free hand with its policies and expenditures, "conditions in Canada to-day are much worse than they were at the time of the calling of the special session in September last," asserts Mr. King. "There is at present much more need for the regular annual session of Parliament to consider the conditions of the country's affairs than there was at any special sessior. in September," added the Opposition Leader.

Mr. King remarks that "the pretext that the reassembling of Parliament should wait over until the arrival in Canada of the new Governor-General cannot be taken seriously." He comments on the fact that Premier R B. Bennett is going to Washington, and expresses the hope that "before the Prime Minister embarks upon further missions which take him away from Canada he will at least let the country know when it may expect the reassembling of its Parliament.

WALTER L. PAYNE ADDRESSES CLUB

Official Lecturer of C.P.R. Gives Interesting Illustrated Lecture.

VIEWS WERE SPLENDID.

An illustrated talk entitled "On Horseback to the Glacial Age" was the subject of an interesting address given by Walter L. Payne of Montreal, official lecturer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to members of the Women's Canadian Club, in the auditorium of the Public Library, yesterday afternoon. The president, Miss Margaret Hamilton, was in the chair.

The views were splendid. Not the least attractive of the entertainment was the series of fascinating pictures of mountain scenery—oddly shaped peaks, delightful lakes and glistening glaciers—which illustrated the talk and brought home to the audience the highlights of the tour.

After a short discussion of the Glacial Ages and the important part they have played in the history of the earth, Mr. Payne took his audience on a horseback trip 100 miles north of Lake Louise to the Columbia Icefield. Situated on the borders of Alberta and British Columbia, the Columbia Icef ield is the largest known glacial formation outside of the Arctic Circle, he pointed out.

But geological data did not monopolize Mr. Payne's time. Treating his subject in a racy fashion, he seasoned his remarks with details of the idiosyncracies of the fool-proof mountain pony, stories of the omniscient mountain guides and facts about the wild inhabitants of the forest.

Unique pictures demonstrating glacial formations and glacial action were shown and discussed and were followed by an attractive series of pictures of wild flowers found in Alpine meadows. The return trip from the Columbia Icefield by the Pipestone Pass and River to Lake Louise was also pictured and explained

In conclusion, Mr. Payne made reference to an organization known as "The Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies." This he describes as an association of men and women brought together by a common love of the mountains who aim at encouraging travel on horseback through the Canadian Rockies and the maintenance of old trails and the building of new.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 58 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

So quickly had the beasts of Tarzan taken possession of the canoe that Mugambi had not noticed that it was already occupied. In the darkness the huddled figure sleeping in the bottom had escaped his observation. But no sooner were they afloat than a savage growling from one of the apes attracted his attention to the shivering and cowering native woman trembling between him and the great anthropoid

With difficulty he kept the ape from her throat, and after a time succeeded in quelling her fears. Mugambi did not wish her presence, but was unwilling to lose time by returning her to shore. Downstream they swiftly paddled until the shadowy outline of the Kincaid loomed ahead. Just as he urged his creatures to renewed efforts, the outline of another canoe burst suddenly into view not three yards from the bow of his own craft.

Just as the two dugouts were about to touch, a man in the oncoming boat challenged them, not recognizing the nature of the fearful crew. For answer came the menacing growl of a panther, and the fellow found himself gazing into the flaming eyes of Sheeta, who had raised himself with his forepaws upon the bow of the boat, ready to leap in upon the occupants of the other craft. Instantly Rokoff realized the peril that confronted him.

He gave a quick command to fire, and it was this volley sent into the silent night toward the beasts of Tarzan and the scream of the terrified native woman in the canoe with Mugambi that both Tarzan and Jane heard. Before the awkward apes, being momentarily dazed at the gunshots could spring into the enemy canoe, Rokoff's men had turned swiftly downstream and were paddling for their lives in the direction of the Kincaid

CHAPTER HOLDS FINE BANQUET

Royal Scarlet Chapter Holds Social Evening in Lodge Rooms.

LENGTHY TOAST LIST.

The members of the Royal Scarlet Chapter of the L.O.L. held a banquet and social evening in the Lodge room last evening.

The supper was provided by the Ladies of the Vimy Ridge Lodge, and great credit is due to them for their kindness and work.

Fred Sanderson acted as chairman during the entertainment which followed the banquet. Following the toast to His Majesty the King by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Batley rendered a duet. This was succeeded by a musical number by Messrs Wilson, Haslett, Nicks and Lovat.

Clarence Luffman proposed a toast to the Royal Scarlet Chapter and George Paines very ably responded to it. Mrs. Delong, Worthy Mistress of Vimy Lodge, L.O.B.A. gave an interesting address. Piano and cornet fiumbers were given by Messrs Long and Routley.

The toast to the City was given by George Porter, and was responded to by E. F. Reid, members of the Board of Education. F. Millard, Worshipful County Master delivered a few well chosen remarks.

Archie Reid and George Woodworth gave a musical number, which was followed by a recitation given by Mrs. Brown, Past Mistress of the Vimy Ridge Lodge. Charles Coleman sang a comic song.

Col. Miller proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge. This was responded to by Rev. Brother Geen of Belleville, Most Worshipful Grand Chaplain of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America and one of the oldest Orangemen in the district.

The orchestra rendered a musical number, and was well applauded by the members of the Lodge. The toast to the Ladies was given by J. J. Cunningham, and Misses Brown, Millard and Manley responded to it.

Notes of regret were received from Mayor Denne stating that he was unable to attend the meeting and from J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P. saying that he was on business in Toronto.

PERJURY CHARGE

tion referred to. He was there as a witness and was present when Samuel Henson on oath had stated he was not in Omemee during the year 1929.

"I know he was in Omemee at some time during the first two weeks of May 1929 and saw him at Irwin and Clemett's garage," said witness. He had seen the accused, he continued along with a Mr. Clarke. Witness was also present. He remembered the date well because it was right afterwards that he went to Cobourg to work.

Noble Clemett, 57 Park Hill road this city one of the plaintiffs in the County Court suit against Henson, stated he remembered Henson's statement under oath, that he had not been in Omemee in 1929. Witness thought that the accused was in Omemee in 1929, and said he was talking to him at the garage some time during the first two weeks of May, 1929, in the company of Overhoult and Mr. Clarke.

Under cross-examination, he stated he did not know the date on which he first met Henson. It was some time in the Fall of 1928.

Mr. Strickland reminded witness that he remembered the date on which Henson was at Omemee in 1929, and asked him again why he could not recall the previous dates.

Witness said he remembered the occasion of accused's visit to Omemee because the trucks started to operate on May 8th.

In the civil action, stated Mr. Strickland, you alleged that you did business with Henson in 1929. The County Judge dismissed the action on the ground that you had no contract with Henson.

At a later juncture witness said he did not remember at what time Henson arrived or at what time he left the garage at the time of his visit in 1929.

Miss M. Moore, official court stenographer, was called to the witness box to testify that the copy of the evidence produced in court, was that taken at the Civil action.

David Clarke of the Empress Hotel, Toronto, a contractor, had known accused since the Fall of 1928. He was to have been associated in the haulage business with Henson, but negotiations fell through. When I say Mr. Henson, I mean the E. Derno Company, he explained, of which Henson is secretary-treasurer.

"To the best of my knowledge Mr. Henson was not in Omemee in 1929 with me."

"I can say to the best of my knowledge he was not in Omemee in 1929 at all," he said, in reply to a further question."

Witness admitted that in a statement he gave to Provincial Police, he had stated, he thought he was in Omemee with accused in 1929. He had later had an interview with Inspector Elliott of the Provincial Police, and refuted that statement. He explained the reason he had not been so particular about recalling the event was that he was led to believe that it only involved the civil action. When he heard of the serious charge against Henson, he stated he considered the matter again very carefully, and was not now prepared to swear that Henson was in Omemee in 1929. He had made a mistake in saying that he ever was.

In Police Court

Arthur Crowe, appearing before Police Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning on a charge of vagrancy, changed his plea from one of not guilty to guilty, and was remanded for one week for sentence, on the application of Chief of Police S. Newhall.

Asked if he had anything to say, Crowe replied, "I am sorry this happened. It shall never happen again."

It was intimated that further charges will probably be preferred against Crowe relating to thefts.

R. Cowan paid $10.00 and $3.25 costs into the treasury on a charge of speeding.

YOUNG MURDERER

Officials estimated that 80 men were in the mob. All wore masks and some were armed. They gathered quietly at the jail, and then, using huge timbers, battered down the front door of the place.

Leaders of the attackers argued with Deputy Hallan for some time in an endeavor to get keys for the cells. Hallan, however, refused to say where they were and the ladders left. They returned within a few moments, however, and using the timbers again, smashed down a steel door to reach young Bannon.

Confessed To Crimes.

Confession by Charles Bannon early in December that he had slain Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children climaxed one of the most sensational crimes in North Dakota's history.

Bannon had been employed on the Haven farm, near Schafer which is in Northwestern North Dakota. Last February he told authorities that after a quarrel, he shot and killed first one, and then another of the Havens and buried their remains in a barn on the place.

He told friends and neighbors that the Havens had left the farm and had gone to live in Oregon. No suspicion attached to him until late in November when he was arrested on a charge of selling property that did not belong to him—hogs from the Haven farm.

At the trial, he was questioned repeatedly about the whereabouts of the Havens. Checking in Oregon failed to locate them. Finally he told authorities that he had helped bury a baby which he said Mrs. Haven had killed during a fit of insanity.

He led the officers to where the body was buried. Further questioning and search eventually led to all the bodies and a confession that he alone was responsible.

CITY'S UTILITIES SHOW PROFITS

CITY COUNCIL IS GIVEN $3,967.00 BY COMMISSION

WATERWORKS $5,967.

Electric Department Has Surplus of $9,000 Plus the "13th" Bill.

A cheque for $3,967 was presented to Mayor Denne and several members of the City Council by the Utilities Commission at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The amount represents the profits of the Waterworks Department after $2,000 had been set aside in the reserve fund.

All three departments handled by the Utilities Commission had a most successful year. In the Gas Department $13,139 was placed in the reserve fund, while the Electrical Department showed a surplus of $9,000, and it is expected that the "Thirteenth Bill" will probably add another $14,000 to this amount.

The members of the Commission were congratulated by Mayor Denne for the able way in which they have handled the three great utilities, as all three have shown substantial profits.

The meeting with representatives of the City Council was preceded by private discussion and consideration of reports, which will appear in the minutes, and considered by the members of the Commission.

Cheque is Presented

Chairman G. R. Matthews presented the reports to the members of the Council present. The Waterworks Department made a clear profit of $3,967.00 during the past year, he said and a cheque for this amount was being given to the City. This amount did not include the total surplus as $2,000.00 was being set aside in reserve funds. Mr. Mathews stated that the dam at the pumping sation was not in good condition, as the cement was beginning to be worn away in places but this will be remedied in the near future. The Commission also intends to establish a sinking fund for the filtration plant the chairman said.

No Reduction in Rates

Due to these two investments, Mr. Matthews said that it would be impossible at this time to consider a reduction in the water rates. It was said, however, that the water was of the purest in the province and that

DEPUTATION'S VISIT.

Felicitations were exchanged this morning by the wardens and members of the councils of Peterborough county and the united counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Warden G. H. Hooton "bearing his blushing honors full upon him" came up from Cobourg accompanied by Reeve Frank Rickard of Newcastle, Reeve W. J. Baker and C. J. Boyce of Percy township council. The Warden, Mr. Rickard, who is chairman of the Finance Committee and Mr. Baker, had instructions to interview the management of St. Joseph's hospital in regard to the settlement of the hospital's claim for $2,184 against the united counties for the care of an indigent woman who had been admitted from Warkworth on May 1, 1927, and who is still a patient.

The deputation from the neighboring counties called upon Peterborough council just before the noon adjournment to-day and were introduced by county clerk Elliott.

"We are just making a neighbourly call" said Warden Hooton. "I wish to congratulate Warden Tanner and also all the members for the honors they have received. We came in to see how things were carried on in your council. We wish you every success in your year's work, and as your adjoining neighbours we hope that in any of our con-

WHEAT GROWERS IN ALL EUROPE TO HOLD PARLEY

Central and Eastern Countries Invited to Meet in February By Briand.

MUST SELL 1930 CROP.

Suggest Organizing Agricultural Credit Through Medium of Special Bank.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 31.—The wheat importing and exporting countries of Central and Eastern Europe are making renewed efforts to get together. Early in February national representatives, at the invitation of Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, will meet in Paris to endeavor to formulate a workable scheme whereby Rumania, Jugoslavia, Bulgaria, Hungary and Poland will be enabled to liquidate the stocks of cereals they still hold of the 1930 crop. The wheat exporting countries of Eastern Europe, like Canada, suffered from Russian competition and the drop in world prices.

In February also another international committee will meet in Paris to discuss plans for the disposal of future European cereal crops in view. The methods suggested are the organization of agricultural credits through the intermediary of a special bank and the establishment of exchange quotas.

Under the exchange quota scheme, the wheat exporting countries would take an agreed quantity of manufactured goods for an agreed quantity of cereals.

France Has Troubles

In France itself the controversy merrily proceeds over the rural scene. The policy of the new French Government, which last night received a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies, is to endeavor to reduce spread as between French market price of cereals and the prices the French farmer receives. The Laval Government declares that among the defensive measures France is adopting against the menace of a world crisis, protection and rural economies must remain in the front rank.

"In the modern world," the Cabinet's declaration runs, "Agriculture cannot live without protection, and on the stability of our agriculture is founded both our social stability, and the equilibrium of our local markets."

In the controversy, the attack turns largely on the manufacture in France of "chemical bread," or bread made containing adulterants. The Chamber of Commerce of Ardennes has passed a resolution demanding bread be made from pure flour. The controversy reveals that since 1870, the area in France devoted to wheat production has dropped by 1,700,000 hectares (approximately 4,200,700 acres—a hectare being 2 point 471 acres.)

Victoria College Records Show Founders Faced Imprisonment For Debt.

Methodist Circuit Riders Saved Academy By Walking Rounds Till Struggle Won.

TORONTO, Ont., January 31 (C. P.). — Long missing records of the early life in the history of Victoria College have been discovered in the home of Rev. Dr. John Beatty, at Cobourg. The books have reposed on the library shelf for nearly 100 years, and include the subscription lists, roll of first students, and data concerning the everyday expenses of students and teachers of a century ago.

The discovery was made by Edwin C. Guillet. The subscriptions show that the founders were desperately hard pressed for cash; that they faced danger of imprisonment for debt; that Methodist circuit riders gave half of their meagre stipend to save the early academy from foreclosure, and walked their circuits until the debt was paid.

The books show the determination of the founders to establish an undenominational school—a seminary rather than a university—which was to have no theological faculty, to be a "purely literary institution."

The records are of great value to historians, who appear to have overlooked the collection.

HUGE DO-X LANDS AT LAS PALMAS IN CANARY ISLES

German Seaplane Completes First Lap of Atlantic Trip in 7 Hours.

CARRIES NINETEEN.

Fog Prevents Dropping of Mail Bag at Madeira as Planned.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 31 (C.P.). — The German seaplane Do-X landed in the harbor here at 3.10 p.m. (10.10 a.m., E.S.T.).

The big ship settled down in the harbor with a great roar of motors, which brought everybody within hearing distance to the waterfront. She had completed this first lap of her projected flight across the South Atlantic in almost exactly seven hours.

Fog Changes Plans.

Fog between Lisbon and the Madeira Islands made a change in her original plans, and Commander Freidrich Christiansen, instead of dropping a mail bag at Unchal as he had intended, eliminated the Madeira detour and came straight here.

A radio message sent an hour before the arrival said that the trip was proceeding on schedule without untoward incident.

This first leg of the flight was 715 miles. The Do-X will stay here at least overnight while her engines are checked. Then she will take off for the Cape Verde Islands, 845 miles away. The long Atlantic hop begins from there.

Nineteen persons, by far the largest number ever to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight in a heavier than air machine were aboard the craft. Departure was at 8.08 a.m. (3.08 a.m., E.S.T.).

From Las Palmas the plane tomorrow will fly to Porto Praia, in the Cape Verdi Islands. After a 36-hour halt, the ship will attempt the most difficult part of its journey, to Fernando do Noronha, Brazil, 1,320 miles distant. A short stop will be made and the craft will proceed to the mainland of Natal and down the coast to Rio de Janeiro. From Rio de Janeiro the plane will continue to New York.

Commanders Confident.

The ship is commanded by Captain Friedrich Christiansen. Clarence Schildhauer, American, is second pilot and navigator for the trip. Before departure both said they had the utmost confidence in the outcome of the flight, and Captain Schildhauer commented:

"Our ship was not built to fly day and night. It was designed to accomplish ten hours' consecutive flight. Therefore we shall be in the air only in the daytime, coming down to sea each evening."

Aged Rebel Sheik Drops Dead in Cell As Sentence Read

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 31.—The aged Sheik Essad, sentenced to hang for his part in the recent religious rebellion at Menemen, dropped dead in his cell to-day when his guards informed him of his sentence.

He would not have been hanged anyway, it developed later, for the Parliament was ready to commute the sentence to twenty-four years' imprisonment. This would mean life sentence, for the Sheik was 96 years old.

FIVE MEMBERS ON COMMISSION

Will Have Management of Peterborough County Roads.

MONEY BY-LAWS.

The County Roads Commission was appointed this morning by the County Council, on the new basis prescribed by the Department of Agriculture. It is composed of five members as follows: Reeve Coons, appointed for five years; Reeve Leahy for four years; Deputy-Reeve Waterman, three years; Reeve Sanderson of Havelock, for two years, and Reeve Hawthorne for one year.

The motion designating these terms was moved by Reeve Montgomery of of Norwood and seconded by Reeve Humphries of Asphodel. At the end of this year, Reeve Hawthorne's term expires, and he or his successor will be appointed for five years, and one commissioner shall be appointed annually thereafter for a term of five years.

Bylaws Passed

A sheaf of bylaws included three that authorized the borrowing necessary monies, as follows: $100,000, which is simply a bank credit until the new taxes are received; $100,000 for county road work; $28,768.80 for provincial highways, and $10,094.13 for the construction and repair of bridges.

COUNTY COUNCIL REDUCES WAGES FOR ROAD WORK

TEAMSTERS $5 A DAY.

Members Say New Wage Better Than $6 Last Year.

Laborers on the county road system escaped the wage cut which the county council this morning applied to teamsters, patrol men and machine men.

Teamsters' wages are reduced from $6 to $5 a day, patrol and machine men from $5 to $4 a day, but the laborers' wage remains at thirty cents an hour, which is three dollars for the ten hour day.

Deputy-reeve Alex Houston of Otonabee interjected this subject into the concluding deliberations this morning, and Reeve McIntyre said that at $6 a day teamsters were getting a lot more money than the farmers who were paying them.

"You'll have no trouble getting all the teamsters you need at $5 a day" Mr. McIntyre stated. "If you cut their wages a dollar a day they will still be getting a smaller reduction than the farmers have to put up with. This question was threshed out at our nomination meeting, and I know that there is a strong sentiment that our road costs should be brought down nearer to the level of our present income."

Mr. Houston had suggested a $2.50 a day wage for laborers, but Reeve Cavanagh of Ennismore objected that this was going too far.

"That's not enough money for a day's work", said Mr. Cavanagh. "We are paying $3 on our township roads, and I don't think the county should go below that."

Duncan MacFarlane, county road superintendent, remarked that the county was "cutting things down pretty fine."

"You are taking it out of the men and not out of the ratepayers", said Mr. MacFarlane. "You are going to spend a certain amount of money on the county roads anyway."

Mr. McIntyre replied that more work should be done at the reduced cost.

Mr. MacFarlane—"Maybe you will, and may be you won't."

Reeve Hawthorne said that the teamsters could work more profitably at $5 a day this year than at the $6 rate last year.

Reeve Waterman added emphasis to Mr. Cavanagh's protest against a cut in the wage of laborers, and moved an amendment, seconded by Mr. Cavanagh that the laborers' wage remain at three dollars a day this year.

The amendment carried, but the cut affects the teamsters and machine and patrol men.

Is Found Guilty Of Carelessness In Operating Car

Judge O'Connor Finds Allan Lewis Guilty of Criminal Negligence on the Night of December 29 When Irene Stewart Was Fatally Injured.

STRONG PLEA IS MADE BY COUNSEL OF DEFENCE FOR SUSPENDED SENTENCE; JUDGE UNABLE TO CONCUR

His Honor Finds That Car Was Most Carelessly Operated and That Lewis Was Driving at an Excessive Rate of Speed

Three months' imprisonment in the County jail with a fine of $200 was the sentence passed by Judge L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg late yesterday afternoon upon Allan Lewis after the prisoner had been convicted of criminal negligence, as a result of the death of Irene Stewart following an accident to the car in which she was a passenger and which Lewis was driving.

The sensation of the afternoon session was the testimony of Ethel Gamble, a passenger in the wrecked car, who was unable to give evidence at the inquest, but, who yesterday swore positively that she had watched the speedometer in Lewis' car and that it registered sixty-five miles per hour just before the accident happened. She was equally emphatic in declaring that Lewis made no move to stop his car when the stop sign at the junction at the Chemong Road and the Lindsay highway was reached.

Lewis took the box in his own behalf and flatly contradicted Miss Gamble's evidence on these points. He was very vigorously cross-examined by Crown Attorney V. J. McEldery as to variations in his evidence yesterday as compared with that given at the inquest.

Accidents Too Numerous.

His Honor, in giving judgment, said that automobile accidents of this nature were altogether too numerous and in fact a great deal of the time of the Courts was being taken up in dealing with such cases. "It is a wonder there are not more accidents on our highways. The story told in this Court to-day reveals a very sad situation. But what you see and have heard are every day occurrences on our highways. Young girls are exposing themselves in every sort of way, and the young men are lending themselves to this. We have here three young men coming from Port Hope, telephoning before hand to the accused that they wanted three girls. They did not care who these girls were. All they wanted was three girls so that they could have entertainment. They drove out to Chemong in the dead of winter. The cottage was stone cold, and the evidence shows that the young men drank. That was their entertainment."

His Honor then gave some sound advice to the parents, and maintained that they were just as responsible for allowing the ir children to carry on in this way. 'They allow their sons to have motor cars and 'skin' around at night with girls. I hope that legislation will be passed

CITY RENEWS OFFER TO PLOWMEN FOR BIG MATCH HERE THIS YEAR

Finance Committee Approves $1,000 Grant and Banquet as Inducement.

DECISION FEB. 4.

Peterborough is renewing its bid for the international plowing match, and when J. J. Duffus attends the convention of the Ontario Plowmen's Association in Toronto next Wednesday he will be commissioned by the Finance Committee of the city council to offer $1,000 and a banquet for the big competition.

The city's invitation was extended a year ago, but the 1930 match was held at Stratford because by annual alternation western Ontario had the prior claim.

A deputation composed of Mr. Duffus, G. A. Gillespie Reeve. T. Cavanagh of Ennismore. W. Burns, Vincent Eastwood and C. F Cumming briefly presented all the facts pertaining to the International Plowing Match and Power Farminging Machinery demonstration to the committee. Ald. Phelan presided and all the members of the council were present. This plowing classic, according to the written information placed in the chairman's hands is the largest display of its kind in the world. Its attendance in recent years has ranged from 75,000 to 125,000 people, and Mr. Duffus said he expected seventy-five or eighty thousand at this year's match which will be held early in October There were 437 contestants during the week's competition last year.

Soo Pastor and Two Toronto Speakers Score Attitude Toward Jobless.

ALLEGE BRIBES OFFERED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 31 (C.P.). — At the close of a meeting under the auspices of the local branch of the National Unemployed Association, Rev. W. J. Cowherd, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, who acted as chairman, Frank Bruce of Toronto, the principal speaker and John Ferris, secretary of the local branch, were placed under arrest by Chief of Police Borthwick and two officers. Nominal charges of vagrancy are being preferred against them. They were allowed to go on their own recognizance, and will appear in Police Court to-day.

Cowherd scored the attitude of the police toward meetings of the unemployed in various centres, claiming they "stood ready to crush the working man" while they had winked at the activities of brokerage firms. He declared that if the local police paid attention to the bootlegging joints they would be better employed than in their present activities against the jobless, alleging that a bribe had been offered to the police to "go easy on the beer bootlegging, but to crowd out the whiskey."

Bruce objected to the jailing as vagrants of unemployed men who are not criminals

MUST HALT UNDERWORLD REVENUE TO STAMP OUT HOODLUMS' REIGN

"Secret Six" Member Says They May Be Forced to Issue List to be "Shot on Sight."

SPEAKS IN DETROIT.

DETROIT, Jan. 31 (CP)—Col. Robert Isham Randolph, President of the Chicago Association of Commerce and member of the "Secret Six" held out no hope here to-day for ending the "reign of murderous hoodlums" until prohibition is so modified as to cut off the underworld's fabulous revenue.

Here to address the Detroit Board of Commerce, Col. Randolph said the reign of the hoodlums cannot be stopped "as long as gangs are able to pay policemen $3,000 a week to step around the corner and keep one eye closed and to corrupt whole urban law enforcement, from judges down."

He declared his belief that "if we do not stamp out the source of revenue which enables these thugs to practice bribery on an unprecedented scale the day may come when we simply will have to issue a list and say, "These men are to be shot on sight."

Traffic Officer Will Henceforth Patrol County Roads Council Decides.

INSPECTORS REPORT.

T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., Pays Visit to County Council Favoring Agriculture School.

"The question you have to decide is whether you are going to curtail road expenditures or not. There may be hard times but if the Provincial, City, County and Township governments decided they are not going to do anything, are we not going to make conditions worse" said A. N Fellows, representative for the Provincial Department of Highways addressing the County Council Committee of Appointments this morning.

He pointed out that to curtail expenditures on the roads would deprive many people of work, and he was of the opinion that, "we should be big enough to see this fact in the proper light and accordingly give the men of the County a chance to earn a living. "Whatever you want to spend" he said, "the Provincial Government will be behind it and will spend dollar for dollar."

Reeve J. F. Breckenridge was in the chair. After Mr. Fellows had explained the procedure governing the appointment of the County Roads Committee, he exclaimed, "I am not attempting to say who shall be on the committee, that is up to the County Council.

Subsequently the following committee was elected on the motion of Deputy-reeve G. Fitzgerald of Smith, seconded by Reve T. Cavanagh of Ennismore; Reeves Jas. Hawthorne, R. Sanderson, Jno. Leahy, H. D. Coons and deputy Reeve W. G. Waterman, and Warden Chas. S. Tanner of Lakefield.

To Appoint Traffic Officer

Reeve James Hawthorne of Dummer, addressing the Committee, stated that there was an application from a young man for the position of traffic officer for the County roads. After the matter had been fully discussed in committee it was moved by Reeve Hawthorne and seconded by Reeve Leahy, "that the County Roads Committee appoint a traffic officer for any length of time they deem necessary."

It was suggested in the course of discussion that the officer should be appointed for six months from May to October to patrol all roads under the jurisdiction of the County Council. The officer will wear a uniform and a portion of his salary will be

The theft was committed within half an hour of the arrival of the flier and Mrs. Hinkler from New York. The trunk was taken while they were at dinner in a restaurant.

"We sat near the window of the restaurant in order to watch the car," Hinkler said, "but after eating we went to the rear to look at a city map. When we went out the straps which had held the trunk in the rumble seat had been cut, and the trunk taken."

MILLBROOK FALL FAIR BOARD ELECTS R. O. LARMER, PRESIDENT

Small Balance is Shown By Treasurer in His Annual Report.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—G. A. Fair, the retiring president, took the chair for the annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, held in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon, a fair representation of the officers and directors being present.

The secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, presented the financial statement showing total receipts of $4,616.80; expenditures of $4,600.18, leaving a balance on hand of $16.62. The prize list for 1930 totalled in money actually paid out $1,252.75, together with $10 in prizes for the horseshoe pitching competition. There were 1,694 entries in all classes, with a total offered in prize money of $1,571.75; the entries included 232 in the horse classes; 126 in cattle; 105 in sheep; 46 in swine; 222 in poultry; 28 in grain and seed; 137 in roots and vegetables; 172 in fruits and flowers; 275 in dairy and domestic products; 302 in ladies' work; and 49 in fine arts.

The assets include $128.62 in members' fees; grounds valued at $2,000; main building $3,500; horse sheds $1,250; cattle sheds, $1,000; sheep and swine pens, $500; poultry building, $600; office, $200; dining-hall, $300; and grandstand $1,500; total $10,982.62.

Considerable discussion regarding the financial standing of the society took place, and from the practical suggestions offered, constructive action to put matters on a sound basis will probably follow.

Hold Spring Fair.

On motion of W. I. Larmer and W. T. Donaldson, it was decided to hold the spring fair again this year, Thursday February 19, being the date chosen. On motion of H. Tait, seconded by L. W. Smith, it was decided to ask for a departmental judge for the occasion, the names of Percy Bogue, and N. McAdoo, to be suggested, providing the services of either may be secured.

W. I. Larmer and R. J. McKnight sponsored the motion that the usual number of departmental judges be employed at the annual fall fair, and on motion of Harold Tait and Robert McCamus, it was decided to again enter the Field Crop competition in wheat and oats, provided the necessary number of contestants may be secured. Entries for this competition are expected to be in not later than May 1.

LID DOWN TIGHT ON IMMIGRATION

PLAN FOR SUMMER.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31 (C.P.).—The lid will be kept down tightly on immigration until such a time as the employment situation shows a very great improvement. This is the interpretation which official circles place on the statement issued last night by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization. The statement followed a lengthy conference in the Minister's office, in which Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway; E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, participated. Others present were Dr. W. J. Black, director of colonization for the C.N.R., and W. N. K. McAllister, director of colonization for the C.P.R.

The railway heads, it is reported in mapping out their summer programs, were anxious to know just what the attitude of the Government was going to be in regard to immigration. The Minister's statement is interpreted as indicating that the railway companies were quite agreeable to limiting the inflow. Evidently the only people who will be allowed in will be bona-fide settlers with substantial capital. A close watch will be kept to bar those who otherwise would get in posing as settlers, and soon afterward drift to the cities.

PRISONERS TELL OF BORDER GRAFT

RUM BOATS PASSED.

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—Twelve former members of the United States river patrol, sentenced recently to serve 20 months in the Federal Prison at Levenworth, Kansas, prior to their departure, related amazing stories of the graft and corruption which existed in the patrol force along the Detroit River.

They told of receiving salaries of $175 a month from the Government and of bribes that ran as high as $1,500 a week; of individual shipments of 4,000 cases of Canadian beer which received the "Go" signal from bribed inspectors, and of a triumphal parade of rum boats that stretched clear across the river.

Practically all the money was spent in high living, cabarets, gambling joints and playing the stock market.

One of the convicted inspectors, Howard F. Baker, 27 years old, admitted having received $20,000 from the bootlegger "pay off" men in 23 months. He served with the patrol.

REPORT IS READY ON AGRICULTURE

Aid of Kennedy's Plan is Complete Overhauling of Farming Methods.

RADICAL IN NATURE.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 31. (CP)—After considerable study, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture in the province, embodying many recommendations which may have a far-reaching effect on farming in the province if adopted at the coming session of the Legislature. The Mail and Empire says.

While the report or any section of it has not yet been made public, the newspaper says, it is learned that the aim of the proposed legislation is the complete overhauling of agricultural methods, the application of scientific principles, the spreading of agricultural vocational training to all sections of the province, the cutting down of overhead and the elimination of waste and improement in marketing products of the farm.

"The legislation to be asked for by Col. Kennedy is said to be of a most radical nature, the Mail and Empire proceed "but it is believed that the Government will adopt the proposals with little change, due to the confidence which is reposed in the new minister of agriculture, a practical farmer himself.

PRICE NOT IMPLICATED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 31.—Mrs. L. M. Oliver, of Kenmore, New York, arrested at Fruitland, Ont., and convicted of driving her auto while under the influence of liquor, was not released from custody by the Attorney General of Ontario, according to Magistrate J. F. Vance, of Wentworth, who passed sentence of one week's imprisonment on Mrs. Oliver, later changing it to "suspended sentence," when he found that Mrs. Oliver's mother was dying.

Capt. Elmore Philpott, M.C., Liberal candidate for West Hamilton, in a speech here Thursday night, charged Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General, with having released Mrs. Oliver shortly after the magistrate had sentenced here.

"Mrs. Oliver was not sentenced to imprisonment and in that case could not have been released by intervention of the Attorney General," the magistrate stated.

THREAT[illegible]LED AT TORY PARTY

Must Adopt His Empire Free Trade Policy Says Beaverbrook.

LONDON, January 31 (C.P.). —"If the Conservative Party does not adopt the policy of Empire Free Trade, it is my purpose to break up party," Lord Beaverbrook, energetic leader of the Empire Crusade movement, heatedly replied to a questioner at a by-election campaign meeting held on behalf of Paul Springman, in East Islington last night.

Springman is the official Empire Crusade candidate in a four-cornered contest for the seat. The Conservative nominee is Miss Thelma Cazalet, sister of Major Victor Cazalet, Conservative member of Parliament.

The meeting was productive of a series of rowdy incidents. A storm of booing and cheering greeted Lord Beaverbrook as he arose to address the audience.

At one stage the meeting became so lively that attendants intervened and unceremoniously carried three men out of the hall. At times Lord Beaverbrook found it difficult to make himself heard above the din of interruptions and general disorder and throughout his speech was bombarded with a volley of questions.

One of the interrogators asked the speaker if Springman's candidature was to be taken as a declaration of war.

"Certainly," Lord Beaverbrook replied as the audience once more broke out with an outburst of cheers and booing.

CANADIAN NEWSPRINT INDUSTRY ON SOUND PRODUCTION BASIS

Six Companies Have Under Control More Than 50 Years' Supply of Pulpwood.

CRAFT PRICES LOWER.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 30. (CP)—Even though heavily mortgaged and forced to carry a crushing overhead, the Canadian newsprint industry, which produced 37 per cent. of the world's supply in 1929 was a sound one in point of production, Dr Charles W. Boyce, secretary of the American Pulp and Paper Association, said yesterday in addressing a number of prominent Canadian executives gathered at the thirteenth annual meeting of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

He pointed out that the six largest companies had under control more than 50 years' supply of pulpwood. Each controlled ten acres or more of land for every cord of annual consumption; a growth of a tenth of a cord per acre per year was all that was required to perpetuate these companies as they existed today. Because of government ownership, the cost of forest control was not yet too burdensome and stumpage prices not out of line. Many of the smaller, independent companies were as well off. "What, then, is to prevent the eventual return of prosperity to the industry?" the speaker said.

He declared that as long as the newsprint industry remained dependant on spruce for pulp, Canada would have the advantage, but he warned that with craft paper at $55 a ton and craft pulp at $30 a ton the prices were perilously near those of ground wood and newsprint, and even though craft paper was brown and wholly unsuited for newsprint the spread in prices was altogether too narrow for comfort to white paper producers. Moreover, he said, the semi-chemical process which had raised havoc in the corrugating board industry was yet to be heard from and there might be possibilities in grinding woods that were cheaper than spruce.

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on bottle. Made in Canada.

OUR PETERBORO OFFICE--172 HUNTER ST.
I. P. McNABB, Manager, Central Ontario.

OUR mutual friend, John Plane, has been giving me some Chips and Shavings from the Workshop of his fertile mind which I propose to share with the readers of this page. It may be that some of these thoughts will not meet with universal approval! If such be true in your case, my reader friend, it does not necessarily prove that John Plane is wrong because you must be right! Is it not possible, think you, that you are both wrong and both right?

Before you decide the question, one way or another, put on your thinking-cap and give the matter a little calm, careful consideration.

Speaking for myself—while I like John Plane—I am not prepared to say that I agree with him in all that he says. Indeed I am not sure that he agrees with it all himself. I sometimes think that he is talking with his "tongue in his cheek." There are moments when I am inclined to believe that he has a middle name, and it must be "Tease."

He has two eyes which might belong to an Irishman in a serious mood—if any Irishman ever has such moods! When he is trying hard to make me think that he really means all he is saying I can see something suspiciously like a twinkle in the eastern and western corners of his eyes.

A WORD OF WARNING.

Perhaps some of our friends will not like all we write this week! For that, I suppose, we should be sorry! But, the funny thing is, we are not the least bit sorry. If you are going to grant freedom of expression without any interference from the police you must be prepared for some utterances with which you can't agree. And if you have decided that you are only going to read or listen to such things as you can say amen to, you are going to lead a very solitary and silent existence.

There are certain magazines for which I subscribe, to all of which I can't subscribe! Again and again I find myself in hearty disagreement with things I find upon their pages—but I would be very foolish to give them up on that account. I find them stimulating even when I come dangerously near being mad with them.

It has been said that anger is a short madness. Take my advice and don't lose your sanity, even for a short time! The less we do and say when we go mad the better for everybody, and the less we go mad the better for ourselves. He is far gone who hurts himself to wreak his vengeance on others. Don't cut off your nose to spite your face.

WE ONLY ARE TO BLAME.

Let us suppose, for a moment, that you occasionally read some things on this page to which you can't subscribe—is that any reason why you should stop your subscription? You can't buy a better Peterborough paper than "The Evening Examiner," which comes out also in the morning!

If you stopped reading it, where would you get any up-to-the-minute authentic news of the city? You would never know when any of your neighbours' children came home from college. Nor would you know when little Sally Smart "threw" a party and had little Solomon Slow and several of her other boy friends bring her birthday greetings. And think how much poorer you would be if you did not know these things! No, no! you simply can't stop your subscription because you don't like some of the "foolish" things John Plane says.

For anything you don't like on this page, please don't blame any of the staff, such as editors, the proof-readers, the switch-board operator, the machine men—some of whom have to endure the ordeal of setting this "stuff" up week by week—the clever young lady who keeps her eye on "Society" and whose office, these days, looks like some second-hand store. Don't even blame it on that cheery chap who, late at night or in the small hours of the morning (if you should happen into The Examiner office at such hours) makes you think of SPRING with its swish of brooms and background of fine dust. John Plane and your humble servant take full (fool) responsibility for this conglomeration of words!

The Hour Of Prayer

O THOU, by whose name we call ourselves, we are humbled this day, for it is known abroad that shrewdness and wisdom and wit and prosperity have paused at our door and crossed our threshold, but we know not whether there be any voice to say "The Master is come." Pain would we have men take knowledge of us that we have been with Thee, yet no words nor gift nor mighty deed can tell that tale. Possess our hearts, then, we beseech Thee, that our unstudied attitude towards the meanest of Thy creatures may be Christian, that all the the tests of the commonplace may find in us the spirit of Jesus. Amen.

Send along the flowers if you will! We are fond of roses, even if the month is not June. Keep the thorns and the hammers. We have one thorn in the flesh now, and that's as much as we can bear. If you feel like "knocking," use your energy to boost the sales of The Examiner. It is a good paper and deserves to be well spoken of by its many friends. Its few foes have all gone to Florida for the winter. They are such good Canadians that they don't want to spoil the Rockies.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR?

Have you heard it or read it? Why, the Dominion House of Commons is expected to take some action on the Aird report advocating the nationalization of radio in this country.

John Plane said to me: "In their consideration of the matter, the honourable gentlemen in Parliament assembled will be confronted with two illustrative cases—the case of Great Britain and that of the United States. Great Britain, they will find, having taken into consideration the fact that radio constitutes a natural monopoly, has placed it directly under governmental control with the formation of the British Broadcasting Corporation. The United States, on the other hand, with its customary Rooseveltian dread of the monopoly idea, has left this gigantic instrument in the hands of the commercial interests.

"The British public listens daily to programs calculated to appeal to adult minds. The radio public of the United States listens daily to programs calculated to appeal to the mentality of thirteen-year-olds. Canada, to date, has elected to follow the United States. The only difference has been that the Canadian programs have been, with one or two exceptions, worse than the U. S. offerings.

"We have one broadcasting station in Canada, located not a hundred miles from here, maintained and supported by some concern which manufactures some ill-natured or d-natured liquid, which, for weeks now, has been utilizing its share of the natural monopoly to hold out to its listeners the evils of Government ownership. If many of the statements which I have heard coming from this station have not parted company with the truth, then I have never been at any time in the company of truth!

ANNEXING CANADA

"It's not for me to say," continued John Plane, "that Government control of the radio would bring us into an air paradise, but some of the reasons given—while I am being asked to urge my representative at Ottawa to oppose the nationalization of radio and leave the aether free to the infantile droolings of a coterie of half-educated, high-pressure salesmen—are far from being convincing.

"'Free! free! free! Absolutely free!' is the enticing manner in which the present programs are described, in the language of the patent medicine vendor. Nationalization would mean that radio would be supported by increased taxes and would be administered by civil servants, they say. Such a statement is as far from the truth as Hell is from Heaven, and the interests responsible must know that it is not true.

"Even the most cursory examination of the British system is enough to explode this fallacy.

"And the broadcasting station which is the chief offender in this respect is content to break up its days on the air into periods in which phonograph records are broadcast by courtesy of the manufacturers of Somebody's Can Opener or So-and-So's Woollen Underwear, and to give the greater part of its nights up to programs originating in New York City and advertising American-made products.

"If Canada does not wake up and listen-in a little more carefully it is going to be annexed by way of the air!"

Hold on, my friend before you sit down and, having dipped your pen in vitriol, write some scathing words of condemnation! The above is not an argument either for one side or the other. It is only an effort on the part of a plain person to make you THINK!

MY MORNING PAPER.

For several years now I have been a most consistent reader of a certain morning paper which I shall refrain from naming. It is enough to say that its headquarters are in Toronto. Anything more might seem like free advertising. It is not the only morning paper that I read, but it is the one I read most consistently. At times I find myself completely out of accord with its utterances; but that is no reason why I should refrain from reading it. In spite of its faults, I will continue to read it.

Lately it has been talking like some old woman whose nose has been too close to a bottle of Scotch with the cork newly drawn. To me it has seemed to have been sniffing something which has gone to its head and led it to give a delightful exhibition of how free a paper can be with its speech when it is seeing red with one eye and green with the other.

DON'T MISQUOTE.

I have a ministerial friend in Toronto, a prince, although his friends are content to call him just plain "Rupert." The other morning I noticed that he "broke out" on the front page of "my morning paper." At first sight I was wicked enough to think that it was "a put-up job." If he were correctly reported he must have been feeling "extry" bad before if he felt better afterwards. I am going to suggest to him when next I see him that he might spend his time more profitably in seeing that the theological students are kept straight. The University of Toronto has a lot of highly trained, well educated and really cultured professors, and they have as much right to "freedom of speech" as "my morning paper," my dear friend, the Rev. Rupert, John Plane, or Allan Fairbairn. And it should be beneath the dignity of "my morning paper," my ministerial friend in Toronto, or any other poor sinner, to twist their words to make them mean something entirely different from what was originally intended.

Moreover, when a minister sets out to preach a sermon he should use his text as a text and not as a pretext. The Bible does not say anything about "An Old Covenant on a New Cart," but it does speak about "the ark of God" having been put on "a new cart." The devil has always been an adept at misquoting the Scriptures. Let those who claim to be the servants of Christ be careful to see that they do not fall into the same error.

A CLOSING WORD.

There is a weekly paper which, judging by its name, must come off the press some time between Friday and Sunday. It has been saying some rather pertinent things to "my morning paper." And so far as I have seen its remarks have not yet brought forth any kind of a reply. A closing quotation from one of its recent editorials might very properly close this column.

"Discretion forbids that we discuss in detail what would happen if our Lord should suddenly appear at a public meeting in Toronto and recite the Sermon on the Mount. Strangely enough, the Toronto newspaper which has been hysterical in denouncing those who differ from the police authorities, has for years been intimating to its readers that the Second Coming of our Lord is at hand. Obviously our Lord's utterances would find no more favor in Toronto police circles than they did with the High Priests at Jerusalem.

"To anyone familiar with the Scripture the divine analogy naturally suggests itself. . . .

"It is an absurd and tragic situation. But, if we may be permitted to quote the Toronto 'Globe' against itself, 'A little more straight thinking will get this matter corrected in the proper way.'"

Save us all from seeing faults where there are none. And if there be a few things amiss don't let us make every mouse into an elephant. None so wise as the man or the woman who knows nothing. Their ignorance is the mother of their impudence, and the nurse of their obstinacy. It is very likely that men—whether they have to do with newspapers, broadcasting stations, pulpits or public office—are far from being Perfect! The best garden may have some weeds in it, and every farmer knows that the cleanest corn may have some chaff, but cavillers cavil at anything or nothing, and find fault for the sake of showing off their own extensive knowledge. Some people, sooner than let their tongues or their pens or their typewriters have a holiday, would complain that the grass is not a nice shade of blue, and try to make us believe that the sky would have looked much neater if it had been whitewashed.

Yours in great trepidation,

Allan Fairbairn.

DON'T try to scare me by telling me that nationalization of radio will mean tyranny. We have tyranny now whether we have wakened up to the fact or not. If I have to choose between two kinds, I'd rather have it centralized than diversified.

Woman

A masculine woman and a feminine man are equally out of Nature, but with this difference: that whereas the woman of the male temper only fails to be agreeable, the man of the female temper makes himself contemptible.

A Gentleman

A gentleman is a man who combines a high and well-grounded self-esteem with a habitual, nice and delicate regard to the rights and feelings of others. According to this definition, the person who incurs a gambler's debts, and pays them, while his tailor's bill remains unpaid, is not a gentleman.

The Sort Of Men Some Men Are.

MAN is a creature too much inclined to warm himself by the sparks of his own fire, though he lie down in eternal flames for kindling them. Though Noah's dove made use of her wings, yet she found no rest but in the ark. Duties can never have too much of our diligence or too little of our confidence. "For he that is entered into rest hath ceased from his own works, as God did from His." A believer doth not perform good works to live, but he lives to perform good works.

Sounds Well—But!

THE theology of some men is a bright bubble, blown into life by the fervour of devout passion, and pictured all round with the most pleasing forms and colours of devout fancy. Very pretty as long as it floats loosely in the air, but pricked with the slightest todch of severe reason or shrewd common sense, it bursts into nothing.

THE PROVINCE SHOULD PAY.

With the opinion expressed by the members of the County Council yesterday that the municipalities should not be called upon to pay the expense of preparing voters' lists for provincial elections, The Examiner is thoroughly in accord.

This is just one of the many expenditures foisted upon the municipalities by the Ontario Government, and probably the most difficult of all to logically justify.

The voters' lists are prepared for the benefit of the Province; it seems, therefore, to be a matter of simple justice as well as of ordinary common sense that the Province should pay for this work.

The Province in reality does nothing of the kind; the municipalities have to do the work and foot the bill, and probably will have to go on paying until there is a united effort to secure a change in the arrangements.

The municipalities throughout Ontario should pool their opposition to this and other expenditures from which they have a right to demand relief, and put on a demonstration that will convince Queen's Park that they are in earnest in seeking justice.

Only a real effort will accomplish anything in that direction.

HELP BADLY NEEDED.

Citizens of Peterborough who are in a position to help should not fail to note that The Examiner Relief Fund is practically exhausted, despite the fact that the need of assistance is probably greater now than at any time since the depression began.

The Examiner is constantly in touch with cases where help is badly needed, cases that cannot be dealt with for one reason or another by the Central Charity Board, cases that must be dealt with promptly if dire suffering and distress is to be averted.

With the generous co-operation of many kind-hearted people, it has been possible for The Examiner to take care of a large number of families through a period of want and privation, but as the situation stands now the treasury has been emptied, while the relief work must go on.

The Examiner, therefore, appeals to its readers to stand by; those whose incomes are unimpaired by the industrial crisis can accept our assurance that the need was never greater, and that every cent subscribed will be used in the helping of deserving cases, in aiding families who are finding a battle against winter conditions with the family income stopped completely or sadly reduced a losing fight.

Let us have your donation; it is urgently required.

BRINGING THEM TOGETHER.

The annual dinner of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board and the work of the board throughout the year are valuable factors in bringing about what Dr. Christie of the Ontario Agricultural College urged the other day, namely, better co-operation between urban and rural residents of this district.

Mayor Denne, president of the board, drove the same idea home in characteristic fashion at Thursday's function when he pointed out that a bigger city meant a better market for the farmers of this section, and that both city people and farmers must work together for the common good.

There is nothing new in the statement that whatever helps agriculture also helps the man in the city, or that whatever injures the urban dweller also hurts the man out on the farm.

The truth of that assertion should by this time be generally recognized.

What is needed is more practical efforts to bring the two sections of our population into closer working relations, and to get down to something concrete as suggested by Dr. Christie on Monday.

The Exhibition Board has supplied a common interest and a common cause for many farmers and many residents of this city, and if there is any real desire to accept the advice of the head of Ontario's Agricultural College the members of the board from their experience in working together should be able to offer very material assistance.

A WARNING TO PARENTS.

Parents would do well to keep in mind the warning words uttered by Judge O'Connor in a motor car accident case here yesterday that the practice of young boys and girls sky-larking about the highways of the Province late at night in automobiles is one that inevitably must lead to trouble, to accident and possibly to death.

His Honor declared that for this condition parents were as much to blame as were the young people themselves, and undoubtedly that is the case on a good many occasions.

There is not enough supervision on the part of the parents—sons are allowed to take the family car for nocturnal excursions, and daughters are permitted to go out night after night with few questions asked and evasive answers accepted.

It seems nobody's business where the young people go or what time they return, and such freedom is almost certain to result, as Judge O'Connor pointed out, in reckless driving and often in a serious accident.

It is truly a condition that should cause concern, for flaming youth when given charge of a high-powered motor car and allowed unlimited latitude is a dangerous agency to let loose on the highways.

Much of the responsibility for putting an end to this kind of thing rests upon the home; if the parents fail it is a difficult matter for the law to save the situation, for it usually does not step in until the damage has been done.

BRITISH DEBT TO THE U. S. A.

(From the New York Times)

Sir Robert Horne who was Chancellor of the Exchequer when Lloyd George was Prime Minister, has taken up the latter's charge that the debt settlement made with the United States was imprudent and disastrous. This complaint has been frequently heard in England. It was once echoed by the present Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Snowden. But Sir Robert maintains that the agreement was the best that could possibly have been obtained. He admits with obvious irony, that such a financial wizard as Lloyd George might have extracted better terms from the hard-hearted Americans, but asserts that nobody else could have done it. Being himself in this country at the time, and knowing something of American sentiment, he contends that if Mr. Baldwin had not closed with our debt commission when he did, he could not have got so good a settlement later.

In one point Sir Robert Horne appears to be in error. He presents our Government as pressing the British. This is scarcely accurate. Our negotiators regarded Great Britain as an honorable debtor, able and willing to meet her note of hand. Indeed, she had been paying on her debt before the settlement was reached. The agreement was come to in 1923, but the treasury report for that year shows that up to Nov. 15, 1922, Great Britain had paid into our treasury the sum of $141,181,641. The question was readjustment of the total debt and fixing the annuities and the rate of interest. This country had no occasion to "press" England. She was already paying us and we were sure that she would continue to do so.

Moreover, Sir Robert Horne overlooks the fact that Great Britain had a powerful motive for arriving at a debt settlement with us. It was a part of her forward-looking plan to restore the pound sterling to par. It had been quoted as low as $3.18. Some English economists like Mr. Keynes argued that it was impossible to restore the pound to its full value of $4.86, and that it ought to be stabilized at about $3.65. But the Baldwin Government steadily pressed on with its financial plans, and by 1925 had got the pound back to its pre-war value. In this recovery, which meant a gain of billions for British commerce and banking, there could be no doubt that tht settlement with the United States played an important part. Indeed, more than one public man in England, and many economists and financiers, have admitted that what Great Britain is paying to the United States under the debt settlement is a mere trifle compared wih the great advantages which she won for herself, partly by reason of it.

Captain John H. Ayres of the Missing Persons Bureau of New York City stated that during the year 1930 there were 25,000 people reported missing in that city.

Included in that list there were 3,500 boys and 2,450 girls, most of them being of what we would regard as school age.

That makes a total of 5,950 children who have been reported as missing during the year.

Where do these people go? What happens to them? It is as though sufficient people to make the towns of Mitchell and St. Marys and the city of Stratford simply vanished during the 365 days of a year. Taken on a daily basis it would mean that each day in New York City during the year 1930, 54 persons picked up and went away and left no inkling of their whereabouts.

It is, indeed, a strange commentary upon life in that great city. Reasons advanced are longing for adventure, dissatisfaction with conditions at home, being carried away with the idea that there is a great time awaiting if the home ties can be broken, and back of that again the miserable and sinister influence that seeks to prey upon young girls accounts for many of the disappearances.

Fortunately the average community in Canada has very few of such cases. It seems to be a condition which grows with the size of the place. It is probably due to an unnatural outlook based on fictitious estimates of what life holds in store. In the smaller centres life is more real; we come more to grips with things as they actually exist, and there are not so many places where drawn curtains excite curiosity regarding what is going on behind them.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

A Thought

FREEWILL

Theodore Parker used to say that man's life was only about three parts out of the hundred freedom—the rest, necessity. That is not much to claim for free will—the veriest necessarian might concede so much! But even three per cent. of moral freedom, if made the most of, and constantly turned over, may mount up gradually to a considerable increase of that stock-in-trade with which may started. It is that little free part of man's own, even if it be only three per cent., which, not buried in the napkin of indolence or fatalism, but put out to interest in busy, striving life, has brought man from a state of savagery up to civilization, and in which lie the possibilities of further progress still—the potentialities of the hero, sage, and saint in this world, and of the angel in the life to come.—Brooke Herford.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

Tony was urging: "My dear, my dear, why not be gay and happy. We could be married in a minute and join the others in Florida."

Why not, indeed? Never to go back again to the grim old house in Washington Square, never to walk up the stairs with their frightening shadows, never again to be alone in the attic room. She found herself wavering.

It was old Anthony who saved her. He came to the door of the gallery and spoke to them. "This is great luck, Virginia, I arrived unexpectedly. Mrs. Fields told me you were here with Tony."

Virginia ran towards him, 'I've been kidnapped. By your son."

She was laughing, yet old Anthony felt that behind her light words was a deeper meaning. He laid his arm protectingly about her shoulders. "You're safe enough with me."

Tony protested, "Look here, Dad, aren't you on my side? I've been trying to make her see that she belongs up there with the rest of them," his gesture indicated the portraits.

Old Anthony spoke with heartiness, "Nobdoy wants it more than I. What about it, my dear?"

"I'd like it in a way," Virginia confessed. "But you can't marry a man simply because he wants to hang your picture on the wall."

Tony flushed, "So that's the way you look at it?"

She held out her hand to him, "I'm sorry."

He lifted the hand to his lips, 'Not half as sorry as I am."

The three of them lunched together, and Virginia sighed when at last she said she must go. "It's like Cinderella leaving the ball."

"You don't have to leave it."

'Yes, I do, Tony. But it has been glorious while it lasted."

While Tony went to order the car brought up, Virginia had a moment alone with old Anthony.

"May I say this to you?" he asked, "that you might go far and do worse than marry my son."

"I know. Perhaps I'm taking the wrong road. But I must follow it."

As she drove home with Tony they talked of everything but that which was in their heart and it was not until they came again to Riverside, where the whole scene was changed by the slant of the afternoon sun, which spread a sparkling haze over the landscape and turned the Jersey sky to pale saffron and the river into a molten flood, that Tony, his voice rough with emotion, asked, "Is there anyone else?"

She did not look at him, "Yes."

"Is it—Michael McMillan?"

She nodded.

He bent down to her, "I shan't give you up," he said, "remember that, Virginia. I shall never give you up."

When they reached the house, he stood in the hall and asked a favor. "Let me come!"

She shook her head, "I mustn't."

"Does McMillan come?"

"No. Nobody but Mary Lee. And Tony, if you meet Michael—don't tell m."

hi"That you are here?"

"Yes."

He stood irresolute, "But I don't understand—if you love him—"?

Her hand went out in protest: "Tony, don't ask questions—please."

"My dear, I won't." He caught her to him suddenly and kissed her cheek, then opened the door and was off.

Virvinia stood very still, looking up at the Bronze Knight. She wondered if he would have kissed a woman like that without her wanting it? But the days of chivalry were dead.

Tony and his father sat late that night by the fire in the great hall at Derekdale. The dogs lay at their feet. A storm was raging outside yet so firm were the foundations of the fine old house that no blast could shake it. The wind had come up before Tony got Virginia home.

And young Anthony said to old Anthony, "She is such a little thing to fight alone. And she could do so much for me. I'd have ambition to be something more than a rich man's son. She wouldn't care to about my money if she cared for me. She'd be a companion, a good comrade. If she loved a man it would be with all her heart and soul, but there'd be more than romance in it, there'd be all the qualities of mind and heart that make a man content. You know what I mean, Dad. You've missed it."

The old man lifted his head and nodded. "Yes, I've missed it. Never since I married have I had a home. I might as well be honest about it—you know it and I know it. I've had houses, yet your mother and I have never sat by our fireside satisfied to be together. We've never gone into deep forests or sailed the seas, happy to have no other soul near us. When we married I wanted a hearthstone, your mother wanted excitement. She has what she wants, and I make up my life as best I can. I have no complaint, I chose her from among all other women, and if I made a mistake it was my own fault. But I have this to say to you, Tony. If you can't have Virginia Oliphant, make no compromises. You'd better be single to the end of your days than marry the wrong woman."

'You mean Marty?"

Yes."

"Not the ghost of a chance she'd have me even if I wanted it."

"That's not the truth and you know it She'd like the linking of the fortunes even if she hadn't a shred of love for you." He hesitated, then said significantly, "Your mother wants it."

Tony was aware of a cold chill of apprehension. What Jane Bleecker wanted she usually got. It was foolish, of course, to think that she could make him marry anyone he didn't want to marry. Yet if he couldn't have Virginia, might he not be too indifferent to set his will against his mother's? He threw off the feeling, however. His life was his own. Neither his mother nor Marty could manage it for him.

So potent, however, was his mother's influence, that when she wrote to him a week later to join her on the Van Duyne yacht, he took a bit of leave and went down. Why not? It would serve to pass away the time.

It was a day of purple seas and warm moist winds when he arrived at Miami and boarded the Van Duyne yacht Nothing could have been a great contract than his memory of Virginia on the dreary stairs and the gay group which welcomed him. Jane, in faint pink, threw her arms about his neck and kissed him. "My blessed boy!" she cried.

Marty, silver under the sun, came flashing acrodd the deck. "Tony Bleecker, I've a thousand things to say to you. Let's find a place to talk. Jane, they want you for bridge. You can kill the fatted calf later."

Jane laughed and rushed away. There were left presently only Marty and Tony and Rickey Oliphant.

Rickey had shaken hands with Tony and now he offered, with a touch of gloom, to leave them. "I'd better be getting at my work."

Marty agreed. "Run along. You've been dreadfully lazy." She touched him lightly on the shoulder with her finger tips. "Run along and write some lovely things about me."

The boy went with reluctance. Tony could see his discomfiture and was sorry for him. He wondered if Marty realized what she was doing. Sid she really care for the lad? And if not, what was going to happen to him?

He challened her as Rickey left them. "What about your tragic young god?"

"He's wonderful. But I have moments when I can climb down from my pedestal." Although she said it lightly, he perceived an undercurrent of seriousness.

"What are you going to do with him?"

"Heaven knows. He's mad about me, Tony. He wants me to run away with him and marry him. Of course I can't do it, yet the queer thing is that I want to. That's why I got you down here, as a sort of anchor to windward."

"It's a bit hard on the boy, isn't it?" Out of his own heartche Tony could appreciate the heartaches of others. "You'd better watch your step, Mary. He's a temperamental lad and high-strung as the dickens."

How hard it was on the boy neither of them knew. Rickey was at that moment in his stateroom. He was standing by the porthole, looking out over the purple waters, but his eyes saw nothing but Marty and Tony on the sun-lighted deck. His face was white. She had sent him awa because of Bleecker. She h ad treated him like a child. He had an almost hysterical desire to weep. He flung himself down at his desk and began to write. The words ran hot from his pen, yet when he had read over what he had written he tore it up. Then with a sob he dropped his head on his hands. He had torn up hundreds of such pages since he had come south with Marty Van Duyne. His muse had left him. He was swept this way and that by tempestuous emotions, consumed by adoration of this silver witch. He wanted to lay on her altar the great gift of his genius Yet he could produce nothing. He wa burnt out, the flame of inspiration fuenched. Would it ever again burn pure and bright? And if it did not, what had he to offer Marty?

CHAPTER NINETEEN.

The Heart of Things.

It seemed to Michael McMillan in the two months following Virginia's flight as if all the restlessness of his restless years had crystallized into a dynamic energy which drove him through the days like a high-powered engine. He worked as he had never worked before. After hours of almost superhuman effort in his office he would go home and read manuscripts until the early hours of the morning.

Day and night . . . day and night . . . a treadmill of existence. Michael scarcely felt himself alive. He had no heart, no mind, no spirit, only this driving sense of speeding ahead so that he might leave behind his burden of heavy-heartedness.

He had not tried to get in touch with Virginia. He had felt the thing was ended. She would marry Bleecker, and forget that there had been in her life such a man as Michael McMillan. And he would never forget.

The room in which he sat at night was the library of his apartment. In it were reminders of Virginia—the ladder-back chair was opposite his own on the hearth, the needle-point stool was set foursquare on the rug, the silver candlesticks shone on the mantel above the fireplace. He wished that he had the strength to put them out of his sight. He did not want reminders, yet something held him from breaking definitely from the few tangible things which bound him to her. He would have then, only memories.

It was on a windy night in March that there came to him poignantly that memory of memories, of the old house in Annapolis, and Virginia going up the stairs, the candlesticks held like a crucifix against her breast. He sometimes felt that it was that vision of Virginia which saved him from chaos. It was as if he saw beyond material things to some need for sacrifice from which she suffered. He told himself like the rest of them. She would marry Tony—and accept the little things of life. Each morning he dared not look in the papers lest he see the announcement.

It was after nidnight when Nogi, who acted as butler and valet, came in to ask if there were any further orders.

'None, Nogi, and yould better go to bed."

Michael knew that he, too, ought to go to bed. He was burning the candle at both ends, and was feeling the effect both physically and mentally. He would have to lay off for a while—spend a few weeks on the Riviera, in Constantinople, Madrid, London, there were authors over there who would serve as an excuse if he needed one.

The room was very still. The fir had died down so that there was only a glowing bed of coals. On the table beyond the fireplace a lamp of Chinese porcelain shed a pale gleam like moonlight on the dark wood, and bathed in this light was a tiny silver figure perched on the edge of a shallow basin of malachite. It was a thing Michael had picked up in Florence to hold flowers, and the silver figure was that of Pan piping among the reed-like plants with which Nogi kept the malachite basin filled.

There was something so gay and sportive about the little figure that it had seemed to Michael to typify all that he longed for of youth and vivid experiences. Yet to-night he felt poignantly the contrast between that debonair image and his own dry-as-dust routine. Was life never to give him what he wanted? Hours filled to the brim with expectancy, excitement, fulfilment, laughter?

Then, breaking upon a startled silence, the telephone rang.

Long distance and a strange voice! His Aunt Molly was not well. Could he come to her at once? Was it as serious as that? Yes, there was hope, of course. But she was asking for Michael. There was an early morning train and they would be there to him.

What To-day Means To You

If January 31st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p.m., from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The critical periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 4:45 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

January 31st is according to the planetary aspects, a day full of promise. Effort will be stimulated; vision will be keen; and many of yesterday's problems will be solved. What was difficult then willbe easy of accomplishment today. Very soothing influences will prevail after sundown.

Children born on this January 31st will always be the product of environment. They will lack originality, and be imitative. What theylearn from their parents will govern their thoughts and their lives. They will never become free thinkers—in the broadest sense of the term as their parent's creed will be their's.

If you celebrate your natal anniversary on January 31st you are gi ted with a pleasing, but not strong personality. You can charm, but can not command. Your character is not rugged, and what cannot be gained by diplomatic methods is, so far as you are concerned, lost. You wil never take off your coat, roll up your sleeves, and fight. Nature made you a pacifist, and you are contented to turn their left cheek, after the right one has been smitten.

The lack of aggressiveness on your part is rather a pity, for you are endowed with exceptional ability, and could achieve much—if you only carried a punch. There is a world of difference between being pugnacious and assertive. The former is a sign of weakness; the latter, in your case would be an element of strength. You are industrious, have clear vision and are a good judge of character. Your weakness is that, although you know when to strike, you never do so.

As a companion you leave nothing to be desired. You are congenial, "simpatico", amusing, a good talker, and a patient listener. Up to a certain point, you are a good friend. When it comes, however, to "sticking up" for one in time of difficulty, you are "not there." Your disposition is easy-going. In your home life, you will rather efface yourself but, on the whole, constant contact with you will breed contentment, whilst it will in all probability damp ardor, and stifle enthusiasm.

If February 1st is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m., and rom 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The danger period is from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

There will prevail on February 1st a lethargic atmosphere, inimical to either endeavour or fresh enterprise. The signs denote that, after sundown, the mind will be in a very receptive mood, and emotion is liable to take place of sane, cool judgement.

A child born on this February 1st, will not be very engaging in its early years, and will antagonize more than please. As it approaches adulthood, it will have some of the tough corners smoothed, and its improvement will then be steadily progressive. Pugnaciousness will, however always exist.

If you were born on February 1st, you are a mixture, full of contradictions and variable. At times, you are sympathetic, tolerant, and understanding. At other times, you are hard, selfish and pigheaded. Your judgment is one day reliable, while the next day, it is undependable. Your moods are kaleidoscopic: no one ever knows how to take you. A restless spirit is the cause of your troubles; inconsistency is the handicap under which you live.

No one denies your ability; no one doubts your intelligence; no one, however, appeals to you in time of trouble. One and all are uncertain of their reception, and there are few people who will knowingly risk a snub. Even in your work, you are not a continuous performer. At times, you will work like a Trojan, while at other times, you will be lazy and indifferent.

The signs denote that you should either work "on your own" or under the the direction of another, who would brook no temperamental out bursts. You, too, are very critical of others, and are never satisfied with conditions. As, however, your criticism is destructive, you do more to accentuate the evils of which you complain than ameliorate them. You are fated to only acquire a philosophy of life in your later years, and these, although blessed with a long deferred happiness, will carry with them many sincere regrets.

Englishwomen as cooks are too prone to roasts, which demand the best joins only, says an epert, who says an expert, who adds that by braising or cooking in a casserole they could use cheaper meats.

ESTEVAN TORY CHANGES MIND

McKnight Decides He Would Like Seat Won in Recount of Ballots.

TURNED IT DOWN ONCE.

ESTEVAN, Sask., Jan. 31. (CP)—Acclaimed by enthusiastic supporters at a mass meeting here last night, David Mcnight, who in turn lost, won and gave away the Estevan seat in the Provincial Legislature, decided he wanted it after all. The Conservative's application for retraction of withdrawal of recount proceedings will be filed to-day with Judge E. R. Wylie.

It was on the recount of ballots, in connection with the by-election here, that McKnight was declared winner over Norman McLeod, Liberal. McLeod's majority of five votes established in the election-night counting, Dec. 23, was wiped out in the second counting and a majority of 13 was marked for the Conservative.

Charges of tampering with ballots made during recount proceedings resulted first in a Government-ordered investigation and then in McKnights announcement that he would apply to have recount proceedings withdrawn. If Judge Wylie had allowed this application, McLeod would automatically have won the seat. Liberal supporters oft McLeod had declared they would seek an appeal on the whole by-election.

The mass meeting here was almost unanimous that McKnight retract his application speakers asserting that while allegations of ballot tampering had been made, yet no actual proof of it had been produced. The Conservative, they insisted, should not relinquish his seat.

NEW YORK LIST CONTINUES DULL

Market Ends Month in Decided Contrast to First of Year Enthusiasm.

SHARES ERRATIC.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(CP)—The stock market ended the first month of the year today with a rather sallow, convalescent complexion, in contrast to the flush of enthusiasm with which January began.

The market was distinctly heavy, with numerous losses of a point or two in prominent issues, and wider declines in some of the more mercurial shares. Short covering gave the list a little boost in the last few minutes. The closing price level, as measured by the averages, was in the main only a point or two above the levels reached in the New Year's rally of Jan. 2.

Auburn and Worthington continued to fluctuate erratically. The former dropped nearly 6, then regained almost half its loss. Worthington dropped nearly 4, then reduced its loss to less than a point. Chemicals were rather heavy. Dupont, Columbian Carbon, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and Allied Chemical finished 2 to 3 points lower. Other shares off about 2 points included Westinghouse, Atchison, Eastman, Johns Manville, and Underwood Elliott. Shares losing about a point included U. S. Steel, American Can., American Power and Light, Bethlehem, Stone and Websters, Radio, and Union Pacific. North American, General Electric, and General Motors were off only fractionally, and American Telephone closed about steady. General Railway signal was a firm spot up 2. Sales for the two-hour session were about 800,000 shares.

Elections will be held Wednesday, Feb. 11. In the meantime the leaders of both parties will hold several meetings in both Hamilton West and Grenville.

The present standing of the parties in the Legislature is as follows: Conservatives, 86; Liberals, 14; Progressives, 4; Liberal Progressives, 3; Independent Conservatives, 2; United Farmers, 1; vacant seats, 2.

$30,000 FIRE IN ST. KITTS

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Fire originating between the roof and ceiling of the Nihan Block early to-day, caused damage estimated at $30,000, of which only about $5,000 was to the building. An indoor golf course organization and the United Typewriter Company sustained major part of the loss.

LUSTY BARKING OF TINY TERRIER SAVES 100 FROM DEATH IN FIRE

One Man in Excitement Steps From Fifth Floor Window to His Death.

ANOTHER BREAKS LEG.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.— The lusty bark of Buddy, a wire-haired terrier, served as a fire alarm at 4 a.m. today for 100 occupants of an apartment and rooming house at 337 State street, in downtown Brooklyn.

All except two of the residents got out safely. William Kingsley stepped through a window on the fifth floor, thinking he was entering the fire escape, and plunged to his death. William Felton knocked out a second floor window so vigorously that he lost his balance and fell to the court, breaking a leg.

The racket raised by Buddy, augmented by the work of William Cunningham, his owner, roused most of the occupants in time.

SOCIETY ACCEPTS BETHEL INVITATION

Young People's League of Two Churches to Hold Joint Meeting.

OMEMEE, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence.)—On Monday Evening, the young People's meeting of Trinity Church was in charge of Roy Faulkner.

An invitation was received from the Bethel appointment to meet with them on Thursday evening and unanimously accepted. And four sleighs were promised to convey the young people.

Its origin was first spoken of. "The forming of an alphabet preceded the writing of literature. Pictures of animals were first used to express wishes and thoughts, by symbols. An aniaml such as a serpent meant we want to fight; while a deer would mean we want you over for a feast.

"The Egyptians were first to use hieroglyphics. That is symbols for each word. This was very inconvenient and cramped because it laid a great stress on the memory and because there weren't always symbols for the needed expression.

The Phoenicians were first to adopt the idea of making symbols to represent sounds of the voice. Their code of symbols were improved by the Greeks who added the vowels and simplified some of the symbols.

From the Greeks we get our alphabet and its name. A is expressed in Greek by the word 'Alpha,' and B by the word 'beta.' By conbining the two we get the name alphabet.

The art of printing and writing soon followed. This made expression of thought easy and unhampered. Writers of literature especially of poetry, are those who can express their finest thoughts or their imagination, in words.

Writers express thoughts which we may feel but cannot express.

Keats pictures books as a "Golden Highway" along which we are the travellers. With the bright appetite books are the finest of friends and helpers."

A hymn was next sung and the meeting was opened for a social time. A Literary Contest, and spelling match were much enjoyed.

The annual vestry meeting of Christ Church, Omemee, was held on Monday evening. The Rector Rev. Mr. Weir, took the chair. All reports of the various associations were of an encouraging nature, and each had a favorable balance to begin the year's activities. A. W. Hill was re-elected as the People's Warden, and W. G. Stephenson was appointed by the Rector as his warden. Mr. Hill's report of the financial standing was very satisfactory although there have been some extensive repairs effected during the year.

The sidesme for the coming year are: George Woodhead, Norman Spencer, George Stephenson, and Harry Burgess. The Rector expressed a hope that in the ensuing year, Christ Church would continue its good work.

The A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church, enjoyed a skating party this week instead of their regular meeting. The party was well attended and everyone enjoyed an evening's skate. After which weiners and coffee were served.

The entertainment in Coronation Hall under the asupices of the Ontario Agricultural Society, who is having the short course classes, was very instructive. The three reels of film shown, by Mr. Bull, of Toronto, pertained to the work and were much enjoyed.

A camp fire scene composed of the members of the two classes, was very picturesque. Miss Race also contributed some piano selections.

The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses in connection with the classes being held.

FRESH EGGS CHEAP ON LOCAL MARKET

Fresh eggs on local market dropped to a low to-day, ranging in price from 25-35 cents a dozen. The cold weather tended to keep the usual crowds of shoppers away, while the stalls were not so heavy laden as is usual, owing to the same cause.

Beef was selling at from 12-14 cents a pound, lamb 17-23 cents and mutton 15-18. Fresh dairy butter retailed at 30-33 cents a pound, with chickens at 30 cents a pound. On one stall there was a quantity of fresh country cream, selling in pint sealers for 30 cents. They were in good demand.

Potatoes, apples and other produce subject to frost were not in evidence. There were several loads of wood brought in, for which $12 a cord was being asked.

Automobile.

Herb. Gambles 590 triple with 261 and 221 singles by Robinson and Detcher drove the final spike for the Chryslers in their 5th attempt to win the Automobile League Trophy. Chevrolets, their opponents on Wednesday night worked in vain to keep out of the cellar and avoid a whitewash, Clements and White planking down 586 and 521 counts.

Mike Duffus' 636 was the main spoke in the 2nd place Pontiacs 6-2 victory over the Oldsmobile. A 211 single by Inch and hard hitting by Fawcett and Copeland kept the latter team almost neck and neck with the winners. The failure of the Oldsmobile to hold the Pontiacs cost them their tie for third place with Fords and Buicks. The Buicks looked well away with the first two games, when Henry Fords help did the forty miles in second gear. Juby, Hood, Wilson and son and Naish turning in huge singles to register a 1008 score and get the final game with high pinnage. Ken Williams and J. J. Duffus and Shaughnessy all took a hand for Buicks to keep the score even.

Hudson and Essex finished two points over Chevrolet, taking eight points when Durants defaulted. During the schedule the Hudson outfit was the only team to take a full fall out of the Chryslers.

Ladies' City League.

The Columbians extended their lead to 10 points over their nearest rivals, the Quaker Oats, by taking two games and high pinnage from the latter. Team on Thursday evening. Mrs. Coursey's 548 was high for the winners, but Miss Campbell, Mrs. Prest and Miss O'Connell were at their usual steady form when a victory is needed. Miss Dixon and Miss Northey chalked up 574 and 564 and Miss Pickering placed a 210 to help in a 951 single game for the Quakers. The other members of the losing team were still bothered with the disastrous jinx which has followed them in the last few weeks.

The battle now is for possession of third position. The Nashua girls fell before Mrs. Firths' Brinton's, losing 6 points and that place to the latter team. Miss Taylor was again in the limelight for Brintons, counting 530 for her 3 games, but Miss L. Lockhart, of the Nashua gave her a close run with 521. Both girls chalked up 200 or better singles.

The West Ends bowled good enough to win many games but could not hold the Metropolitans who turned in the largest total of the night, 2560 pins. Miss Hall, Mrs. Riley and Miss McCannon's fine efforts were smothered under 592-566 and 556 triples by the Misses Mackie, Kearns and McCormick.

Mercantile.

In the Mercantile League, Vince Crowley and Turner, of Johnston's, tried hard to take the Batchelors for a joy ride, but a 691 score by Jack Playford stopped their fun and they got 6 points. Crowley's count was 640 and Turner's 668 included a 306 single.

The Brintons who are tied with Johnsons for first place tried the same game on the Postal Clerks, but Ernie Mesley, Ballard Moore and Legros got out and walked at the half way mark both teams registering 4 points. E Boon and J. Sweetman were again outstanding for Brintons, Boons 535 was high in the tussle, while Sweetman's 504 was beaten by Mesley's 618.

The Mail Carriers went the whole way with the Redpatch, losing all eight points, although Bob McMurray kicked hard on the journey. Gordon Fallon and V. Stewart, of the winners gathered in 573 and 537 scores.

The Legions landed in third position with 8 points more when C.N.R. defaulted.

CALEDONIAN LEAGUE.

The following teams were drawn up for a second schedule:

CHAPLIN SCORES NEW MOVIE HIT

"CITY LIGHTS."

LOS ANGELES, January 31 (C. P.). — Adulation of the star-gazing multitudes of Hollywood and Los Angeles rose to near-riotous frenzy last night at one of the most spectacular premieres ever accorded a motion picture here.

The talkies yielded the spotlight to the first important non-dialogue movie Hollywood has produced in three years, and a little pantomiming tramp proved to the satisfaction of a distinguished first-night audience his art—pure pantomime was beyond the need of microphonic assistance.

The occasion was the preimer showing of "City Lights," the picture on which Charles Chaplin, alone of all Hollywood deaf to the thunder of the talkie revolution, has been working for nearly three years

Chaplin escorted Miss Georgie Hale, his leading lady in a former picture, with Prof. and Frau Albert Einstein and Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Milliken as his guests.

ZARAROFF IS ILL AT MONTE CARLO

KNIGHTED IN 1929.

NICE, France, Jan. 31.— Sir Basil Zararoff, so-called mystery man of Europe and reputedly one of the richest men in the world, was said to-day to be seriously ill at Monte Carlo. Considerable anxiety is felt for him because of his great age, 80.

Sir Basil was born at Constantinople in 1850 of a Russian father and Grecian mother. He was educated in London and Paris but little else is known of his early life, or, for that matter, of his later life which has been the subject of much speculation.

His great fortune has been built of activities in munitions plants, shipbuilding, oil and other enterprises. After the war he extended financial aid to the British and French Governments and later was rewarded by both for his services, the British Government knighting him in 1929.

He exerted considerable influence at the Versailles Peace Conference and was an intimate of Lloyd George, Venizelos, Clemenceau and Briand. He maried the Duchess of Villa Franca de Los Caballeros in 1924, but was made a widower by her death in 1926.

CONSTRUCT REPLICA.

EDMONTON, Alta., January 31 (C. P.). — Construction of a replica of the famous old Hudson's Bay Company fort in Edmonton and important changes in downtown streets which have suffered through faulty surveys in the past will be among the matters considered at a meeting of the Edmonton Town Planning Association in the near future.

One plan is to build a highway through the proposed civic centre, which will require the removal of some buildings.

PREMIER BROWNLEE ADVOCATES STUDY OF RUSSIAN METHODS

However, Laments Communistic Propaganda Preached in the Province.

DEFENDS WHEAT POOL

(By Wilfrid Eggleston.)
(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1931.)

CALGARY, Jan. 30.— Communism is going to leave an indelible mark on the world. We ought to study Russia, find out all we can about what is going on there. I recommend to you farmers that you go home from this convention and form yourselves into study groups. Get the best books and articles on the subject. I have just finished one which I am recommend highly: humanity Uprooted" by Morris Hindus "

Such was one of the tense passages from the most notable address at the U.F.A. Convention here this week. The speaker was not a Communist, nor a member of the Farmers' Unity League or other extremist body, but Premier John E. Brownlee of Alberta.

Mr. Brownlee preceded his remarks on Russia by deploring the activities of those who were attempting to capitalize the present trouble and unrest. Men of no particular reputation, for the most part," he observed. In certain parts of this province an organized attempt is being made to send out Communistic propaganda. In one district there are those who are going up and down preaching all the good things of the Russian revolution, and the Soviet Republic."

There is more agony in Russia to-day than in any other country in the world, Mr. Brownlee continued, quoting from Hindus' book. More rapture, too, perhaps."

Remember this," the premier said, turning swiftly from the book to the audience, Whatever is good of Russia you can have,—by the exercise of your vote," a declaration greeted by widespread applause from the delegates representing 18,000 organized farmers of the province.

His reference however, ended on the same note as it began; Don't think for a moment I am afraid to have you study Russia. By all means let us find out all we can about it."

The Premier's words, coming from a man whose legal counsel had steered their own organization through troublous times in the days before he became a minister of the crown, came at a psychological moment in the course of the convention. Never before in the 21 years of the convention's existence has it met in times so adverse to the agriculturist of the prairie. Never before was the left wing so vigorous, or advocacy of extreme measures ranging from inflation of the currency and abolition of interest to pure communism so open. In an exhortation to the convention a few hours before Carl Axelson, leader of the ultra-radical wing, had said that he saw no hope of things being better even in five years unless people liike us get busy and change the existing order of things." Secession from Eastern Canada had been openly advocated by several speakers if their radical demands were not met at once. Farmers had risen one after another to describe the deplorable, even intolerable, conditions in several parts of the province.

A farmers' premier himself, Mr. Brownlee faced the ugly spirit of the convention with frankness and courage. There was no use mining words, or hiding facts. Conditions were bad, and the ministry at Edmonton knew better than anyone at that convention just how bad they were. I never imagined, for instance a few months ago, that our finances would be confronted with such an alarming reduction in revenues as we are facing to-day," he said. Last December it seemed that fifty per cent of the school districts threw up their hands and said: We can't carry on."

He discussed possible causes of world depression, and the fall in revenue of agricultural Canada, particularly Western Canada. What are the hopeful factors?" he asked.

The Governments in Canada cannot allow agriculture to be destroyed. Canada can't exist unless agriculture exists here. Premier Brownlee then disclosed what he and the other two prairie premiers had asked the government at Ottawa in November—a fact not till now made public.

We suggest that you get your best experts together," they had said to Ottawa. Fix a price for wheat—say 70 cents. We can't let agriculture be wiped out. If wheat has to be sold at less than 70 cents abroad, issue to the farmer a certificate for the difference. You won't have to guarantee the pool, in that event, or to issue relief."

We were told we were crazy," Premier Brownlee admitted with a smile. But I'm still Irish enough to believe that it would have been better than the present situation.

If we come to another harvest with prices at or near the present level, we shall again have to plead that agriculture be saved from destruction by some such measure."

What about secession?" Our present trouble is chiefly due to an oversurplus of wheat. Could we sell any more as an independent nation?" In hardly more words than that Premier Brownlee dismissed this inflammatory subject, apparently to the satisfaction of the convention.

As for those who believed that by a sudden change of our currency or credit we could pass in a year or two from adversity to prosperity, Mr Brownlee had only one question: Has Russia, with all her freedom to adopt whatever system of currency she wished, been able to keep up the world price of wheat."

Don't follow the advice you are getting about reducing acreage altogether—don't ignore it altogether," he admonished. As for mixed farming—that is a big question. Many of us haven't the livestock, and it would be dangerous if we all did. As it is, the way a certain product is being stressed and taken up (he meant hogs and bacon) the Government is frankly afraid of what will happen in a few months."

Premier Brownlee concluded a notable address with a spirited defence of the wheat pool and a stout prophecy that it, or some similar type of co-operative marketing, will survive all the storms fate has in store.

ENJOYING WARMER WEATHER.

ABOARD S.S. OROPESA, Jan. 31 (C.P.).—The Prince of Wales and Prince George are enjoying the tropical weather as their ship plows toward Havana, where they are due early Sunday for a few hours' stop.

The ship's officers yesterday acknowledged the arrival of a warmer climate by donning white uniforms and organizing a series of more strenuous deck games.

SHOULD THE CHILDREN EAT IT

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about those advertisements first.

LEWIS IS FOUND GUILTY BY JUDGE OF CARELESSNESS IN DRIVING CAR

to put an end to this, so that those who have a right to travel the highways might travel them at night in safety. The defence has been well conducted; in fact there is no need to say this when Mr. Hall has charge of it."

Referring to the actual speed the car was going at the time of the accident, His Honor said that there were only two who could give a definite statement — one was Lewis, who estimated it at 25 miles an hour and the other was Miss Gamble, who put it at 65 miles per hour. "Who are we going to believe? If what the accused said was right, it seems strange how his car got away from that of Ott's, who was following him, and said he was driving 40 miles an hour, and then the tail-light of the car ahead appeared to be disappearing in the distance. It is only natural to suppose that the accused would not make things any worse than they really were. But in all these kind of cases there is always a tell-tale story." His Honor then reviewed the evidence of the two constables in regard to the position and condition the car was found in after the accident. "Can anyone be reasonably asked to believe that that car was only going 25 miles an hour and in second gear? I have no doubt that everything happened in the twinkling of an eye, and as soon as the parties realized what was going to happen they knew no more. The evidence is that the car was going at a speed beyond all reason, and any person driving in this manner is responsible in the eyes of the law."

Opus on Driver.

"It has been proved that the parties were drinking, and that does not help matters. They got away with a bottle of gin in less than an hour, and of course the drivers did not have much. Anyone who gets into an accident who has taken liquor just prior is coming into the court with a serious handicap. Under the Act the onus is upon the accused, and I must say that I have not been impressed with the manner in which the accused gave his evidence. He showed no responsibility, he was very hesitating, and he found it difficult to look at the parties while giving his evidence.

"I have no hesitation in finding the accused guilty, and I find that he operated the car in a most grossly and negligent manner, and I cannot put much faith in his evidence. I do not think it is a case for suspended sentence, but I do not believe that this young man should be put in a penal institution, and I see no reason why when he is free again that he should feel humiliated, as he is serving a just punishment which he has earned, and I hope it will be a lesson to others in the future."

His Honor then sentenced the accused to three months in the common jail, with a fine of $300, and in default of paying the fine, three additional months. His license and permit were also automatically cancelled.

Photographs Are Entered

At the beginning of the afternoon session Kenneth Baker, photographer, was called upon to prove the photographs of the wrecked car already put in by the Crown as exhibits.

Douglas Paull of Montreal said he was with the party at Chemong before the accident. The party arrived at Chemong about 11 o'clock and remained from half to three-quarters of an hour. He saw Lewis take one drink of gin. The four boys drank the contents of a 26-ounce bottle. He corroborated Ott's evidence as to the speed they travelled, and as to what the party in Ott's car saw when they arrived on the scene of the accident. Lewis, he said, seemed dazed when the others arrived.

To Mr. Hall, witness said that he had bought the bottle of gin that had been taken out to Chemong. The party at Chemong had all been together in the living room at the cottage. There was no reason why the party should be in a hurry to get home and there had been no suggestion of racing. Witness said he had two or three drinks and he thought Foote had had the same.

"Were you under the influence of liquor?"

No, sir."

"It speaks well for your capacity," commented Mr. Hall.

Another Passenger in Ott's Car

Louis Foote of Port Hope, another passenger in Ott's car, also testified as to details of the party, testifying that Lewis had had one drink of gin. He did not have the appearance of having been drinking when witness first met him that evening. His evidence as to the speed of the cars and other details closely followed that of other Crown witnesses. And he also, in response of cross examination by Mr. Hall, said that there had been no suggestion that the party should hurry home and that the rate of speed of the car in which he was riding did not appear to him as dangerous. Foote said that he had three or four drinks at Chemong. Witness did not see any of the girls drink.

Gwendolyn Williams said that she was at the party and saw Lewis take a drink of gin. Witness had come back in Ott's car and described the incident at the scene of the accident. She said she had driven out to Chemong with Lewis and thought he had driven too fast then. He had asked if there was any snow flying up behind his car.

Ina Birchall said that she was in the front seat of Ott's car, that Lewis' car left the park just in front of theirs and gradually increased its speed until it had gone out of sight. Lewis had visited her since the accident and had told her that he had drunk ginger ale and not gin.

To Mr. Hall, witness said, as had the other witnesses, that there had been no occasion for the party to hurry home.

Ethel Gamble, who said she was still suffering from the effects of the accident and was allowed to sit down in witness box, testified that she had occupied the front seat of Lewis' car along with the prisoner and Irene Stewart on the fatal journey home from Chemong. She told of leaving the park ahead of the other car and then was asked as to the speed of Lewis' car when the accident happened.

"Sixty-five miles an hour," Miss Gamble unhesitatingly declared.

Mr. Hall objected that the witness had not been shown to be an experienced driver and capable of judging speed.

However, Miss Gamble declared that she had looked at the speedometer in Lewis' car just before the accident and it was registering 65 miles. On the way home Lewis had asked, she said, how fast the car was travelling and was told by both girls, "55 miles an hour." Then, while she watched the speedometer, Lewis had increased the speed to 65 miles an hour. It was that just before the accident. Miss Gamble could not remember the car going into the ditch. She said that Lewis made no attempt to stop at the stop sign at the junction of the Chemong Road and the Lindsay Highway.

Stiff cross examination by the defence counsel failed to shake the testimony, although Miss Gamble admitted that it was proposed to bring action for damages against Lewis for the injuries she had received.

Police Sergeant Arthur Thomas testified to statements made by Lewis after the accident and swore he smelt liquor off his breath at the hospital, while William Rae and William Boddinson, employees of the Chevrolet garage, testified that they had noticed nothing wrong with the brakes of the wrecked car after the accident.

The Defence Evidence

Prisoner explained about the arrangements for the party on a phone call from Ott, and about taking the car against his father's orders; told of the trip out to the cottage and what happened there. On the way home, he declared that he was driving at about forty miles an hour until he came to the stop sign, when he put his car into second gear and travelled at about 25 miles an hour. He reached over to fix a window on the right side of the car, he said, and when he turned his eyes back to the road saw the curve sign close in front of him. After the car hit the post he remembered nothing more of the accident. He thought the woollen gloves he wore had slipped off the wheel. He was only eight feet away from the post when he applied his brakes.

Pressed by Mr. Hall in regard to drinking, Lewis said that afterwards he felt that he must have taken a drink of gin. "The boys would not have said so and the evidence would not have been so strong otherwise," he explained.

"What was the real cause of the accident?"

"My raising the window and the fact that I wore woollen gloves," said Lewis, who added that there was no reason why the party should want to rush back to town. The dash light on his car was not on and it was impossible to have read the speedometer.

Lewis was hotly grilled by Crown Attorney McElderry as to certain phases of his evidence.

"Do you want the Court to believe that Miss Gamble was not telling the truth when she told of seeing the speedometer register 65 miles; when she said that you did not stop at the stop sign?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"One girl has lost her life and now you want to go into the box and hurt the reputation of another by insinuating that she has perjured herself," he added.

Mr. Hall objected.

The Crown Attorney then asked Lewis about his statement at the inquest that he had had nothing to drink. "That was before the others testified that you had a drink. Do you want to change that now?"

Lewis hesitated.

"You know the taste of gin, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then you know whether you had gin there that night or not, don't you?"

Again the prisoner was slow in answering.

"He has already answered on that point," commented Judge O'Connor, "and you'll have to take his answer for what it is worth."

Reading prisoner's evidence at the inquest, Mr. McElderry asked him to explain why he had attributed the accident at that time to the failure of the steering gear and had said nothing about raising a window or about woollen gloves.

Lewis did not explain, nor could he give a definite answer as to how it was possible for a car in second gear travelling 25 miles an hour to cover as much ground after the brakes were applied as this one apparently did.

The Crown called Miss Gamble back to the box in rebuttal of prisoner's statement that he had leaned across the girls to raise the car window. "He did not," she said flatly, when questioned on that point.

Addresses His Honor.

Mr. Hall in addressing His Honor said that in the evidence of the young men and two of the girls there was nothing to show that there had been racing and maintained that the evidence of Miss Gamble should not be taken too seriously, as the second car overcame that of Lewis' shortly after the accident. A great deal of stress has been laid upon the taking of a drink of gin. Is there any evidence submitted to your Honor that there was any wanton conduct or intoxication. This young man stood every chance of losing his own life. Therefore I submit that there should be more evidence submitted to convict. My learned friend has looked upon this in a cold-blooded way. Does he not know that following an accident a person is unnerved and not in a fit state to make a statement.

His Honor intimated to Mr. McLidery that he did not wish to hear him as he intended to convict and before passing sentence he asked Mr. Hall if he had anything more to say. Mr. Hall made an eloquent plea for suspended sentence especially on grounds that it would be the parents who would suffer and he believed that ends of justice would be met in passing such a sentence. Mr. McElderry said he was unable to concur in a suspended sentence.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Cattle offerings at the Union Stock Yards totalling some 4,800 head, or about 100 less than last week, met a very poor reception, and holdovers were in order from day to day, with 500 head unsold at Wednesday's close and no fresh arrivals on Thursday, when the stale supply was but slightly reduced. Prices were easier from the start, and all classes of killers were selling a strong 50 cents per cwt. lower by mid-week. Export demand was lacking, and buyers for the home trade were indifferent. Stocks and feeders were a light offering and created little interest, and the few small lots moving to the scales sold somewhat lower than last week at a range of 5 to 6 cents per pound. Weakness in the killer section was attributed to narrow outlet for beef, for which low prices of other food supplies was held responsible in part.

Good to choice handyweight butcher steers and heifers closed at 6½ to 6 cents per pound, with the real choice steers at 7 cents, and plain kind downward to 5 cents per pound. Heifers were a very slow sale. Best weighty steers made 7 to 7¼ cents, with good kind at 6½ to 6¾ cents, and roughs practically unsaleable. Baby beeves sold from 8 to 8½ cents per pound for choice, with medium kind down to 7 cents. Good butcher cows made 4¾ to 5 cents, with common downward to 3 cents per pound, and bulls were draggy at 4 to 4¾ cents for good light butcher kind, while heavy bulls were not wanted at any price. Milkers and springers sold unchanged at $70 to $85 for the best and $40 to $60 for fair milkers. The odd load of springers sold for shipment to Quebec.

Calf supply at 1,400 was some 400 greater than last week. Export demand helped disposal, and prices advanced 25 cents per cwt. on good to choice vealers, which made 10 to 11 cents per pound, with a few prime calves as high as 11½ cents per pound. Trade was somewhat draggy on Wednesday, and poorer grades sold as low as 7 cents per pound, with a few grassers at 4 to 5 cents per pound.

Sheep and lamb receipts at 1,300 were 150 less than last week. Good lambs opened at 9½ cents, but were down 25 to 50 cents per cwt., soon after the start, and by Wednesday's close the good ewes and wethers were selling at 8 to 8½ cents per pound, with culls down to 6 cents. Sheep sold steady at 2 cents to 6 cents per pound, according to quality.

Hog receipts for sale were some 600 lighter than last week at a total of 3,100. There were in addition 656 western hogs on through billing. Most bacon hogs sold steady at 9 cents f.o.b. and 10 cents w.o.c., with a share of Wednesday's supply 25 cents per cwt. higher, though very few went to local packers at the top, and bids for week-end arrivals were 8¾ cents f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—Shaken by reported big shipments of Argentine corn to other countries, including the United States and Canada, corn unsteadied all grains yesterday. Abnormally high temperatures reducing feed requirements of live stock had a further bearish influence, and so, too, did likelihood that the amount of wheat on ocean passage would show an increase on Monday. The break carried corn down to almost the season's bottom level.

Corn closed unstable, ⅞c-1¼c lower, wheat unchanged to ⅞c down, oats, ⅛c-¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c up.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 31. — Lack of foreign support and indifferent action in Liverpool and Buenos Aires had a depressing effect on the wheat market here yesterday. The session for the most part was of a dull character, and volume of trade much lighter. Quotations at the close were ⅝c to ¼c lower for the day.

The market opened strong, and speculative buying, with light offerings, ran values up 1 cent from the previous close. There was a total lack of export business, however, and, with indifferent action abroad, the market gradually declined to fractions below Thursday's high points.

Light offerings featured cash trading, with prices unchanged. Coarse grains exhibited drab trading, with prices unchanged.

BOUNDARY LINE EXTENSION APPLICATION IS WITHDRAWN

Residents Wish to Protect Existing Hydro-Electric Power Rates By Including Their Hamlet Area Within Police Village of Warkworth.

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Jan. 31.—An application to the counties council on Thursday for the extension of the boundaries of the police village of Warkworth was withdrawn at a meeting of the Legislation committee because of defects in failing to comply with the prescribed preparation as set out in the Municipal Act.

The applicants wish to protect their existing Hydro-Electric power rates by including their hamlet area within the police village of Warkworth. At present they are paying for power on the basis of Warkworth rates, but it is understood that the Hydro authorities have been proposing that these hamlet consumers should pay the hamlet power rates which are nearly one and a half times more than the police village rates. Some of the petitioners live on farms on the fringe of Warkworth and pay the village power charges. They are apprehensive of being classified as rural consumers, and as such would pay a power rate that is even higher than the hamlet schedule. One man who is virtually a farmer is now paying $1.40 a month, but as a rural consumer he would be charged $4 a month.

The deputation, composed of Chas. J. Boyce, Ben Buchanan and C. O. Dudley, was introduced by Reeve Baker.

He and Deputy-reeve Merrill moved that the petition be referred to the Legislation and by-laws committee.

Mr. Merrill stated that he had not been informed of the details of the petition until Thursday morning and for that reason he wished to have it presented to the committee.

At the committee meeting, with Reeve Stone of Campbellford presiding, the defects in the petition were incidentally brought out by Deputy-reeve MacColl of Campbellford who, following his daily practice of law, delved into the Municipal Act, and found that the petition should have been advertised locally twice in the two months prior to the counties council meeting. Another fault was the neglect to identify the properties to be included in the village and their owners.

Mr. Stone remarked that the application would have to be transformed into a by-law, and before it could be approved by the committee it would have to conform with the statutory conditions.

Mr. Boyce and Mr. Dudley who met the committee then withdrew their petition and will probably present it again at the June sessions.

The application bore the following signatures:

C. L. Walker, W. J. Osborne, J. M. Greenly, Wm. Shaw, Mrs. Clara Richards, Mrs. John Isaac, C. O. Dudley, Wm. Zufelt, W. S. Jackson, Adelia Jackson, John Greenly, Robt. Walker, W. E. Hermiston, M. E. Smith, W. V. Drewry, P. S. Ewing, C. H. Greenly, C. S. Osborne, K. B. Booth, W. A McNutt, B Buchanan, G. A. Wiggins, Mrs. Fred Sweet, Thos. A. Allen, John Grant, J. A. Sykes, Mrs. M. Cleary, W. S. Nelson, W. J. Baker.

Collect Tax Arrears.

The committee approved by-laws authorizing the village of Hastings and Murray and Cramahe townships to collect their own arrears of taxes, instead of by selling lands in arrears through the agency of the counties.

A resolution from Huron County asking the Ontario Government to disregard the request of the cities for relief from suburban road assessment was laid on the table. The Huron memorial also appeals to the Government for an increase in the county road subsidy.

Grants To Trustees.

On a motion by Reeve Wilson, seconded by Reeve Stinson a grant of $25 each to the Trustees' Association of the two counties. R. B. Dawson of Warkworth and L. H. Winslow of Cavan appeared for the two Associations.

Hastings Petitions.

A request from Hastings council to replank the walk on the county bridge over the Trent was deferred to the June session. Another petition for the assumption by the county of the road from Hastings to Trent Bridge was also laid over until June.

A Seymour Request.

A resolution by Reeve Innis, seconded by Deputy-reeve Duncan of Seymour asked the council to assume the road from Campbellford to the Rawdon boundary as a county road. It is eight miles long.

KINSMEN TO HELP RELIEF IN CITY

Play is Being Put on to Aid in Service Work in Peterboro.

BABY ORGANIZATION.

It is thought by this time that the Kinsmen Club and its activities need no introduction to the citizens of Peterborough and needless to say the Club is purely a service organization, said Newton Staples, chairman of the Sunshine Committee, to The Examiner, functioning for the general good of the citizens and the community at large. "It might also be stated that it forms a unit of the Associated Kinsmen Clubs of Canada and is distinctly national in character."

"Being the baby service organization in town it is a great source of satisfaction that most cordial relations exist with Rotary and Kiwanis who have during the nine or ten months of its activity shown their hospitality as clubs and as individuals.

"Space has already been given over in The Examiner to a comedy drama called "Hay Fever" written by Noel Coward, the famous English writer and composer which under the very able direction of Adrian Macdonald will be produced in the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday, Feb. 25. This play has also been produced by the Dramatic Club of Kingston, with great success."

The general opinion seems to prevail locally, according to Mr. Staples, that there is a great need to promote the legitimate stage work and the Kinsmen feel that they can make some contribution which with the co-operation and support of the public may mean the formation of a dramatic club of some kind in the near future. The male section of the cast will comprise local Kinsmen while a number of talented ladies have very graciously consented to portray the female roles.

"After a careful survey by the Executive of the Club, of economic conditions affecting Peterborough, it has been decided that with the proceeds they will be in a position to lend assistance to the central relief committe as well as to provide for other charity needs now under consideration. To the extent of which this support can be given there rests a responsibility with the Club to make this production one of high order and most important of all a generous patronage by the public.

Tickets at moderate prices are on sale along with the formation of a Hay Fever Club, whose membership, according to present indication, will include many of the more prominent citizens of Peterborough. Those affected with real Hay Fever may anticipate immediate relief after having seen the play.

Owing to heavy royalties and many expenses incidental to an undertaking of this kind, it has been decided to stage the production for one night only. In view of this, the committee in charge strongly advises that in order to secure choice seats, tickets should be secured early.

"Let everyone join the Hay Fever Club, enjoy themselves and help to relieve industrial hard times from which many are at present suffering."

The British battleship Emperor of India, which is to be scraded, is to be used for trials with a new kind of shell.

CHINESE HANG CAPTIVES

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30. (CP)—Japanese newspapers reported to-day Yangtze river pirates, pursued by a Government patrol poured hot oil into the ears of five Chinese captives and then hanged them to the masthead of their vessel.

The pirates escaped after deserting their boat, the newspapers reported. The captives had been held for ransom.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

BARLEY BECOMES MORE IMPORTANT FOR STAPLE FOOD

General Attitude Been That Crop Served Only in Production of Meat.

GERMANY BIG USER

Ontario Farmers Being Offered Inducements to Grow Better Quality.

A casual reference to the history of grain production in Canada shows that in the past we have not been taking seriously our possibilities in the growing of superior barley. Perhaps this is logical and as it should be, for by concentrating on wheat as a market grain we have repeatedly demonstrated to the world that this grain can be grown to perfection in Canada. And as a result of this, our wheat is sought after from the four corners of the earth.

We have always known that wheat was milled to make staple foods for our fellow-beings and this has probably played some part in stimulating our close interest in this grain. Our general attitude toward the barley crop in the past may have been influenced by the impression that barley was not used for human food and only served mankind indirectly in the production of meat.

In recent years, however, it has been found that barley, in one form or another, has been entering into an increasing number of articles of human diet, such as bread, breakfast foods, biscuits, infant and invalid food preparations, tonics, condiments and food preservatives. In Germany alone the quantity of barley made into malt coffee each year is greater than the total annual barley crop of the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario or Alberta.

Efforts to Expand.

It was in view of this importance that Canadian agricultural leaders recently took steps to put the barley-growing industry on a wider basis. In this connection a national barley committee has been organized with the Deputy Minister of Agriculture as chairman. Extensive experiments in connection with this same grain have been undertaken by L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist at Ottawa, while the Province of Manitoba has established a special laboratory where investigations are being carried out under the direction of Professor T. J. Harrison, formerly on the staff of the Manitoba Agricultural College. Professor Harrison, it will be recalled, was a member of the committee which made a thorough study of barley requirements in Europe under the auspices of the Wheat Pool and the Provincial Government of Manitoba. Through the agency of the Federal Department of Agriculture Canada was officially represented at the last three barley exhibitions in London, England, and the Grain Act, also operating under the Federal Government, has been recently revised in such a manner as to give more encouragement to growers of barley suitable for manufacturing purposes. Production of registered seed barley has grown from a few hundred bushels in 1923 to several thousand bushels in the past year. Naturally, with so many definite steps taken interest in this grain, as revealed by the Farm Press, seed and grain trade and research and extension work in agriculture, is increasing rapidly throughout the whole of Canada.

The initiative in this movement for improvement of the barley crop was taken by a commercial concern on account of its extensive requirement of this grain for manufacturing purposes in Canada. In the Province of Ontario, the officers of this company are co-operating with the Provincial Department of Agriculture for an increase in the volume and an improvement in the quality of home-grown barley. Toward this end, substantial grants of cash have been awarded for barley competitions in certain counties, in other counties supplies of pure seed have been distributed to many farmers and substantial premiums over prevailing commercial grain prices have been offered in advance to farmers for barley of suitable quality.

Leopold MacCauley in Merrickville on a date not yet announced, while Premier Henry is being billed as the chief speaker at a gathering in Cardinal, Ont., February 1. M. F. Hepburn, Liberal Leader is spending this week in the riding speaking at meetings arranged in support of Percy Barnard, the Liberal candidate.

HEENAN CHALLENGES McCREA

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor in the Dominion Government, has issued a challenge to Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, to debate on the public platform conditions among laborers on provincial road-building in Northern Ontario. The most opportune time for such a debate, Mr. Heenan said, would be during the West Hamilton by-election.

Farmers Must Cut Production Costs

"If there is one weak link in the chain of farm operation today it is in the well-considered production of farm feeds, home grown, produced at cost," asserts G. B. Rothwell, Dominion Animal Husbandman, Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa. In the final analysis the low acre unit production is largely the reason for high cost milk, admitting all the imperfections and low average production of our cows. The farmer's one and only salvation to-day is in lowering production costs under his control, i.e., on his farm.

NATION'S CREDIT AIDED BY COW

Statement Made by Swedish Traveller After Study in Many Lands.

HINTS FOR WEST

MONTREAL, Jan. 31—The cow improves the nation's credit. This is the interesting thesis worked out by W. Ohlson of Stockholm, Sweden, head of a big cream separator firm now in Montreal en route to Australia on an annual trip.

The interesting idea that the cow is a criterion of fiscal standing is elaborated by Mr. Ohlson as a result of an intensive study in many countries.

"A man who keeps a cow is sure to get a cheque twice a month if he is selling milk or cheese. That is a dependable source of revenue. Even if he does not sell the cream or milk then the cow itself is worth something at least.

"If a man wants credit he can always get a certain amount of it, if he has cows. In western Canada there are not enough of these. The Canadian farmer can offer you less security than the Australian farmer, or more particularly, the New Zealand dairyman. The latter has been in business as a rule for 25 years and can pay cash for his purchases.

Dairy Produce

"New Zealand exports more per capita than any other country in the world. And what does she export? Dairy produce. It is the cow that helps to build up that prosperity. That is why I say that Western Canada farmers owe it to themselves to keep more cows. And the sooner the country as a whole realizes what a good thing it is to have cows the more prosperous Canada will be."

Mr. Ohlson said that Australia was in a much worse plight than Canada. He described the Commonwealth as having four different types of country. There were the coast lands, rich in grass, with plenty of rain and an ideal dairy country. Then came the drier and higher belt, where wheat was grown, and a few sheep were to be found. Above that grain were the sheep stations, and then away into the desert was the fourth species of terrain, a land that will be useful only when and if irrigated.

Western Australia, he said, was spotty, some places having good land while others were desolate. Tasmania, the island state to the south, he thought it was like the coast of British Columbia, with mountains and fjords and while a good fruit country would never be a great factor in Australian development.

Mr. Ohlson in his travels manages to dodge the winter in his own country almost every year.

NOW GETTING READY FOR 1933 CONGRESS

Fifth World's Poultry Exhibition To Be Held in Rome, Italy.

Word has just been received here of the appointment of F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman and Past President of the World's Science Association as a Member of the Executive named by Premier Mussolini and the Government of Italy to carry out arrangements for the Fifth World's Poultry Congress which is to be held in Rome, Italy in 1933.

Mr. Elford's term of office as President of the Association, under the auspices of which the World's Poultry Congress is held every three years, expired on Dec. 31, 1930 and he was succeeded by State Konsultent W. A. Kock, of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Professor A. Ghigi, of the University of Bologna, Bologna, Italy, has been named Director of the Italian National Committee, and even at this early date it is evident that the 1933 Congress will be one of the outstanding world events of that year.

His Majesty King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini are both taking an active interest in the Congress. Preliminary plans indicate that the Italian government intends entertaining delegates on a very elaborate scale, and following the work of the Congress arrangements are being made for visits to places of outstanding historical and mythological interest in storied Italy.

Mr. Elford states that many of those who attended the Poultry Congress in London last year have already indicated their intention of visiting Rome, and the Canadian delegation to the 1933 Congress is already taking shape.

SLASH EXPENSES BY REJUVENATING OLD EQUIPMENT

Action Suggested as Aid in Making Beekeeping Continue to Pay.

PAINT THE HIVES

Slack Time in Winter Gives Apiarist Chance to Thoroughly Overhaul Stock.

Increased production, keener competition in marketing and falling prices are matters of grave concern to the honey producer of the present time. Prices are such that little or no profit is being received by the producer on his enterprise. One of the remedies recommended is to lower the cost of production and while the beekeeper may see ways and means of doing this, one method of reducing the costs is to get the maximum of service from the equipment, especially from hives, supers and other articles that are made of wood.

A person owning a house knows that it will rapidly fall into decay if small repairs are not promptly attended to, or if periodical painting of the outside surface is neglected. The same thing applies to bee equipment, but because the house represents a large investment and a single beehive a very small one, the latter is too often neglected, but it should be remembered that in an apiary of many colonies the investment is no mean one.

Paint All Hives

In the first place all new hives, supers and appurtenances should be well painted with a good quality paint. "Save the surface and you save all" applies just as well to bee equipment as it does to expensive buildings. Of course, paint does not last forever and periodical applications are necessary to prevent decay. Repairs are also necessary, joints in floorboards, hive bodies, supers or covers may separate because of constant handling or exposure and if not immediately attended to will rapidly go from bad to worse. The same thing applies to all the equipment used by the beekeeper.

Wear and tear takes its annual toll, but a few days or even hours of work given at the proper time may add years to the life of most of it. During the winter months the bees require no attention whatever, therefore, the beekeeper usually has some slack time on his hands, and this gives him an excellent opportunity for putting his equipment into working shape for the coming active season and by doing so he may put off the purchase of a new material for a longer time than he otherwise would.

Hamilton Candidates Nominated Saturday

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 30 (C.P.)—Candidates in the riding of West Hamilton will be nominated to-morrow, and, according to every indication, it will be a straight fight between Captain Elmore Philpott, M.C., Liberal, and Alderman Argue Martin, Conservative, for the seat in the Provincial Legislature, left vacant by the death of Hon. F. T. Smye.

The campaign thus far has been remarkable for the fact that it is being fought on general issues, local affairs being thrown entirely into the background.

If Captain Philpott is to be elected, he must turn a Conservative constituency into a Liberal one. Not since the days of the Drury regime has West Hamilton voted other than Conservative, and the majority piled up by Mr. Smye in the last election was one of the largest in proportion in the Province.

Out of a confused medley of 3,500 names for ready-mixed paints the British Engineering Standards Association has just produced a list of 57 standard colors with simple and almost self-explanatory names.

EXPLAINS MINE CASE.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 31 (C.P.) — Absolute denial that he had interfered in certain cases as charged by Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate in West Hamilton, was made to-day by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General. Mr. Philpott referred to the case of Mrs. L. M. Oliver, of Kenmore, N.Y., and charged that after being sentenced to jail at Fruitland, Ont., following an auto accident, she had been released on authority of the Attorney-General, and also that the Attorney-General had instructed his subordinates to take no action after complaints had been made concerning the Harris Consolidated Mines, Limited.

Magistrate Handled Case.

"In the case of Mrs. L. M. Oliver," said Col. Price to-day, "the statement made by Mr. Philpott is a tissue of falsehoods as far as the Attorney-General's Department is concerned. The Department knew nothing of the case until it received a complaint from W. H. Greenwood of Fruitland, whose car was in the accident, five days after the case was disposed of. The Department had nothing to do with the disposition of the case. It was handled by the local magistrate. The Department gave no instructions at all, and never gives instructions how a case should be disposed of. The investigations made by the Department into the matter after they got the complaint showed that the magistrate fined her $100 for being intoxicated, suspended sentence for driving the car while intoxicated on account of the fact that the woman was in poor physical health, and was in a very nervous condition as her mother was in the hospital dying from cancer. No doubt this is what actuated the magistrate in releasing the woman."

"I am very glad Mr. Philpott mentioned this case," observed Col. Price, "because it demonstrates fully that neither this Department nor the Attorney-General had anything to do with the disposition of it. It is totally unfair to expect the Attorney-General to keep in touch with all the cases disposed of in every part of the country and unfair to the administration of justice. When anything seems to go wrong, all we can do is to have an investigation into it, but at the time often we have now power to rectify as the case has been disposed of."

Knew None of Firm.

"The statement that I did not take action in connection with the Harris Mines because some were friends of mine is ridiculous," he continued. "I did not know any of these men. The matter was entirely handled by A. W. Rogers of my Department."

Mr. Rogers, head of the Security Frauds Prevention Branch, reports that complaints were received against the president L. G. Harris of Hamilton, and an investigation under oath was directed by the Attorney-General. Harris and others were examined to the extent of 100 pages of evidence. Harris was forced to adjust certain claims of his against the company, and when further investigation showed that although he ad taken one-half of the capital stock in return for certain properties transferred to the company, he had made an unfair division of this stock amongst the syndicate members who had financed these properties, he was forced to make a redistribution.

Mr. Rogers attended several meetings of the shareholders in Hamilton, eventually the control of the company being placed in the hands of the shareholders who changed to the name of the Ambassador Mines, Limited.

Mr. Rogers says he knew none of the directors, who are L. G. Harris, Hamilton, R. T. Jeffery, Hydro Engineer, Toronto, Dr. G. McVeigh, of Toronto, Robert Johnston and Harry Walker, Hamilton, Nathan Harrison and Reginald H. Johnston, Boston business men, Sir John Pretyman Newman, and Sir Alfred Welby, of London, England.

Money in Frogs So Farmers Find

Farmers living at Vita, Man., have discovered a new "mortgage lifter," easily the equal of the homely pig, in frogs. What was formerly a local pest has been turned into a valuable commercial asset. Frog production has been placed on a purely commercial basis by this group of enterprising farmers, whose output is now rated in tons and finds a market at good prices in the hotel and restaurant trade in Eastern Canada and the United States, where frogs' legs are esteemed a table delicacy.

CANADA'S WHEAT PROBLEM

(By E. F. Brayham. Copyright, 1931.)

The greatest bugbear in Canada's wheat problem has been the increasing amount of this grain carried over during the past four years while previous to this the carry-over had varied normally and in sympathy with the aggregate production.

It is generally conceded that when the annual carryover of any commodity exceeds 10 per cent. of the total production, it then attains a vulnerable stage, from whence price deflation may be anticipated.

When the production of Canadian wheat had reached its record of 440 million bushels for 1927-1928, the carryover that season equalled 18 per cent. In the subsequent season an all-time bumper crop of 533 million bushels was raised, of which 20 per cent. had to be carried as a surplus. A national problem began to assert itself in 1926 and it was brought to a critical stage last season when the carryover amounted to almost 40 per cent. of an exceedingly short crop of 300 million bushels which was finally harvested from the considerably damaged areas.

The carryover during the war years averaged 13½ million bushels annually against 30 million bushels for the subsequent decade. The average carryover for the past 5 years had been 75 million bushels against an average production during this period of 419 million bushels annually. This clearly indicates that adequate indices were available during the past 4 years which called for a change in the policy of the bodies concerned with the growth of this commodity, but being connived at or perhaps not fully appreciated at the time, it led to the supreme difficulties now patent.

The world consumption of wheat during the past 10 years has failed to expand in a proportionate manner to the increase in the world's production. The carryover of world's wheat, outside of Russia and China, was estimated last year at over 505 million bushels against the production of approximately three and one-half billion bushels. The world's consumption of wheat (again excluding Russia and China) is at present estimated at two and one-quarter billion bushels. The current season's output of wheat has been revised to exceed last year's production by two hundred and fifty million bushels or a total of three and three-quarter billion bushels. It will be observed that the aggregate exportable surpluses of the world will be approximately 40 per cent. of production, therefore it is obvious, wheat would remain to be vulnerable until the consuming powers of the countries who had lagged behind, step up.

RAISING OF FOALS BORN IN AUTUMN HAS ADVANTAGES

Mares Left Free to Do Farm Work During Crop-Growing Season.

COLD MISSES HEAT, FLIES

(Experimental Farms Note)

The price of horses is low compared with that of other classes of live stock, and the cost of production must be cut down if a profit is to be made. A good way of lowering expense is to have mares drop their foals in the autumn so that they may be free to do farm work during the crop raising season.

A project was thus started in 1916 at the Cap Rouge, P.Q., Experimental Station to see how the thing would work out, and since that time twelve fall foals were dropped by eight different mares. Out of these twelve youngsters, one died, one developed bad hocks, and the other ten did very well, three of them having grown into heavier animals than their full brothers or sisters born in the spring. The fall foal has the advantage, during its early life, of not suffering from heat or flies, and is often stronger at birth because the dam was worked during the summer.

The main objection has been that mares are difficult to breed outside the natural season, but this experiment proved conclusively that this is far from a generous rule. For instance, the mares Chicane, Gem and Sebastienne were all served twice in the spring, were not in foal, but conceived to the first service of the same stallion the following autumn. Brunette, Gipsy and Helene were not in foal to one service in the spring, and were not bred again until fall when they were in the spring, and were not bred again until fall when they were got in foal at the first service. One other mare, Dorothee, foaled two consecutive autumns with only one service each time.

Pare Hoofs Often

Two matters requiring attention are that the hoofs of foals should be pared often as they will grow fast on the usually damp litter, also that the mares should not be overfed with very nutritious rations, as the foals may get top heavy and go wrong in the legs. Then, too, the weaned foal should get a little extra attention and feed during the first summer. A livelihood gained on sparse pasture, lighting flies and heat, may have a disastrous effect at this tender age unless supplemented with a little extra feed.

Where the services of a stallion are available, the following of such a system means that the mare may be worked in the regular way all summer and fall. During the winter when she would be idle otherwise, she devotes her energies to raising a foal. The next spring she is ready for farm work once more and her foal is six months on his way to usefulness, and at small cost or inconvenience.

With present grain and feed prices, and considering that much of the mare's winter ration is made up of farm grown feeds, this system provides for the rearing of horses on the farm at the very minimum cost.

Some Egg Facts To Be Remembered

Two tons of grain will produce 480 dozen of eggs. Sold as grain at a price of $1 per cwt. it would be worth $40. Sold as eggs at 25 cents per dozen it would be worth $120.

An egg is 66 per cent water, 13 13 per cent protein, 10 per cent fat and 11 per cent lime or ash.

In an egg 60 per cent is white, 30 per cent yolk and 10 per cent shell.

The best eggs of the year are those laid in the months of April, May and June.

An egg eaten between September and March is worth more to the average person in a northern climate than one eaten between April and August.

The egg is aptly termed "bottled sunshine." It is rich in proteins, vitamines and minerals.

Of the five vitamines the egg supplies Vitamine A., B., D. and E. It is particularly rich in "D" the sunshine vitamine.

MARMORA FARMERS NEED WATER BADLY

Many Haul Supplies Some Distance—Long Dry Fall Blamed.

MARMORA, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — Some farmers in this district are finding difficulty in securing adequate supply of water for the needs of their stock.

Owing to the exceptionally dry fall, many creeks and streams usually relied upon by stock-owners for their watering needs are dry and wells usually trustworthy are useless.

Lack of water is a serious problem to stock-owners and some are compelled to haul water long distances.

CHOOSE WITH CARE FOR BREEDING PEN

In Selection Bear Always in Mind That Vigorous Birds Are of Primary Importance.

(Experimental Farms Note)

The time is at hand to give thought to the mating of the breeding pens.

It should be borne in mind that vigour is of primary importance, select for breeding purposes only birds that have this quality developed to a marked degree as it is only birds of this kind that can be expected to pass on to their progeny sufficient stamina to stand up under the condition of heavy egg production so essential to satisfactory profits under present economic conditions.

First of all the females for the pen should be of good size and type for the breed and should have indicated by their past performances that they have stamina and vigour to stand up under heavy egg production. This presupposes that the females will have trapnest records. To these females selected not only for size, body type and high laying ability, but also for their ability to lay eggs of standard size should be mated a male that is the son of a highlaying hen whose eggs averaged 24 ounces to the dozen and whose sisters have also shown by their records that these qualities have been inherited by them. This male should be strong and vigorous as evidenced by a good full body placed on well set legs, a head not coarse though fairly strong with a clean cut smooth face and prominent eyes, showing a bold energetic expression.

USE GOOD SEED CUT DOWN COST

DEMAND TESTED VARIETIES

In almost every case speakers at the regular agricultural meetings held so far this winter emphasized the regular agricultural meetings production in order to bolster farm revenue during this period of depression. In this connection the importance of good seed was stressed again and again as this was one of the things over which farmers had absolute control and even in a poor year would increase returns anywhere from ten to fifty per cent.

It might be difficult for many farmers at the present time, Dr. E. S. Archibald, head of the Dominion Experimental Farms, told the writer the other day, to see their way clear to make extensive purchases of labor-saving and wider machinery, but he emphatically stated that this was no time to practise false economy in using dirty and untested seed which might be cheap in price but would certainly be very expensive in results. Dr. Archibald stated that in his opinion the only solution in the farmers' control regarding the present situation was to increase his yield of crop per acre, and in this respect good seed and fertilizer, together with more horse power on cultivating and other machinery, should play a prominent part. At the recent meeting of the Experimental Union good seed was also emphasized by Professor W. J. Squirrel, who quoted results from extensive experiments which invariably showed an amazing increase in yield per acre from clean, plump, tested seed of a good variety over the other kind. It does not pay to swap around with the neighbours for improperly cleaned seed or to buy mail order "bargains," says M. T. Munn, of the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva. To plant seed directly from the thresher or clover huller, he rates as one of the greatest offences against good farming, and further states that the farmer who plants unclean seed is laying out a job of hoeing for his grandchildren, not to mention the extra labor he imposes on himself.

In making purchases the buyer is strongly advised to demand tested seed which, as a matter of fact, is the only kind allowed to be sold legally in this country. Farming at its best is a good deal of a gamble with the weather absolutely beyond the control of man, but much of this gamble can be eliminated where the field is thoroughly cleaned of weeds and put into a fine state for sowing by cultivation and good seed used. Furthermore, by good seed the grain is also included when clover or alfalfa is being used as it is a serious mistake to sow clean clover or grass with a dirty nurse crop.

RT. HON. G. H. FERGUSON ARRIVES IN ENGLAND

HIGH COMMISSIONER AND HIS WIFE GREETED BY BIG CROWD AT STATION LAUDS WORK OF LORD WILLINGDON

Lord Mayor of Liverpool Presented Civic Greeting to Former Premier.

LIKES GREAT BRITAIN.

Says He Has Not Faintest Idea Who Next Governor-General Will Be.

LONDON, January 31 (C. P. Cable). — Mr. and Mrs. G Howard Ferguson were greeted by a large crowd of Anglo-Canadians when they arrived from Liverpool at Euston Station today. The Dominions Office and other departments of the British Government were represented among the large number of people present when the new Canadian High Commissioner and his wife stepped off the boat train.

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 31 (C.P.)—"I like Great Britain so well already that I have come to learn more about it," declared Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's new High Commissioner to Great Britain, when the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, in a cloud of blinding sleet, drew alongside the Liverpool landing stage to-day. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool presented civic greetings to the former Ontario Premier and Mrs. Ferguson received a bouquet of Scotch heather and other flowers.

Never Feel Like Strangers

"Canadians," Mr. Ferguson told a crowd of newspapermen, "never feel they are strangers here, but believe they are just transplanted from one piece of British soil to another, and that, we believe, is the feeling among people of the British Isles who come to us."

On the subject of his new office, in which he succeeds the late P. C. Larkin, Mr. Ferguson expressed his inability to say very much, for he had a good deal to learn. "But as far as I am able, I hope to continue to interpret, as my predecessors have done, the general opinion of Canada towards matters of common moment lying before us, and in this way we can establish closer relationship, both sentimentally and commercially," he added. "I have every reason to believe these aspirations are reciprocated on this side."

When the proper time comes, Mr. Ferguson said, there will no doubt be much to do in the question of immigration, but this will not be yet.

"Our economic activities can well be developed here," Mr. Ferguson continued. "Most of our provinces are already separately represented in London and I am sure I shall be able to readily co-operate with them."

Lauds Willingdons

Mr. Ferguson paid a hearty tribute to Lord and Lady Willingdon, who left Canada unexpectedly to the very keen regret of all classes in the Dominion, wheere they had been of great service during their Vice-regal term in promoting the Empire spirit in Canada. It was typical of Lord Willingdon, he said, that the call to duty found him ready to shoulder new heavy responsibilities as Viceroy of India.

Asked who would succeed Lord Willingdon as Governor-General of Canada, Mr. Ferguson said he had not the faintest idea.

The new High Commissioner was questioned with regard to deportations of Britons from Canada ,an allusion to the recent deportation of several Ontario women to England who had resided in Canada for many years and had subsequently become public charges through confinement to public institutions, suffering from epilepsy. "We have not the slightest desire to be harsh towards anyone," Ferguson said, "and we are certain Great Britain never wishes us to harbor undesirable people."

Mr. Ferguson was met on arrival in Liverpool by W. C. Noxon, Ontario Agent-General in London, and Sir George McLaren Brown, European General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Trio Are Remanded On Brass Theft Count

BRANTFORD, Ont., January 31 (C.P.). — Walter F. Hinton, Echo Place, Fred Lasalle, Park Avenue, employees of the Happy Thought Foundry Company here, with Isador Simons, junk dealer, faced Magistrate Jones this morning, the former two charged with stealing 1,696 pounds of brass and copper from the Happy Thought Company and the junk dealer with receiving and retaining the metal. The metal was valued at $500.

According to the story told by the detectives the metal was traced to Toronto and there located by the police and identified by W. M. Nobbs, local manager of the firm.

The trio were remanded until a later date in Police Court this morning.

Veteran Curler Dies In Owen Sound Rink

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 31 (C.P.)—While watching a close and exciting curling game in a local bonspiel last night, John C. Telford was stricken and before medical aid could be summoned died. He was sitting in his chair looking through the glass into the rink when the end came. He had skipped two hard games, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, winning both.

He was president of the Grey Ring Company and curling was his favorite pastime. He was known all over Ontario, both in curling and lawn bowling circles, as a sportsman of the highest type.

BRUCE RETURNS WITH OPTIMISM

Former Australian Prime Minister Will Re-enter Political Life Soon.

AUSTRALIA WELL OFF

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 31—(By The Canadian Press)—Rt. Hon. Stanley Melbourne Bruce, former Nationalist Prime Minister, is planning to be a candidate in the next general elections, possibly for his old constituency of Flinders. Following the defeat of his government and the accession of the Laborites to power in 1929, Mr. Bruce went abroad with Mrs. Bruce for a long holiday.

Mr. Bruce holds the firm conviction that, however sore the straits in which the Commonwealth finds itself to-day, Australia is in an incomparably better position than practically any other country, and has a much better chance, if a sane policy is pursued, of returning to prosperity than any of the countries he has visited—and these comprise England, Scotland, Germany, France, Italy, Belgium and Czechoslovakia.

"On the Continent," he said, "the position is tragic. Except France and, in lesser degree, Belgium, every country is either in serious economic trouble or heading towards it, and I doubt whether even the countries not in difficulties can maintain their present comparative prosperity. The United States is only at the beginning of her troubles. She has at least 6,000,000 unemployed. Australia is at its parting of the ways. Either by courage, work, and sacrifice we must overcome our difficulties, or by putting our trust in Parliaments and politicians; by inflation and artificial emergency measures we shall try to stem the tide and so bring on disaster."

Of the perils of inflation, Mr. Bruce spoke with assurance. "After having seen the results of inflation of the note issue in many countries of Europe," he added, "I sincerely trust that those who advocate inflation will find no support in Australia, because nothing could be more disastrous to the nation as a whole and to the workers in particular."

"As for the financial position in Australia," Mr. Bruce continued, "the outstanding necessity is the restoration of the confidence in the Commonwealth." In this connection he declared the outstanding success of the conversion loan of December, when Australians subscribed $140,000,000 to meet maturing obligations, would be a very great factor in restoring Australia's standing in the eyes of the world.

Wild statements by irresponsible small extremist sections, whose advocacy of repudiation, the penalising of interest, and the cancellation of contracts had struck terror into the hearts of small investors overseas, had undetermined public confidence, and made infinitely worse than circumstances warranted Australia's financial position, said Mr. Bruce. Such statements, however, were appreciated at their true worth by the important financial interests on London.

IL DUCE RAPPED BY U.S. SENATOR

Alabama Representative Asks Truth of Story Be Ascertained Before Action Taken.

FIREWORKS LOOM.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Though Premier Mussolini of Italy formally notified the United States that he considered closed and had forgotten the reference made to him in a speech by Major-General Smedlye D. Butler of the Marine Corps developments here indicated that the affair, so far as Washington is concerned, was far from reaching its climax. While Secretary Adams of the Navy Department was naming the personel of the court-martial that is to try General Butler, Senator Heflin of Alabama, was demanding in the Senate that, before steps were taken to discipline the marine officer, the truth be ascertained concerning whether the Italian dictator had been a death-dealing hit-and-run driver, as alleged in the story attributed to Butler.

Senator Heflin's speech in the Senate promises to be only the first of several exhibitions of fireworks in Congress over this international affair. His colleagues listened in silence to the Alabama Senator's outburst. He declared that "much ado had been made over this incident, and this great American General is under arrest and is going to be court-martialled," and exclaimed, "General Butler must bow down and crawl in the dust and apologize to the most red-handed tyrant on the face of the earth."

tracts we will co-operate in goodwill and harmony this year."

Mr. Richard spoke briefly in reply to his introduction, and Mr. Baker admitted that he was the man who had defeated "our invincible Hy Curtis."

"I have felt somewhat elated over that" said Mr. Baker. "You no doubt read in The Examiner that I was fifty-five years married a short time ago, and I came back into the municipal field after an absence of thirty-five years I think there is a lot of loose work done in county councils and money could be saved for the ratepayers. More than eloquence is needed in a county council" was Mr. Baker's last allusion to his recnt contestant the former Deputy-reeve of Percy.

Reeve McIntyre: Warden Hooton will have to keep on his toes if he has many men under him with the pluck and spirit of Mr. Baker.

Warden Tanner acknowledged the congratulations of the deputation, and reciprocated their sentiment that the relations between the two councils would always remain on a friendly basis.

SKELETON ENDS FIVE-YEAR HUNT

BANK BOOK IS CLUE.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 31. (CP)—After fore than five years of suspense, Mrs. John Schales, now in her eightieth year received the intelligence yesterday that the mystery surrounding the disappearance of her daughter, Miss Evangeline Abagail Schales, had been cleared up in the finding of a skeleton of a woman near Queenston a day or two ago. The finding near the remains, of a bank book of the old Union Bank in Wiarton, the ownership of which was traced to Miss Schales, makes the identity almost certain.

In June, 1925, Miss Schales, who had been employed as a domestic worker in Toronto, paid a three week's visit to her home in Wiarton. She returned to the city, and for a time communicated by letter with her family, and it was not until early in September that they learned of her mysterious disappearance. Every effort to trace her failed.

the citizens were well satisfied with the service, with the possible exception of a few who have to pay water rates on vacant lots. This situation will receive the immediate attention of the Commission, and it is hoped that a satisfactory remedy will be arrived at soon. The question of the reduction of water rates will nevertheless be discussed at the end of the year.

$13,139.00 Is Set Aside

The Gas Department also showed a very encouraging report. Last year the sum of $13,139.00 was set aside for the reserve fund, making a total of $27,000.00 for the past two years. At this rate it is hoped to bring the fund up to $100,000.00 during the next six years. Therefore, if any disaster occurs, there will be ready money for it. because about two thirds of this amount will be kept in an ordinary bank account.

The total earnings for 1929 were $94,814.20, and those for 1930 were $94,540.37. The decrease of $273.83 in amounts paid into the Gas Department last year over the preceeding year is not surprising considering that in 1930 there was a further reduction of 10 percent in rates over the similar reduction of the year before.

The surplus of the Electric Department is at present set at $9,000.00 but when the "13th Bill" or surplus charge of the Hydro-Electric, amounting to $14,000.00 is announced the total will be brought up to $23,000.00.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission is making a move to charge the local body a higher rate for the power used. It is therefore the intention of the commission to ward off these higher rates until May or June. If the Hydro does not retract. then the fight will be taken up by the City Council.

The basis for the raising of rates is most likely based on the reduction of the city's expenditure for electricity of some $800.00 during the past year, and the possible reduction of $1000.00 in the coming year, it was said.

Alderman J. Hamilton congratulated the Utilities Commission on their excellent work during the year 1930, and was optimistic in the outlook for 1931.

Among those present at the meeting were G. S. Matthews, chairman, John Crane, E. R. Shirley, S. R. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer, R. L. Dobbin manager. Mayor R. Denne and Aldermen Cotton, Hamilton and Phelan of the City Council.

A great deal of interest was centered in the fine report of Mrs. G. C. Staples, secretary of the Ladies' Aid society. This department is doing a wonderful work, both socially and financially for the church. The sick and visiting committee made 781 calls during the year with Mrs. J. Stubbs and Mrs. P. Hagerman as convenors. They raised this year over $1,200 which they intended using to assist in re-decorating the church in the near future, after the installation of the new organ. Miss Ethel McKay gave the report of the choir stating that every seat was filled.

George Robertson, in his report of the Trustee Board, intimated that they intended installing a new organ during the summer months, which would cost over $20,000 and also reported that the Co-Workers' Bible Class had donated a new pulpit costing over $500, in honor of Mrs. James Kendry, a former teacher and organizer of the class.

George Carruthers reported for the Sunday School Building Fund, that

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass
No envy sour the mind.
But each shall seek the common weal.
The good of all mankind.

AT MILLBROOK

"Useful Hints" was the topic taken up at a recent Institute meeting in one of our northern towns, with much practical information gained as the result. "How to clean leather upholstery" was suggested by one member for discussion, as she possessed, in her home, a big leather-covered rocker, grown shabby with constant use.

One of the officers of the branch gave as her experience the fact that washing leather upholstery with a mild soap suds, wringing a woollen cloth as dry as possible from the solution, and then wiping the article of furniture over carefully, brought excellent results. "Rub in a little olive oil, after you have wiped off the suds with a cloth wrung out of clear water", the vice-president stated, "but be sure to thoroughly rub over the leather afterward to take off any surplus oil, lest there be damage to clothing when the chair is again used."

Another member mentioned using shoe polish on leather-covered furniture, after the bath with suds, and rinsing with clear water. However, this method also, while it had been found highly satisfactory, required the careful 'after rub' with a clean cloth so no marks of the polish might be found on the clothing of those using the chair following its 'bath.'

Several spoke of using the shoe polish on club-bags, over-night bags, suitcases, and handbags, to renovate their appearance, declaring this a fine method of making them look like new. Always, however, there was the warning to see that the article was thoroughly dry before it was used again or disaster to some part of the apparel was sure to result.

Another 'hint', when the topic of keeping clothing hanging in the closet off the bedroom free from dust was introduced, was to the effect that old shirts were good for this purpose, one member mentioning that she had used this plan for years in preserving her evening dress ("I only have the one, as you all know") from dust-injury. Another said she used her discarded short-sleeved 'nighties' for the same good end, and still another advanced the hint that sleeveless summer dresses, that had outlived their usefulness, when slit up the back and provided with tapes for tying at intervals, made splendid covers.

Covers for ironing-boards brought out a number of good hints, the suggestion of using the leg from discarded pyjamas "as a fresh cover at a moment's notice," while it brought a general laugh, was never it was jotted down in several note-books.

Methods of sweetening the coffee percolator was the last topic on which hints were received at the meeting, filling the pot two-thirds from the top with cold water, and dropping in a good tablespoon of baking soda, letting this boil thoroughly, then rinsing out with cold water, being apparently the popular means used to this particular end.

One or two, however, stated they filled the coffee pot half full of hot water, adding soap and borax, and letting the whole boil rapidly for a short interval; then rinsing out with hot water to complete the cleansing.

The meeting was voted one of the most 'satisfying and helpful we have ever held,' at the conclusion of the practical program.

CAVAN

In Tuesday's Examiner, January 27, many farm products are quoted as being very much lower in price than a year ago. In fact everything that farmers have to sell is down so low as to eliminate all profit, and on many things the selling price is below the cost of production. No doubt, as stated, this is causing joy to thrifty buyers"., in the city, but what of the farmers and their wives who are selling their produce at such low prices?

They are anxiously watching price quotations to see if the prices of manufactured goods will also come down.

We notice sugar quoted rather higher, and see very little lowering of prices in the lines which they must purchase with the proceeds of their lower priced production.

Flour seems to be the only commodity that has made any very noticeable drop in price, and it and bread need to go much lower before they will balance with the price which farmers are receiving for their wheat.

Letters come to Cavan from friends in the West, who state that for No. 1 wheat in some localities, farmers are receiving thirty-five cents a bushel. Why should either flour or bread not be very low in price? It would be a great benefit to the many who have no regular employment, if this the staff of life" were lower in price.

On the Peterborough Saturday market, are dozens and dozens of women from surrounding rural districts with their baskets of farm produce, likewise the men on the outer market.

Any person observing these farmers and their wives leaving the city for their homes, will notice that their baskets are as well and often better filled than when they came in, besides numerous larger bales and parcels packed in their cars or sleighs.

If prices remain so very unbalanced, they will be compelled to buy less—will have to do without everything that is not absolutely necessary. If their buying power is curtailed it works against, instead of helping unemployment.

When farmers can buy, factories are kept busy, thus giving employment to more persons in towns and cities.

We are hoping that there will be a re-adjustment of prices so that they will be more evenly balanced. If everything comes down, it will be all right, if not we wonder, how unemployment can be helped.

Farming is the basic industry of Canada and it should be carried on with the dignity befitting an occupation which works hand in hand with the Creator of all Things."

How can this be done, if our current expenses rise higher and higher, while the price of everything produced on the farm declines. In order to keep ourself-respect and the respect of others, we must be able to pay our way, to carry out the words of the Good Book," which says owe no man anything but to love one another.

We Institute women, belonging to rural homes and numbering 43,000 should be able to do something to help solve this great economic problem of 1931.

Part of our winter program could very profitably be filled with debates and discussions on this topic.

Such a large number of intelligent women, if united, should be able to exert a powerful influence for Home and Country."

CAVAN.

The Institute Ode is used in almost every W. I. meeting. If it were left out would there be a lack? I believe we would miss very much the friendly spirit which is awakened through the singing of these words, which seem at once to put hearts and minds in tune for just what our meetings should mean to us.

A goodly thing it is to meet. 'We have all had our experience of the benefits of such meetings if it is only to hear the voices of friends in cheery salutation. How quickly our words may be changed and brightened and after gatherings such as these where there are expressions of goodwill and kindness, are we not encouraged? Thus we meet in Friendship Circle bright. A circle mean so much, a number of persons united in a common bond. In our circle, the kind word, the pleasant smile, the gay greeting grow into action. They are searchlights on the road of life that light the way for many a weary soul, and these are the lights which never go out.

The motto of the Institute is "For Home and Country" and there is no organization doing so much to help the mothers and home makers, recognizing as it does, that there is no better or greater service than the work of the mother in the home.

There is beauty and dignity in the daily service of the women who give their lives to making good homes.

But our daily service does not end with the tasks within our own homes. It reaches out to assist in homes where help is needed. In our pioneer districts there are many women, bravely st ugling in the face of fearful difficulties,to make a home, and give their families a chance to become good citizens.

The answer to this call and the desire to help is shown by the many bales of clothing, being prepared and shipped from almost every Institute district in Old Ontario to the Institutes in Norther Ontario, for distribution among the needy.

We are helping others, but we ourselves derive a very great benefit from this work. Our outlook is broadened, our aympathy enlisted, and we are better women, because we are striving to follow the example of "One who went about doing good."

WARSAW.

France has no organization like the Canadian Institutes. She has several organizations for women, but they are not linked together.

There are organizations, rural and urban in connection with relig us bodies, and many of these often make time at their meetings to discuss such questions as dairy-work, gardening and housekeeping.

There are agricultural leagues open to women as well as men—once a woman was president—but the men are many in the majority.

Even these masculine syndicates, and there are many of them, are connected with religious bodies.

There are also several feminine rura associations, attached to the centra association of women, which is now growing in favor, takes a special interest in the work of rural women, and publishes a paper 'The Woman in the Country."

The Central Association aims chiefly at making unfluential country-women take an interest in improving life in al its phases, and in securing domestic economy schools.

An interesting work done is a movement for classes for young country girls, held for four or five days, in which are given lessons on domestics economy, home-making, along with vocal and instrumental music.

A French woman, Madame Girvd de ('Ain') was the one, who learning of the Women's Societies in Belgium, Canada, Poland and Great Britain, set about getting some kind of conferences for the country-women of France, in 1920. Through her untiring efforts, the opportunities for country women are becoming greater.

These feminine societies are almost entirely supported by private means, not at all by the state.

Those who are interested in pushing the work feel that a good beginning has been made. There are obstacles to overcome. The French peasant women do not understand the idea of association, the farms are far apart, and the work of the farm woman is hard. We in Canada find it difficult to understand what the peasantry of European countries is.

Work, such as our Women's Institutes cannot come from those who are most interested directly, it must come from those higher up, who have nobility of purpose and see the condition of sister women in other conditions, and organize to help them, and finally put them on their own feet, as is evidently the desire of many French ladies of social standing

Hart House Quartet Fine Musical Group

Canada's most distinguished musical group, the Hart House String Quartet, will return to this city on Wednesday, February 4th, when they will appear under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club at the Collegiate Auditorium.

The magnificent form which the organization has revealed on previous appearances here will be even more apparent in the varied, but carefully chosen program, which allows full scope for the loveliness of tone, brilliance and elegance of expression and intimacy of ensemble effect, for which the Hart House group is noted throughout musical circles the world over.

The Quartet has recently concluded a series of concerts at Steinway Hall in New York, and the press comments were ever more fulsome in their praises than ever before.

We of Canada are particularly fortunate in that no matter how far afield the Hart House String Quartet may travel, they still reserve a generous portion of their time for their annual Canadian tour, which always includes the principal cities between Halifax and Victoria.

Quick Relief for Women

Women need not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do." Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain.

HUNGER.

Last night a tramp knocked at my door
I swung the portal open wide
And bade the vagrant step inside.

He was a weary man, and thin.
I looked into his eyes. Within
Their depths rank hunger shone, ablaze.
Such want as filled me with amaze.
Soon, then, with milk and meat and bread
The stranger from the dark was fed.

Into his eyes I looked once more.
Stark longing brimmed them as before.
How could I make such misery end?
God gave me words, I spoke: "My friend!"
At that blessed light came back—
The light of hope that filled all lack.
I..to the night one long denied
W...: out with spirit satisfied!

PAIN FROM SMALL OF BACK TO KNEE WAS DREADFUL

Mrs. Wm. Bishop stopped Sciatica's stabbing agony with T-R-C's

Sciatica is one of the most diseases a person can have. Its sharp, stabbing pain in the thigh sometimes shoots all the way from hip to heel. Its cruel torment makes work or sleep or play impossible.

Mrs. Bishop's letter written from Muirkirk, Ont., tells how she stopped Sciatica. "In April, 1930," she says, "I got Sciatica which became worse and worse until finally I had to stay in bed. I was given the most vile tasting medicine, used electric treatments and had serums injected—all to no purpose.

"At last I did what a neighbor had advised all Summer—tried T-R-C's. With the third dose I felt relief. I kept using the capsules and soon was around the house as though I had never been sick. I am delighted to recommend T-R-C's to other sufferers."

Time and time again T-R-C's have given safe, speedy relief from painful Sciatica; also from Acute Rheumatic suffering, Neuritis, Neuralgia and Lumbago (Lame Back). Deep-seated, stubborn cases of Rheumatism require patient and correct use of T-R-C's for a reasonable length of time; but you are sure of relief if you persist with T-R-C's. No harmful or habit-forming drugs.

T-R-C's do this—Enter the blood stream and help your body throw off the miserycausing poisons which have accumulated in your blood. When these go, health and happiness return. T-R-C's are 50c and $1 per box at your dealer's.

The president, in his opening remarks, urged a better attendance at the meetings of the Association, and new groups were formed for the next contest, B. Rummy being captain for the ladies, and Miss Hazel Jackson for the gentlemen.

CITY RENEWS PLOWMEN OFFER

ready been made with farmers along the highway west of the city for several hundred acres for the plowing and display of machinery. Mayor Denne expressed the wish that a site had been chosen on the east or north side of Peterborough. Some of the visitors coming up the highway from Port Hope might content themselves with looking over the plowing match and pass up the opportunity of visiting this city.

The financial inducements mentioned by Mr. Duffus are exactly the same as the city's offer last year, and were set out in a motion by Ald Cotton seconded by Ald. Tuggey.

Male Voice Choir

A deputation from the Peterborough Male Voice Choir asked for a grant to assist in wiping out the balance of the debt incurred by their participation in the choral contest in New York two years ago. J. F Strickland, M.P.P., and Fred Skitch, presented this request.

Mr. Strickland said he was substituting for R. R. Hall, K.C., who had materially assisted the Choir. Their trip to New York had cost $1,400. In 1929 the city council contributed $300 to their fund, and they had raised $600 by subscription, leaving a balance of $500 for which the members were personally liable. Many of the members could not meet this obligation. They had paid a considerable personal expense at the time of the competition, and as Peterborough had received extensive and favorable publicity by the choir's success it was felt that the council might be willing to give further assistance now, so that the efforts of the members to rid themselves of the debt might be accomplished.

This petition will be considered when the estimates for this year are being prepared. Ald. Stocker handed Mr. Skitch five dollars last night "just to help you along."

Soldiers' Memorial

A third deputation composed of Judge Huycke, W. G. Morrow, George A. Macdonald, and G. H. Thompson asked the committee to assume a deficit of $650 in the public subscription toward the cost of Peterborough's memorial in Central Park to its soldiers who gave their lives for the victory of November 11, 1918.

"We represent the committee that had charge of the erection of the war memorial", Judge Huycke recalled, "The memorial belongs to the people and not to us. When this was undertaken ten or twelve years ago we asked the council for a grant of $5,000. This was shortly after the war, and the money was granted heartily. I think Mr. Turner was Mayor at that time. At any rate we were told to come back if we needed any more. The memorial exceeded the estmate cost because the weight of the bronze figures was too great for the concrete base that had been planned. There had to be a larger bronze base constructed and this caused the deficit of $650. We are not especially begging from you tonight. We simply feel that as this is a community affair which was undertaken at a public meeting of the citizens the slight deficit that remains should be taken over by the city."

Mr. Maconald was in charge of the memorial finances. It had cost $30,750, and the people had subscribed $25,000.

"This was the people's memorial, and not merely the manufacturers'" Mr. Macdonald said. "We did not approach any of the firms for subscriptions. However, many of the citizens did not contribute anything, and if we were to collect this $650 now it would be given by the same people who did contribute before. This amount spread over the people as a whole will be a very small individual item."

"It feels like old times to be back here", Mr. Morrow remarked in recollection of the evenings he spent in the committee room as an alderman and finally as Mayor.

borne by the Provincial Government

The Warden mildly opposed the appointment, on the grounds that the money might be better applied elsewhere. Speaking as to the conditions which obtain in Lakefield, he said that the town constable is well able to look after offenders against the traffic act, and that on special occasions the town has had the full co-operation of the Provincial Police

Inspector's Report

The committee on schools, under the chairmanship of Reeve Austin Jackson, heard a verbal report from R. F. Downey, public schools inspector and also a few words from Inspector L. Copp. Mr. Downey, explained that this was the first year since he had been school inspector that he had been deprived of the opportunity of reading a long epistle on educational affairs in the County. As they all knew on July 1st last the Government took over for good and all and consequently the inspectors were not now asked to tender a formal report to the Council.

Educational affairs in West Peterborough are very much the same as in former years. In the township of Harvey they have again made a little progress. Out on the Oregon Trail in S.S. 7 Burleigh, they had built a new school. Possibly it cost too much money but they certainly have something to show for it. It is a very well equipped school. At Hall's Bridge also another room has been added to the school and it is proposed to develop a good fifth class. He would not mind, he said, if other townships would take a lesson from these school sections.

There is a big problem in S.S. 3 Smith which serves a large school population. A good many pupils live near the city and that section is paying a considerable amount of money to the city for the education of these children. The section is highly assessed, and under the new scheme of grant, although he was not definitely able to state it, he thought that the cost of education would continue to be excessive.

Mr. Downey would be glad, he said, if the County Council would give help to school trustees in making out their reports, and in conclusion stated, that although separated from the County Council now, he hoped the same good fellowship would still continue to exist.

Agricultural School.

T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., addressing the Council at the afternoon session, tendered his congratulations to the new Warden and to those members of the Council who had been re-elected for another term

Discussing some of the questions affecting the county which had been dealt with in the Legislature during the past year, he stated that in a recent statement made by the Minister of Agriculture it was recommended that agricultural schools be established in every county in the Province. In view of that statement the speaker was of the opinion that the Council should move a resolution that the Department establish such a school in the County of Peterborough.

He ventured to say the school might probably be situated near the City of Peterborough, and that it would be greatly in the interests of agriculture.

The Minister has also gone a step further in the offer to contribute the sum of $500 for the establishing of seed cleaning plants in certain districts. The $500 grant would be made by the Government where the need could be shown for a seed cleaning plant, and would apply to all districts in the Province

Referring to the colonization roads in the Townships of Galway, Cavendish, Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther, and Chandos, Mr. Lancaster said that the total contribution by the Provincial Government in the year 1930 for those roads was $20,825.51. To the county as a whole the Government has contributed considerably more than 50 per cent. of the total expenditure of $98,774. The townships' share amounted to $42,811, while the Government share was $55,963.

During the course of the afternoon session a deputation was heard from Asphodel and Dummer Townships, requesting that the township road from Westwood north to the Dummer boundary be assumed as a county road. Such a course received the approval and recommendation of Mr. Fellows, and was referred to the Roads Committee for their decision.

FORMER RESIDENT KILLED IN DETROIT

Mrs. Maude Brown Dies in Accident—Driver is Under Arrest.

Mrs. Maude Brown, a former resident of this city, was recently killed, while her daughter, Betty Weaver, was seriously injured as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by a hit-and-run driver in Detroit.

The late Mrs. Brown lived here practically all her life, having come here from England as a child. She went to reside in Detroit some five years ago, when her late husband, John Weaver, died. Her maiden name was Maude Mapple.

The driver of the car was arrested after a city fireman, a witness of the accident, pursued him in another car. He was held on a negligent homicide charge. Mrs. Brown was dead on admittance to the Receiving Hospital. Her daughter was treated for cuts and bruises.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Do you, as a housewife, give much thought to the placing of your furniture?

• • • • • • •

Furniture is sometime positioned against the light when such an arrangement enhances the decoration, brings out the beauty or lends convenience, especially of lighting.

• • • • • • •

An outstanding example of the last purpose is found in the positioning of dressing tables with rather low mirrows before windows.

• • • • • • •

The back of the mirror comes close against the window with the bench before the dresser. When one sits on the bench the light falls directly on the face and figure making the reflection vivid.

• • • • • • •

From the angle of good lighting this is perfect. There are many rooms in which such positioning of the dressing table lends decoration.

• • • • • • •

One should hesitate to close off even a portion of a sunny window with the article of furniture. It would not be good decoration since sunshine is the cheerest light that can pervade a room and besides it is the healthiest.

• • • • • • •

No such reason exists when the window is north, or at such an exposure that little, if any, sun streams through it.

• • • • • • •

The style of the dresser must be suited to such an arrangement. The mirror, single or triplicate, must not be high. It can be long provided it extends partly below the top of the dresser.

• • • • • • •

A bureau with several drawers topped with a large mirror would be out of place against a window. It would almost conceal it and the light would be shut out instead of falling over the mirror as is needed.

• • • • • • •

A piano positioned across a window is attractive—that is a grand piano. This is especally true when two or more windows are grouped as one. Then the full length of the window is silhouetted.

• • • • • • •

A French sofa with its curved back is another fine piece of furniture to place before a long window. It does not have to be pushed close to the window if the room is large.

• • • • • • •

Two smaller things that are tabulated as furnishings of a room find favor positioned before windows. One is statuary on a pedestal. The other is a lamp.

500 YEARS SINCE HEROINE'S DEATH

British as Well as French Now Contributing to Memorial to Joan of Arc.

ROUEN, France, Jan. 30 (By The Canadian Press)—It was 500 years on November 21 last that St. Joan of Arc was sold into British hands, and was put to death by fire on May 30, 1431, at Rouen. In connection with her martyrdom celebrations will be held on the quincentenary of the death of "The Maid of Orleans," and British as well as French will take part therein.

A chapel is to be built at Rouen as a memorial to St. Joan, and on May 30 next its foundation-stone will be laid by the Archbishop of Rouen, on the initiative of a French committee. The memorial will be erected on the spot where St. Joan was burned, in the old market-place of Rouen. The chapel will be small and delicate, conceived in the spirit of the 15th century, with flint base and upper parts of timber, so as to harmonize with the historic buildings of the square.

Meanwhile in order that Britain may have a share in this final atonement to St. Joan a national appeal has been launched from London under the presidency of Cardinal Bourne, and with the distinguished support of such representative men and women as Great Britain's Ambassador to France, Lord Crewe, Lady Warwick, Lady Haig of Bemersyde, Lady Rhondda, the Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard, Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, M. P., First Commissioner of Works; Sir Henry Wood, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, Dame Rachel Crowdy, Mrs. Corbett Ashby, Miss Megan Lloyd George, M.P., Mrs. Bramwell Booth, Mrs. George Cadbury, Miss Amy Johnson, Rev. F. W. Norwood, George Bernard Shaw, Miss Sybil Thorndike, Hugh Walpole and others.

It is hoped that a sufficient sum will be collected to provide the church with its main door, on which, in the words of the Archbishop of Rouen, "it will be beautiful to read the witness to the generosity of noble England."

Miss Sheila-Kaye-Smith, London, author of a number of works, is honorary treasurer of the fund being raised in that country in connection with the quincentenary memorial.

Elaine And Her Ideas From Paris

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

NOISE

Perhaps you wonder why I talk about noise so much. Noises must be used if industry is to go on—factories, railways, trolley cars, busses, and trucks, the signals for motor cars, locomotives, the whistles of factories and so forth.

Yet everyone of these could be modified and some of them actually dispensed with, if thought and attention were given to the subject.

And this thought and attention is now being given to this noise evil throughout the world. It is significant that New York, London, and Paris all have commissions working to abate noise in their respective cities.

Prof. Portier, Paris, asserts, from his experience, that noise acts as a constant sensation on the ear, brain, and nervous system, causing a heavy and useless expenditure of energy. Whenever or wherever you hear noise, consciously or unconsciously, your brain and body is alert and this uses up energy just the same as if you were doing mental or physical work.

Noises at night lessen the value of sleep, even though sleep is not interupted; the brain continues to receive impressions at night, even though it doesn't try to distinguish what or where they are as during the day. In all large modern cities the effects of this general and constant "shock" to the nervous system can be seen in the development of nervousness and impulsiveness of the population.

In Paris all loud signals are forbidden after 10 o'clock at night. At street crossings the automobilists replace the blowing of their horns, by a flashing of their lights. The whistles of factories might, however, be suppressed; for, in the morning they awaken nearly every one within hearing distance, whereas, it is only the workmen of that particular factory that are interested.

My thought in bringing this matter of noise forward so often is because I have naturally in mind the health of us all.

Most of us have work that requires our attention, concentration of mind, if we are to do it properly. If our minds and bodies are to be kept alert and thus made to do unnecessary work, it means that not only will our work suffer, but our brains and bodies are going to get wear and tear that should be unnecessary

WORK OF PUPILS WELL APPLAUDED

Piano Recital Put on in St. James' Church Hall By Miss Prest's Pupils.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM.

Softly shaded lights gave to the interoir of Wesley Hall, St. James' United Church a pleasing setting for the Piano Recital, by pupils of Miss Olive Prest, A.T.C.M., on Friday evening.

Gay and appropriate crepe paper costumes representing their selections were worn by the youthful players, adding greatly to the attractiveness of the program.

The major part of the work was presented from memory, showing much painstaking skill on the part of both pupils and teacher.

Ease and facility of technique and fine expression characterized the performance of the players throughout.

The piano numbers were interspersed by readings, both humourous and of a musical nature. A pleasing innovation in the program, was the assisting trio, with Miss Jean Meeks at the piano, Harold Wells with violin and Lloyd Wells with clarinet.

The program was introduced by Miss Prest to the large gathering of interested friends and parents, who gave great applause to each of the following numbers.

THEATRE NEWS

NEW PROCESS IN SOUND PICTURES

"NOISELESS" SCREEN.

The first picture to be presented with the elimination of even the faintest suggestion of surface noises is "The Right to Love," wherein Miss Ruth Chatterton plays two roles—those of a mother and a daughter. This is undoubtedly a great improvement, for it has happened that many a good scene has been spoiled by extraneous sounds. It also gives clarity to the voices, and one is thankful to state that they are even more modulated and consistent in tonal quality than in any other production.

The Western Electric Company asserts that this lates improvement in recording is the most significant advance in the technical end of talking pictures in the last four years. It is set forth by the inventors that through this new process it is now possible to record and reproduce in theatres the faintest sounds without having them "masked" or clouded by "ground noises."

The absence of the undesirable sounds is impressive during the screening of "The Right to Love." Sometimes the silence may be a little unnatural, but that is in all probability due to the fact that one has become accustomed to a certain moderated hissing sound. It is, however, distinctly agreeable to have the voices come from a "noiseless" screen, and if undertones are desired they can, of course, be recorded.

In "The Right to Love," Miss Chatterton reveals her histronic versatility, for, besides playing the different parts of the mother and the daughter, she also figures as the girl who is eventually beheld as the woman of 40. It is a clever piece of work, particularly the meticulousness of the double photographic exposures and the flawless recording of the voices in those scenes where Miss Chatterton, as the mother, talks to herself, as the daughter. But while there is a certain wizardry in these scenes, the idea of having Miss Chatterton fill both roles is quite unnecessary and the producers might have done better in making a more interesting story and foregoing the audible pictorial feats.

OAKIE SCORES AGAIN

Howls of hilarity from Paramount audiences tell the tale so far as Jack Oakie's new seam-splitting comedy, "The Gang Buster" is concerned. It is literally a "howling" success, and the inimitable Jack, happily cast as a sap insurance salesman from the cellar and cyclone belt, has never exceeded his present excellence as a farceur.

The films abounds in ludicrous situations, and the star supplies button-busting bits of business warranted to make a professional mourner mirthful. Director Eddie Sutherland, billed with dignity as A. Edward Sutherland, has kept every sequence bounding along at the merriest of paces, and the dialogue is crisp and snappy.

"LITTLE CAESAR" A SMASH

"Little Caesar," the WB record-breaker of the strand, New York, last week played to almost as many people in its after-midnight shows daily as before that hour. It's an underworlder and the underworld of the town seemed to come out of their hideaways as the nights grew darker.

The Strand did $75,800, busting a record some years old, of the Chaplin silent "Circus." That played the Strand without accompaniment, meaning that it only had to turn over as fast as the house could run "The Circus" off.

About 18½ hours daily for the Strand each day last week. It opened at nine in the morning and locked up the next morning at 3.30.

House staff almost paralyzed one night at around 11.30 when a woman with a babe in her arms paid admission, walking in to watch the show.

DORIS KENYON'S RETURN.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Doris Kenyon is coming home. She went to New York immediately after the death of Milton Sills to resume her musical studies, but First National has invited her to play one of the leading roles in "You and I", and she has accepted.

Going to First National studios will be another home-coming for Doris, for it was at that studio that she made most of ner pictures, and it was at First National that she and Milton worked side by side.

Doris' health is much betetr, and she is in a much better frame of mind, her friends will be glad to know, than she was at the time of her husband's death.

"SMILES" IN RED

Ziegfeld "Smiles," which closed after eight weeks on Broadway, was the most expensive flop that producer has ever had, going into the red for around $200,000. Salary of the cast alone was $23,000 weekly, with a full week's salary going to the principals and the chorus for overtime rehearsals before the show opened in Boston.

Ziegfy's claimed error was going into rehearsal with his musical with only the first act and then having to chase around to locate Bill McGuire for his second act.

OPENING NIGHT OF 'TRADER HORN'

African Picture Shown in Los Angeles for First Time.

JUNGLE SCENES

(By ARTHUR BRISBANE)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Here in the heart of Movieland, a new picture is as important as the opening of Parliament by King George.

"Trader Horn" was shown for the first time at the Chinese Theatre in Hollywood last night. Thousands who could not get in lined the streets on both sides, waiting to see the great movie stars "appear in person" to attend the opening.

Fiercely blazing lights made it easy to photograph the super-beings as they arrived, looking very beautiful, and unconscious of the fact that they were observed, while high school boys and girls rushed out begging for autographs.

Ten dollars is a moderate price for a seat at such a performance. You cannot imagine the crowd's eagerness unless you happened to see the waiting New York thousands when Consuelo Vanderbilt married the Duke of Marlborough, in a Fifth avenue church.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spent $1,300,000 making the picture in Africa, and you ought to see and hear the four lions fighting, the rhinoceroses shot down, the big ape slain by the leopard. Above all you must see the sixteen-year-old white girl who rules the savage cannibals with a lash in her hand and her eyes wide open. She really is a wonder; blonde, skin snow white, not the slightest sign of tan, although she has lived under Africa's tropical sun since she was a baby, walking in her bare feet, wearing nothing but her own golden hair, and a little girdle of monkey fur around the waist.

She falls in love with a young white gentleman after having lashed his face without making him wince. Then she suddenly becomes feminine and he has to carry her in his arms through miles and miles of jungle and wild animals. Women are never what you expect them to be.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Motherhood has kept Enid Bennett pretty well tied down. What with three children to keep her busy, she hasn't given much thought to the screen. It is interesting to know that she is coming back to play the part of Skippy's mother in "Skippy" for Paramount.

Heavy money went into synchonization of Charles Chaplin's "City Lights" before the custodian was satisfied with the music and sound effects. First reel alone was synced 13 times, entailing the cost of a full orchestra and other incidentals for that many days before Chaplin would okay.

"Twenty-four Hours," Louis Bromfield's last novel, has just been purchased by Paramount, and is scheduled for filming at the New York studio this Spring.

Anita Page's contract has been renewed by Metro for another year.

Frederic March and Nancy Carroll will be seen together again in a film called "Two Worlds," which edmund Goulding will direct at the New York studio afted the completion of "Sex in Business," in which Mr. March and Claudette Colbert are feature.

The cinema rights to Clare Kummer's comedy "Good Gracious, Annabelle!" have been purchased by Fox. Jeannette MacDonald and Thomas Meighan will have featured roles in the film.

"My Past," is the title finally selected for the Warners' film based on the novel "Ex-Mistress," which is to have an early premiere. Bebe Daniels is feature in the picture, and the cast includes Ben Lyon, Lewis Stone, Joan Blondell, Natalie Moorhead, Albert Gran, Virginia Sale and Daisy Belmore.

"Fightin Caravans," based on Zane Grey's novel of the Western frontier and the pioneers. Gary Cooper is seen as the swaggering scout of an overland expedition and Lily Damita as a French immigrant girl, who is left alone through the death of her father. Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall are also in the cast as two old scouts.

"Going Wild," presents Joe E. Brown in a comedy about a would-be pilot who is forced into an airplane race although he cannot operate a machine. The case includes Lawrence Gray, Laura Lee, Walter Pidgeon, Ona Munsen and Frank McHugh.

"Resurrection," based on Tolstoy's dramatic romance, tells of the ill-fated love of Prince Dmitri, portrayed by John Boles, for a pretty peasant girl, Katusha, played by Lupe Velez. The romance leads the pair to exile in a Siberian prison. Nance O'Neil, William Keighley, Rose Tapley, Michael Mark, Sylva Nadina, George Irving, Howard Cecil, Mary Forman and Grace Cunard are also in the cast.

Four E.P.L. Teams Battle to Draw Decisions

Lakefield Clinches Lead

Murduff's Red Shirts Hold C.G.E. to 6-all Draw to Maintain Clean Slate.

TOUCH AND GO AFFAIR.

Invading the city last night, 'Moose' Murduff's "Red Shirts" from Lakefield staved off the C.G.E. squad in a hard fought battle, by holding them 6 to 6 and thus maintained the defeatless record for the season.

The outcome served another purpose, it put the Cementville lads on the top rung of the East Peterborough League with nine points and for the first half, no matter what happens, they can't be hoisted from the lead.

Frank Barrie's boys fought hard and the fact that the periods ended with the score tied 1-1, 4-4 and 6-6 indicates just how touch and go the scrap proved. Lack of finish around ther own nets proved the undoing of the locals time after time when the attacking front line buzzed in and around, and kept going around usually until they scored. Together with that they faced a barrage of back-checking that cut any attempts at combination short.

Lackey and Hayden

Lackey's rushes in the first session were outstanding, together with some nice work by Hayden. The Stabler-Sabatino-Blewett trio working their old checking system kept things warm for Hollingsworth by forcing the play into the territory around his net a great deal of the time, but it was not till Blewett on a pass from Louie Sabatino at 15 minutes opened the score sheet that things began to warm up. Haydon took a rest for tripping Wannamaker and with one less facing them Wannamaker and his mate Northey put in some pretty work that almost earned them a marker. Creighton and Hatton retaliated, the latter coming close several times. However, Junkin's luck didn't hold and four minutes after the opener Hatton sifted the rubber home for the C.G.E. in a scramble just as the bell rang.

Invaders Have Edge

Lackey set his outfit one up three minutes after the middle stanza commenced, but Louie Sabatino took the sting out of it by evening it up one minute later. The Murduffities then commenced to bottle the C.G.E. lads up and before they had finished playing around, Blewett had driven a soft one past Hollingsworth from the blue line. Williams and Palmer relieving the front line for the locals brought new pep with them, and climbed through once to beat the defence only to have the play called at the last minute. White walked through in a likely rush only to be stopped about five feet short of the twine. Ray Epps broke into the column four minutes after Blewett's counter, when he went through with Palmer and Williams. For a few minutes the attacks on Junkin's citadel came thick and fast and only his good work saved several notches. Hatton two minutes later slipped the disc to Haydon for the third ringer of the period. Then Lou Sabatino, like a hawk swooped into a corner and lifted a pass to Blewett in front and the score was tied again. Swanger was given a rest for a stiff body check on Blewett.

The Last Session

White in the third stepped on and off again for mixing it in a corner, and while he was resting Hatton chalked up marker number five. Woods got in some effective rushes and right after, in fact, just over a minute after Hatton's work Lou Sabatino rung in the evener from Stabler. Johnnie Sabatino pulled one of the nicest rushes of the evening and only a great save by Hollingsworth saved another score.

With the time growing short and the boys giving everything they had, Haydon counted once more and things looked black for the invaders. Spurred on by the turn of the tide the Electrics bored in for another to make things safe, but the old reliable Johnnie Sabatino and his mate Tom Wood held the line. To make things worse White weakened his aggregation by making another trip to the box for dumping Haydon.

Wannamaker Stars

Then it was that Wannamaker turned the white-haired boy, and made a name for himself that won't be forgotten for awhile—with one man short and the team battling to hold their own, the sub front-line grey hound alone beat the attacking Electric trio, out-stepped the defence drew out Hollingsworth and laid in the tying tally. The remaining four minutes was one shy of results.

Only four penalties were handed out in the game, Haydon drawing one in the first, Swanger one in the second and White for Lakefield two in the last.

LONDON BLANKS SYRACUSE 3-0

Secure Grip on Third Place in International Race By Reason of Win.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 31 (By Geo. Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer)—London Tecumsehs continue to display championship hockey. Last night they blanked the lowly Syracuse Stars, 3 to 0, to secure a firm grip on the third step in the International League race and at the same time draw nearer their old rivals, Windsor Bulldogs, in a private little feud the Canadian entrants are waging for the runner-up position behind Buffalo Bisons.

Lanky "Toots" Holway, defence star, gave the Tecumsehs the lead half-way through the opening frame by scoring unassisted. This slim lead was barely maintained during the next 35 minutes as the Stars proved anything but the easy opposition as their standing at the bottom would indicate.

It was not until the final session was well under way that the Stars showed signs of weakening and when they did the Londoners promptly took advantage of their opponents' distress to rattle in a brace of counters to clinch the verdict. "Cowboy" Pettinger and "Tubby" Moore, were the successful marksmen.

The Tecumsehs encounter far harder opposition to-night, however, as they are called on to meet the league leaders in Buffalo. The Forest City team recently defeated the Bisons while chalking up a record winning streak and are hopeful of duplicating that performance.

Cleveland and Buffalo are the two teams scheduled to perform on successive nights this week-end. After playing the Tecumsehs the leaders go to Syracuse where they are confident of increasing their first place margin. The Indians meet the Yellow Jackets in Pittsburgh to-night and then return home to entertain the Windsor Bulldogs.

CAMPBELLFORD COPS VICTORY "SHINNY" TILT

FINAL COUNT 8-7.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31.—Last night's tussle at the local hockey arena, between the local team and Campbellford Juniors, and which resulted in an 8—7 decision in favor of the visitors, may best be described as a game of "shinny."

Throughout the sixty minutes, in which the contestants occupied the ice, there was little in the way of co-operative effort, and at certain stages roughness which resulted in numerous penalties, was freely indulged in by both sides.

With Lakefield one counter ahead at the opening of the last period, Hendy at centre for the Orange and Black, shot for goal. The puck rebounded to the boards after having apparently gone into the right-hand corner of the net. It all happened in the twinkling of an eye, and2a-m goal referee was at variance with the Campbellford players as to whether or not the puck had actually gone into the net. Referee K. Mackenzie did not allow a goal, a decision which signalized an argument that held the game up for some few seconds. Several other unrehearsed incidents, such as slight displays of ill feeling between certain players, also tended to make the fixture of some amusement to the "fans."

Players Injured.

In the middle of the opening period Holmes, a visiting player, was forced headlong into the boards by an over-eager opponent. It looked at first as though the player might be injured somewhat severely, but he sustained nothing worse than a small cut over one of his eyes. In the second period, Elmslie, a promising young forward playing with the home-towners, hurt his knee in a scrimmage on the corner right wing. He was escorted to the box, limping badly, but came on again some few minutes later, and almost immediately netted the disc for the eighth counter in the game, at which time the score stood to the credit of Lakefield.

With the game tied a few minutes from the final gong, Lakefield made an effort to gain that extra goal, which would register for them their first win of the series. They were beaten to it by Lambert of Campbellford. Shortly after the whole of the hometown aggregation, with the exception of the custodian, were flocking around the enemy citadel, and along with the entire opposition team were inside the blue line, blissfully ignorant or diffident to the fact that they had no defence men to fall back upon.

The teams:—

Campbellford.— Goal, Heptinstall; defence, Lambert and Wilks; centre, Hendy; wings, Stocker and Bush; subs., Cubitt, Holmes and Runions.

Summary

First Period:

1—Campbellford, Lambert 2.00
2—Lakefield, Jewell 15.00
3—Lakefield, White 1.00

Second Period:

4—Lakefield, Stewart 1.00
5—Lakefield, White 6.00
6—Campbellford, Bush 1.00
7—Campbellford, Lambert (Bush) 9.30
8—Lakefield, Elmslie 8.50
9—Campbellford, Wilks 2.00

Third Period:

10—Campbellford, Lambert 16.00
11—Campbellford, Wilks 2.15
12—Campbellford, Lambert 0.30
13—Lakefield, Wright (Jewell).. 0.30
14—Lakefield, Stewart 0.10
15—Campbellford, Lambert 1.30

The Lakefield team certainly did not display the same degree of team effort that marked their struggle at Norwood earlier in the week, while the Campbellford squad were also badly off form. What matter, it was not a decisive battle! The league standing remains unaltered by the decision, and it cannot be denied that the spectators got full value in the form of entertainment, par excellence.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, things has moved on considerable in local hockey circles since my last epistle to the customers. In the 1st place, our intermediates has fought themselves into a play-off for 2nd place in the group race, something a lotta folks, including yours truly, hardly expected them to do the same. It looked for a long while in the game with Port Hope here that Alex. Hills' lads had spilled the beans, but the home talent eventually come along and pulled themselves outa the hole. And then they had to go down to Bowmanville and tie into Ginger Edgar's pucksters and win a verdict there to tie up the 2nd place battle, which, seeing the same Bowmanville outfit shy 2 regulars had win on Peterborough ice 5 to 1, looked like a real job. The Petes, however, rose to the occasion and give the lads in the rubber factory town a nice trimming right in fronta of the home folks. Now the 2 outfits has to go at it all over again with the 1st game in Bowmanville Sat. nite and the return back here Mon. Whatever happens down on the lake front, the game back here Mon. will be a lulu, Mac, and the biggest crowd of the season will be out to see this tangle.

In the jr. group, old-timer, the big game between the 2 local jr. outfits has come and gone, and the Saints finished their schedule sitting out in front of the parade. That 11 to 5 shellacking they inflicted on the blue and white youngsters was sweet revenge for the 6 to 0 trimming the young Petes handed out earlier in the season. In the Wed. game the Saints was in the driver's seat all the way round the track, showing speed and trickiness that had their local rivals more or less bunkered all evening. This Mister Shrimp McDougall has had the red shirts in hand the last coupla work-outs and the team showed the effect of his coaching in their smart performance this week. A great little player himself, this Mister McDougall, and he has give the Saints some pointers that has smartened up their work a lot. As a result of the Wed. scramble the young Petes hafta beat Lakefield in the Cementville ice-box to nose the Norwood combines outa 2nd place. The section play-offs between St. John's and the 2nd placers is billed for next week and oughta produce some exciting hockey.

Our old friend, Mister Ace Bailey, is outa commission, Mac. It is a tough brake for Newsy just as he was making a real drive for the scoring leadership. The rest may do the former Peterborough star some good, however, and when he gets back into action he may overhaul the front runners provided he's not kept outa the game too long.

Well, old-timer, don't miss the Bowmanville clash and the junior play-offs next week, or you'll miss a lotta colorful hockey.

I'll be seeing ya.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Teams Battle Through Ninety Minutes of Furious Hockey to Decide Issue.

SEVERE CHECKING.

Johnson Scores Winning Counter Two Minutes Before Final Gong.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Clinching another victory to keep them in second place in the Trent Valley League, Madoc sent the Campbellford squad to the wall with a 3-2 victory in a scheduled fixture played at the Davidson Arena, Campbellford, last evening. But it was a glorious defeat for the Maroons, for it took the Black and Whites ninety minutes of fast and furious hockey to do it, and then the winning count was only scored two minutes before the bell rang for the close of the third overtime period.

The game was the fastest and cleanest staged in Campbellford this season. All through the play the game belonged to anyone. Evenly matched and playing good combination, the two squads staged a battle royal that is sedom seen in the Trent Valley League, and for cleanness could be held up as an example to many other aggregations.

Campbellford made the first count seven minutes after play opened, and from then on they carried a one-goal lead. Coming into the second session, the scored remained with a one count lead for the Millers. The third period looked as if the entertainers would hold the count down, but the visitors placed the puck in their net two minutes before the gong sounded, tieing up the game and starting the overtime play.

The first ten minutes of this hockey was featured by a count for each team, again evening up the score. The second session was scoreless, each team watching their step and giving away no advantages. The last overtime session opened with slower play, both squads showing the effects of the game. After the first five minutes, however, the play warmed up again, and three minutes before the finish Madoc netted another count, giving them the decision.

Both teams played fine hockey and gave an exhibition that delighted the fans. Checking was severe, but with the exception of twelve minor penalties, the play was clean and good. Four were registered against Campbellford and eight against Madoc.

Max Board of Peterborough handled the bell and did a very fine job. Checking up closely on the play, especially tripping, he kept the game above the average and satisfied the players and fans.

Play Opens Fast.

The first period opened with a Campbellford offensive, Whitton taking the puck down from the face-off, but this was checked by Barkey and returned by McGuire. The visitors' forward line got working, Leroux, Johnson, and McGuire doing some splendid combination stuff, which, however, failed before Cowell and Flemming on the Maroons' defence. Cowell made some nice play, carrying the rubber forward and giving splendid support to Whitton and McArthur, who, with Ingram on the Home Towners 'forward line, broke through and gave Hulin in the visitors' net more than his share of work. The first count was made for the Maroons by Ingram on a pass from McKay, and was a pretty combined effect. This count warmed the game up with the result that Barkey and Andrews left their defence positions often, trying to even the count, but the Campbellford defence was too strong for them and the gong sounded on a one-goal lead for the entertainers.

Heavy Checking.

The second period was one of fast hockey and heavy checking, with the White and Blacks doing their utmost to carry the puck past Sanders in the Maroons' net but to no avail. He played a fine game and on several occasions when the Campbellford house was crowded faced up to the situation and kept the invaders at bay. Moon and Watson played up well in this session, keeping the entertainers busy gehind their blue line, but when Whitton, Ingram, and McArthur got the puck there was no stopping them, even Barkey was passed and the visitors' net invaded. Barkey was fenced for tripping early on in the session, being followed closely by Henderson for the same offence. Barkey went on the board again soon after he came off the ice, McKay for the Maroons drawing the same verdict. At the close of the period McKay was checked by Barkey and Anderson, and was downed and carried off the ice winded.

Brilliant Stick-handling.

The third period opened with very fast play, the visitors taking the game in the Campbellford house and doing their best to keep it there and make a count. Bruyea for the Home Towners played a good brand of hockey in this session, working well on the forward line with McKay and Whitton, and making several dangerous breaks. Flemming was boxed soon after play started, being followed soon after by Smith, who played a good game and showed his speed and stick handling.

Barkey again started tripping and was penalized, McGuire taking his place on release. Two minutes before play ended Barkey made a lone rush and in a scramble before the Millers net made a counter, evening the score. Thirty seconds to go McGuire was put on the fence for tripping.

The first overtime session opened with a count in favor of the visitors. Barkey carried the puck forward and shot, Sanders saved it, but the rubber dropped off his body onto the crease and McGuire rushed forward and netted t. Then the Millers came forward and hedged the visitors in their own area and in the scramble that followed Cowall made another evening tally.

The second overtime play was fast hockey, each team however showing an inclination to play defensive. Lone rushes were featured by Barkey, Ingram, Cowall and Whitton however which proved fruitless. Two penalties were registered, one against Johnson, the first he has had in two years of hockey in the Trent Valley League, and one against Ingram. The last period of play showed both teams showing the strain of the game. Opening very weak it was not until the second half of the session that much effort was put forward.

Three minutes to go. Johnson made the winning tally from a close in shot and from then on the visitors cleared the puck every time it reached their area, despite the hard work of Whitton and Ingram and rushes by Cowall. Half a minute to go Anderson was fenced for tripping.

The teams:

Madoc—Goal, Hulin; defense, Barkey and Andrews; center, Leroux; wings, Johnson and McGuire; subs: Henderson, Moon and Watson.

Referee—Max Board, Peterborough.

COGS CLUBMEN HOLD COMBINES TO 3-ALL DRAW

GOOD ON DEFENSIVE.

Glen Wright Plays Stellar Game on Forward Line For Visitors.

Alex Kempt's fast-stepping entry in the East Peterborough Hockey League treated local hockey fans to sixty minutes of clever hockey at the Brock Street Arena last night when they held the Cognawaga crew to a 3 all tie in one of the closest contests staged here this season on a sheet of ice that was conducive to speedy playing.

The Cogs failed to flash the brilliant brand of combination that carried them to victory against the Toolmakers but were handicapped by the effective backchecking of the visitors who either worried the puck carrier into the corner or else broke up the attack in centre ice when they swept back. The Cogs however played nice hockey around their own citadel and defensively showed to advantage.

Norwood took the offensive from the star and after four minutes of torrid battling netted the puck, Pete King passing out from behind the Cogs' net to Stevenson, who beat Payne. The locals came back strong and penetrated the visitors' defence repeatedly only to bounce the rubber off Beavis' pads in the Norwood net. Maudsley and Dallin worked in almost on top of Beavis but were cheated out of a counter. Norwood kept the Clubmen busy in their own territory during the greater part of the first period and by close checking style of play had the edge on their opponents. Norwood gathered in a rather lucky counter to put them two up when Wright worked his way up centre ice and drilled a shot at Payne through a mass of sticks and legs, the disc settling in the net before the goalie was aware of it. The Cognawaga unwrapped some snappy playing near the latter part of the session and inside of two minutes tied the score. Jones sunk the first marker on a close-in pass from Maudsley and "Sailor" himself chalked up the tying goal when he fooled the defence on a solo effort and burned a low shot at Beavis which nicked the inside of the gas-pipe and was in.

Stars on Forward Line.

Glen Wright, lanky defence man for the Combines was a real threat every time he rushed and packed a shot that made the rubber sing. Play ranged rapidly from end to end in the second period with both outfits specializing in lone rushes which usually petered out the stonewall defence work of each team. Maudsley, Jones and Dallin, first string forward line for the local broke fast and often but an epidemic of offside passes reduced their effectiveness. The second forward line for the Cogs accounted for the only counter of the second period when Cripps carried the puck alongside the Norwood net and zipped it over to Johnny Wilson who pushed the puck past Beavis. This stanza was featured by some amazing goaltending by both net guardians, Beavis especially kept the fans on their toes when he defended his net with his hands having lost his stick in a melee which carried his war club into the corner of the rink where it reposed until the bell rang. Becky Jack missed a real opportunity to tally when he snapped a fast shot at the Cogs' net from a face-off inside the latter's blue line which bounced off the post.

The Clubmen launched a series of vicious attacks in the last session but their gunning was very inaccurate and they failed to capitalize. Soon after Norwood gathered in the tying goal, Hill making the shot from well inside the blue line. The visitors also had more than their share of the play in this period and for the greater part of the time bottled up the Cogs inside their own blue line. Deisive checking was a feature of the playing of the visitors and their forward line worked hard. Eddie Williams was the star of the local team and exhibited worthwhile hockey on the defence as well as on the forward line.

"BLUE PETES" FALL BEFORE "Y" SENIORS

School Girls and Clockmakers Provide Feature on Evening's Bill.

BRILLIANT PLAYING.

Isabel Davidson and Ev. Armstrong Count Points in Second Frame.

In a fast double header staged on the Y.W.C.A. floor last evening, the Senior School Girls nosed out the Wesclox 14-13 and the "Blue Petes" fell before the "Y" Seniors, the "Y" team winning 16-0.

Both games were fast and exciting and provided smart basketball for the large gathering of fans.

In the opening tussle the Senior School Girls were matched with the Westclox quintette and this game provided the most exciting basketball seen at the local gym this season.

For the first ten minutes neither team seemed able to get going and the play was slow. Both teams were checking very closely and baskets were at a premium. But the second half was a different story. Howie Macdonald's prodigies began to function a smooth passing attack and before the Clockmakers realised it, the School team was leading 7-5.

Led by Helen Cole, the School made many dangerous rushes and it was not till they were leading 12-7 did the Wesclox open their scoring attack, but it came a trifle late to pull the game out of the fire and the school team took the decision by one point.

The entire winning team played clever basketball to gain the decision but Helen Cole led the scoring again with eleven points to her credit. Jeanne Harvey accounted for two points and Kay Lang scored a much needed single toward the close of the game.

Leads Clockmakers

Leona Kingdon led the Westclox scorers with nine points and Elda Bradley and Helen Foster contributer one each. Every girl on the lineup played a hard, fast game but the checking was close and the Westclox sharpshooters had difficulty in getting free to shoot.

Little can be said regarding the first half, as both teams played a purely defensive game. The Westclox, however, led at half time, 6-3.

Play was resumed at a much faster clip and on nice combination efforts of the forwards, Helen Cole scored twice in succession for the School. The Westclox came back with a nice basket by Helen Foster and Jeanne Harvey retaliated with a shot from the defence.

Helen Cole scored twice and Kay Lang scored a single on Mil Mortimer's foul to bring the Senior School's total to 14. It was here that the Clockmakers made a fine effort and Ruth Sutton, Kay Lang and Olive Elcombe had a busy few moments on the School defence.

Leona Kingdon scored twice and Elda Bradley scored once to bring her team within one point of the opposition.

Full time prevented any further scoring, leaving the Senior School Girls thew inners 14-13.

The teams:

Senior School Girls		Westclox
J. Harvey	forwards	L. Kingdon
D. Allen		I. Thirnbeck
D. Rogers		E. Bradley
G. Burns
H. Cole	centre	H. Foster
		M. Mortimer
R. Sutton	guards	D. Webb
K. Lang		C. Mason
A. Elcombe
V. Huffman		S. Keown
M. Brooks		H. Joyes

In the second contest, the "Y" Seniors proved too much for the Blue Petes, and carried off the game by a 16 to 0 count.

Several of "Bim" Sturgeon's regulars were missing from the line-up and the Seniors were forced to play the entire game without a change.

The Blue Petes tried hard all the time and although they held the high scoring Seniors down to quite a respectable count, they were themselves unable to break into the scoring column.

The Petes surprised everyone by their determined stand and it was not till the game was several minutes old did the "Y" team open the scoring, Isobel Davidson and Ev. Armstrong accounting for the points. The Seniors led at the half-way mark, 7 to 0.

As in the previous game, play was much faster after the rest period and a Haggart-Davidson-Armstrong combine gave the latter a chance to go in close for a nice basket.

Isobel Davidson slipped in two clever baskets on smart individual rushes and her forwards worked nicely with her in many fine sorties into the opposition territory.

For the losers, Dorothy Kelley played a nice defensive game, intercepting many dangerous passes and Pat McClellan did fine work at centre. The entire squad played nice combination, but found the "Y" defence too stiff to penetrate with any degree of success.

The crowd was pulling for the Petes to score and it looked as if they might, when they received two free throws on Isobel Davidson's foul. Blanks were drawn each time, however and a fine scoring opportunity was lost.

Kay Haggart scored the last marker of the game on a nice, close-in shot, to make the final score 16 to 0 for the Seniors. The teams:

"Y" Seniors.—K. Haggart and U. Gamble, forwards; I. Davidson, centre; H. Jackson and E. Armstrong, guards.

Blue Petes.—B. Scott, K. Caddy and L. Lundy, forwards; P. McClellan, centre; J. Howson, M. Rogers, D. Kelly and A. Langley, guards.

Referee.—Joe Cooper.

8 p.m.—"Y" Eelementary vs. Blue Petes.

8.15 p.m., "Y" Seniors vs. St. Paul's.

9 p.m.—Wohelo vs. Senior School Girls.

QUAKERS ALSO IN "RED."

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP)—The men who guide the destiny of big time hockey—governors of the National Hockey League — assembled here today for their monthly meeting. Ordinarily only routine matters are discussed at these regular conclaves but on this occasion severa matters out of the ordinary and of importance to the future welfare of the league will be brought forward.

It is understood the acute situation at Ottawa will be placed before the governors in detail by President Frank Calder. The Senator club has not met with financial success for some time but this season the situation is worse than ever.

Yesterday Redmond Quain, director and legal advisor of the Bytown Club, declared "drastic action" may be necessary if the league does not come to the assistance of the floundering Senators, who are not drawing any too well at home. Some of the moguls are in favor of granting the club assistance in order to keep the franchise in Ottawa and thus avoid the possibility of any rival organization stepping in and placing a team there. On the other hand a certain number of the league directors favor purchasing the franchise and distributing the players amongst the other teams.

It is also understood the Philadelphia Quakers are in distress. Like the Senators they are lodged at the bottom of their group and the fans will not patronize a losing team.

The N.H.L. has a handsome reserve fund, it is reported, which the governors may decide to draw on to assist the Ottawa and Philadelphia clubs. The Canadian team has a particular interest in the fund having been a contributor since it was inaugurated.

Another matter besides routine which has created considerable interest in the disputed goal scored by Montreal Maroons against Detroit Falcons last Tuesday and which enabled the Montrealers to win out, 2 to 1. In some quarters it is taken for granted President Calder will stand by the ruling of the officials who claim they did not hear the gong ring at the end of the first period prior to Nels Stewart's goal which the timekeepers claimed was tallied afterward.

United States' Skiers Set New World Records

BIG PINE RECREATION CAMP Cal., Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Swooping down a 700-foot runway, Alf Engen, Salt Lake City and Lars Haugen, Lake Tahoe, Calif, dedicated a new ski jump, the longest and highest in the world, with world record jumps of 231 feet.

The old record, made by Henry Hall of Detroit, at Quebec in 1925, was 229 feet.

FAMOUS GRAND NATIONAL RACE REMAINS PUZZLING PROBLEM

Restrictions Upon Entries For 1931 Remove Few From the Running.

PAST LEADERS IN.

AINTREE, Liverpool, Eng., Feb. 31 (By The Canadian Press) — The Grand National steeplechase, greatest event of its kind in the world, remains as puzzling as ever. This year's race will be run on March 27. Restrictions were imposed when it was feared that the popularity of the new Irish Hospitals' sweepstake might affect the entry list, but entries number 85, one more than last year.

The winners and placed horses in the last two Grand Nationals are all back in the contest. They are Shaun Goilin, Melleray's Belle, Sir Lindsay and Glangesia, respectively first, second, third and fourth in 1930; and Gregalach, Easter Hero and Richmond II., first second and third in 1929. Of this small but distinguished group probably Easter Hero, owned by the United States turfman, John Hay Whitney, will command most attention. He looked like the winner in 1929 until he spread a plate near the finish.

Two dozen others of this year's entry have had experience over the remarkably difficult National course of four miles and 856 yards. Top weight 175 pounds will be carried for the third time by Easter Hero. Gib, owned by B. D. Davis, carries tent winner in the lesser known National Hunt events, carries second highest impost of 173 pounds. Shaun Goilin is next with 172; Gregalach and East Galway are bracketed with 168 and Kakushin, who has shown great promise at times, gets in with 167 pounds.

Sir Lindsay is set to carry 160 pounds. Gyi Lovam, unknown in England but with a very high reputation from Europe is allotted 157; Richmond Second, 154; Melleray's Belle 150; and Glangesia 150. So much for the weights.

This year the only horses allowed in the Grand National are those who have been placed in a steeplechase at three miles or more; or else over any distance at Aintree; and who have won a steeplechase worth $2,500 to the winner, selling events in every case expected. Of course, had these restrictions not been imposed, the entry would probably have been very much larger.

Of the 85 entered, 23 dropped out at the calling of first non-acceptances on January 28. A number of these had failed to qualify under the new rules, however. Among the withdrawals were Oberstown Prince, Florin Second, Aulnay, and Image, who had failed to qualify; and East Galway, Bright's Boy and Bayview.

Probably 40 horses will start the long grind on March 27. The value to the winner will be a little more for each horse will again be $500. The race was worth a good bit more two years ago, when the record field of 66 started.

The Grand National was first run in 1839. A syndicate had taken over the lease of the grand stand and racecourse at Aintree. Each runner had to pay $100 and the added money was $500. The race was restricted to gentlemen riders, a rule which was perhaps laxily observed, and it was not a handicap, the weight for each runner being 167 pounds. The first race had 17 starters and was won by Lottery, ridden by Jim Mason, who was known as a tremendous dandy. He invariably wore white kid gloves when riding.

In 1840 it was Lottery's fate to fall at the wall, an obstacle which has long since disappeared from Aintree, replaced by others quite formidable. The race became a handicap in 1843. The minimum weight for some years was 133 pounds, with which light impost Sunloch won in 1914. The minimum was later increased to 140 pounds, and this year it has been raised to 147. As 175 pounds remains the maximum, the best-class competitors have a more favorable chance this year than ever before.

Entries from Ireland, famed breeding-ground of great steeplechasers, do not appear as numerous or as strong in quality as in previous years. Probably the explanation is that as soon as the jumpers in Ireland begin to show good form nowadays they are quickly snapped up for English stables. Among the Irish entrants this year is the clever mare Georginatown, winner of the Valentine steeplechase here last autumn.

The Czecho-Slovakian entrant, Gyi Lovam, is a source of much interest. He will be ridden by his owner, Captain R. Popler, who is chief instructor of the Czecho-Slovak army riding school. Gyi Lovam, a nine-year-old gelding, comes to Aintree with the support of a syndicate of Captain Popler's countrymen, including Jan Masaryk, the Czech minister to London. The horse is said to be a faultless jumper with great stamina. He has just arrived in England and is completing training at Banger-on-dee.

Another unexpected Continental entry is M. Oiry-Roederer's Aulnay, a winner at Pau and Auteuil but not considered by English experts to have much of a chance in the tough Aintree feature.

Vessels built on the Clyde in Scotland last year numbered 246, as compared with 222 in 1929.

The two acknowledged stars of the National Hockey League are said to be Nels Stewart and Howie Morenz. The former of the Maroons and, the latter of the Canadiens. The so-called critics of the puck chasing game say that could a composite player be manufactured of these two men, the result would be hockey's most perfect player. Nels Stewart is credited with being one of the cleverest men in the game while Morenz depends upon his phenomenal speed for his deception. However, another amusing set of facts are the comparisons in points of to-day and a year ago.

The Montreal Maroons have played more games than the other four teams in the Canadian group. A week or so ago the N.H.L. teams passed the half-way mark in this year's hockey race In 1929-30 the Montreal Maroons had compiled 26 points with 12 victories and two ties at the half-way mark of 22 games while the Canadiens were second with nine wins and four ties, making a total of 22 points being one more than the Leafs as a result of eight victories and four deadlocks. Ottawa was a close fourth while the "Amerks" were bringing up the rear with a gap of five points between them and the Senators.

But glancing over this year's records at 22 games complete "Les Canadiens" have 29 points for this number of games, thus showing a gain of seven points and in the same manner the Maroons have lost three. The Leafs have 25 points, four more than last season, while the Americans show a big gain of seven points over last year. Ottawa Senators are the only team to have apparently fallen by the way side having only neted 12 points, being eight in arrears to last season. Below is a schedule showing the comparison of teams at the half-way mark this year and a year ago.

Denver Cue Artist Leading Challenger

After losing the opening block, 50 to 34, Harris came back yesterday to capture the second, 50 to 48, in a match that lasted 86 innings. He failed to gain any ground, however, as Harper immediately clicked off two more points for his necessary score before Harris made up his deficit.

British Golf Champ Is Visiting States

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Plans rapidly are taking shape for a formal welcome to Diana Fishwick, British women's gold champion, and her party of fifteen, due to arrive here Tuesday on the Aquitania. The invaders will compete in three Florida tournaments during February and March.

Glenna Collett, five-time National champion, will head a large delegation of United States stars who will meet the British party at the Cunard pier and escort them to the hotel where the visitors will establish headquarters. Miss Fishwick, incidentally, won the British title by conquering Miss Collett in the final round at Formby last year.

Berg Whips Perlick For The Third Time

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Herman Perlick, one-half of a twin pugilistic firm from Kalamazoo, Mich., soon should be convinced that he can not whip Jack (Kid) Berg, the Whitechapel whirlwind of the lightweights.

Herman, whose twin brother, Henry, also is a lightweight of some prentensions, stepped into the ring with Berg for the third time last night and for the third time Berg pounded out a decision victory.

More important than the result, perhaps, was the fact that for the first time in months the faithful at Madison Square Garden had a chance to grow really excited about a boxing match. And the crowd of 8,800 spectators, a better than average gathering in these lean days at the Garden, hissed, hooted, laughed, boo-ed and finally cheered to their hearts' content and genuinely enjoyed themselves.

AUSTRALIAN GOVERNOR-GENERAL HAS HAD MOST EVENTFUL LIFE

Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac Alfred Isaacs Has Won Distinction in Many Positions.

MUSICIAN OF NOTE.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 31 (By The Canadian Press)—"Hustle" perhaps sums up the career of Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac Alfred Isaacs, the first native-born governor-general of Australia, better than any other description. But it by no means indicates a man who has rushed from one post to another. Sir Isaac has won signal distinction in everything he has essayed. He was the intellectual giant of the Liberal Party even in the days when Alfred Deakin was its brilliant leader. And in the legal world while he was leader of the Victorian Bar he persistently studied so that he could take his place on the High Court.

He can write shorthand faster than most professionals. He can give pleasure to a Paderewski on the piano, and he can play the violin without faltering in the presence of a Kubelik. His command of languages would enable him to act as interperter at a Tower of Babel.

Less than two years ago he wandered into the Federal Parliamentary Library and docketed Soviet literature, published in Russia, for record purposes. And Australia has never known a better son, a better brother, or a better father.

Born in 1855, Sir Isaac was the son of a Jewish tailor in the small village of Beechworth, Victoria. He gathered with other children of humble parentage in the remote country village and hustled himself into a pupil teachership. He moved up into the public service, into the law department, into the University, into a practice at the bar, into politics. Then he moved to the quieter atmosphere of the Australian High Court, where he has been for the past 24 years.

Sir Isaac became a member of the Victorian legislative assembly in 1892, three years after he had become a Queen's Counsel. He was solicitor-general and then attorney-general of the state, and he was a member of the Australian Federal Convention of 1897 which framed the Commonwealth Constitution. He entered the federal parliament on its establishment in 1901 and was attorney-general of the Commonwealth from 1905 to 1906, when he retired from politics.

His prodigious memory was responsible for a novel feature in the fighting tactics of the Ministry. Nearly every man who made an attack upon it was suddenly confronted with former utterances which seemed to cut the ground from under his feet. Nevertheless it cannot be said that Sir Isaac Isaacs made that impression which is essential if the Premiership is to crown a Ministerial career. Town members said he was "too clever"; country members growled that he was "too much of a lawyer." There was truth in both assertions.

W.M.S. COLLECTIONS AMOUNTED TO $621

The Vestry Building Committee of St. John's Church, have in the past put on several good pictures. The Committee is again endeavoring to raise some funds towards the Vestry and feel that due to times of depression the people should have a picture that will produce a good laugh, and so have succeeded, at a considerable expense, in securing a good clean laugh producting picture, "Cohens and Kellys in Paris," to be shown here in the town hall on Wednesday, February 4.

BRIDGENORTH

The annual business meeting of the congregation of the Bridgenorth United Church was held in the basement of the church on Wednesday, January 21.

The financia report of the Sunday school was given by the treasurer, Harold Totton, showing a balance on hand of $24.76 as compared with $4.52 in 1929. The duplex envelope system of financing was adopted in March last and thus far has proven successful.

Because of the absence of the treasurer, the Ladies' Aid Society report was given by Miss Olive Sidey, which showed a balance on hand of $213.88 as compared with $119.24 at the end of 1929. Moved by Miss Olive Sidey and seconded by Mrs. P. T. Udy, that the treasurer's report as read be adopted. Carried.

The Ladies' Aid Society has been quite active during 1930, contributing most generously to the needs of the church in general. Of their activities for the year, special mention might be made of the painting of the parsonage, a contribution of $200 as a thankoffering and the installation of beautiful new curtains and rods throughout the Sunday school room.

The report of the W.M.S. was given by Mrs. P. T. Udy showing that the W.M.S. had collected during the year the sum of $75.06 with an expense sheet of $3.02. The balance of $72.04 has been paid over to the M. and M. fund.

The financial statement of the circuit secretary was read by P. T. Udy showing a balance on hand of $3.00

The stewards' report was given by W. J. Robinson showing a balance on hand of $257.55 as compared with $383.19 a year ago.

Rev. Mr. Totton reported as to the M. and M. fund, showing that he has collected $255.58, plus a special collection to date of $7.65, making a total of $263.23. Bridgenorth's allotment for the M. and M. fund is $350.00; thus, at present, the arrears are $86.77, with the rest of January to collect it.

Moved by P. T. Udy and seconded by W. A. Sidey, that Wm. J. Robinson be elected steward for the coming three years.

Moved by W. A. Sidey and seconded by Mrs. P. T. Udy, that Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Telford be elected to the parsonage board for 1931.

Moved by W. A. Sidey and seconded by W. J. Telford, that a vote of thanks be tendered the treasurer and secretary for their services.

Moved by W. A. Sidey and seconded by W. J. Robinson, that we adjourn.

Following the business meeting, lunch was served by the ladies and a social evening was spent. Owing to the severity of the weather and the blocked condition of the roads, the attendance was smaller than usual.

Nearly 200 people, including clerks, kitchen help, waiters, waitresses, firemen and watchmen, now have permanent homes in the English Houses of Parliament.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN WEST PRESENTS A CHECKERED PATTERN

Destitution in Many Centres While Others Hardly Below Average.

MIXED FARMING QUESTION.

(By Wilfred Eggleston. Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1931.)

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 31. — It would not be fair to the west to give the impression that every nook and corner of the prairies faces destitution and the acceptance of relief on a large scale. As I indicated at the beginning of this series, the economic pattern is highly checkered. In general, business depression has fallen upon the whole west, but while it is true that local circumstances, such as two successive crop failures from drought, have accentuated the gloom in certain areas, it is also true that favorable factors, such as high diversification of products, have maintained here and there conditions not inferior, perhaps, to the average of the past.

In a general way, every section of western Canada dependent almost wholly for revenue from grains is in financial difficulty. Where the 1929 and 1928 crops were good, the reserves built up in those years have so far tided farmers over the losses on 1930 operations. But where the 1930 collapse was preceded by a series of reverses, as in central and southern Saskatchewan, conditions are very serious. Assistance is necessary, there, and accumulated interest has in a very large number of cases already wiped out the farmer's equity, so that he only continues to operate his farm through the tolerance of his creditors.

(One hears little of actual foreclosure. Whether land and loan companies are permitting the present residents to hang on because of a sympathetic understanding of their problems, or because of inability to find other farmers to take over the seized land, is a point for the reader. On the whole, I found Canadian corporations taking a reasonable attitude toward defaulting farmers.)

Those areas of the west enjoying a varied income from cream, butter, hogs, poultry, and eggs, cattle and sheep, sugar-beets and hay, and only raising grain as an incidental, have emerged from 1930 with "heads above water." There is no flaunting of wealth, but there is general ability to meet obligations and to maintain reasonable standards of living.

In a "buying power" map of the west published a few weeks ago by a Toronto financial paper, Edmonton area was one of the three bright spots on the map. It was rated "good." Even the casual visitor notes the difference between the atmosphere of this city and such wheat centres as Moose Jaw and Regina. A farm a few miles northwest of here sold a couple of days ago for $55 an acre, the purchase price being over $32,000. It was, needless to say, a "mixed farm." A sufficiently large portion of Edmonton and district revenue comes from cattle and hogs, sheep and poultry to provide a steady sub-stratum of income no matter what wheat prices may do.

There is a similar explanation for the two other western areas where buying power is still good. They are partly insured against agricultural depression by variety of income.

In the provincial parliament buildings to-day I talked with the poultry commissioner and one of the dairy commissioners and heard their version of current conditions. The former told me that Alberta had shipped 62 carloads of turkeys east this last fall and had averaged only two cents a pound below a year ago. He instanced one farm woman who had raised and sold about 270 birds, which netted her $800, which I mentally compared with the $277.69 which the Battleford wheat grower had obtained for his 1500-bushel carload of wheat.

"Egg prices are away off this winter, 'tis true, and there's some complaint. But due to the mild weather, laying has been very heavy. Feed is cheap, and the hen is providing a steady income," the commissioner said.

The dairy commissioner had worked out a chart to show why the dairy farmer was relatively well off. "Wheat prices have fallen from $1.20 to 40 cents in the year, while butterfat has dropped less than half as much — from 36 cents a pound to 27, to be exact. Feed is cheap and plentiful.

"Hogs have kept up amazingly well, and sales have been heavy," he added. "The price of pork has fallen from $12 to $8.75 in the year. (It has fallen another $1 per hundred since she beginning of 1931.) Cattle prices are down from $10 to $5.50 a hundred. That is a serious slump, too, but even so materially short of the drop in grain prices," he observed.

The most prosperous area in Saskatchewan to-day, according to Frank Eliason, secretary of the Saskatchewan United Farmers, is the district tributary to Saskatoon in which the Dairy Pool of that city operates. "Farmers in a radius of 60 miles have been enjoying a steady income from their milk," he told me the other day. "They have a co-operative organization which is the pride of the community. They have 100 per cent. control of the milk output, — one of the few 100 per cent. pools in existence."

Overproduction holds no terrors for the Saskatoon dairy-farmers, Mr. Edison declared. "When the market demand is met and they have a surplus, instead of allowing it to appear and depress prices, they convert it into milk powder for calf feed and other by-products," he explained.

These incidents might be taken to mean that mixed farming is the panacea for the West's economic ills? But is it? If the prairie farmer turns his energies whole-heartedly into cattle and hogs, sheep and poultry, where will prices go? I hope to develop this theme a step further.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

FIVE million modern mothers will tell you that children DO cry for Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers always give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tiny tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless; irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant—yet it is effective for children in their teens. You never have to coax children to take Castoria; they love its taste.

Be ready for the next case of sour stomach, constipation, or other need for Castoria!

When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

TORONTO HAS TWIN PROGRAM OVER WEEK-END

Leafs Meet Quakers at Home To-night and Falons in Detroit Sunday.

WIN WILL TIE LEADERS.

Maroons to Entertain New York Rangers in Second International Fixture.

TORONTO, Jan. 31. (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer). — A comparative test of strength between Canadian and United States clubs in the National Hockey League will be given over the week-end. The five game program pits the four Canuck representatives against southern section squads with Toronto Maple Leafs meeting Philadelphia Quakers and Detroit Falcons on successive nights.

Teams of the northern group have won 29 of the 60 clashes against their American opponents who have captured the points on 24 occasions. In seven tilts the points were split. A sweep of this week-end's schedule will enable the United States teams to square matters, but this seems unlikely to occur.

The second place Leafs entertain Philadelphia and while the Quakers secured one of their two season's victories from the fast travelling Torontonians earlier in the schedule the cards are not stacked in their favor to-night. The Leafs trounced the Quakers thoroughly in their first meeting at Arena Gardens and, having flattened the seven year Ottawa 'jinx' for the full count right in Ottawa Thursday, should be able to add another two points to their total against the tail-enders and pull up within two points of Montreal Canadiens, who are out in front by a two game margin but who are idle until Sunday.

In the other Saturday fixture Montreal Maroons are at home to the Rangers in the third encounter between the teams. Each squad won its home game by clear cut margins. The Maroons are in third place in the Canadian section, two points behind Toronto and four in the van of New York Americans. The latter have two games in hand over the Maroons, however, and the Montrealers cannot afford to drop points at the present stage of the race.

The Rangers are fighting desperately to oust Detroit Falcons from third place in the American section, but have not been meeting with much success and are still two points behind the Motor magnates.

Three contests will be decided on Sunday. The Leafs entrain after the Philadelphia game for Detroit where they tackle the Falcons for the third time. The Smythemen won the first tilt at home, 4 to 2, but what the Detroiters did to the Leafs on the second occasion is something that is not spoken about around the Leaf dressing room. The final score was 10 to 1. Victory for the Leafs will place them in a tie with the group leaders if the Habitants should lose to the Blackhawks.

Matching speed with speed the Windy City outfit has been able to more than hold their own against the whirling Canucks to-date. The Hawks, perched on the second rung of the junior division, six points behind Boston, defeated the Habitants 3 to 0, in the first clash and battled to a goalless tie in the second at Montreal.

Ottawa Senators and the Amazing Amerks meet in the fifth international match. The game will be played at New York which is point in favor of the A's who displaying unusual strength this season despite their lack of so-called stars.

The Senators nosed out the Goathamites in their first meeting, 1 to 0, but lost the second, 2 to 1. They will be at full strength for their third meeting and may surprise Eddie Gerard's careful playing pupils.

Hockey Notes.

CENTRAL SCHOOL LOSES OUT 9-1

Prince of Wales' Sextet Runs Up Large Score in School League Game.

NICE COMBINATION.

Top-heavy scores once more featured the Public School League games, three of which were run off this morning at All Saints' rink. The ice was fast and the hockey clean, with some good combination seen in each game.

In the first game, Prince of Wales ran up a 9—1 win over Central. The winners kept the rubber in the air a good part of the first period with whistling drives—five of them finding the net. They bagged two more in the second, and two in the third. The Centralers avoided a shutout when they tallied once in the last frame. The Wales boys out-classed and out-skated their opponents most of the game:

The teams:

Blanks Queen Alexandra

King George blanked Queen Alexandra 8—0 in the second contest. The former had a bigger and faster outfit, and they combined effectively to score most of their goals. Throughout the game, even when they had a substantial lead, the winners had five players up the ice, and they had the play in the losers' territory most of the time. The latter got through occasionally on lone rushes, but couldn't counter. Four goals in the first, and two in the other two frames was the way the King Georges got their total.

Referee, D. Crawford.

King Edward Defeats Queen Mary

In the final struggle of the morning, King Edward shut out the boys from Queen Mary 11—0 in a game that was flashy in spots. The first frame was fairly even, the two goals of King Edward being scored in the last two minutes. In the middle of the second, the winners slapped in no less than four in a few minutes time, and they repeated the dose in the latter part of the last stanza. They played more aggressively all the way, combining and stock-handling better than the Queensters. Harding, for the losers, gave a great exhibition on net-minding despite the big score. Any that beat him were to hot to handle.

Referee, G. Edgar.

Farmers Rotten-Egg New League Leaders

EDMONTON, January 31 (C.P.). —Refusing to sing "God Save the King" delegates to the recently organized Farmers' Unity League, and Communistic organizers from Mundare, Alberta, were rotted-egged at Willingdon on Thursday evening, and two rallies started in the Ukrainian Temple broke up in disorder.

Carl Axelson of Bingville, president of the Farmers' Unity League, Alberta Branch, and two leaders from Mundarek nown as Karpluck and Novakowsky received rough treatment at the hands of a hostile crowd estimated to be about 300 strong.

Delegate Karpluck was attacked at the railway station by infuriated anti-Communistic farmers and severely beaten about the head and face.

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION

The old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure has no truer application than in the case of fire.

Carefulness costs nothing, yet thousands of dollars are saved every day, for instance, by the matches that are not thrown away while burning.

Every child should be taught to recognize and appreciate the dangers that lie in all exposed flames.

Of the ten thousand annual deaths by fire in the United States, one-third are children under ten years of age.

Foremost among the oncoming men was the Russian. As the brilliant rays of the equatorial moon lighted the deck, and he realized that the man before him was Lord Greystoke, he screamed hysterical commands to his followers to open fire upon the two. Tarzan pushed Jane behind him, and with a quick bound started for Rokoff, just as a man behind the Russian fired at the charging ape-man.

But the shot went wild, for something else engaged the fellow's attention at the moment of aiming. Up the monkey-ladder in their rear was thronging a hideous horde. There came five snarling apes, huge, man-like beasts, w.. bared fangs and slavering jaws, headed by a giant black warrior, his long spear gleaming in the moonlight. Behind him scrambled another creature, and of all the horrid horde it was this they most feared.

It was Sheeta, the panther, with gleaming jaws agape and fiery eyes blazing at them in the mightiness of his hate and of his blood lust. Rokoff, yelling with terror, dodged backward between his two henchmen and bolted for the forecastle. Beneath the terrible ferocity of the beasts the others fled in all directions, all who were able, for the great fangs of the apes of Akut and the terrible talons of Sheeta found more than one victim.

Four, however, escaped and disappeared into the forecastle, where they found Rokoff. Enraged at his desertion of them in their moment of peril and his past brutal treatment, they gloated in this chance to avenge themselves. They hurled him bodily out upon the deck. Tarzan saw the man emerge—but another saw him sooner. That one was Sheeta, and with grinning jaws the mighty beast slunk silently toward the terror-stricken man.

MARK STREET CHOIR PRESENTS CONCERT

Mrs. Rodwell Ford of Toronto Assists in Fine Program.

The choir of Mark Street United Church gave a very fine concert in All Saints' Parish Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Guild. They were assisted by George Coleman, Jr., and Mrs. May Rodwell Ford, dramatic entertainer of Toronto. The stage was beautifully decorated for the occasion with shaded floor lamps, a glowing fireplace and comfortable furniture.

Rev. J. D. Paterson made a few introductory remarks, expressing his regret at the small audience present owing to the unfavorable weather, but what was lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm. Each number was heartily applauded.

Mrs. Ford, who has endeared herself to Peterborough audiences on her two appearance here, recently brought down the house with her three numbers, "Mollie," "Aunt Prue" and "Ain't goin' to cry no more." Mrs Mendell Braund's solos were beautiful and she responded to encores. Mr. Coleman's numbers, which were highly appreciated, were "The Floral Dance" and "Jack's the Boy," with the choir joining in the chorus.

Opening piano duet—Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Greenslade.

Solo and chorus—"When you and I were young, Maggie," Mr. Leonard Agnew and Mrs. Morrison, and chorus by the Choir.

Solo—"Last Night," Miss G. Currie.

Solo—"The Last Rose of Summer," Mrs. Mendell Braund.

Male quartette—"There are Women.'

Solo and chorus—"Comin' Thru the Rye," Miss Mabel Reynolds.

Solo—"The False Prophet," Miss Bertha Binks.

Duet—"The Keys of Heaven," Mrs. Binks and L. Agnew.

Piano duet — Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Greenslade.

Reading—'Home, sweet home,' Mrs. Binks.

Solo—"Jack's the Boy," G. Coleman, with choir joining in the chorus.

Solo—"Carry me Back to Old Virginny," Mrs. Mendell Braund.

Quartette—"Pro Fundo Basso," Mrs. Wand, Miss Curry, Mr. Greenslade and Mr. Agnew.

Solo—"Supposing," Miss J. Hurl.

Solo—"Juanita," Miss G. Curry.

Duet—"Silver Threads Among the Gold," Mrs. Telford and Mr. Greenslade.

Male quartette—"Jim."

Readings—Mrs. May Rodwell Ford.

Solo and chorus—"Love's Old Sweet Song," Miss J. Hurl.

Octette—"Oh who will o'er the Downs So Free," Mesdames Wand, Thornley, Binks, Miss Curry, Messrs. Greenslade, Smith, Binks, Agnew.

OLD-TIME CARNIVAL NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Kiwanis Club Put on Most Popular Winter Event at Brock Street.

Falkner, the world's only one-legged skater, then you have a night long to be remembered.

Excellent prizes are being awarded for best fancy and comic costumes in the following classes: Men, ladies' boys' and girls' and also a prize for the best costumes worn by a married couple.

Brock Street Rink is expected to have a capacity crowd Friday night next.

Tragedy Laid to Hypocrisy of Prohibition

CAPTAIN'S DEATH LISTED MURDER UPON HIGH SEAS

Rector Demands Fair Play and Justice, Speaking at Funeral Service.

CHURCH CROWDED.

U. S. Boatswain's Action in Shooting Upheld By Inquiry Board.

(By CHARLES BRUCE)
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LUNENBURG, N. S., Feb. 2.—Declaring the death of Captain William Cluett to be "nothing more nor less than murder on the high seas," Major Rev. W. E. Ryder, in a brief address in the course of the public funeral service here yesterday pointed to the death of the Josephine K.'s captain as "one of the inevitable tragedies that follow the hypocrisy of prohibition."

Making clear that he was not justifying the business in which Captain Cluett was engaged when the United States Coast Guard fired on his vessel, off Ambrose Light, a week ago, the rector voiced a demand for "fair play and justice."

"British Justice" Invoked

"This tragedy must not be hushed up," he declared. "Incidents of this sort are becoming almost a daily occurrence. They are evidence of the futility of trying to make a country dry by prohibition. Captain Cluett was simply the commander of a supply boat, carrying a commodity demanded by the people of the United States. Their laws prohibit its import, [illegible] these laws, are among the creators of that demand. I am confident that British justice will see fair play meted out," he continued.

Major Ryder, speaking to the hundreds who thronged St. John's Anglican Church for the service, paid high tribute to Captain Cluett as "a fine Churchman, thorough-going and well instructed, a good husband and father, a good friend and a master mariner."

LANG RESIDENT IS 95 YEARS OLD

Mrs. Richard Short Native of Douro is Still Hale and Hearty.

FATHER DIED WHEN 103.

Still hale and hearty, Mrs. Richard Short of Lang yesterday celebrated her 95th birthday and entertained a host of neighbors, who called to offer their congratulations. Her oft-expressed ambition is to reach the century mark.

Mrs. Short, a native of Douro township, whose parents had come to this country from Ireland to settle in this district, can still recall the days of long ago when she could count the number of dwellings in Peterborough on her fingers. Her father, who taught school, lived to be 103 years old, while her mother was 93 years years of age when she passed away.

Mrs. Short now lives on her late husband's old homestead with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis. She is still in full possession of all her faculties, and takes a great interest in current events. In the summer time she is often to be seen out driving in an automobile, and last Fall she attended Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. During Peterborough Old Home Week, she was also a visitor here, and occupied a place of honor on the Douro float driven by P. G. Towns, as the oldest resident of the township.

Walked Two Miles

On her frequent trips into this city, she is wont to venture forth on foot and visit her numerous old friends, and one day last summer returned home and proudly exclaimed that she had walked two miles.

She is well-known by her many friends as a composer of verse. Her maiden name was Bridget Sheehan, and at one time she opened a dressmaking establishment on Hunter street.

Mrs. Shortt's great age is one of her sources of real pride, and to friends she will always state her age in years and months, and express the hope that she can live to be one hundred years old.

Has For Three Years Been Manager of Canadian Departmental Stores in City.

W. F. Butcher, manager for the past three years of the two Canadian Departmental Stores here, is leaving Peterborough. Mr. Butcher has been promoted to the Superintendent's office under T. A. McOrea in the main Toronto store of T. Eaton's Limited.

The progress of the C. D. S. L. stores here has been chiefly due to the leadership of Mr. Butcher, who originally opened the first store here three years ago. Not only in his capacity as manager of two of the city's largest stores has Mr. Butcher been active, but he has also found time to devote to many community enterprises. His interests have been many and varied, being a director of the Rotary Club, director of the Chamber of Commerce and head of the Retail Merchants branch of that organization, director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition and an active member of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Butcher expressed regret at leaving this city and stressed the fact that in his opinion Peterborough was an ideal place to live. During his sojourn here, Mr. Butcher has become a confirmed follower of Izaak Walton and his line has been cast into many of the favored fishing holes in this district. He stated that he plans to return to this district to spend his holidays and give more attention to the fish.

Mr. Butcher's wife and family will remain here until early summer. At the present time Mr. Butcher is enjoying several weeks' vacation and will begin his duties in Toronto about the first of March.

J. C. Hall, who has had a remarkable career with the Eaton organization, has succeeded Mr. Butcher as manager of the local store.

CONGRESS PARTY ORDERS NO LETUP BY CAMPAIGNERS

Working Committee Again Demands Unconditional Release of Political Prisoners.

PICKETING TO CONTINUE.

Hope Wanes That Gandhi Will Attend Industrialists Conference.

ALLAHABAD, India, Feb. 2.— (C. P.)— Faced with signs of a slowing down in the campaign of non-violent civil disobedience, the working committee of the Congress Party to-day ordered that there should be no letup and again demanded the unconditional release of thousands of political prisoners.

The order took the form of publication of a resolution which had been passed several days ago, following the declaration of Prime Minister MacDonald at the London Round Table Conference, and the release of Mahatma Gandhi and other high members of the Nationalist party.

Members of the working committee, particularly Gandhi, had hoped to await the return of three of the outstanding delegates to the London Conference, for discussion before formulating the Nationalist attitude to the new developments. The Nationalist leaders, however, decided to make public their resolution immediately.

Hopes of Joint Meet Fade.

Premier MacDonald's offer of qualified Dominion status provided the Indians themselves can agree on the details whereby this could be worked out, is rejected by the Nationalist faction. The working committee calls for a vigorous renewal of the passive resistance movement. It is believed now there is little chance of the Nationalists joining in the coming discussions on the details of the proposed new constitution.

The resolutions also called for continued picketing of liquor, drug and foreign cloth stores, and asserted the right of natives to make their own salt without paying Government taxes.

Bombay business men and others were hoping that Gandhi and his allies would attend a meeting of the Indian Federated Chambers of Commerce there this week, to hear the viewpoint of Indian industrialists which is being seriously affected by the continued unrest. There was but a faint hope that Gandhi would take this step, and indeed the possibility loomed large to-day, following the publication of the Nationalist resolutions; that Gandhi would again find himself behind the bars of Yerroda Prison. His release was given in order that he and his followers might voice their reaction to the Round Table Conference's work and, if they so decided, join in the coming negotiations.

Hindu-Moslem Trouble.

Meanwhile the extent of the vast religious breach between Hindus and Moslems was tragically demonstrated at Rawalpindi, where a Sikh officer was burned alive in a riot that started over a Moslem feast of roast beef. Hindus and Sikhs joined in a protest against the desecration of the cow, which is sacred to them, and terrific fighting ensued, continuing until a deputy commissioner and police superintendent brought a large force into the district.

Mahatma Gandhi himself observed his usual weekly day of silence to-day. All other Congress leaders were leaving for their homes after the meetings with Gandhi, and he will return to Bombay to-morrow.

Six More Weeks of Winter is Assured Bruin Sees Shadow on Candelmas Day

According to tradition, lazy old [illegible] awoke from his long sleep to-day, stretched himself, shook the leaves and bears from his matted fur, and then came out [illegible] from his den. Yawning prodigious yawns, he moved into the [illegible] sunlight of the winter landscape and took a squinted look at his surroundings.

Bruin turned around slowly [illegible] times. Things seemed strange and he had difficulty in getting his bearings. "Huh, it's not the same place it was last fall. Winters aren't what they used to be anyway," he grumbled.

Then, lackaday, he saw something [illegible] and foreboding at his feet. It was his shadow! But old [illegible], sleepy as he was, did not recognise the smudge on the white snow for his own shadow. And because of all this, according to tradition as quoted at Rest, Canada is to have six more weeks of winter before springlike zephyrs fan the cheeks of Canadians and [illegible] waters.

Craft Enters Tail Spin as Pilot Attempts to Bank 300 Feet Up.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., February 2 (C.P.). — Hurtling earthward in full view of 3,000 fans watching a baseball game, a light moth airplane crashed here yesterday and carried two young men to instant death.

The dead, Ivan Thompson, 18, the pilot, son of Major B. O. Thompson, acting physician to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Lethbridge; Donald McKenzie, 18, passenger, son of Alderman W. L. McKenzie

The plane was owned by the Southern Alberta Air Lines, Limited, with headquarters in Lethbridge, but was operated by the Lethbridge Flying Club.

Thompson, the pilot, recently was awarded his commercial flying license, and was taking his friend for a short flight when the accident occurred. A good take-off had been made, and the plane was mounting at a slow rate of speed when it crashed, between 300 and 500 feet off the ground.

Eye-witnesses said that Thompson had attempted to bank, but the plane went into a tail-spin instead.

Fans at the baseball game saw the plane as it climbed into the air, but a few minutes after it had fallen to the ground every seat was forsaken and the game had to be cancelled. players and all going to the scene of the wreck.

Local officials stated that a complete investigation would be made, and that Government officials had been notified of the crash. Both victims of the crash were well known in Lethbridge.

GOV'T DEBATING ON REFORM BILL

Laborites Look For Substantial Majority at Vote Tuesday Night.

CONSERVATIVES OPPOSED.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 2. (CP)—The Government's Electorial Reform Bill was before Parliament to-day for its reading, but the occasion carries no threat to the Ministry.

While the Conservatives opposed the measure in its entirety and left wing Laborites opposed certain of its provisions, the Liberals are for it whole heartedly, since it will increase their representation in the commons greatly. Their vote will balance any Government party defections

The Government therefore looked for a substantial majority when the measure reached a vote Tuesday night, perhaps as large a margin as 70. But like the Trades Dispute Bill, which nearly unseated the Ministry last week, this also then must run the gauntlet committee and probably will be considerably modified.

Its principle provision is for an alternative voting scheme which in three cornered races would necessitate a majority for election to be obtained by naming second choice It is widely supposed to have been the price of Liberal support of the present Government.

HEPBURN MAKES CHARGE SATURDAY AT OLD TIME NOMINATION MEETING FOR VACANT SEAT IN GRENVILLE

Demands Royal Commission to Probe Price's Department Over Brokerage Cases.

FIREWORKS AT PRESCOTT.

Macaulay Brands Many of Liberal Leader's Statements, "Malicious Falsehood."

(By W. W. MURRAY)
(Can. Press Staff Correspondent)

PRESCOTT, Feb. 2. — The traditional vigor which has rarely been absent from the politics of Grenville County once again manifested itself at the nomination day proceedings here on Saturday, when about 700 electors were treated to, and gave every evidence of thoroughly enjoying, an old-time "contradictory meeting."

This Provincial seat rendered vacant by the appointment of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to the post of Canadian High Commissioner in London, two candidates, James A. Sanderson of Oxford Mills and Percy N. Barnard of Spencerville, were nominated—the former a Conservative and the latter a Liberal—to contest the riding on election day, Feb. 11. The nomination formalities were completed by 2 o'clock on Saturday, following which the candidates addressed a large assembly in the Town Hall Sustaining Mr. Sanderson was Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Provincial Secretary, and A. Clare Casselman, M. P. (Conservative, Grenville-Dundas). Mr. Barnard's principal speaker was the newly appointed Provincial Liberal Leader, Mitchell F. Hepburn, M. P. (Liberal, Elgin West).

Candid Criticism.

"Reckless and irresponsible," a disseminator of "slander, abuse and vilification," an "undesirable element in the politics of Ontario," were some of the characterizations which Mr. Macaulay gave of Mr. Hepburn. Added to these was the observation that some of the Liberal leader's campaign statements were "malicious falsehoods."

For his part, Mr. Hepburn was no less robust, in attacking the present High Commissioner and former member for Grenville, and Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, who came in for a considerable proportion of Mr. Hepburn's attention. The Liberal leader called for a Royal Commission to investigate the Attorney-General's conduct of the stock brokers' trials and the recent Stimson failure.

Both speakers covered a variety of economic and social problems. Mr. Macaulay justifying Government expenditures as raising the standard of living in the Province, and asking Mr. Hepburn where he would attempt a saving of money. The latter charged the Government with creating a political machine in Northern Ontario and supporting it with a $10,000,000 appropriation which had been voted in violation of all parliamentary practice. The profits of the present administration from liquor sales were being distributed among ward heelers, he said, from whom the Government purchased supplies for the liquor stores, rather than from the distilleries direct.

"Slander" and "Statesmanship"

"Mr. Hepburn," declared Mr. Macaulay, "must keep his tongue in his cheek when he is talking to the people of Grenville. He is a very reckless and vicious critic, and it is unfortunate for him that the first by-election he has to fight is in Grenville, in view of the slurs and insults he has impudently thrown at the head of its last representative, ex-Premier Ferguson. I think this riding should utilize this opportunity to teach Mr. Hepburn that he should not confuse libel and slander with statesmanship. He has always been noted as reckless and irresponsible in his criticism."

The Provincial Secretary recalled Mr. Hepburn's Mount Elgin speech, wherein the latter charged Mr. Ferguson with having "given away $1,500,000 which was recovered from the courts—and yet he is not even in jail, although he should have been." Other declarations of Mr. Hepburn were cited. "So we perceive," continued Mr. Macaulay, "that Mr. Hepburn pursued Mr. Ferguson with a campaign of slander, abuse and villification on down past the time he handed in his resignation to the Lieutenant-Governor in order to take the position for Canada in London."

Grenville had to decide on Mr. Ferguson's successor. Were they, asked the Provincial Secretary, "going to hand the mandate to the representative of a man who tries to assassinate the reputation of Grenville's greatest son?" He demanded retraction and apology for the "continuous false statements" Mr. Hepburn had made of all prominent men in the opposing party. "If it had been a slip, or a mistake, or an isolated case, one could have excused this young man; but, as Leader of his party, he has continued this line of talk, and unless it is stopped by the people of this constituency he will carry it to unheard-of lengthrs."

Mr. Hepburn challenged Hon. Charles McCrea to explain what use was being made of $10,000,000 voted in "violation of all parliamentary practice," for development in Northern Ontario.. Mr. McCrea had been given a free hand in its disburcement, and with it was creating a huge political machine. Turning to Mr. Macaulay's reference to his Mount Elgin speech, Mr. Hepburn repeated that the Latchford Commission's reply had compelled the recovery of $1,500,000, and that on this account the ex-Premier was "lucky he did not go to jail."

Ontario's liquor profits from receipts of $55,000,000 amounted to only $7,511,000, or 13 per cent of the turnover. In Quebec, where revenues amounted to only $27,000,000, the profits were $8,469,000, or 30 per cent. Since liquor prices were pretty much on a par, Mr. Hepburn asked where the money was going. The Liquor Control Board was operated as a closed corporation, he charged. It did not buy direct from the distilleries, but from "Tory ward heelers."

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

PAVING PROGRAM FOR FIVE YEARS IN TWO COUNTIES

Was Laid Down in 1929 to Continue Until 1933.

THIS YEAR'S WORK.

Part of Bowmanville-Scugog Road Planned For This Year.

(Staff Correspondence)

COBOURG, Feb. 2—The five year county road paving program which the united counties of Northumberland and Durham planned in 1929 will likely be proceeded with this year although some of the members during last week's session of the council expressed the opinion that it should be suspended temporarily because of the present financial and business stringency.

Reeve Percy Stinson of Millbrook asked for information in committee Friday morning as to what permanent work would be done on roads this year. He did not wish to be in the position of going back to his ratepayers not knowing what paving was to de done, he said.

"I think the expenditure on roads this year should be held down to the minimum of maintaining the present efficiency of our roads," said Mr. Stinson. "I don't believe that this work should be turned over entirely to the special commission. I think the Roads and Bridges committee should have something to say about what projects are to be carried out."

Reeve Stinson paid a tribute to George Greer, county roads superintendent, declaring that the united counties owed Mr. Greer a great debt for fighting the cause of good roads.

Replying to Mr. Stinson's question, Mr. Greer said he had never tried to run the county road system except to make it as efficient as possible.

The Five Year Plan

"I can't give you a program for maintenance or construction," Mr. Greer continued. "The council decided on a paving program for five years at an estimated expenditure of $250,000 a year of which the counties' share would be $125,000 a year. It was agreed that the location of the roads to be paved and the mileage would be decided by the roads commission. According to this program no debentures for road work would be issued after the five years."

Mr. Greer stated that according to the schedule of the program it was intended to pave a section of the Bowmanville - Scugog road through the village of Burketon. This road is Reeve Stinson of Millbrook had proposed a salary of $250 for Mr. Vance, Reeve Stone of Campbellford suggested $200, and Reeve Rickard of Newcastle computed that the forty cent payment for each application should amount approximately to $200, if the number of applications did not materially decrease.

Deputy-reeve MacColl of Campbellford had anticipated the council's action by proposing a complete Board

BRUTAL ROBBERS BEAT AGED MAN STEAL SAVINGS

Delhi Resident Struck Down When He Refuses to be Intimidated.

BOTH THUGS ARMED.

Provincial Police Given Fair Description Take Up Trail.

DELHI, Feb. 2.—Brutally attacked and beaten by two masked bandits who entered his home shortly before 7 o'clock Saturday night, Phillip Gibbs, aged 80, of Delhi, was robbed of $76, all the money he possessed. Gibbs is in hospital and is not yet out of danger.

Provincial Police, who are investigating the affair, were able to get a fair description of the men, who are thought to be residents of the community. Gibbs, a recluse, who lived near a lumber yard on the outskirts of the village, was preparing his supper, when the door opened and two masked men entered. Flourishing guns, they demanded his money.

"Stick them up," they ordered the aged man.

Gibbs refused. "You can't scare me with your guns," he told them.

This is the last he remembers.

Some time later he regained consciousness, to find himself lying on the floor of his home and bleeding profusely from a four-inch gash in the head and from less severe injuries. He does not know which of the men struck him down. He staggered to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Edgar Wilson, who called Dr. E. W. Zumstein. The doctor took the victim to his office to dress his wounds, and later removed him to the Norfolk General Hospital at Simcoe.

Provincial Officers Shipley and Taggart began an immediate investigation, and found that the thugs had stolen $76 which had been hidden in clothing in the Gibbs house, but had overlooked silver in the clothes the man was wearing.

BENNETT VISITS MANY NOTABLES IN WASHINGTON

Sees President Hoover, Stimson and Secretaries of Commerce and Interior.

HEADS FOR NEW YORK.

Events of Moment Foreseen Though No Inkling of Discussions' Trend Given.

(By Kenneth S. Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent).

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 2. Canadian-American relations and problems confronting the two countries were the subject of informal discussion between Premier R. B. Bennett and official Washington during Mr. Bennett's two-and-a-half-day visit here. The Prime Minister, accompanied by W. D. Herridge, of Ottawa, left Washington yesterday New York bound.

While the major purpose of Mr Bennett's visit as he himself explained, was to look over the Canadian legation, which he has never seen, and to make the acquaintance as Minister for External Affairs, of Mr. Hume Wrong, a counsellor and Charge D'Affaires, and other members of the Legation staff. He also seized the opportunity to talk informally with President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and other officials about matters of moment to Canada and the United States.

Meets Many Gov't Officials

In addition to conferring with the President and the Secretary of State, Mr. Bennett met while here Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Eugene Meyer, Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve, W. R. Castle, assistant Secretary of State, having oversight of Canadian-American relations, and several other personages of the United States Government.

No inkling of the conversation exchanges was allowed to escape but the fact that Prime Minister saw not only the President and the Secretary of State, but also the United States authorities of commerce, power and finances, suggests that discussion covered a wide territory and that events of moment may be in the air.

PAINFUL FEET MOSTLY DUE TO RHEUMATISM

It is unfortunate that so many people, just as soon as their feet become painful, think that they have fallen arches and immediately go to the drug store and purchase a pair of arch supports. Nor can they be blamed for trying to get relief, because as a matter of fact, the feet are about as necessary in earning a living as is the head.

Arch supports are the very last resort, and should only be used when your arches are down and so rigid that they cannot be helped by temporary supports or excerise.

What causes painful feet?

Drs. R. E. Humphries and G. H. Taylor of the New Jersey Orthopedic Dispensary have been studying foot conditions for a number of years, and have recently given the results found in 1000 cases.

The most common cause of painful feet is arthritis or rheumatism as it was formerly called, which is an inflammation of the joints between the various bones of the feet. Of the 1000 cases 766 had arthritis and 592 of these had pains in other joints also. 340 patients had stomach and intestinal trouble.

What does this mean?

That every patient with painful feet should have a thorough examination of the entire body before any supports or real orthopedic treatment is given.

Just as infected teeth and tonsils, and the poisons that go down to the large intestine from these points, can cause arthritis or inflammation of a knee, elbow, shoulder or hip, so also, can they cause this condition in the feet. In fact what is called colonic irrigation, is simply the washing out of the large intestine and this form of treatment is proving most effective in arthritis in any part of the body.

As you can't get about properly without support of the feet, the use of adhesive tape, one inch in width can be used to strap up the arches while you are undergoing treatment of the arthritis. About three strips of adhesive are used, each very slightly overlapping the other from a point just below, and a little in front of, outer ankle bone, then brought under the foot (the arch) to inner side, then up and fastened to outer side of the leg about 6 or 8 inches above the outer ankle bone. These can be changed every five or six days until the arthritis is cleared up.

As mentioned above, if your arches are right down and rigid—not pliable—then it is time to get arch supports that suit your particular feet.

Judging by the number of orders being received for patterns, Peterborough citizens must be very busily engaged in sewing.

No doubt many of you are doing your spring sewing and it is indeed a good time to get it done because later on, one must get the housecleaning done.

I wonder how many of you are using organdy for trimming on your frocks?

This is really a summer material but it has appeared earlier in the season than usual, appearing as a mid-season material.

The combination of the textile with heavier goods supplies a suitability that does not exist when the sheer material is used alone.

Organdy may be secured in different shades but the preferred tone is what we may term ivory-color, or which was once termed ecru.

However it is the matching of the organdy with the textile in combination that is notable. As has been shown, it would be lace-color, and gold lace especially, is exquisitely in unison with the vogue.

Or perhaps you are using this sheer material in making bags. One of the specially attractive accessories of organdy combines with cloth of gold and gold lace is found in bags.

An attractive way to combine organdy and cloth of gold with lace is to have a band of the gold textile extending entirely around the middle of the bag. The gold lace is positioned with the straight edge at the bottom of the bag and again at the top close to the frame or the place where the gathering-string hem comes.

This causes the ornamental irregular edge of the lace to extend toward the band of the cloth of gold. Do not line the bag, let it remain sheer.

HER LIFE.

When one life glows with fair divine
It is a candle on a shrine.
And all who pass the holy place
Gain something of its love and grace.
Its light is clear and who can say
How far the valiant beams may stray?

Who knows how many there may be,
By chance, this matchless gleam to see?
And who in all the world can tell
What depths of dark it may dispel
As, falling where joy's forces wane,
It brings the ray of hope again

This is her life, so brave, so bright,
A candle that defies the night,
And flings its questing beams afar.
A candle that outshines a star!

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOT CARROT.

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily was all alone in his hollow stump bungalow, a knock sounded at the kitchen door.

"I had better be careful about opening the door," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "This may be a trick of the Bad Chaps to catch me. I wish Nurse Jane were at home, or even my wife. They could help me in case the Fox or Bob Cat tries to break in."

"Rat-a-tat-tat!" sounded on the kitchen door again.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman. "This is getting serious. But maybe, after all, it is only Baby Bunty, or one of my rabbit children, coming home from school a bit early. I'll ask who it is, though, before I open the door."

So Uncle Wiggily asked:

"Who is there? Who is knocking?"

"I am!" a voice answered, and Uncle Wiggily was very glad when he heard the grunting voice of Mr. Twistytail, his fat pig friend.

"Oh, Twisty! Excuse me! I didn't know it was you," said Uncle Wiggily as he quickly opened the door. "Why, what is the matter?" asked Mr. Longears as he saw how serious Mr. Twistytail looked. "Is your wife ill"? asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No, thank goodness, it isn't quite as bad as that," the pig gentleman grunted. "But your friend, Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear, has a very bad cold, and Dr. Possum says the only thing that will cure him is a hot carrot."

"Yes, a hot carrot is very good for colds," said Uncle Wiggily. "I have tried it many times. But how did Mr. Whitewash catch cold?"

"You know how it is!" grunted the pig gentleman. "Living, as he does, in an ice cave, it's a wonder to me that Whitewash hasn't always a cold. But he has a bad one this time."

"Then we must take him a hot carrot," said the rabbit. "I am glad you came to me."

"Yes," went on Mr. Twistytail. "I knew if anybody would have a hot carrot it would be you, my rabbit friend."

"I haven't exactly a hot carrot this moment," spoke Mr. Longears. "But it will not take me long to boil one. I'll hop down cellar after it while you put on the stove a kettle of water to boil. We'll soon cure the cold of that jolly old Polar Bear. But I think he should do something about living in that ice cave."

Hot carrot is very good for colds

So do I," said the pig. "If it were lined with red flannel for the winter I think it would be a good thing."

"Or fur or something like that," agreed Uncle Wiggily as he slid down the cellar stairs to get a carrot from the bin.

Meanwhile, Mr. Twistytail, grunting and puffing because he was so fat, had put the water on to boil and soon the big, yellow carrot was cooking on the stove. Now and again Uncle Wiggily stuck a fork in the boiling vegetable to see if it were cooked enough.

At last the rabbit said:

"The carrot is good and hot. We must quickly take it to Mr. Whitewash before it gets cool."

"But how are we going to carry it?" asked the pig. "It is so hot it will burn our paws even if we wear thick gloves."

"I'll put the carrot in a big glass jar, like a bottle," said Uncle Wiggily. "Here is a glass jar Nurse Jane used for canned peaches. The peaches are all eaten, the jar is empty and it will nicely hold the hot carrot so it will not burn us as we take it to Mr. Whitewash."

"Fine and dandy!" chuckled the fat pig. Soon, with the hot carrot in the glass jar, he and Uncle Wiggily started over the fields and through the woods to the ice cave of Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear. Uncle Wiggily was carrying the jar with the hot carrot in, and even though he had on fur gloves, Mr. Twistytail noticed that Uncle Wiggily kept changing the carrot jar from one paw to the other.

"What's the matter?" asked the pig.

"This carrot is so hot, even through the glass jar, that it burns my paws if I hold it in one too long," answered the rabbit. "I have to keep changing paws all the while."

"Let me have a go at it," grunted the pig. He took the hot carrot jar in one of his paws but quickly changed it to the other, for the boiled, yellow vegetable seemed to be getting hotter all the while.

"Wow! I can't stand this!" grunted the pig. "It's to hot even with changing paws. What are we going to do? How are we going to get this hot carrot to Mr. Whitewash to cure his cold?"

'Hum! Let me think," answered Mr. Longears. So he began to think while Mr. Twistytail tossed the hot carrot jar from one paw to the other. Then, all of a sudden - but dear me! I can't finish this story now.

RED CROSS AIDS IN CITY'S RELIEF

Clothing is Being Sent at Once to the Central Relief Organization.

ORGANIZER VISITS CITY

N. R. Vinton, Field Organizer of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society was in Peterborough last week calling on local Red Cross officers and other prominent citizens at present interested in the solution of the relief problem. Mr Vinton was the bearer of good news particularly to the new Council of the Central Relief Association. It had not been generally known in Peterborough that the Red Cross is at this time prepared to issue to any municipality in need, blankets, palliasse and bolsters which may be used by the municipality in setting up a temporary hotel to take care of homeless men for a night or so who otherwise would be hard put to find shelter from the cold.

James Dutton, James Abraham of the Legion and A. Metheral were most interested in Mr. Vinton's offer, immediately availing themselves of the co-operation so splendidly given by the Red Cross.

Mr. Vinton also interviewed R. M. Glover and called at the Mayor's office in order to pay his respects. Mayor Denne was unfortunately out but a letter stating Mr. Vinton's mission will go forward to him.

Additional clothing consisting of denim trousers is going forward at once to the Central Clothing Bureau and close co-operation between Red Cross and existing Relief Organization has been assured by Mr. Vinton.

REV. D. B. ROGERS SHOWS SLIDES OF PASSION PLAY

Secretary of General Board of Religious Education Preaches in St. John's.

OBERAMMERGAU PLAYS.

Some simple little occurrence or object may serve to awaken a person from the dark of sin or slothfulness, declared Rev. D. B. Rogers, Editorial Secretary of the General Board of Religious Education, Toronto, in a sermon delivered before the congregation of St. John's Anglican Church last evening. Following the evening service, Mr. Rogers gave an illustrated lecture on the Oberammergau Passion Play which he visited last summer.

The preacher chose for his text the words, "The cock crew," which came from Luke 22:60.

"What we are interprets what we see and hear and read. For example when the bells ring for service in the morning, some will be annoyed at having been awakened from sleep, while others recognize it as a call of God to a service of praise and worship, according to the persons' attitude towards religion."

"And this same thing is true in most of our experiences. It was true in Peter's incident. Peter and John were following Jesus after his betrayal by Judas, when the Master told Peter that before the cock crew twice he would deny him thrice, but the disciple declared that he would accompany Jesus even to death. After the long walk, Peter went into where there was a fire at which he could warm himself, and it was at this point that he denied his association with his Master. When the latter was being led along the passageway of the open court, he looked down at Peter, and just then the cock crew. The disciple went out and wept bitterly.

"Peter's penitence was immediate, as his was only a momentary denial, he was really devoted to Jesus, but his devotion wavered at this point. The crowning of the cock served to bring him back to his senses. Similarly with us just a little incident brings us back from the shadow of darkness. It may be that seeing the happy children around a Christmas tree may remind a man of younger days, and thus bring him to the light again. Ir it may be that some strain of music drifts into a person's soul, and changes it.

"The people of Jerusalem heard the cock every morning, but to no other did it mean the same as to Peter. To some it might have signified the time to rise for the day's work. But is called Peter to repentence, so that a new day broke in his life, a new brightness—the darkness and shame of the denial were put away.

"We can appreciate the disciple better if we compare him with Judas, who in cold stoicism was able to betray his Master for money. When Judas went out the night was dark—dark as the soul of Judas. When Peter realized his fault, it was morning, and his soul brightened with the rising sun. Judas hanged himself, but Peter at the Lake with the risen Lord assured the Master by a three-fold vow that he loved him—he was sure then.

"Now as we enter the shadow of Lent and progress towards the darkness of death, let the crowing of the cock mean the same to us, may it brighten our soils, taking us for Christ's, and thereby bringing to him honor and glory."

After the service, the congregation adjourned to the Parish Hall where Rev. Rogers showed several slides which he took of the Oberammergau Passion Play in 1930. The origin of the play finds itself in the dim past. A plague was raging in the country at the time, but so far the village was free from any traces of the disease. However, an outsider brought it in, and the plague started its devastation of the townsmen. The villagers met in the Church, and prayed to God to take the scourge away, and made him a certain promise if he did. The plague did cease, and the presentation of the Passion Play came as a result.

Oberammergau is a town of 2,000 inhabitants, nestling at the foot of lofty Bavarian mountains. Its Church and Theatre are noticeable in the bird's eye views and airplane photos of the town.

The Play is presented every 10 years, and lasts from May until August. The performances are given twice a week, except during the middle two weeks when three showings are made. About five thousand people attend every performance which lasts from 8.30 to 11.30 a.m., and 2.00 to 5.00 p.m.

Pictures were shown of the members of the cast, both in ordinary life, and in their roles. Choruses, tableaux and the parts of the play itself were portrayed. The scenes of the play follow the New Testament; they commence with a street scene; then come the scenes of Jesus in the Temple casting out the changers, of the Sanadrin council, of the woman annointing Jesus' feet, the supper at Simon's house, the journey to Jerusalem when the disciples were arguing as to who should be the greatest, the obtaining of the upper room, the Last Supper, Judas bargaining with the priests, Jesus washing the disciples' feet, a marvellous scene in which Judas counted the silver pieces, which he had received, in a very avaricious manner, the agony on the Mount of Olives, the betrayal, the trials and maltreatings of Jesus, the Way of the Cross, and the great Crucifixion.

These slides of Rev. D. B. Rogers were both interesting and educational, and they have inspired many with the desire to journey to Oberammergau in 1940 when the next Passion Play, the preparations for which are already under way, is to take place.

An anonymous donor recently sent the Royal National Lifeboat Institution of Britain a box marked "One year's halfpennies," and containing 392 halfpennies, equivalent to about $3.89.

THE MODERN MAN BURNS HIMSELF UP.

Excepting trained athletes, we moderns are puny creatures compared with our forefathers. Even athletes soon burn out eating acid-forming foods, the great cause of modern physical inferiority. From 32 to 50 Dr. Jackson was one of the unfit. At 50 Dr. Osler gave him four months to live, dying from acid-forming foods. He then invented alkali-forming Roman Meal. Before that he had lived on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years afterwards he climbed the fifty storeys in Washington's Monument, up and down, solely due to the alkalinizing properties in Roman Meal. Cut slices of any left-over loaf one and one-half, to two inches thick. Take a round cutter and cut a circle, then with a sharp knife remove a cone of the bread from one side of the slice. Toast both the cone and the slice, and fill with creamed chicken, fish, or any filling desired, placing the toasted cone on the top. These are nice for a breakfast dish, filled with an egg, and with slices of bacon around—bake the egg in the oven in its bread "holder."

EXTENDING THE ALLOWANCES.

On the same day that the Peterborough County Council passed a resolution in opposition to the suggestion that the mothers' allowance benefits be extended to include widows with one child, the York County Council was urging that this change in the act should be put into force.

There is a wide difference of opinion throughout the Province on this point.

It is argued by those who favor the one-child widow being granted assistance under the Mothers' Allowance Act that such women often have as hard a task in finding work and a home for their children as do the mothers of two or more children, and that they are equally entitled to share in the benefits.

On the other hand, it is claimed that many young widows are enabled to return to the former homes and are taken care of by their parents, making assistance unnecessary in their case, and again, that a widening out of the mothers' allowance legislation such as has been urged by labor organizations and other societies and individuals would very materially increase the cost of the scheme and prove too heavy a burden upon the Province and upon the municipalities.

In view of the announcement of a provincial deficit, it can be put down as decided that there will be no change in the act during the coming session at least.

PAYING THE BILLS.

Judge O'Connell and Judge Lee, who presided over recounts arising out of the recent municipal elections, have decided that the unsuccessful candidates who applied for a recount and failed to change the results must pay the cost of the proceedings.

There will be little fault found in that ruling, which is one that municipal politicians everywhere might do well to note and remember as a precedent to guide future actions.

It seems only reasonable that the individual who has occasioned the expense of an unsuccessful recount should be called upon to foot the bill, and the attempt of several Toronto newspapers to saddle the municipality with the cost of the McBride recount because it disclosed certain irregularities on the part of deputy returning officers and poll clerks was doomed to failure.

If the decision of the judges had been otherwise and the expense of the recount had been saddled upon the city of Toronto, a whole flock of applications for similar proceedings from unsuccessful candidates might be expected to follow every municipal election in which the result was close.

The common-sense principle has been followed, however that the man who starts legal action and fails must be prepared to pay the shot.

PROTECTION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA.

In view of Peterborough's successful experience in protecting children from diphtheria, it is rather surprising to find that the capital city of Canada has only just reached the point where an educational campaign is being launched to teach the public the value of immunization against the once dreaded disease.

The Ottawa Board of Control has approved a request from the Board of Health for a grant of $5,000 with which the health authorities propose to bring before the people of Ottawa the effectiveness of immunization, and the record of cities which have used this method and thereby cut down the annual number of diphtheria cases to a minimum.

Immunization has been employed here for a number of years, and Peterborough citizens will undoubtedly hear with astonishment that the capital up to the present has done nothing to protect itself against a disease which experience has taught local people can be effectively controlled and almost eliminated.

Some thousands of young children have been inoculated—that word is used in want of a better—against diphtheria, and so far as The Examiner has been able to learn, there is not one case yet recorded of a child who had been thus immunized afterwards contracting the disease.

That is the best possible proof of the efficacy of the method, and as other centres which have adopted the same results, Ottawa should have no difficulty in arriving at a decision that immunization should be generally adopted in the capital city.

MEANS MUCH TO PETERBOROUGH.

The decision of the finance committee of the City Council to renew its invitation to the Ontario Plowmen's Association to hold its annual international plowing matches and power farming machinery demonstration here next autumn and to back up the invitation by the offer of a $1,000 grant and a banquet is good business.

Many thousands of people can be counted upon to attend this famous event which last year brought together 437 of Canada's most skilful exponents of the art of plowing.

The advantage of having Peterborough chosen as the locale for such an outstanding competition need not be elaborated; the presence of some 75,000 or 80,000 visitors during the week would mean a great deal financially to the whole community, and the benefits therefrom are surely ample justification for the expenditure authorised by the finance committee.

J. J. Duffus, whose interest in the Ontario Plowmen's Association has long been recognized, deserves general thanks for the efforts he is making to have Peterborough chosen for this year's matches; if he succeeds he will have brought to this city a most interesting event that will prove of decided benefit to this district, and the civic authorities are justified in giving him all the support they possibly can.

WHAT DID THE EXPERTS KNOW—IF ANYTHING?

Labor, published at Washington, propounds the above question, proceeds to answer it in an interesting way.

A Boston lawyer, it appears, has collected bulletins of the Harvard Economic Society, dealing with the market and industrial conditions. The record shows that they have been almost 100 per cent. wrong.

The Boston lawyer quotes chapter and verse.

On October 5, 1929, the society announced: "We believe this week's liquidation will not inaugurate a period of prolonged decline." The date is important. It was just a few weeks before the most disastrous crash in history, yet these great economists, the highly-paid intellectuals of the richest university in the world, knew about as much as the woolliest and most amateur speculator.

On November 30, 1929, the economists said: "A depression like 1920 or 1921 is clearly out of the question. We face a recession which will terminate in the spring."

Conditions in the spring were infinitely worse than in November.

On January 8, 1930: "The most acute stage of the recession is probably over."

The number of United States unemployed doubled since that date.

Never did a group of eminent prophets make a poorer guess.

The Harvard Economic Society issued other bulletins, all of them equally wrong. They were certainly just as wrong as any of the rest of us.

Many of us stand in awe of these learned economists, with their pretensions of superior knowledge, just as we stand in awe of so-called experts in most lines. How much do they actually know?

When in August, 1914, the Great War began, world-famous economists assured us that it couldn't last three months. Lack of credit would stop it. It went on for four years, and when it did stop, it wasn't a question of credit.

Truly, like this Boston lawyer, we're skeptical about these experts and economists. And what adds to our skepticism is a scrap-book containing the dogmatic statements and prophecies of some of our own great minds regarding what was going to happen to Canada, in matters of trade, finance and immigration, immediately after the war.—Ottawa Journal.

RESPECT FOR THE LAW.

The Detroit Free Press comments on the case of the Josephine K., a rum-running vessel of Canadian register, during the capture of which a coastguard vessel of the United States fired shots that killed Captain Cluett. In part the Detroit paper says:

"Across the border in Canada it will be easy for those who have no respect for our laws to incite popular resentment over the death of a Canadian skipper at the hands of American enforcement officers. The fact that he was engaged in the dirty business of running liquor into this country, with his eyes wide open to the penalty he invited, will not be emphasized. All that the considerable element of his countrymen, which is sympathetic to the traffic he carried on, will stress is that a Canadian citizen has been killed by a Yankee shot. The effect of this on the spirit of our relations with our neighbors in the Dominion will be depressing."

The Free Press should have thought seriously before it wrote that. To begin with we are quite certain there are very few people in Canada who have no respect for the laws of United States or any other nation. We come from a race of people where respect and regard for law is born and bred. The Free Press should also remember that the Government of this country had so much regard, not only for the laws of United States, but for the desires of that country, that it went to the limit of refusing to grant clearance papers to any vessel carrying liquor from Canada to United States, a kindly gesture which is costing this country about $15,000,000 per year.

The Free Press, situated as it is on the border, ought to know that there is no sentiment here which favors the bootlegger and the rum-runner. These people are regarded as being outside the law entirely, and our own officers are busy all the time searching them out and bringing them to justice. The Detroit paper might also be interested in knowing that when a prosecution is started here there is no interference from political sources. It is not of any use or purpose to go and "see" certain influential individuals who have entrance to the back door of the rooms where justice is measured out. These influential individuals who can head off prosecution do not exist in this country, and therein lies the difference between our love of justice and the sort of thing which is handed out in many of the courts of United States.

It is also a fact, if our memory serves us right, that in the city where the Free Press is published there were many arrests made a few months ago of preventive officers who had been taking money from the liquor ring while on the payroll of their country. If there were a widespread, deep-seated and well-rooted love of justice in the bailiwick of the Free Press such a thing could not come to pass.

There is no sentiment in this country that is going to rush to the defence of the Josephine K. Of that we are quite certain. There is only one point which people here wish to have satisfactorily answered, and it is this: Was it necessary to use guns to overhaul that craft? Was it necessary to kill Captain Cluett in order to seize the vessel? That point, we imagine, will be established in due course, and until it is there is no chance of intelligently answering the above questions.

We do not imagine that the relationships between United States and Canada will be affected by such an article as the Free Press has printed, in which it is plainly intimated that there is a considerable portion of the people of this country who have no regard for the laws of United States.

The plain truth is that there is respect for law in this country—there is even something approaching a love for it, and the Detroit Free Press would be singularly fortunate were it able to make a similar claim for its own district and then proceed to substantiate that claim by police and political history of recent years. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It would begin to look as if the people who used to call the Ontario Government a one-man affair were thinking of Col. Price and not of Mr. Ferguson.

Anyway the Hamilton by-election will be over in time to allow the Attorney-General and Captain Philpott to exchange Valentines.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

He said he would drive up in time for breakfast. And they were to tell Aunt Molly he sent her his best love.

He went to bed and, unexpectedly, to sleep. He called Nogi long before dawn had his bag packed and coffee made, and was off before the rest of the city was awake.

It was wonderful driving up the river with the rising sun spreading a soft pink sheen across it. There was a strong wind blowing and it had swept the sky clear. The countryside looked clean and bare as if nature were getting things ready for the gorgeous advent of spring.

Aunt Molly was in her room on the first floor, propped high among her pillows. Her breathing was difficult.

"Dear boy," she said, and clung to his hand.

She seemed to sleep a little after that. Michael sat beside her and when she opened her eyes, she said, "I want you to be happy."

She drifted away and came back. "Michael, I have left this place to you. You must bring Virginia here in summer. She can look after my little ducks. Your children—will love—my little ducks, Michael."

She was smiling. He was glad he had not told her that Virginia was lost to him, that she was going to marry Tony Bleecker.

"Michael, will you bring her here?"

He lied gallantly, "Yes."

She seemed to sleep again. The nurse came and whispered, "It is sleep she needs. Perhaps if she can get it—"

There seemed a bit of hope in that Michael asked the doctor if the hope was justified.

"She may pull through. She has a strong constitution, but she never saves herself."

The doctor nodded. "She was out looking after the lambs. It was a dreadful night and she was chilled to the bone."

Michael, walking later about the place, came upon the ducks swimming composedly in a frigid pool. What was it Aunt Molly had said? Bring Virginia here—she can look after my little ducks—your children—will love my little ducks, Michael."

One of the farm men coming up said, She sent out to know if the ducks had been fed. She always does it herself. She loves every living thing on the place and they love her. She took cold looking after the lambs."

The doctor told me."

That night a turn of the tide swept Aunt Molly away from the shores of death. Her convalescence was slow and she wanted Michael near her. So he went back and forth to the city, spending as much time as he could on the farm. It was thus that he saw all of Aunt Molly's friends and neighbors, and learned the place she had made for herself in the hearts of the people of the countryside. She had lived for others not in any narrow sense, but wholesomely and heartily, with joy in their joy, sympathy in their sorrow. It seemed to Michael as he went among them, that this after all, was the secret of real happiness, not to shut oneself away from the world, but to become a part of it, as ringed the hazards of the road with rich and poor, simple and proud, as fellow travelers journeying toward a common goal.

A season of spring-like weather set in, and as he walked and rode about the farm, Michael began to sense the excitement of the approaching season. Everywhere one felt it; the little frozen streams thawed and rippled, there was a sprouting of clear green against the black earth in sheltered corners, birds flew up from the south, the barn doors were open, there were calves and lambs, piglets and goslings, tiny chicks and little ducks, making their first fascinating excursions into the outer world.

How Virginia would love it!

It was when Aunt Molly was sitting up that she spoke to him of Virginia.

When is she coming?"

Aunt Molly was in a great winged chair by the window of her bedroom. The view showed the round of the hill, which led down from the house and a vast stretch of sky above it, pale azure with white clouds scudding across it like celestial ships.

Why not?"

He told her. Of the night at Derekdale; of her note; and of what Rickey had said of her marriage to Tony Bleecker.

Aunt Molly sat very still, her serene eyes on the scudding clouds. And you let her go like that?"

Yes."

Why?"

Because," he told her, I felt she was like all the rest, and why should I have faith in any woman?"

Don't be so shallow, Michael."

Her scorn stung him. I'm not shallow."

You are, you are!" Her eyes were no longer serene. They were keen, accusing To judge a woman like Viginia by a woman like—Helen."

He sat staring at her, but he did not see her. What he saw was his wife, Helen, her cold loveliness, her indifference, and beside that Virginia's radiance, the clear glance like a child's.

And suddenly he found himself saying, I've been a fool, Aunt Molly."

Such a dear fool, "she said, and held out her hand smiling, but none the less a—fool."

When he left his aunt, Michael walked under the wide azure sky. His heart was light. He would go to Virginia and beg her to forgive him. He would say, Let me show you what you and I may share together."

He would bring her then to Aunt Molly's and she would know what he meant. That he was not offering her worldly possessions, but rather some treasure of heart and soul, a thing shared spiritually as it were by one who understood, Derekdale had its barns and stables, its livestock. It had its streams, its fields and pastures, but here on Aunt Molly's farm was an intimacy with nature which the great estate lacked. At Derekdale men were hired to keep perfect the machinery of dairy and poultry yard, but here one seemed to get at the heart of things—the doves and the ducks, the lambs, and the fat horses knew their mistress and loved her. You and I," he would say to Virginia, we will meet life as Aunt Molly has met it. If not on the farm, then in some other place where we shall have the realities of love and friendliness, and and where we shall grow roots that strike into the soil and bloom to the end of our days."

A week later he came to Washington Square. He went into the hall and saw the Bronze Knight with his torch, and the dreary people going up and down the stairs. His heart was beating fast as he knocked at the door of Virginia's apartment.

The door was opened by a strange woman.

"Miss Oliphant asked me not to give her address to anyone," he was told.

Why had Virginia disappeared like this? And had she gone alone? He was tortured for a moment by the thought that she might have gone with Tony. He had the grace to be ashamed of that. He knew her for what she was, a woman with ideals as high as her high-held head.

At the end of the week he went to Annapolis. The Oliphant house was closed. There was a sign up—For Sale. The March wind swept over the dead garden and rustled the brittle leaves. He asked the woman next door if any of the Oliphant were in town. She said they were not, and that the house was heavily mortgaged and must be sold.

Michael asked if she had the key. She gave it to him and he went back to the house and entered it. In the dark drawing-room his footsteps echoed as he crossed the floor. He flung the blinds open. The light streamed in and illumined the big room and the stairway beyond. Michael stood very still. He seemed to see Virginia going up the stairs, the candlesticks like a crucifix upon her breast.

CHAPTER TWENTY. LUCIFER.

It had been one of those cold days in Florida which dampen the ardor even of the wildest enthusiast. The spirits of the party on the Van Duyne yacht were at low ebb. Rain was falling in a chilly drizzle, there was no prospect of out-of-door activities, and card-playing seemed a dreary process when attempted within the bleak confines of the ship's cabin.

Marty having stayed in bed until luncheon was over, came out fur-coated on deck to find Jane also fur-coated and bored to death.

"I'll go mad if this keeps up," Jane said, restlessly. "My bridge luck is against me, and the men are all in terrible tempers. Even Tony snapped me up as if I were a bone and he wanted to bite me."

Marty had no nerves and said so. "If the men don't like it, they can go on shore."

"And leave us here? No thank you."

"We can go with them."

"Where? The whole world is drowned."

"There are tea dances at the hotels."

"That might be better than nothing. But we'd have to come back, and the storm may be worse . . . the wind's rising."

"Suppose we get up something on board, and invite people over. Then they'll have to be the ones to brave the elements."

"Why not?" lazily, "I like to skim the cream for myself."

Marty wore no hat, but she had tried about her hair a crimson handkerchief. It gave a bizarre effect to her beauty, in strange contrast to her usual silver whiteness, and as she stood leaning against the ship's rail, the wind fluttered the ends of the handkerchief like little flags of warning.

Rickey coming out, said, "What made you wear a think like that?"

"Don't you like it?"

"No. It makes me think of blood, guillotines, men sharpening knives—" he shivered his face pallid.

Marty laid her hand on his arm. "You're like Jane, Rickey. Feeling your nerves."

"Well, why shouldn't I? This rain's enough, and you shutting yourself up all the morning."

Jane's back was towards them. She had seen Rickey arriving, and had put the width of the deck between them. She wished Marty would get rid of the boy. She wished . . . !

Marty was saying, "Why shouldn't I shut myself up? It was a gorgeous morning to sleep."

"I couldn't sleep. I was in purgatory."

"There isn't such a place."

"Much you know about it," hotly.

We make our own purgatories. You worry too much, Rickey. Take what you can get out of life and let the rest go."

"Easy enough to say," moodily. Since you have—everything."

"Not everything. This morning I might have been restless—like Jane. But I opened my eyes and saw that it was raining—and went to sleep again!"

Her words expressed so absolutely her philosophy that Rickey found himself smiling. "Oh, Marty, Marty, make me happy."

"To-day? Well, then . . . ' We are all bored to death. Why can't you write a play—to put on to-night? A thing with a lot of scenes, pantomime, dancing—dialogue?"

"We'll be inviting a lot of people over. There won't be much time to plan costumes or for rehearsals, but we can make it farcical, fantastic, funny."

DIVERT TRAFFIC — LET CHILDREN PLAY.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—At last "a dangerous practice" cost the life of a happy, rollicking child, whose sled ran under the wheels of "modern traffic conditions." What a tragedy and sacrifice!

What does such a calamity portend? Is childhood to be more and more deprived of its most glorious winter sport—sledding? Why not divert the traffic and protect the children?

Use the "No Thoroughfare" or the "Detour" sign during specified hours in order that the children may have the free use of some of the less-used, long hillside runs. Nobody need be inconvenienced and everybody would be happy over the winter carnival of childhood. Peterborough could thus set up this month of February.

OLD BOY.

What To-day Means To You

"AQUARIUS"

If February 2nd is your bithday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 10:30 p.m. to midnight.

February 2nd will be found a turning point in many ways. It will be a good time, from astrological diselosures, to work out future business plans. Anything which calls for delicacy of handling may be attempted on this date.

The child born on this February 2nd will have a tendancy to pout when things go wrong, but will smile brightly when it is having its own way. It will love commednation from its elders, and popularity amongst its playmates. It will be fascinated by the study of history and will be a great reader

If you were born on a February 2nd Kismet will find it difficult to overcome your optimistic spirit, or to over-ride your pluck, by any of the adverse things which it has in store for you. You will make more than one slip in life, but as a philosopher, you are a complete and unequivocal success. When exterior clouds are the darkest, you exhibit more sunshine from within. You do not duck your head against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. The modesty with which you accept your glories, and the courage with which you face your failures, show the true calibre of your character.

Your love for humanity, your sympathy and tolerance for the weaker brother or sister, and the whole world of down-trodden, is not a pose on your part. You are ever helping someone by some simple kindly word or act-helping, where you expect neither material returns or gratitude. You are not blind to the tiny miracles, which go on in our every day lives—the little things which melt the ice on your dreary days. Your heart is big, but it has little room for envy or jealousy, but much room for love.

You are a very methodical, conscientious worker, paying almost too much attention to details. Your spirit often forces you beyond your physical strength, and you never know when to stop, when you are eager to get a thing done. You are almost childishly eager to try out any new idea or thing as soon as you are in possession of it—to you there is no time like the present.

Lingwood, people's warden read the statement of the church wardens which has been, despite the depression, very encouraging. He thanked the congregation for their magnificent backing, especially during the past year. By the will of the late Mrs. E. Bickell the church was to receive $500 from her estate on the death of her husband and there is also a bequest from Mr. Bickell which will be received in the course of time required to wind up his estate. The rector re-appointed Mr. Wilfred S. Remnaut as his warden and Dr. F. H. Lingwood was re-elected unanimously as people's warden. Messrs. O. A. Langley, E. R. Tate and T. A. DR. H. H. THOMAS IN POLICE HANDS

PLAN AIR SERVICE IN REMOTE AFRICA

Aeroplanes Seldom Seen in Most Parts of West Africa.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(By the Canadian Press)—A vision of airways linking some of the remote territories of empire is raised by the report of a visit paid by W. A. Campbell, one of the civil aviation officers of the Air Ministry, to West Africa.

Nigeria, Gambia the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone—these are names not yet to be found in any guide book to world airways. The great air route soon to be opened through Africa from Cairo to Cape Town lies thousands of miles to the east; the French terminus of the air mail line from Paris and Morocco is, it is true, at Dakar, a smalll town in French Senegal only 100 miles from Bathurst in the Gambia but no air connections yet exist. Aeroplanes are seldom seen in most parts of this vast area. Royal Air Force bombers which recently traversed Africa from Khartoum to Bathurst flew many hundreds of miles through virgin air, passing over great tracts where airmen had never previously ventured.

Problems connected with the establishment of a flying boat service from Calabar, Nigeria to French Senegal are enjoying the close attention of experts and of the Colonial Office. Along this route, measuring 2,300 miles of coastline, the flying machines would acll at Bathurst, Bolama (Portuguese Guinea,) Freetown, Monrovia (capital of the negro state Liberia,) Grand Bassam (French Ivory Coast,) Takoradi the great port in the Gold Coast, and Lagos. Then inland up the Niger River amphibious 'planes might penetrate nearly a thousand miles to a junction at the town of Zinder with the Franco-Belgian airway across the Sahara to Europe

Mother Enters Swim To Buy Family Food

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 2. — Mrs. Katerina Rehua, a Maori woman whose husband has been out of work for nine months, entered an endurance swimming contest here yesterday to earn enough money to buy food for her four children, one of which is only nine weeks old.

She swam for 47 hours and 52 minutes but she finished second to Mercedes Gleitze, who kept up the grind for 23 minutes longer.

Her prize was $500 and Miss Gleitze contributed another $500 from her earnings of $1,500. Mrs. Rehua and her husband said they had spent their last shilling for carfare to the pool where the marathon was conducted.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

SEVERAL ISSUES ON DOWN TREND

Business Done Principally in Half Dozen Issues on Toronto Market To-day.

OILS ARE IRREGULAR.

TORONTO, Feb. 2. (CP)—It was very quiet for the opening day of February on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Business was principally in half a dozen issues and of these only one or two had more than a few hundred shares turnover.

Nickel was the outstanding issue, the stock was being handed out on the assumption that directors meeting this afternoon would cut or omit the quarterly dividend next due. Towards midday the stock sold under 14 for the first time this year.

Brazilian, C.P.R., Walkers and Massey-Harris were other issues on the side of the decline. Massey-Harris, after firming the last sessions of last week, sipped blow 7 again.

The oils were irregularly lower, although at midday, B. A. Oil was the only issue to show a net loss, being down ½ point at 14¾.

Waterloo manufacturing dropped a couple of points to 4 Directors have decided to omit the dividend due on class "A" shares.

Atlantic Sugar recovered a point to 26.

TRADING LIGHT ON MINE MART

OIL SECTION DULL.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 2.—While higher-prices issues showed an irregularly lower tendency: lower-priced stocks were in fair demand in the opening session of the week on the mining market to-day. Trade was light when compared with that of the early part of last week.

International Nickel dropped to a new low for the year and at mid-day was off a quarter from Saturday at $14.00. Noranda lost alike amount to $17.00. Cheaper Base Metals were unchanged in quiet turnover.

Teck Hughes lost 10 to $7.05, though figures for the first quarter published to-day showed dividend earned with a surplus. Dome and Lake Shore were off 5 apiece. Hollinger moved against the trend to gain 5 at $8.35. Big Missouri and Sylvanite eased a cent each. Nipissing gained another 4 to $1.5.

Oils were dull, Ajax Oil losing a point to $1.49 and balance of the group holding.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 2. (Special to Examiner.)—Though higher priced issues continued to display some irregularity in the opening session of the mining market to-day, lower priced stocks continued in fair demand. A number of these co-called penny issues have been mentioned in connection with mining deals in the north, and a good part of the interest has been traced across the border. It is evident the coming season will see more widespread development of prospects, particularly gold properties with interesting developments almost certain. The Bunker Hill Extension Tough Oakes deal has aroused considerable comment during the past week or so, formation of the new company, Toburn Gold Mines introducing a new active operation into the Kirkland Lake district. It is understood Bunker Hill Extension is to receive 360,000 shares of the new company's stock out of a total authorized capitalization of 2,000,000 shares of $1 par while Premier Gold Mining Company has optioned 1,490,000 at an average price of 20 cents a share. It believed no rights will be offered to Bunker Hill shareholders, for the present, at least. Bondholders of the old Tough Oakes Burnside are to receive 200,000 which of course, is not enough to pay off the bonds in full, so that nothing will be left for Tough Oakes shareholders.

The meeting of directors of Sherritt Gordon Mines, understood to have been scheduled for to-day, will not be held until some time later in the week. The question of immediate policy regarding production at the company's property in Northern Manitoba will probably be discussed at the forthcoming meeting.

Work at the 300 foot level of the O'Brien Cadillac property, west of Pandora, is said to have cut the downward extention of the main vein. Information previously secured was to the effect that, provided the downward continuation of this vein was found at the 300 level, milling material and equipment would be transported to the property before the spring breakup. Although the O'Brien is a private company developments have considerable significance for adjacent operations.

Preparations for an active season at Gem Lake mines are going on apace. About fifty men have been sent in the wood camps, which have already been erected, and this crew will take care of the fuel requirements which will probably amount to about 1500 cords in addition to that already cut and stored. The road to the mine is being cleared for heavy hauling and it is anticipated a large amount of supplies will be taken in before spring.

Wheat market was dull and featureless Saturday with prices until the last half hour holding within a narrow range of quarter cent after which they eased off to about 5-8 under the close Friday night, and getting into the daily bids which brought in some support and checked further declines during most of the day there was very little sellingpressure, but there was some local liquidation in the late trading based on weakness in Chicago where July wheat prices were down about one cent, while Chicago corn made new lows for the season in all months. The local demand was thin. There was practically no export business worked overnight, but a few small buying orders came in during the morning, probably 100,000 bushels all told. There was really nothing in the local cash market, and while the demand was very indifferent, offerings continued light and spreads were unchanged. There was no change in the flour situation which continues very quiet. Liverpool closed 5-8 lower, and Buenos Aires closed 3-8 to ½ lower. Liverpool cables stated that Australia and Argentine were offering wheat freely, and that Argentine had decreased asked prices one cent a bushel Saturday European millers were only buying as needed. The weather in France in Western Canada were 348,000 bushels, as against 219,000 a year ago. Rains were forecasted for Kansas and probably other winter wheat areas over the week end. Winnipeg futures closed ½ to ¼ lower.

Coarse grains—These markets were dull and featureless. A little scattered liquidation based on the weakness in corn, which found no buying demand. Rye was weak, making new low for the season inthe May. There was nothing doing in the cash markets. Oats closed ¼ lower, barley ½ lower, rye 1 1-8 lower to 7-8 lower. Flax dull but fairly steady, closing 1-8 to ½ lower Liverpool cables due ½ to ¼ lower based on Winnipeg.

WILLIAM J. HILL IS PRESIDENT OF FAIR ASSOCIATION

Dates Alloted and C.F.A. Looks Forward to Most Successful Year.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED.

H. B. Stock Retired—Grants to Town and Village Fairs Discussed.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 2.—William J. Hill of Madoc was elected President of the Central Ontario Fair Association at the annual meeting held in the city hall here Thursday afternoon. Mr. Hill is one of the most successful Fair promoters of Central Ontario and is one of the chief reasons for the success which the Madoc Fall Exhibition is now enjoying. He is a successful business man and while he has always been a member of the Association, he has declined the post on several occasions. He will doubtless fill the post acceptably as his predecessors have done.

Keen enthusiasm was manifest at the meeting, which augurs well for the Association during the coming year. Most of the Fair Boards were represented and all reported that prospects are bright for a successful year.

Mayor George A. Reid on behalf of the City of Belleville, welcomed the visitors and expressed the wish that the Association would continue to prosper as it has in the past. He complimented the officers and members on their splendid achievements. The auditors' report was received and was satisfactory. President Harry B. Stock of Belleville presided and moved that one minute silence be observed for the late Dr. Hay of Campbellford who was one of the staunch supporters of the Association in this district.

The matter of dates was discussed and it was moved that all Fairs not represented, be communicated with, and informed of the dates alloted and advised to avoid confliction in their selection insofar as possible. One delegate suggested that steps be taken to have the grants to Fairs naming conflicting dates withheld. Mr. W. J. Hill, the new president, said that it was merely a gentlemen's agreement and that the Association could do nothing in the matter of punishing those who did not co-operate, did not send delegates and named conflicting dates with those given by the Association.

R. H. Ketcheson, Secretary of the Belleville Fair, suggested that all Secretaries of district Fairs send a list of officers to him. Ambrose Dafoe read the financial report of Belleville Fair which was commented upon favorably by the delegates following which the matter of grants to the local Exhibition was discussed. Mr. Dafoe fully explained this to the satisfaction of all present.

New Officers

The following officers were named:

President.—W. H. Hill, Madoc, moved by R. H. Ketcheson, seconded by H. Aylsworth.

1st Vice President.—Lester Boyes, Napanee, moved by A. E. Calnan, seconded by J. Locke.

Auditors—J. E. O'Donnell, Stirling and Sam Nicholson, Frankford.

Is was resolved that a letter of condolence be forwarded to the family of the late Dr. Hay and the delegates were in hearty accord with the suggestion.

FRANCE TO HONOR WHEAT PROMISE

PLEDGE GIVEN BENNETT.

PARIS, Feb. 2 (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—The new French Government under Senator Pierre Laval proposes to honor the pledge given by the former Tardieu administration to buy Canadian wheat. This undertaking was given by France following Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's visit to Paris at the close of the Imperial Conference, and was announced by Premier Bennett in his speech at Regina, Dec. 30.

"It was a very unusual undertaking for a French Government to give," was the statement in French official circles to-day. "Usually," the French Government does not interfere in French purchases of wheat, but they are left to private individuals. It was a gesture of friendship from France to Canada. But the undertaking having been given, it will be observed."

In Canadian official circles also no difficulty is expected in carrying out the arrangement. The fact that former Premier Tardieu, with whom Premier Bennett conducted the negotiations, is himself Minister of Agriculture in the new administration, is likely to facilitate any necessary negotiations.

Poland's population has just been estimated at 30,000,000.

Driver Saves Horse From Watery Grave By Massaging of the Animal's Windpipe

MIDLAND, February 2 (By Arthur A. Bessin, Special to The Examiner). — By massaging his horse's windpipe so that its lungs filled with air, Frank Fenton succeeded in making it buoyant enough for him to extract the animal from the hole in the ice of Georgian Bay through which it had plunged. The incident occurred near here yesterday while Fenton and Fred Wallace, a friend, were driving across the ice toward Midland, and both received an icy bath before they finally got the horse to safety.

The animal went through the soft ice just half-way across, and despite the best efforts of the two men to yank her up with ropes remained dangling helplessly in the icy water.

For more than fifteen minutes the men tugged and pulled without result, then they cut away most of the harness, still to no avail.

In desperation Fenton climbed out on to the horse's shoulders and massaged its windpipe, while Wallace and Mrs. Fenton looped the ropes into a better position. Finally, when he had the horse gasping great gulps of air, he leaped off and a tremendous tug got the horse to safety.

Both men suffered severely from frostbite, but otherwise escaped unscathed.

HAVANA CROWDS DISAPPOINTED

Princes Come on Deck of Orposa Only as Liner is Leaving Port.

KINGSTON NEXT STOP.

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—The Prince of Wales and his brother George slipped quietly in and out of Havana Harbor this forenoon without landing.

They did not even appear on deck during the morning hours, when their ship, the Oropesa, was anchored in the harbor, but as it left they came from their cabins and waved goodbye to about 20,000 persons, many of them British colonists here, who lined Moror Castle ramparts.

The Oropesa is bound next for Kingston, Jamaica, where an official program of welcome has been arranged. Thousands lined the docks and the seawalls as the Oropesa, followed by the Duchess of Bedford, rode into the harbor here, but their vigil was fruitless.

Newspapermen and photographers sailed around the Oropesa in small boats with cameras, but never caught sight of the two princes. The only persons to be admitted to the vessel were the British Minister, Thomas J. Morris, the Cuban Secretary of State, Francisco M. Andez, and Enrique Soler Y. Baro, representative of President Machado.

ROYAL ROMANCE THRILLS SWEDEN

King Gustave Frowns on Grandson's Proposed Wedding With Commoner.

LOSE RIGHT TO THRONE.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 2—(AP)—All Sweden is thrilled to-day at the royal romance of a 21-year-old prince and a 20-year-old daughter of a commoner which has drawn the frown of the youth's grandfather, King Gustave.

A family council was held at the palace to-day to consider the engagement just announced of young Prince Lennart and Miss Carin Nissvandt, the daughter of a wealthy Stockholm industrialist who is not of royal or even noble blood.

And while the royal grandfather sought to stop the marriage of the two who were childhood sweethearts the whole country from prince to peasant awaited the outcome of a romance which is following the traditionally rough road of the true love.

No Swedish prince has married a commoner in almost 400 years. Should the marriage take place, young Lennart, who has always wanted to be a farmer, would be sheared of his title of royal highness and the right to succession to the throne.

Little Damage Done In Darling Home Fire

WARSAW, Feb. 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Tuesday afternoon the home of William Darling caught fire when the little boy in playing with matches in a bedroom set fire to some bedclothing.

Mrs. Darling discovered the fire and immediately phoned to the village, and after turning in the alarm, tried to check the flames. The boys of the agricultural classes responded to the alarm and were successful in extinguishing the flames with little damage done.

The house is built of stone and it was fortunate that there was plenty of water to be had.

REV. TAIT GIVES REQUEST TALK

Preaches at St. John's Church, Campbellford to Large Congregation on Sunday.

THEME "ANCHOR WATCH."

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—With a large congregation present, the Rev. R. C. Tait preached a splendid sermon Sunday morning in St. John's United Church, Campbellford, taking for his theme, "The Anchor Watch." This was a request sermon. The choir, under the direction of Albert Hazell, sang special music, featuring two anthems.

Taking for his text Hebrews 11, 1: "Therefore we ought to give more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we drift from them," Mr. Tait pointed out that the idea of drifting runs through the Bible, although at times expressed by other names. Of the epistle from which the text was taken and the word drift appears, he said, "that it was especially written to the Hebrew people who were followers of Christ when they were drifting back to Judism because they missed the local association of synagogue worship. They thought they had lost more than they had gained, but the writer showed them that all that Judism was, so was Christianity, and much more."

But there was a modern application of the theme, the preacher stated. In this world it very easy to slip—to drift. One found expression of this fact in every sphere of life. A life of effortless ease is very pleasant, yet it is unworthy as Christians.

The greatest loss to the church, Mr. Tait said, were not those of its members who were removed by death but those who were just removals, who did not definitely tie up with it to prevent themselves from drifting.

Then there was the unconscious drifting, the preacher said. There were many who drifted between the two extremes in life. They were skirting the boundary line so often one step would make a changed life. It was so easy to drift, Mr. Tait declared, and a tendency of life to-day. Just the doing of things once often led to this

But there were drift arrestors in life, he declared, pointing out that many of the Bible characters were such from the beginning up to Christ and then down through the history of the Christian church.

In conclusion, Mr. Tait emphasized the fact that there were four anchors, that if we tied up to would prevent drifting, and which no storm could break—the Lord's Day, the Lord's House, the Lord's Book, and Praver.

THREE NEW MEMBERS

of five members, and as it turned out only one of his nominees failed to get this year's appointment. For the western section of Durham county, Mr. MacColl had proposed H. G. McDonald of Orono, but the Council's selection was T. H. Knight of Bowmanville who was a member last year.

Appointed Individually

On a motion by Reeve Carruthers of Bowmanville, seconded by Reeve Wilson of Hastings, it was decided to appoint the members of the Board individually. Reeve W. A. Goodfellow nominated Major Belford.

"I have nothing against the old Board", Mr. Goodfellow said, "but we in east Northumberland feel that Mr. Belford will be more representative of our section."

Reeve Baker of Percy township remarked that he would like to see Mr. Belford on the Board. He told of a woman at Warkworth who received a pension although she had three sons.

J. H. Davidson of Cobourg said that C. H. Curtis of Norham, deputy-reeve of Percy last year, had always seemed fair. In reply to a query as to what the qualifications of a member of the Board should be, Mr. Davidson mentioned, among others, honesty and impartiality.

Said Reeve Baker: "The Board was not very impartial in the little hamlet of Norham where you put twenty-two on the pension list."

Brother Got Pension

With the substitution of Major Belford for C. H. Curtis in that section of Northumberland, Reeve Chas. Quinn of Cramahe proposed that O. C. Castleton be re-appointed for that district.

Reeve Stinson (Millbrook)—Is it true that Mr. Pomeroy's brother is on the old age pensions list?

Reeve Quinn: Yes, I believe he is. I understand that he was refused for a time, but was finally put on.

Mr. Stinson said he was informed that O. C. Pomeroy was a man of considerable wealth, was unmarried, and in a position to look after his brother.

Deputy-reeve J. H. Davidson (Cobourg) replied that the Pensions Act set down the conditions under which a person was eligible for a pension, and the law did not take into account any relationships of the applicant.

"A Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario wrote us to have his sister put on the pensions list", said Mr. Davidson. "You can't stop any one being put on because he or she has a wealthy brother."

N. A. MacColl (Campbellford) disputed the opinion that only experienced men were qualified for Pensions Board appointments.

"This experience talk is all nonsense" he declared. "When you already have the same secretary, and if he has his records up to date any other four men could go in with him and handle the work as proficiently as the men who have been there."

Mr. Baker's Comment

Reeve Baker (Percy): That's another idea. There are a lot of taxpayers like myself who have got to work and scrape to keep their families and to keep those men who are getting on the pensions list. I know some of them myself. I am beyond the pensionable age myself, and I am still working for a living.

Dr. Wilson (Hastings) said that experience was bound to be valuable not only in pensions commissioners but also in lawyers. The advice of a lawyer of experience was more likely to be better than that of an inexperience one.

Dr. Wilson proposed W. J. Warner for the Board, but his motion was defeated.

Mr. Stinson named J. A. Vance for the northern section of Durham county, T. H. Knight of Bowmanville was chosen for the southern district, and Reeve Hancock of Port Hope and Deputy-Reeve Davidson of Cobourg were proposed for the central district, with the choice going to the reeve of Port Hope.

PAVING PROGRAM

in Darlington township. Reeve Geo. F. Annis of Darlington informed the committee that this road was now in a bad condition, and the gravel it would require because of long hauls would cost a sum equivalent to two or three years' payments of the debentures for the proposed paving.

"I think it would be poor economy to cut out the paving at this time" said Mr. Annis.

Reeve N. R. Hartt (Murray) said the counties would get a better price from contractors if a stretch of fifteen miles was to be paved. He also stated that last year when he was chairman of the road commission the reeves of every municipality visited by the commission had been consulted as to what work should be done.

It is understood that fifteen miles of pavement would extend from the outskirts of Bowmanville to the village of Blackstock.

No objection was expressed by the council to the continuance of the paving program, and presumably the work laid out for the Scugog road will be done this year.

To Report In June

The road commission was asked to report at the June session on requests for the assumption of three roads as county roads. They are from Garden Hill to Elizabethville in Durham county; from the village of Hastings to the Woodlawn cheese factory in Northumberland and also from Campbellford to the Rawdon boundary in Seymour township.

Several Merchants Favor Arrangement

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The petition being circulated among the merchants of Campbellford for their signature and which will be presented to the council, asking for change in the open night from Thursday to Wednesday and the half holiday from Wednesday to Thursday, is now being met with another petition and what looks like a fight is looming ahead.

The new petition calls for no change in the present arrangement. It is estimated that it has been signed by between forty and fifty merchants and there is much speculation as to which document will carry the majority of signatures and what the city fathers will think of the whole business. Supporters of the second petition claim that for two years running the half holiday and opn night has been changed and open night has been changed and now.

COBOURG COLLECTS $3,500 RENT FROM UNITED COUNTIES FOR 1931

Counties Council Enters in the Records Its Offer of $2,750.

BOUND BY AGREEMENT.

(Staff Correspondence)

COBOURG, Feb. 2.—As over-holding tenants of the town's municipal building the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham must "come across" with $3,500 rent this year, an increase of $1,500 over the annual rent paid for the last ten years.

The council's Property Committee offered $2,700 a year under a new two-year lease, and J. N. Stone and N. A. MacColl of Campbellford moved that a copy of the report be sent to the Cobourg Council.

Reeve Stinson (Millbrook): Are we to let this question stand in abeyance until June, since we can't have a reply from Cobourg this session.

Deputy-Reeve Corbett (Cobourg): There is all the reply you need on that notice of $3,500 a year.

Mr. Stinson suggested that immediate provision could be made for an early arbitration of the rental question. An arbitrator could be appointed by the Council, and the arbitration would be decided in time for June.

"If you appoint an arbitrator at the June session, you will have to wait until December for the report and then you are tied up for another year," Mr. Stinson said. He moved, seconded by Reeve (Dr.) Wilson, that ex-Warden W. T. Wood of Millbrook be the arbitrator for the United Counties.

Mr. Stinson stated that Mr. Wood had all the qualities that would make him an ideal representative in such arbitration.

Reeve Parker (Alnwick) expressed a preference for some rural man who understood the current difficulties of the farmer.

Mr. Stinson replied that Mr. Wood's agricultural interests gave him a thorough understanding of farm problems.

Reeve Stone (Campbellford) advised delay until June.

"Don't cross the bridge until you come to it," was his counsel. Other members said they had not expected this appointment to be made so soon, and facing this spirit Reeves Stinson and Wilson withdrew their motion.

The rent battle is being fought on the grounds of Cobourg's choosing. The Counties are tied up by the agreement which is credited to Mr. Frank Field, K.C., of Cobourg, and the members paid indirect tribute to Mr. Field's ability in the preparation of that document. By an old Act of the Legislature the courts must be held in the Cobourg court house. That could be changed only with the consent of the Legislature. And as for the rental of the quarters used by the Counties, the lease provided that in the event of disagreement in the renewal, the dispute would be arbitrated. Now the Counties have let the old lease lapse; they have offered $2,750; they have to pay $3,500; and some time this year three arbitrators will be appointed by the town and counties to solve their difference.

To Sell Debentures

Warden Hooton; Reeve Rickard, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Reeve Stinson of Millbrook were appointed a special committee to arrange for the sale of $138,772 debentures to cover the Counties' share of the cost of the county road pavements that were laid in 1930. These debentures will be issed for a term of fifteen years and bear 5 per cent.

Half the cost of the permanent roads constructed last year will, as usual, be borne by the province and the other half by the Counties, and the new debenture issue is to provide the $138,772, for the Counties' half of the total cost.

House of Refuge Management

The Board of Management of the Counties' House of Refuge this year is composed of Warden Hooton, Reeve W. A. Goodfellow of Brighton township, and Reeve Bert Richardson of Manvers.

Reeve N. H. Hartt of Murray township and Deputy-Reeve F. B. Lovekin of Clarke township compose the Reforestration committee for this year.

On a motion by Reeve Stinson of Millbrook and Reeve Green of Cartwright township, Reeve M. J. Holman of Clarke and ex-Warden W. T. Wood of Millbrook were appointed auditors of the criminal justice accounts.

High School trustees appointed by the council were as follows: Bowmanville, J. H. Jury; Campbellford, James A. Loucks and A. G. Thompson; Colborne, C. M. Finkle; Brighton, Ernest Best; Cobourg, Henry Fullerton; Newcastle, J. H. Jost; Port Hope, Fred R. O'Neill and H. W. Mitchell.

Bank Credit for 1931

A bylaw was passed providing for the borrowing of $800,000 from the bank to meet the current expense until this year's taxes are received. The motion fixing the amount was made by Reeve Rickard and Reeve J. N. Stone. The bank interest is 5½ per cent..

Warden Hooton explained to the new members that the amount stated in the bylaw might not be needed, but it was necessary to authorize this credit, and the interest would be paid only on the amount actually borrowed.

Inspiring Pageant Is Presented in Cavan Hall

CAVAN, Feb. 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—"The Birth of the Saviour," a very beautiful and inspiring pageant was given in Cavan United Church on Wednesday evening by the Ebeneser young people, under the auspices of the Cavan Young People's Society.

The members of the cast all took their parts well. An invisible choir sang hymns and carols appropriate to the pageant, and led by Miss Ruth Sharpe.

Ralph Staples, president of the society, had charge of the devotional period of the meeting. — cupied the chair and opened the meeting by singing, "Work for the night is coming." The scripture lesson was read from Psalm 100, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Seven members paid their membership fee for the year.

Mrs. George Glover was appointed to purchase goods to be made into articles for a bazaar for which plans were made. The work done last year has all been disposed of excepting a very few articles. Mrs. Leslie, Mrs. John O'Rorke and Mrs. J. F. Everson were appointed a committee to make arrangements for an entertainment which will be held some time early in March. The meeting was closed by singing "My Father is rich in houses and lands," and prayer by the pastor. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and a social hour was enjoyed.

She was ably assisted by Sister West, D.D., G.M. of Madoc as Grand Chaplain, Sister Carrie McGuire, P.M. of Belleville as Grand Marshal, and Sister Lillian Singer of Belleville, as Grand Organist.

After the installation the retiring Worthy Matron, Sister Florence Hough, was presented with a P.W.M. Jewel by Sister Jennie Rupert. Brother George West, retiring Worthy Patron, was presented with a gift from the chapter by Brother Will J. Hill. Sister Nugent, P. A social time was spent at the close of the chapter.

LONDON BREWERY SWEPT BY FIRE

DAMAGE $100,000.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 2.—Night and day platoons of the fire department, brought to the scene by a second alarm sounded by Chief Charles Scott, waged a stiff fight at the John Labatt Brewery early Sunday. Unofficially the loss is placed at about $100,000, but there will be no let up in business and no employees laid off, as the machinery is uninjured and stocks made up were not damaged. The loss is covered by insurance.

At 2 o'clock, two watchmen, attracted to the Simcoe Street retail offices of the plant by smoke pouring from windows, called the fire department, but it was reported that some delay was caused by passing freight trains at Talbot Street. Finding the job too heavy for the night shift, the day platoons were brought into action, and with good water pressure the flames were subdued after more than two hours' fighting. The loss to the building is stated to be not exceedingly heavy, but large stores of valuable supplies were burned or damaged. The cause is unknown.

LIQUOR BUYING CHARGE DENIED

McClenaghan Claims All Orders Sent Direct to Manufacturers.

NO AGENTS INVOLVED.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 2 (C.P.).—"We deal direct with the manufacturers, and all our orders are sent to them," said Stewart McClenaghan, member of the Ontario Liquor Commission, last night in connection with a statement made by Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Provincial Liberal leader, at Prescott Saturday, to the effect that the Government purchased supplies from liquor stores rather than from the distilleries direct, and distributed the profits among "ward heelers."

If manufacturers of products sold to the Liquor Control Board retail agents in the Province, these agents do not sell to the board, nor are orders collected by them, Mr. McClenaghan stated. "We don't bother with agents at all nor do the agents sell any products to us.

"Mr. Hepburn, I think, is talking about something he knows nothing about."

Petes Score Two Goals in Opening Frame—Four Penalties Through Game.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 2. (Special to The Examiner.)—For the second time within less than a week the Peterborough intermediates laid low the Bowmanville Olympias in a tie breaking game at Bowmanville on Saturday night. The score was 6-3 but was by no means indicative of the game.

While the Petes were the superior team as far as speed was concerned it was entirely this asset that won them the game; they were faster to get away and faster to seize opportunities than the home team and the weakness of James in the Bowmanville net combined to give the visitors a victory, which, never-theless, was well earned. The Olympias, although with the same line up as the previous game in the week, were a much improved team and put up a game more in keeping with the reputation they made at the first of the season. The ice was in splendid shape and gave added keenness to the game.

Both teams played a fine brand of hockey and while the visitors may have had a little better of the game in the second period, the first could have been more even and the last stanza was all of Bowmanville's. During that last twenty minutes only four shots were put into James and none of these were at all dangerous, being shot from centre ice or further.

Score in First

From the start of the opening frame the Petes were acquainted with the fact that they were up against a different team to what they played a few nights before. Bowmanville was back checking to good effect and even the brilliant team play of the Petes failed for more than half of the period to have any marked effect. Maudsley was playing wonderful hockey and he continued right through the game to be the most outstanding player on the ice.

The home team had a fair share of the shots at the net but were shooting off. Brinning, playing his second game of the season, came very close on two occasions and but for the coolness of Gillespie in the nets would have had two counters to his credit. For fully five minutes after the first see-saw affair Bowmanville kept the Petes locked in their own defense area but once freed the visitors played havoc for the rest of the period. Not that they had things their own way all the time but they took every advantage that presented itself and were fast on the pickup and the shot, when the period neared signs of closing the Petes began to worry the locals considerably and things became dangerous as more and more scrambles took place right in front of the net. Out of one of these scrambles "Reu" Creighton merged and scored through the legs of several of his teammates leaving James no chance to even see the puck advancing toward him. Bowmanville came back for all their worth and laid four shots in at Gillespie in less than three minutes. Hooper, Olympia defense man who played a consistent good game cleared all opposition once and had no one to pass but Gillespie miraculously saved. Rundle repeated Hooper's effort and again Gillespie was right on the job. Calladine, always on the look-out for opportunities, took the puck clean down the ice, hugging the boards all the way and put a fast shot into the Bowmanville net shortly before the bell rang. First period, Peterborough 2, Bowmanville 0.

Maudsley Injured.

The home team had plenty of hard luck at the start of this period. Shot after shot was rained in on Gillespie but he never turned a hair, and saved all. The visitors made several spectacular break-aways, only to be repulsed at the Bowmanville defence. Rundle and Brinning playing nice combination took the puck the whole length of the ice between them and Rundle scored on a pass from his team-mate. Brinning took the first penalty of the game shortly after for a trip, and with him off the Petes added two to their score, Jarvis counting the third on his own effort and he assisted Calladine to score the fourth right after. Creighton took the second penalty for holding sticks. Maudsley was able to add the fifth to the Petes' score when he sent a nice clean shot from the boards spinning past James.

Jarvis scored his second from a face-off in the corner near the nets giving the Petes the advantage at the end of the period of a 6-1 score. Maudsley lost two teeth in this period in some unaccountable way.

Hooper was still playing his lone hand in the final stanza and shortly after the opening without the Petes being out of their own defence area after the face-off, he scored the second for Bowmanville. Shortly after he tallied the third and last tally for Bowmanville on a pass from Cameron. The remaining minutes of the period belonged entirely to the home team, and they put up a regular barrage on the visitors, but not once could Gillespie be induced to let one pass.

While the game was noticeable for its very few penalties, it ended in an uproar when Creighton and Cameron engaged in a fist fight. Both had been penalized and a little argument going off the ice led to blows and Creighton kissed the ice twice before the crowd interfered.

LOWLY STARS HOLD BUFFALO CLUB EVEN

Bisons Overcome Three-goal Deficit in Last Seven Minutes of Play.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Feb. 2.—The tail-end Syracuse Stars and the league-leading Buffalo club battled through an extra period of an International Hockey League game here Saturday night to a drawn verdict of 4 to 4. Buffalo trailed 4 to 1 up to the last seven minutes of the third period, and then tied it up on two goals by Gross and one by Bogardis. The first period opened with Syracuse taking half a dozen long shots from near centre with but one coming near the Bison goal. Three minutes after play started, Farrell twice broke up a Bison attack. In blocking one of Cahill's shots he went to one knee, from which position he was forced to meet a rebound shot from Bogardis. He just managed to reach the puck with his hand and deflect it.

LEAFS WIN AND LOSE OVER WEEK-END

AFTER DOUBLE CROWNS

1931 has all the ear-marks of doing big business in the walterweight and lightweight classes. The Whirlwind "Kid" Berg the scrappy little fellow from the old country has already made a name for himself on this side of the pond and now has come clean with a threat that he intends to wear both the welter and lightweight crown before this year passes into history and that's somethin'. This little English champion has been called the busiest man in the squared ring since the days of Harry Greb. He has his eye set on the money bags and strange to say he doesn't hold the title in his own back yard just because there isn't enough money in the fight for him even though it's almost a foregone conclusion that he could win in a walk. Not only has he made this threat on these two divisions but backed up his remarks with taking the decision over Hess recently in Chicago having outsmarted this boxer who is, by the way, no cream puff set up for anybody. His victory again places him among the best yet of this class. However, Mr. Berg has more than just an ordinary plan to follow and regardless how it turns out, there is one thing that you can count on and that is that his bouts will not need soft music for his opponent to waltz to.

TWEED HIGH WINS FROM MADOC 1-0

Teams Evenly Matched in Eastern Village Interscholastic Series.

MADOC, Feb. 2. (Examiner Correspondence)—In the Interscholastic series, Madoc High School hockey team went to Tweed on Thursday evening. A good well-played game was given by both teams, and as the results show, the teams are very evenly matched. No score was made during the first period, while Tweed secured one goal in the second. The third period was scoreless, with the final result of 1-0 in favor of the Tweed team.

Belleville Beaten 2-1 By Queen's In Overtime

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 2.—Queen's seniors practically eliminated the Cheerios from the senior B group race when they defeated the locals on Saturday night 2-1 in ten minutes overtime. The first two goals of the game were scored within 10 minutes from the opening of the game, and it was not until eight minutes of the overtime period had been played that Murphy slipped down the left rail, after Jeffery had knocked down his fast drive, the rubber went out to Lee, who promptly tallied. As the teams play a six-game series, it will be necessary for Belleville to win in Kingston and their remaining home game to tie the group.

PETES HOLDING 3-COUNT LEAD

FOR SECOND PLACE

The Peterborough intermediates go into the second game of their play off series with Bowmanville at Brock street rink tonight with a lead of three goals, as a result of a smart win in the rubber factory town on Saturday night.

The fact that the homesters will begin tonight's fixture in front, however, is no evidence that the local battle will not be brimful of excitement for Bowmanville for some reason or other generally play their smartest hockey against the Petes right here at Brock street rink. Earlier in the season Ginger Edgar's talent dropped into town and gave the blue and white team a 5 to 1 trimming and they will be out there battling tonight to repeat the dose. The Petes, however, have their eyes on that Oshawa series and are not likely to be caught napping twice. They are not over-confident, realizing they have a fight on their hands, but they are determined to cop second place and qualify for the group play offs.

The largest crowd of the season should be on hand tonight.

The game will be refereed by A. W. Armstrong of Oshawa, who gave good satisfaction on Saturday night.

COLLEGIATE IN DISTRICT SERIES

Uxbridge School's Default Sends P.C.I. Into Play-off With Lakeshore Winners.

FOR DISTRICT HONORS

Uxbridge Collegiate's default to P.C.I. team Saturday, gives the local Collegiate the right to play off with the Lakeshore winners for the district championship. The first play-off game, which will bring the P.C.I. entry against either Cobourg or Oshawa, will probably be staged next Saturday and the second game a week later, as a district winner must be declared by February 14th.

Exhibition Game

In the place of the previously scheduled league fixture Saturday afternoon, the Collegiate squad met and defeated a P.C.I. Old Boys team 27-19 in a friendly game on the school floor.

Despite the fact that the game was by necessity, hurriedly arranged, a large gallery of rooters turned out to see the school team play a fine brand of basketball to hand the Old Boys their first defeat in several appearances at the school.

At times the play was rather ragged and many glaring scoring opportunities were passed up by both teams but the contest provided plenty of thrills and much fine basketball.

The Old Boys found it quite a task to break through the school's five man defence but Davidson and Sturgeon on the forward line, together tallied 11 points for the visitor's total in the first half.

The Garnet and Grey team was not idle either and "Wib" Ward, Macdonald, Wolstenholme and Armstrong carried the brunt of the P.C.I. attack during the first session and notched 11 points to tie the score at half time.

Opening the final period, Chesler scored twice in succession for the school and Art Ward added 4 more points on nice combination efforts.

Armstrong took a beautiful long pass from Art Ward for another P.C.I. marker and shortly after, Macdonald received a pass from Chesler for the last P.C.I score of the day.

Kingston and Routley each scored in the last few minutes of the fray and pressed hard to overcome the school's lead but Stanger and Reynolds on the P.C.I. defence were equal to the task and staved off the opposition attacks and the final whistle found the P.C.I. leading 27-19.

For the winners, Art Ward and Howie Macdonald shared the scoring honours with 6 points each and Louie Chesler and Vern Armstrong followed closely with 5 each. "Wib" Ward accounted for 4 markers and Reynolds scored a single on Cooper's foul.

"Bim" Sturgeon carried the scoring burden for the losers, being personally responsible for 11 points. Davidson, Routley, Kingston and Cooper each scored 2, bringing their total to 19.

JUNIOR PLAY-OFFS BE HELD THIS WEEK

Saints Will Meet Either Hockey Club or Combines in Group Series.

Arrangements have been made for the play off series in the junior group race to be played on Wednesday and Saturday night of this week, goals to count.

St. John's, who finished first in the regular schedule and therefore won the right to decide in which order the games should be played have chosen the Wednesday night fixture as their home game.

It will not be known until after to-night's game in Lakefield whether the Saints' opposition will be the Peterborough Hockey Club or the Havelock - Norwood Combines. At present the Combines are holders of second place by one point, but a win for Hockey Club in Lakefield to-night will make them runners-up to the Saints by a single point margin. Hockey Club should turn the trick for the Lakefield youngsters have not won a game this season, but the young Petes should not make the mistake of underestimating their opposition. The group standing with one game left to be played is as follows:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
St. John's	6	1	1	13
Havelock	4	3	1	9

ANOTHER VICTORY SCORED BY BISONS

London Tecumsehs Beaten By Buffalo Sextet For 2 to 1 Count.

FORT ERIE, Feb. 2.—Before a crowd of 4,000, Buffalo won their fourth straight game in the International Hockey League here last night by defeating London by a score of 2 to 1 in a fast and closely contested game. Both goalers performed in brilliant style, and kept the score low by their clever work.

Both teams set a terrific pace in the first period. The Bisons, however, got the "breaks," and when Quenneville was sent off for the second time in the period, Buffalo turned on a driving attack and scored twice. Martin got the first goal with less than five minutes to play when he took the puck from a face-off for a shot which Stuart stopped, but did not clear, and Ronnie snapped in the rebound. Forty-five seconds later Martin again shot, bringing Stuart down, and while the goalie was on the ice Goss rifled the puck into the cage.

In the third period the Bisons played a steady cautious game, being satisfied to break up the London attacks as close to the blue line as possible. Pettinger evaded the Bison defense and got inside to poke the puck past Taugher after seven minutes of play. The Tecumsehs sent four men into the attack to try to tie the count, but Buffalo stood off the attacks, and at times threatened to add to their score.

PITTSBURG PROTESTS CLEVELAND VICTORY

Third Period Goal is Disallowed By Referee Laflamme.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—A protested victory went to Cleveland here last night in an International Hockey League contest. The final score was listed as 2 to 1.

The Yellow-jacket protest was a result of a third period mix-up in which the locals were of the opinion they had netted a tying score. The goal judge was of the same opinion, but the referee decided in the negative.

With one minute of play remaining in the third period, Fraser let go a shot which appeared to have trickled between Woods's skates. The goaler fell into the cage and the goal judge flashed the red light, indicating a goal. Referee Laflamme refused to allow the goal, and the game was held up for five minutes while the issue was argued. It seems that when the players were untangled from a pile-up in the mouth of the cage the disk was found to be in the possession of another Cleveland warrior, lying just outside the goal line. The Pittsburgh players contended the Clevelander had picked the puck from the cage while sprawled on the goaler.

BEAT QUAKERS 3-2 BUT LOSE TO FALCONS 2-0

MAROONS TIE RANGERS 2-2.

Canadiens Sweep Through to First Victory Over Chicago Blackhawks 4-2.

(By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 2.—Canadian teams maintained their superiority over United States clubs in the National Hockey League's five game schedule over the week-end. A clean sweep by the American clubs would have brought their total number of victories against Canadian squads to 29 for the season, but Toronto Maple Leafs and Les Canadiens, of Montreal, saw to it that teams of the Junior section did not accomplish this triumph.

The Leafs downed the tail-end Philadelphia Quakers, 3 to 2, on Saturday night, although they lost to Detroit Falcons, 2 to 0. Canadiens swept through to their first victory of the current schedule over Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 2 while the best their fellow townsmen, the Maroons, could do, was hold New York Rangers to a 2-all tie at Montreal. Ottawa Senators gave a fighting display in New York before bowing to the Americans, 4 to 2.

Toronto's 11-man team climaxed a strenuous 11 days with the week-end double-header. The tussle at Detroit was their sixth since Jan. 22. They won four and lost two.

A brilliant exhibition of marksmanship by young "Chuck" Conacher enabled the Leafs to nose out the Quakers, who gave a surprisingly smart display notwithstanding their lowly position in the American group standing. The Toronto sniper scored once in the second and twice in the early part of the third frame to give his team a lead they sorely needed when the Quakers rallied strongly in the closing minutes, following a penalty to King Clancy, and scored twice in quick succession.

At Detroit the leg weary leafs played on even terms with the Detroit Falcons until the last session. They wilted in the last 10 minutes, however, and the Falcons, led by the league's leading point scorer, Ebbie Goodfellow, blasted two rapid fire goals past the Toronto goalkeeper to increase their third place margain over Rangers. Goodfellow gave Carson Cooper a pass for the opening tally and then assisted Johnny Sorrel in the scoring of the second.

HIMES SCORES WINNING GOALS

STIRRING BATTLE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The effective shooting of Normie Himes, to which was added a couple of good passes and some timely penalties, enabled the New York Americans to defeat the Ottawa Senators 4 to 2 in a stirring National Hockey League game last night. The result had no effect on the standing, leaving the Americans fourth in the Canadian division and Ottawa last. Himes scored three of New York's four goals and led troublesome attacks nearly every minute he was on the ice. Two of New York's counters were aided by penalties to Joe Lamb, scrappy Ottawa centre. The "Amerks" got off to a two-goal lead in the first half of the game, lost it to Ottawa's exciting second-period rally, then regained it as Himes scored twice in the final frame.

DRAFTING ROOM MEETS OFFICE FOR GROUP TITLE

Kearns' Work in Nets is Standout Feature of C.G.E. League Fixture.

TOOLMAKERS LOSE OUT 4-1.

Brass Department Defeats Punch Press 4-1 in Heavy Checking Affair.

The Drafting Room for two consecutive years, champions of the C. G. E. Shop Hockey League moved one step nearer this year's crown when they defeated the Engineers on Saturday afternoon at the Brock Street Arena, 4—0. This was the only battle of the three game program that produced the usual pep and sparkle characteristic of previous Group one games.

In the second tilt the Office No. 1 team remained in a tie with the Draftsmen in the league standing when they took a 4—1 verdict from a shattered Tool Room team which took the ice minus three regulars and in the first period lost another player through injuries. The last battle between the Brass Dept. and Punch Press, champions of Groups two and three respectively, was a slam-bang heavy checking affair in which feeling ran high among the players. The brass, however took the big end of a 4—1 decision and will now meet the winners of group one for the Work's championship.

As far as actual playing goes the Switchbuilders deserved the win but the score should have been 2—1 as erratic work on the part of the Punch Press players put the puck twice in their own net.

Kearns Stars in Nets

Kearns, the Drafting Room goalie stood out prominently as one of the main reasons for the Engineers shutout, for on five different occasions when the Engineers' forwards pierced the Drafting defence, and had only Kearns to beat he rose to the occasion brilliantly and foiled the attacker. The Engineers attacks were mainly of the individual type which the stalwart defence of Howe and Shields or else was nipped in the bud by the consistent backchecking of Allen, Palmer and Rooke who with Meagher also put plenty of punch and teamwork into their attacks. Rooke accounted for two of his teams goals both from close-in.

Ashmore on the Engineers defence was a hard to stop as a locomotive once he got underway and on every rush was a real threat. Harmer and McCullough were the other stars for the loosers, while Jim Auld was always dangerous. Gibson at center worked hard and combined well whenever possible.

Eliminate Engineers

This defeat puts the Engineers out of the running and the Draftsmen will play a sudden-death game with Office No. 1 for the championship of group one.

The teams:

Drafting Room: Goal, Kearns; defence, Shields and Howe; center, Palmer; wings, Rooke and Meagher; alternates, Allen, Masterson, Price and McLeish.

Engineers: Goal, Fred Jones; defence, J. Auld and Ashmore; center, Gibson; wings, Harmer and McCullough; alternates, Killoran and W. Auld.

Minus Regulars

The Tool Room minus Hatton, Dugan and their regular goal minder, Hollingsworth, lacked the scoring punch necessary to win against the Office No. 1 team who were at full strength. The game ended 4-1 in favour of the Pen Pushers who played their usual brilliant hockey with Jack Copping of the No. 2 team between the goal posts. Copping turned in a spectacular performance as Milliken, apps and Micky Williams bored in time and again in rapid assaults on the Office citadel. He was only beaten once, Milliken netting the puck on a pass from Craig at the goal mouth.

Every player for the winning team contributed his share to the victory. Playford and Tuck playing their best hockey of the season. Miller and Eddie Williams teamed up splendidly on defence for the winners but found Ray Epps, lanky Toolroom centre man very elusive.

The winners adopted a snappy passing style of play which was very effective and backchecked with a will.

The teams:

Tool Room—Goal, G. Williams; defence, S. Rooke and Connors; centre, Epps; wings, A. Williams and Milliken; alternates, Earle and Craig.

Office No. 1—Goal, Copping; defence, Ed. Williams and Miller; centre, Tuck; wings, Playford and O'Toole; alternates, Payne, Gray and Beavis.

Cop Neat Victory.

Perc. Killingbeck's Brass Department Bruins in their gay colored jerseys, battled their way to a neat victory over the Punch Press team in the first game of the semi-finals in the Shop League on Saturday. The Bruins who have an uninterrupted string of victories behind them, displayed a winning style of hockey, and although the battering tactics of the heavier Press team sort of disorganized them in the first period, they found their stride in the second and from then on the issue was never in doubt.

The Bruins will meet either the Office or Draftsmen in a two-game series for the league honors in the near future, and their clever combination work against the senior opponents should result in a very entertaining play-off series.

Cadd salted away the first tally for the Switchbuilders after six minutes of bumping and heavy checking on a sizzling shot that glanced in off the goalpost, while the second marker was a gift, the rebound glancing in off Ashmore's body after Black had made a beautiful save on Whatley's shot. Murphy, Darling, Fee and Grierson were the most effective for the losers although most of them were inclined to lay on the wood a little too freely.

The two forward lines of the winners both performed like clockwork in their attacking, there being little difference between the calibre of each. Cadd and Maudsley engineered most of the attacks, while Heal and Paggett were the best on the wings. Whatley on defence for the winners was the best player on the ice, both defensively and on the attack, securing two of four goals.

Ashmore was a redoubtable barrier to many of the opponents' sorties on the Punch Press defence, and Pilling of the second string forward line also played nice hockey.

The teams:

Brass Department — Goal, Jack Hope; defence, Whatley and Cordery; centre, Maudsley; wings, Heal and Higgins; alternates, Cadd, Paggett, and Routley.

Punch Press — Goal, Black; defence, Ashmore and Darling; centre, Fee; wings, Murphy and Grierson; alternates, Howarth, Pilling, and Rogers.

ELECTRICIANS LEAD MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Grant and Thorpe Defeats Brinton Carpet 2-1 in First Game.

In a fast close game at the Sacred Heart rink, Grant & Thorpe came from behind to beat Brinton Carpet 2 to 1. This game puts the winners in undisputed first place in the league standing.

The first period was fast and furious, with neither team countering, the defense men on both teams kept the shots away out. The second frame was mostly Brinton Carpet. They swept up the ice time and again, but only tallied once when Miller lifted the puck from the blue line. The last stanza saw the winners going right, bulging the hemp twice, Fields and Heal getting the goals. They would have got several more but for the air-tight net-minding of Melrose. Heal starred for the winners throughout the game.

The next scheduled game in this league is to-night when Silverwoods and Utilities, who are tied in third position battle it out from seven to eight o'clock.

PETERBORO ACCEPTED BY O.F.A. AT PROVINCIAL ANNUAL MEETING

Return to Organized Soccer After Many Years of Non-Affiliation.

MANY RULINGS GIVEN.

All Players Must Sign D. F. A. Form—Executive to Encourage Juveniles.

After five years of unorganized soccer in the city, Peterborough and District Football Association was again admitted to the Ontario Football Association, at the annual meeting held in Toronto on Saturday. They complied with the regulations, in which $35 is the stipulated fee for registration in organized soccer, thereby permitting them to have a member on the council, who is also an advisory member of the board. His expenses to all meetings are paid by the parent body whenever they call him to the specified meeting place to transact business.

Only at the annual meeting is this city permitted to send a delegate who has full power to vote. His travelling expenses being paid by the O.F.A. after a requisition has been duly signed by official attending.

The value of the local voting power proved beneficial to outside soccer associations in many changes in the administration of the code.

Retiring President's Address

After years of service in the O.F.A. as a member of the council, and later as president of the association, T. G. Elliott, of Galt, relinquished the honored position after two terms in that office. His address was a very comprehensive character dealing with the fundamental principles of the code and his intimate knowledge of the financial liabilities and assets proved to be to the benefit of the administration which was proven in the financial statement relative to the Kilmarnock tour. He told of the great strides made in juvenile soccer, stating that there are in Ontario 324 such clubs or teams with a total enrollment of 5,200 lads of the 'teen age.

Kilmarnock Tour

The O.F.A. percentage (25 per cent. of the gross receipts) from the Kilmarnock tour was $1,305.48; against this was the expenditure of $241.47. Again T. G. Elliott being given credit for the arrangement he had made with the Ulster United Limited, instead of the usual percentages. This being accompilshed when the O.F.A handed over the game to the stated club.

Office Bearers

Patron — David Forsyth, Esq., Beamsville.

Hon. President.—Col. T. Herbert Lennox, Toronto.

Hon. Vice-Presidents.— H. W. Brown, Kitchener; W. E. Dean, Hamilton; J. D. Wright, St. Catharines, and Rev. R. Bushell, Toronto.

President—R. Hall, Hamilton.

Vice-President—L. Jowett.

Secretary-Treasurer:—R. B. Muir, Toronto.

The retiring president installed the new officials and presented the President with a new gavel with the colors of the O.F.A. cup winners, with the wish that every years the respective winners' ribbons likewise be placed thereon.

The secretary-treasurer was presented with the usual honocarium, $600, and will receive a gift medal from the O.F.A.

As a token of esteem in which he was held in the soccer activities of the Province, the Council decided to present T. G. Elliott with a gold watch suitably inscribed.

To Encourage Juveniles

A lengthy discussion came up for debate when Fairbanks Boys' League applied for a grant, who were ably supported by Toronto representation. Other districts voiced their opinions that proved they were at variance as to the proper assignments of grants. Eventually it was decided that the D.F.A. would give $100 and D.F.A. 5100, to be used when necessary, under the O.F.A. Council. All financial statements must be submitted and must show a deficit.

The receipts amounted to $5,781.30 and expenditures amounted to $4,902.32, leaving a balance of $818.98, with some accounts to be paid.

The Ontario Junior Football Association requested to be placed in good standing by being properly accepted and affiliated with the parent body. This subject being left in the hands of the new officials.

Ontario Cup Changes

The new amendment relative to the Ontario Cup as proposed by the Toronto District resulted in a change being made so as to permit the big city the right to play within the city until the semi-finals are reached, they they take part in the cup proper.

Peculiar Position

Niagara and District Association made application in which they desired to incorporate St. Catharines and District, who had paid the affiliation fee last year but had failed to function. The pros and cons revealed a delicate and peculiar position of that district.

They were admitted to membership on a proviso motion: "That if there isn't any objection from St. Catharines association also that the two American teams must comply with the O.F.A. regulations.

An application was made by a Toronto player for his expenses in regards to an accident at Kirkland Lake in O.F.A. game when he got his false teeth broken. A jocular argument ensued until the board declared the issue out of order. They were informed that no insurance company would allow such a claim and that all players should remove their "grinders" before the game T. and D. disallowed the claim.

Registration of Players

The question of registration of players in the W.F.A. was brought up by Phil Evans, the well-known referee, who made statements regarding the conditions prevailing in the W.F.A. that were without verification and fully repudiated by the W.F.A. secretary when asked to give a statement. All players were fully registered that were signed but we cannot force an outlaw body to become registered who do not recognize O.F.A. and who can act independently.

(CP)—Big Bill Tilden has received a cabled offer of $50,000 to make a two-month visit to Australia The offer, announced yesterday by Jack Curley, manager of Tilden's professional tennis tour, calls for the former amateur champion to play six matches against three approved opponents. He might also be called upon to compete in an open tournament. Curley said he would forward the offer to Tilden in Florida for his decision.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

An imposing array of exceptional scores were registered on Thursday night when the ten teams in the Men's City Bowling League crashed the pins at full strength, and with lusty arms and ready wit fought to stay up with the leaders. Outstanding among the scores was a single of 364 by Charles Cummings of the Big Five, which eclipses all previous league efforts and therefore stands as a season's record.

Pandemonium reigned when the rebuilt Westclox quintette tangled with the only outfit that can compare with them for noisiness namely the Big Five, and when the echoes of combat had finally subsided, the Clockmakers had turned in a whitewash to take the leadership of the second half. Signor Cupoli, whose organizing ability has made the Westclox an effective fighting unit certainly turned on the alarms to advantage in this duel. The winning verdict was no gift as the Big Five scores which follow will show: Cummings, 719; J. Naples, 679; R. Naples, 606; A. Thomas, 587; Curvin, 602. However Tommy's Trundlers went them one better with Cupoli's triple of 812 being high. The other score were Graham, 754; Joe Robertson, 796.

Big Five	....	1124	1097	1032—3193

There is no gladness in the ranks of the Canadians due solely to the fact that the Night-Hawks, with all the luck of the newcomers won a 3-1 decision from them in this week's fixture. The heavy hitting of Gimblett, Freeman and Delahaye was overshadowed by the efforts of Elliott, Fawcett, Mike Duffus and Vince Fitzgerald for the Hawks.

Canadians	..	1139	983	1018—3140

If Tommy Holyman hadn't stopped to tell the story about the Irishman the Belmonts might have been in the fight, but as it was, the Bowlrites had the edge, small as it was, which gave them the first game by three pins and the second by 22. Vince Anthony, pilot of the Bowlrites, has added Vern Dawson, of ten pin fame to his roster, and Dawson came through with 696 to swell the total. Almas and Holyman made 643 and 609 for the Clubmen, while the Bowlrites scored as follows: Woods, 697; Dawson, 696; Sweetman, 755, and Johnson 610.

Cogs carried on like nobody's business in a hectic quarrel with Leo Martyn's Lucky Strikes and by the time the Strikers had hit their stride the Cogs had two games in the bat bag. However, with Hickey in the lead and Firth in the cellar the Martyn crew unwrapped a snappy parcel of bowling in the final stanza that annexed a large enough total to swing pinnage thereby splitting a 2-2 decision. The reversal of form by the Cogs has landed them in a three-cornered tie for third place with the Night-Hawks and Bowrlites and if they can only maintain their new stride they should cop the honors in this half. The stand-outs for the Cogs were: Batley, 680; Graham, 616; Cripps, 650, and Prest, 637. For the Lucky Strikes, Hickey, Prindible and Martyn were high registering 740, 671, 675 as named.

The Brintons, the most aggressive bowlers in the league, threw a scare into the Ranger gang when they snared the first game by 37 pins but lost out 3-1 after a determined struggle. Dodson plunked 619 pins for the Carpetmakers, while four of his opponents were high. Marsden making 656, Playford 629 McGee 605, and Ranger 641.

A. Brown & Son	841

The weekly prize for low score went to J. Dearborn who had a 41. The lowest team average was a 48 for the Canadian Packing Company.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Jan. 30.—Miniature indoor golf was played more than thirty years ago, according to an account taken from a Saint John newspaper in 1897. The item appeared originally in a London journal of that year, and described a course laid out "from garret to cellar," with a saucer in a baby's crib, one of the sportiest holes.

The affair, which was characterized by one of the golfers as "the greatest fun imaginable," was held in an ordinary house, and played by a group of guests, at the instigation of the hostess when wet weather precluded golfing on a regular-sized course. One interesting shot was described:

"My ball was under a great four-poster bedstead in one of the spare rooms; and I had to crawl under and draw it out with my niblick. I could not see the door it was to go through, but Reggie said if I hit it against a certain sofa, which was stuffed with horsehair, the rebound might send it where I wanted it to. So I tried it, and it was the most perfect success."

PLAY-OFF DATES SET FOR NATIONAL LOOP

Games to Start March 24 — Meeting of Governors Held on Saturday.

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — The Board of Governors of the National Hockey League Saturday set the dates for the play-offs, upheld the referee's decision in the matter of a protested goal and discussed at great length without reaching a decision, Ottawa's application for financial assistance, at their regular meeting held here.

The dates for the play-offs were announced as March 24, 26, 28 and 31, with the final series of three out of five games for the Stanley Cup scheduled to start around April 2. The three leading teams in each group of the league enter the play-offs.

An innovation this season is that all games except the finals for the Stanley Cup and the games between the group leaders will be played on a home-and-home basis, total goals to count. In the event of a tie resulting at the end of the second game, overtime will be played until one team or the other scores a goal.

NORTH SCHOOL GRANTS CAUSE COUNCIL DEBATE

...nt to Poor Schools and Regular Grants to North Laid Over.

INFORMATION ASKED.

Problem of Aid For Marmora School Referred to Special Body.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 2.—Grants to northern schools usually made will not be passed at the present session of the Hastings County Council as there has been a radical change made in the regulations which it is thought may help the poorer school sections to bear their burden of providing education for the children. The question will come up in June.

The question of a special grant of $225 to the poor schools of the north to be handled as usual by the inspectors was not passed by the Ways and Means committee of the Hastings County Council Thursday evening for this reason. Another reference from the council was likewise laid over to the June session a which time it is expected that Inspector of Schools J. E. Colling will have presented the statement of conditions as they will be shown by the new regulations that the new grants to the council, which will thereupon be able to make their decision as to the grant to the poor schools and the regular grants to the schools in some of the northern townships.

The same treatment was accorded the reference of the motion of a proposed usual $300.00 grant to the Bancroft Continuation school.

Settle in June.

All these matters will be dealt with in June after the receipt of information from the school inspector.

Another angle of the school situation was brought forward by Mr. H. W. Sabine of Marmora on behalf of the Marmora Board of Education. The attendance in the continuation classes has grown beyond bounds and if the present ratio of increase is maintained it will be necessary to put the third form outside, which would mean that the science equipment would have to be duplicated, a burden on the school. Mr. Sabine pointed out that the school rate in Marmora village is between thirty-t... and thirty-three mills and the total tax rate of the village is over 60 mills.

"We are appealing to the legislature to consolidate a floating loan of $12,000 so it is out of the question to think of undertaking the building of a new school," remarked Mr. Sabine. Hon. Robert Cooke has taken up the question with the Department of Education as it is expected that the attendance which is now about one hundred may run up to 110 or 115 next fall. The department Mr. Sabine pointed out, will contribute half of the cost of education of pupils under certain conditions and it was with this in mind that he asked the co-operation of the County Council.

If the county were to lend aid, the cost of education, it is thought, would be lessened, as has been the case in other counties where the plan had been adopted. At present Stirling gets a grant of about $9,500 from the department, while Marmora's maximum is $3,000.

Marmora Village is like some of the other municipalities suffering under the present condition. A village of 1,010 population, it has 235 pupils in the public school, 55 in the separate school and 98 in the continuation school. This year there will be one of the largest continuation classes for years.

Under such aid as proposed Marmora could go ahead and make adequate provision for the teaching of these scholars.

Warden Thompson arose to state that this was a very important matter and hence it would be impossible to give a decision without thorough investigation as to possible changes which it would effect. There was the law to be considered along with all the possible angles. He proposed to name a committee of Messrs. Whytock, Reid, Mitchell and the clerk, W. H. Nugent, to investigate and report at the June session, so that action might be taken if necessary before the first of July.

Reeve S. B. Wright of Deloro emphasized the conditions as existent at Marmora. Deloro sends fifteen scholars now to the continuation school at Marmora and by the end of the summer may have ten or twelve more to attend. There is not room now for this number, he said. Action should be taken without undue delay.

Reeve Reid of Bancroft suggested the addition of the Reeve of Marmora village to the committee, the suggestion being approved by council. The committee will consist of the members named by the Warden besides Reeve Marett.

CRAMPS DOUBLED HIM UP

TANLAC Stopped All That

Mr. Alex. Krenbrenk, of Clavet, Sask., suffered terribly with his stomach. Constant indigestion brought on severe stomach cramps that just about doubled him up with the pain. He was not getting any nourishment out of the food he ate. He lost weight, and was so weak and miserable that he could not work.

Then a friend told him to try Tanlac. He did—and now Mr. Krenbrenk says: "I feel like myself again. I digest my meals and the cramps are gone for good."

Thats the way Tanlac acts every time. It tones up the whole digestive system—stops pain after eating, bloating, gas—makes you want to eat and relish what you do eat—gives you the energy to wipe out that dangerous weakness and tiredness—and re-builds your shattered nerves.

More than 55 million bottles of Tanlac have been sold—over 100,000 endorsements have been received.

Get a bottle to-da, at your druggist's. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

HOW A BISHOP DOES IT

Wards Off Rheumatism and Constipation with Kruschen

A well-known Lord Bishop had been troubled with rheumatism and constipation. He tried Kruschen Salts. The results impressed him so much that he wrote to tell us about it. Could any testimony be entitled to greater respect than that of this high dignitary? He writes:—

"I use Kruschen Salts for two purposes—to ward off recurrent attacks of rheumatism, and against Constipation. I have now no trouble in either direction, since I began your daily doses, and I could not do without them."

Asked if he had any objections to his remarks being published, the Bishop replied: "You may publish the text of my letter—but not my name."

Do you realise what causes rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system. The six salts in Kruschen are bound to dissolve away all traces of uric acid. And more! They ensure such perfect internal regularity that no such body poisons as uric acid are ever able to accumulate again. Prove this for yourself by buying a bottle of Kruschen. Think what a lot you get for so little. Not just one salt. Kruschen is a perfect blend of those six natural salts which are vital to your bodily well-being. Every day you must have these Salts or things go wrong inside you.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and putting them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 2. — Profit-taking by the market's longs and weakness at Chicago combined to pull wheat prices down fractiona..y on the Winnipeg market on Saturday. Declines were limited due to stop-loss orders waiting just below the trading level. Losses ranged from ⅛c to ½c.

Some buying by seaboard houses was recorded, and observers believed a small export business had been done.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 2. — Lowest prices for the season resulted on Saturday from new breaks in the corn market. Trade reports said that there had been four months of probably the lightest feeding on record, that this was the third warmest January ever known; and that a larger movement of corn to market centres was in prospect. Wheat was weakened by big domestic receipts, likelihood of rain in Kansas and Oklahoma, and by Liverpool reports of free offerings from Argentina and Australia.

Corn closer nervous, ¾c to ⅞c down; wheat at ⅝c decline to 1¼c advance; oats, 1¼c to 1¼c off; and provisions unchanged to 5c decline.

A NEW DISCOVERY FOR THOSE SUFFERING FROM

DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

Experiments and experience bring forth new lights on old subjects, and what was looked upon as the best possible last year, is surpassed to-day. We have opened the door to new hearing by means of our newest invention: the rejuvenation of the auditory system by natural use, a method described by eminent men. A boon to mankind, combining all the Deaf have ever wanted or hoped for. You forget your Deafness; remove strain and Hear all the world of sound, conversation, music, radio, talkies, etc. Equally beneficial to young or old Chosen for use by many professional men. Recommended by leading Aurists.

First showing in Peterborough. The smallest Hearing Aid in the world. Fits in the outer ear without head band. Requires no attention. SHORT COURSE IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE Pleasant Social Evening Enjoyed in Warsaw Town Hall —Good Program.

A very successful agricultural short course was brought to an end Friday evening with the dance at the Town Hall, Warsaw. Cora Drain acted as hostess, and Maitland Forsythe and Ivan Drain as hosts. Fife's orchestra was in attendance, and a large number of students, parents and visitors were present. During the evening refreshments were served. J. B. Nelson of the Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Nelson were special guests.

The courses were well attended, and interest was maintained throughout the period of instruction. In the Home Economics course 26 students enrolled; there was an average attendance of 24; and 16 members had perfect attendance. The Agricultural course had an enrollment of 37; the average attendance was 27.9; and 13 students put in perfect attendance. The special Farmers' meetings were also well patronized: the Poultry meeting, 115; Plows and Plowing meeting, 42; Vegetables, 83; Sheep course, 38; and the Veterinary Science lectures, 25.

The Sheep course was not included in the former curriculum of the courses, but came as a most interesting topic for the farmers of the vicinity. Stewart Irvine, Foster Robinson and A. Fraser on the Dominion Livestock branch of the Department of Agriculture were the lecturers in charge of the course.

Besides the concluding dance, another important social event of the courses was the banquet on Tuesday evening, at which Dr. G. I. Christie, President of the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, was the special speaker for the evening.

Splendid interest and co-operation were noted by the authorities on the part of all those who attended the annual courses. These lectures will be held in Asphodel Township in 1932. It is expected that the courses will again be conducted in January, instead of February. The roads remained open until last evening, and as many come from as far away as 14 miles, the importance of having the classes in advance of the heavy snowfalls may readily be seen.

One of the largest drainage pumping plants in northern Europe has just been placed in operation at Danzig.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS FIREMAN

Windsor Employee Attempting to Burn Out Soot Under Meat Oven.

COMPANION INJURED.

WINDSOR, Feb. 2.—David Elmer Pillon, 43 years old, member of the Sandwich Fire Department, was killed by an explosion in the plant of the Essex Sausage Company, Sandwich, Sunday morning. He died in Grace Hospital, Windsor. Pillon, who was a son of Councillor Eli Pillon of Sandwich, went to the factory with Fire Chief E. J. Seguin to supervise the burning out of a greasy soot accumulation under the oven used to smoke meats. With them were Walter Gill and Frans Mersinger, Sandwich, employees of the company, and Emmett Branget, owner of the building.

Slot Filled With Paper

Gill told the police that he filled a slot under the oven with paper, in preparation for the burning-out process. Pillon, he stated, was warned by the Fire Chief to take no chances and get out of the building as soon as he had lighted the paper in the slot.

Before Pillon could comply with the Chief's warning, Gill stated, there was a blast. Mersinger, who was standing near the fireman, was rendered unconscious by the explosion. He was revived by artificial respiration, but Pillon was caught by the concussion between the oven and a wall, which collapsed. Dr. C. V. S. Mills, Coroner, of Sandwich, attributed Pillon's death to his lungs collapsing under the force of the blast.

Chief's Cap Blown Off

Chief Seguin was walking out the rear door when the blast occurred. His cap was carried 50 feet. Branget was thrown 20 feet through the door. The northwest wall of the plant, a one-storey building of concrete construction, was forced out, and windows in the factory and adjoining houses were broken.

Chief Seguin and Sergean John Watson of the Sandwich Police Department believe the explosion was caused by a pocket of natural gas under the oven. Dr. Mills empanelled a jury. The inquest was adjourned until Thursday night.

Pillon was the father of five children. He had been a permanent member of the Fire Department two years.

Hastings Boys Given Suspended Sentence

COBOURG, Feb. 2—The trial before His Honour Judge O'Connor at Cobourg in which John Keoghan, Gordon English and John Coveney were charged with assault and also attempted robbery on Patrick McGregor and John Burns, on December 9th, 1930 near Hastings, was disposed of to-day.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Peterborough, appeared for the accused, and Crown Attorney Boggs, appeared for the prosecution.

The evidence showed that Patrick McGregor and John Burns were going home from Hastings on the night of December 9th, when John Geoghan, Gordon English and John Coveney stopped the car they were riding in and Gordon English and John Coveney got out and said "hands up." The witnesses for the Crown say now that the conduct of the accused was intended for a joke, but John Burns took off his coat and struck Coveney in the face and a fight took place in which Burns received a black eye.

Evidence was given by a number of prominent business men that the accused boys were of good character and had never been in trouble before.

His Honour Judge O'Connor in giving judgment said that there was no question but that the supposed hold up was intended to be only an escapade to scare the boys, but Coveney had no right to put his hands on Burns and Gordon English participated in the assault by standing by and encouraging and abbetting Coveney in going into a contest with Burns. The Judge imposed a suspended sentence on both Coveney and English and assessed to Coveney and English three-fourths of the costs of the Crown and to Keoghan one-fourth of the costs, and warned them against a repetition of their conduct.

ARTERY TO NORTH GIVEN ATTENTION

Grants to Northern Townships Granted With One Cut by Hastings Council.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 2.—When the question of grants on the northern roads came up for discussion in the ways and means committee of Hastings County Council on Thursday afternoon, Reeve J. A. McKinney of Tyendinaga brought forward the question of the advisability of devoting more attention to the highway through to the north and of cutting down on the grants to the individual townships. Rather interesting discussion was provoked by this suggestion of the Tyendinaga Reeve.

Northern Reeves pointed out that their plans had already been laid for the expenditure of this money during the coming months and Reeves Hubbell of Faraday showed that Faraday had already spent the $425.00 mentioned as the grant.

Reeve Brett said he was willing on behalf of his township after only the really necessary work had been done on the roads to turn over what remained to assist in making straight the road through the 'hole-in-the-wall."

Reeve Mitchell of Thurlow thought it was a supreme necessity that the road through from Madoc to Maynooth should be a highway, in fact as in name. He suggested that the northern townships should get this year the usual grants except Faraday which was getting more than any, and favored the cutting of $125.00 off the grant to Faraday.

Reeve Hubbell of this township put up a strong fight for the retention of the $425.00 in the recommendation, saying that one road bore a great amount of traffic in getting out timber and other products of the north and in view of this and of the tourist traffic which passed over the road helping in the development of the north. Warden Thompson pointed out that the first time this was given as a grant it was deemed a special grant and he favored the $300.00 grant for Faraday.

Reeve McKinney of Tyendinaga moved for half the usual grant to the north while Mr. Mitchell moved for the usual grant less the $125.00 cut for Faraday. On the vote Mr. Mitchell's suggestion was adopted by the ways and means committee and Faraday will obtain only $300.00 this year.

SPLENDID PROGRESS IN NORWOOD CHURCH

Various Departments Present Reports at Annual Congregational Meeting.

NORWOOD, Feb. 2 (Examiner Correspondence.)—The annual business meeting of Norwood Baptist Church was held on Wednesday evening, when the pastor, Rev. G. E. Downing, occupied the chair.

The various departments presented their reports, showing splendid progress made in 1930. During the year sixteen baptisms took place and sixteen were received into Christian fellowship with the Church.

The Sunday school under the leadership of J. A. Stevens, and supported by loyal teachers reached the highest number for many years. The financial statements showd a credit balance, which is very encouraging in view of the financial depression.

It was decided to reduce the Home Mission grant from $300 to $200 commencing Feb. 1, 1931, this motion being carried without one dissenting vote

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the ladies.

Officers elected for the coming year are

Honorary deacons, J. Hubble and E. Hubble; deacons, T. Roraback, T. Patterson, L. Fife and J. Parker; trustees, E. Patterson, E. Wildman and A. McKay; Church Clerk, D. A. Oakley; treasurer, J. A. Stevens; Financial secretary, Alex Kempt; ushers, Roy Nevins, Clifford Fife, C. Hubble, W. Hubble, and D. Raddon; choir leader, Mrs. Downing; organist, Jack Kempt; Sunday School supt., J. A. MRS. ALLAN PAYNE CHOSEN SECRETARY

Women's Association of Warsaw United Church Meets at Home of Mrs. Uriah Payne.

WARSAW, Feb. 2. (Examiner Correspondence.)—Mrs. Uriah Payne was hostess to the United Church Women's Association on Thursday afternoon, when in the absence of the presidept, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mrs. Uriah Payne, first vice- president, led the meeting.

After the opening exercises, Mrs. Allan Payne was appointed secretary, and rs. W. Cooper, treasurer, as those who were appointed at the annual meeting could not act.

It was decided to put on the play "The Ladies' Aid of Cabbageville," some time at a date not to conflict with other organizations. It was voted upon and carried to pay for some table and dessert spoons, for which one of the members had paid.

Mrs. Wilkinson read the scripture lesson. Mrs. T. Clements read a paper on the lesson. A point was that the wheat and tares were so much alike that they were left to grow together, and not until the winnowing were they separated. So it is with people—all are in the world—sometimes it is hard to see the difference, but a time will come when a separation will surely take place.

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson read Christ's explanation from Matt. XIII, v 36:40.

Mrs. Clements read a short poem with the idea that if one looks for flowers one will find them; for weeds one will find them. Both are always present, and one is sure to find that for which one looks.

Mr. Robert Matthews read, Tom's Offer."

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson closed with prayer. Lunch was served and a very happy social half hour was spent. The hostess assistants were Mesdames McCauley, Gordon Payne, Arthur Payne, W. Cooper.

Vestry Meeting.

The annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's Church, Warsaw, was held on Tuesday afternoon, January 27, Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton, presided.

The rector made reference to the great loss the church suffered by the death of the late Thomas Cuffe.

Albert Cooper, people's warden, read his report, and the discussion followed.

Mrs. Albert Cooper gave a brief report of the finances of the Ladies' Guild

Vivian Jackson read the report of the cemetery board and discussion followed, since it was resolved by the vestry that lot holders requiring work done, should apply to the secretary, V. Jackson. The officers were re-elected, namely: Rector's warden, W. Davis; People's warden, Albert Cooper, vestry-clerk, and secretary of the cemetery board, Vivian Jackson.

George Parsons was appointed lay delegate to the synod.

R. A. Dean Appointed Council Treasurer

NORWOOD, Feb. 2 (Examiner Correspondence.)—R. A. Dean was appointed treasurer of the village council at the meeting held on Monday, all the members being present and Reeve Montgomery presiding.

The following accounts were ordered paid: I. Puffer, cleaning ditches etc., $3; H. P. Kempt, wood, $10; R. A. Dean, telephone and postage, $1.50; election expenses, C. P. Pearce, D.R.O., $6; R. A. Dean, D.R.O., $6; W. J. Stares, poll clerk, $4; W. H. Harper poll clerk, $4; W. D. Lennox, constable, $3; Municipal World account, election supplies, $3.74; six copies Municipal World, $9.74; W. A. GAME ASSOCIATION MEETS WEDNESDAY

Important Problems to be Discussed at Annual Meeting of Fish and Game Association.

The annual meeting of this Association will be held in the Empress Hotel at 7.30 p.m. on Wednesday next the 4th of February.

The club has had a rather active year with a very large increase in membership (more than doubled). Some very important matters will be discussed and every person who is interested in hunting, fishing, or in outdoor activities should be present, whether a member of the association or not.

The association has been asked to get behind a movement to get the Provincial Government to close certain northern townships to all hunting for a number of years. It is admitted by most people who know that country that game has become so scarce that it will soon become extinct unless protected rigidly for a number of years. Those who are responsible for this request are not against hunting, in fact some of them have been keen hunters all their lives, but their action is being taken so that some game may be preserved in its natural state. The Examiner can well understand what an extra attraction it would be for tourists if we could truthfully state that deer and possibly moose could be met with during the tourist season. Two moose were legally shot within 25 miles of Peterborough last fall and though no person could possibly blame the hunters concerned one cannot help but think it would have been much better for this district had such game been allowed to live and become much more populous.

The association is also asking the Government to close Balk Lakes to all fishing and angling and to make them a Fish Sanctuary. The surplus fish thus created could spread to Pidgeon, Buckhorn and Chemong Lakes and could not but help improve the fishing around here. The famous Game and Fish Commission recommended such action in their report in 1930 and the Association is trying to put their recommendations into effect.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 61 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Rokoff's shrieks for help filled the air. Trembling he stood as one paralyzed before the frightful death that was creeping upon him. Tarzan took a step toward the Russian, his brain burning with a raging fire of vengeance. At last he had the murderer of his son at his mercy. His was the right to avenge. This time no one should stay him. Ominous as a beast of prey, his fingers clenching spasmodically, he approached.

Presently he saw that Sheeta was about to forestall him, robbing him of the fruits of his just hate. He called sharply to the panther, who halted an instant. At that the Russian, galvanized into action, turned and fled toward the bridge. After him pounced Sheeta, the panther, unmindful of his master's warning voice. Tarzan was about to leap after the two when he felt a touch upon his arm, and turning—he found Jane at his elbow.

"Do not leave me," she whispered. "I am afraid." Tarzan glanced behind her. All about were the hideous apes of Akut. Some even were approaching the young woman with bared fangs and menacing guttural warnings. The ape-man warned them back. He had forgotten that these were but beasts, unable to tell his friends from his foes. Their savage natures were roused by the battle with the sailors and all flesh now was meat to them.

Tarzan turned again toward the Russian, chagrined that he should have to forego the pleasure of personal revenge—unless the man should escape Sheeta. But as he looked he saw that there could be no hope of that. The fellow had retreated to the end of the ship's bridge, where he stood shaking and wide-eyed, facing the beast that moved slowly toward him, crawling and uttering frightful cries.

OMEMEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ARE HOSTESSES TO STUDENTS OF SHORT COURSE CLASSES

Hundred and Twenty Persons Attend Banquet Held in Coronation Hall.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES.

Speakers Compare Present Method of Farming With That of Pioneer Days.

OMEMEE, Feb. 2, (Examiner Correspondence.)—The auditorium of Coronation Hall, Omemee, January 30, presented a very pleasing appearance with dainty decorations of purple, yellow and green, the W. I. colors. The color scheme was also carried out in the tastily arranged banquet tables with daffodils and candles. Covers were laid for 120 and at 6:30 o'clock the ladies of the Woman's Institute who had provided this banquet as a grand climax for the short course classes, invited the pupils their parents and friends to the banquet hall. "Knowing that the turnpike road to peoples hearts I find, lies through their mouths or I mistake mankind.

After a most appetizing banquet had been served, J. R. Faulkner of Haliburton, led in community singing. At this juncture Harry Jackson, Toast master, gave a short address of welcome, giving a brief outline of the classes, work and ideal and proposed the toast to the King. T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., proposed the toast to "Our Agricultural Organizations". He complimented the W. I. for its extensive work in the Province.

We must put forth the effort for the things worth while, that we keep a wholesome outlook on life, !People should be measured by their services rendered their fellow man also an organization. In conclusion he mentioned the courses just completed, saying he hoped the young people might derive the benefit intended by the organization and be worthy of the calling which they followed

Mrs. Rea on behalf of the Woman's Institute, thanked Mr. Stinson, remarking that the Institute was delighted with the success of the classes.

Farmer's Club.

Vincent Fee spoke on behalf of the Farmer's Club, giving a short talk on the work of that branch in its education of the betterment of the farmer. The social and the business side, which meant so much to the farmer.

F. G. Dandy, Ex-M.P.P., said this society is not in its infancy as it is 52 years old, and perhaps older. It has done a great deal for the community. He said O. G. Williamson has acted as Secretary for 38 years. The last Fair was held in 1907, but nevertheless the society is doing a great work in the improvement of the live stock. Last year, two standing crop competitions were held. He advised the young people to continue in the good work which led to new and greater fields of service.

Mrs. M. H. Winter of Lindsay, sang "Going Home" in her usual pleasing manner, accompanied by Miss Race, the accompanist for the evening.

Congratulations Extended.

M. H. Winter, B.S., of Lindsay, local representative for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, expressed his appreciation to the W. I. for their valuable assistance with regard to the classes and for the sumptuous repast. Congratulations were extended the newly elected warden, Mr. Elliott, of Verulam and Reeves Magee of Omemee, and H. Endicott, of Emily. He also thanked all who had in any way assisted in the classes success and the program. He briefly outlined the farm conditions at the present time. Mr. Winter now introduced R. F. Downey, B.A., of Peterborough, Public School Inspector for East Victoria.

Mr. Downey reminisced giving some of his own farm day experiences, and compared them with present day conditions, saying that secret of success, was zealous worth with good common sense, and a desire to save and stick to your job. "Waste not, want not," is the lesson we must learn. Farming conditions are quite different from what it used to be. And stores of early farming illustrative of this point were given to show the difference, education is necessary for success, but is never completed until we pass to the world beyond.

Develop personality if you wish to make an impression on those with whom we come in contact. Take pride in your personal appearance, The same, he said was true of the girls, neatness, cleanliness, are necessities. This is not extravagance, but is making best use of what God has given you.

Develop self control, self reliance and be wise in what you repeat. Identify yourself with a church as this, is the best anchor, young people can have, along with good health.It is a wonderful asset.

The success of a young man or young woman depends largely on the service you are willing to render.

Mr. Faulkner then sang two Scotch numbers, which were well received.

W. W. Staples, of Lindsay, M. L. A., for South Victoria, proposed a toast to the short course classes. Mr. Staples after a few humorous remarks, said Canada's greatest asset is her boys and girls, who must fight the business of life manfully and well.

Miss Margaret McQuade replied on behalf of the girls class. Thanking the Women's Institute for their co-operation in helping make the class such a success and hoped that they might prove the benefit of the classes as real home-makers.

Arthur Mitchell also expressed his appreciation of the organization that had made the classes possible, and the practical help derived therefrom.

Mr. Faulkner again favored the gathering with another solo.

Miss Mabel Thorn and Edmond Ruth, proposed a toast to the staff and spoke of the benefit derived from the four week's course.

Miss Petty made a very suitable reply and also gave some very instructive thoughts for the pupils to carry home, and thanked them for their kindness during their sojourn here.

Mr. Buchanan, B.S.A., gave a short account of his work in Northern Ontario and told of the wonderful work being done among the strangers within our gates, who are so bright and very anxious to learn Canadian farming ad Canadian ways, and in so doing many become good Canadian citizens. He too, thanked the co-operation he had redeived during the class and wished the young people the best of luck. He hoped that they might go home and in return for the sacrifices made by mother and Dad during the course, would in return, be more thoughtful and perhaps relieve them of some of the extra duties.

Warden Elliott, in a few well-chosen words, congratulated the young people on the work they were doing.

This brought to a close a very enjoyable program and the floor was made ready for a few hours of dancing. The Hartley Dinner Orchestra providing the music.

AT BROCK ST. RINK.

By the demand for tickets for the Kiwanis Karnival Friday night there will be a goodly-sized crowd at Brock Street Rink. Prizes for costumes are on display in the window at Wainman's Jewellery Store. Much interest is looked for in the appearance of Norman Falkner, the one-legged skater, who will show just what can be accomplished by perseverance though handicapped. Mr. Faulkner gives a marvellous display of balance. Then, too, there is the hockey match between members of the Lindsay and Peterborough Kiwanis Club, which always supplies many laughs and bruises; other features are the tug of war, bicycle and relay races, and then, of course, the judging of costumes.

Tickets may be purchased from any Kiwanian and at Heintzman's, The Examiner, Wainman's, C.P.R. and C.N.R. ticket offices, Al Sharpe and The Hall Store.

Help the good work the Kiwanis Club is doing by your attendance.

Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys Plan to Raise $13,000

One hundred and twenty members of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament and more than seventy local boys' work boards are busy to-day preparing their plans for the raising of $13,000, with which to carry on Trail Ranger and Tuxis work during the coming year. It is hoped that 12,000 Tuxis boys and Trail Rangers will help their leaders in this great effort.

The word Tuxis is a coined word, made up of letters having a special significance. "X" in the centre stands for Christ, with You ("U") and "I" on either side. The "T" Means Training and the "S" Service, so the word implied co-operating in training and service for Christ.

These two programs, Trail Rangers for boys 12 to 14, and Tuxis for boys 15 to 17, are used by the Protestant churches in providing training in complete Christian living. Through them the church is helping boys who are living in one of the most impressionable periods of life to Seek Truth, Cherish Health, Love God, Serve Others. On Sundays the groups meet in the church as Sunday school classes and during the midweek for those other activities that are dear to the heart of every boy.

Associated with these programs there has grown up a movement that for years now has been finding expression through district camps—boys' work conferences and the Older Boys' Parliament. The democracy of this Tuxis movement in which older boys share responsibility with men is perhaps illustrated in the Older Boys' Parliament which, contrary to what some folks imagine, is anything but a mock parliament. In fact the principal purpose of the parliament is not to legislate at all, but rather to give boys a larger part to play in the carrying on of their own work.

The money raised by the boys in this campaign is for both provincial and local work and will be used by the Boys' Work Boards of the province in setting up and supervising district camps, boys' work conferences, father and son activities, athletic meets and the work of the parliament.

Work of this character is helpful to the community, the church and Sunday school. It develops resourcefulness, initiative and originality in the boys and directs their energies into wholesome channels. It has had encouragement from governments, service clubs and good citizens generally. Its standards are exceptionally high and are worthy of extension to every nook and corner of Ontario.

The boys who go out, unselfishly and enthusiastically in February, to raise the money needed by their provincial movement are showing a spirit that should meet with the most generous and practical approval of the citizens.

MISSION BAND PLANS CONCERT

George Street Church Society Receives Banner Awarded By Peterborough Presbyterial.

REGULAR MEETING.

The January meeting of the Fidelis Mission Band of George Street United Church was held in the Sunday School auditorium with a splendid attendance. The meeting opened with the call to worship "The Lord's In His Heaven" followed by prayer by Mrs. J. E. J. Millyard.

After singing the hymn "The Call to Loyal Soldiers" the scripture lesson was read by Lenore Lewis, the vice president who presided for the meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Jean Kerr and the treasurer's report given by Loreen Wellwood. Rosamond Burns sang a solo accompanied by her mother, Mrs. W. Burns. A prayer of Thanksgiving was led by the superintendent, Mrs. E. G. Wellwood with responses by the band members.

A short business session followed in which it was decided to have Miss Marion Coon as their special missionary again this year. They would write to her and offer special prayer on her behalf. Announcement was made that they would hold a concert in the Sunday School auditorium on Friday evening, February 27.

The banner won by the Fidelis Mission Band at the Peterborough Presbyterial, was then presented to them by Mrs. Wellwood who explained that they had received 95 points out of 100 in the contest. The banner is very pretty, made in the Band colors of green, gold and white. Ribbons were then presented to 28 members who paid their fees. Mrs. J. B. Nelson took up the study book "Young Japan" giving a very interesting talk and the meeting concluded with prayer by Mrs. Wellwood.

JEWISH YOUTH IS CONFIRMED

Traditional Ceremonies Mark Reception of Hyman Smith Into Synagogue.

BANQUET IS HELD.

At the Bar-mitzah, or Jewish confirmation, of Hyman Smith, step-son of Frank Davies, 390 Aylmer street, held with traditional ceremony before the Peterborough congregation of Jews and many other guests at the Moose Hall last night, $160 was subscribed for the benefit of the unemployed and was presented to Mayor Denne for use by the Central Charity Board.

The event was outstanding in the history of the local Jewish colony and for the first time was attended by the city's mayor. The Bar-mitzah was the ceremony raising Hyman Smith on his 13th birthday, to full responsibility under the Jewish laws. Besides the 31 local Jewish families, guests were present from New York, Toronto, Lindsay, Lakefield, and Mayor Denne and Mrs. Denne, Dr. A. Moir and Mrs. Moir, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Poolman also were honored guests.

A sumptuous dinner opened the ceremony, after which Rabbi A. Fine offered prayer and blessed the gathering. Benjamin Chesler was chairman of the dinner. Hyman Smith was the recipient of many costly gifts and Mr. Davies presented Rabbi Fine with a gold watch and chain. Mrs. Davies was presented with a silver plate and flowers by Mrs. Swartz on behalf of the local Hadasa.

Near the conclusion of the celebration the guests took the offering for unemployment relief, which amounted to $160, and presented it to Mayor Denne.

Series of Quakes Strike New Zealand

SCORES INJURED.

Warships Commandeered, Rushing Doctors and Nurses to Stricken Areas.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., February 3 (C.P.). — Heavy loss of life, which probably will run into the hundreds, was caused by a terrific earthquake which struck North Island, New Zealand, early to-day.

The business area of the town of Hastings, twelve miles southwest of Napier, was devastated by the 'quake, and a conflagration which followed.

Several persons were killed in the collapse of the Roach Building and five women died when an apartment house fell in about them. At Hastings the death toll will probably be more than 100.

Napier, a city of about 15,000 on Hawkes Bay, was believed to have been the heaviest sufferer. Rescue was on the way but there had been no definite reports in several hours. It was believed the death toll there also would pass 100.

Scores Injured

Scores were injured when buildings collapsed in the streets and thousands were left homeless. The fires which broke out simultaneously in many places were still raging this afternoon.

Napier's business district also was wiped out and fires swept over half a square mile in the ruins. Warships were steaming under forced draft with doctors and nurses and liners in the harbor at Napier assisted the crew of H.M.S. Veronica, whose Captain had taken charge of relief work.

The heavy shocks, which came in a series, levelled Bluff Hill, on the outskirts of Napier and houses built on its slopes were sent crashing into ruins.

WILL MAKE OVER FAIR AT GUELPH

Plan New Buildings With Ontario Government Doing Financing.

UP TO LIVE STOCK BODY.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The Guelph Winter Fair, or Central Ontario Fair is to be made over. There will be new buildings, a greater fair all around, and the Ontario Government will do the financing. That is if the Live Stock Associations, holding their annual meeting in Toronto this week endorse the idea and petition. And if the few meetings held yesterday were any indication there will be a unanimous petition.

Mayor R. B. Robson of Guelph arrived in the city yesterday and immediately made his way to the hostelry where several of the meetings were in progress and there presented the idea. According to Mr. Robson the Provincial authorities wait only for word from the breeders that they are content and all will be well and the work will go on. He stated that the bildings would be erected on the Ontario Agricultural College grounds and would accomodate crowds that previously were turned away for lack of suitable space. He also emphasized that the college would be able to use these buildings all the year round and therefore make them worth while.

The Weather

This (Tuesday) morning was again quite sharp. Last night's lowest was 14 degrees below zero. At daybreak it was 12 below, and rising slowly. There was a hoar frost which usually foretells milder conditions. At noon the temperature had risen to 34 degrees, or 2 degrees above the freezing point. Thus we have had a rise in temperature of 48 degrees in about six hours. What is the necessity of a citizen in this section seeking a "change of climate" when they can get it right at home?—W.P.

United Church of Canada Anticipates Building Outlay of Nearly $1,000,000.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3 (C.P.) — The United Church of Canada anticipates an outlay of nearly a million dollars for construction purposes throughout the Dominion, according to reports received by the General Council's committee on church architecture, of which Rev. S. W. Dean, D.D., is chairman.

The cities of Vancouver, Hamilton, Ottawa and Toronto figure largely. Conservative estimates place the probable cost of new buildings and enlargements at $935,000 to $975,000 for the building season just ahead.

Union of two large groups at Campbellford, Ont., six years ago is eventuating in proposal to provide a $60,000 building. Fire at Trenton, Ont., necessitates rebuilding. King Street Church at an outlay of possibly $60,000.

TAXICAB OWNER TAKES HIS LIFE

Actions of Sudbury Man in Blowing Out Brains With Shotgun Puzzle Police.

SUDBURY, Ont., Feb. 3 (C.P.). — Walter Luoma, proprietor of the Yellow Taxi Company, committed suicide here this morning at 11 o'clock by blowing out his brains with a shotgun. No reason for his act is known. He had been driven in one of his own taxis to the house of a friend opposite 311 Eyre Street. He spent only a few minutes in the house when, returning to the taxi, according to Waino Arkko, an eye-witness, he took the shotgun, a 12 gauge repeating shotgun, from the car, put the end of it in his mouth, "just as though he were going to take a drink," and pulled the trigger. The explosion blew the top completely off his head.

The taxi driver told Chief of Detectives Scott that he was instructed by Luoma to drive him to his own home at 144 Kathlene Street first. There Luoma got the shotgun which he said he was taking to a friend who was going hunting. He then told the driver to take him to the address on Eyre Street, and instructed him to wait his return. The driver saw him come out of the house but did not see him shoot himself.

Arkko told Sergeant Scott that he was standing looking out his bedroom window at 311 Eyre Street when he saw Luoma put the gun in his mouth. The man fell dead beside the taxi cab.

91.98 PER CENT OF 1930 TAXES WERE COLLECTED

HOLIDAY DECEMBER 26.

East City Deputation Complain About Cutting Trees on Island in River.

Peterborough ratepayers walked into the City Treasurer's office last year and paid a total of $849,639.22 in taxes. This was 91.98 per cent. of the total amount on the collector's roll, but during January of this year the ratepayers paid an additional $5,235.49 of their 1930 taxes, leaving an unpaid balance of only $68,882.70 of the $923,757.41 total on the collector's roll.

These facts were given in City Treasurer Frank Adams' annual report to the City Council submitted at last night's Council meeting. The report also showed that payments in excess of receipts last year amounted to $11,919.19. This added to the overdraft left from 1929 makes a current overdraft of $80,938.73, and a total overdraft of $270,262.06.

A report was also submitted to the Council by City Assessor W. J. Henry dealing with the decision handed down by His Honor Judge Huycke on the appeals carried before him by the City Assessor against the decrease in assessment of George street property, as made by the Court of Revision. Mr. Henry in his report stated that the Judge compromised on the values between those set by

MOTHER RELATES SCENE AT RANCH

Mrs. J. O'Neil, Mother of Girl, Gives Evidence at Abduction Trial.

FIGHT IN RANCH HOUSE.

When Mrs. J. O'Neil, Romaine street, reached the Burleigh Ranching Company's premises in search of her daughter Mary on the night of Sunday, December 28, she was hailed with a chilly greeting by Joseph Ernest Robillard, who is accused of abducting the girl on Saturday, December 27.

"Your blood will be spilled on the floor" was the gentle Robillard's genial intimation paraphrasing the more pacific slang "try and get her."

First the prisoner told Mrs. O'Neil the girl was not there. Then the terrible tempered Robillard, as the girl had described him in her previous evidence, declared to the mother, "Mary is not leaving this house tonight."

Mrs. O'Neil said Robillard then ran to a corner, snatched a gun off the wall and pointed it in her direction. The dramatic tension with Robillard holding the spotlight of an oil lamp was tightened another throb or two by Mrs. Loucks, who had accompanied Mrs. O'Neil in the quest for her daughter.

"Mrs. Loucks started to yell and and cry and raise an awful fuss," witness said. "She cried out "Oh Ernie, don't." She and Robillard got to scuffling and the gun fell to the floor. A boy who was there bent over the gun and was fooling with the trigger."

John Loucks and Robillard swapped punches in what Mrs. O'Neil described as a lively fight. The excite-

Motion Against Dairy Withdrawn In Court

Substitution of an oil burner for the soft coal furnace in Campbell's Dairy at the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets abated the smoke nuisance complained of by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Goodfellow in a motion which was withdrawn from the Supreme Court here yesterday.

The motion was for an injunction to restrain the dairy from burning soft coal because of its heavy smoke and dust.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., representing the plaintiffs informed Mr. Justice Raney that there was no longer any cause for complaint. The new oil burner did not emit either smoke or dust.

Clara Bow Relents and Asks for Leniency In Case of Her ex-Secretary Daisy De Boe

LOS ANGELES, Calif., February 3 (C.P.). — Only a written plea for mercy by Clara Bow and a jury recommendation for leniency stood to-day between penitentiary walls and Daisy De Boe, convicted of the theft of $25 from the film red-head.

The slim, blonde Daisy, who until Hollywood's recent real life thriller was the film flapper's secretary and pal, saw her hope for a new trial go glimmering yesterday.

A plea for probation instead of a one-to-ten-year sentence for the grand theft conviction was entered by Daisy's counsel, William Beirne, when the plea for a new trial was denied.

Among the angles which Judge Dorn may hold of prime importance in considering the probation plea before giving a decision next Tuesday, is a delicately scented note from actress Clara Bow to the District Attorney.

Clara relented, after prosecuting her one-time best friend on 35 counts of grand theft, and wrote to the District Attorney after Daisy was convicted asking that leniency be shown. This plea for mercy now can be turned over to the Court.

GRAND JURY FINDS CONDITIONS AT THE JAIL TO BE IMPROVED

No Comment is Made on Mr. Justice Raney's Suggestion of Fewer Juries.

PRESENTMENT BRIEF.

In their presentment to Mr. Justice Raney this morning, the Grand Jury of the present assize of the Supreme Court of Ontario, made no comment or recommendation on the subject of dispensing with two of the grand juries that are summoned during the year, as suggested in His Lordship's address to the jury at the opening of the court Monday afternoon.

Mr. Justice Raney had mentioned the cost of the administration of justice, which, he said was criticised by some persons as being unduly burdensome. His Lordship expressed the opinion that possibly two of the four grand juries were superfluous and might be dispensed with. He informed the Grand Jury that it was entirely optional with them whether they discussed this subject and included any suggestion or recommendation in their report.

The Jury was non-committal in their brief report which follows:

We, the residents of the County of Peterborough, having been selected to act on the Grand Jury at the Supreme Court held at the City of Peterborough on the second day of February, 1931, wish to congratulate the County on the small docket of Criminal Cases to come before the Court at this time.

It is needless to say your Lordship will be pleased to know such conditions do exist here. With instructions from your Lordship, we made inspection of the County Goal and are pleased to note that a number of improvements recommended previously by Grand Jurys have been carried out—such as baths, shower baths, new lavatories, etc.

We found everything else in connection with the institution in fairly good condition and under very capable management.

In conclusion, we trust the dark cloud which is hovering over the universe at the present time will soon pass away and the bright sunshine of prosperity will appear again.

We have the honor to be your obedient Servants

THE GRAND JURY,
R. S. Ferguson, Foreman.

Belleville Court To Hear Finnie Case

An action by George Finnie and his wife of South Monaghan for $3,000 against D. W. Walls, stock broker, for Greater Toronto Realtors, Limited, was traversed to the Belleville Assizes by Mr. Justice Raney here yesterday.

Purchase of stock in the company by the plaintiffs is alleged to have been made on an agreement that the stock would be repurchased by the company at any time desired by Mr. Finnie and his wife.

A Beaverton doctor forwarded the explanation that Walls was confined to his home with a cold and unable to attend court. The Belleville Assizes begin on February 24.

CRIPPLED VESSEL SETS PRECEDENT

Effingham, With Broken Propeller Shaft, Towed 900 Miles to Port.

DRYDOCKED IN HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 3 (C.P.). — Battered by three weeks of winter weather in the North Atlantic, the disabled shipping board freighter Effingham dropped anchor in Halifax Harbor shortly before noon to-day, after completing one of the longest trips in town in recent marine history. The 5,000-ton freighter with a broken propeller shaft since January 16, arrived in tow of the United States Coastguard Cupper Tampa, which shared with her sister ship the Mojave the task of carrying out the 900-mile drag to port.

The Effingham, carrying an $80,000 cargo of rice, cotton, lumber and coke from Texas ports to Antwerp, Rotterdam, Bremen and Hamburg, was powerless from January 13 until the Mojave reached her and shot a line aboard seven days later, the Tampa taking over the tow on January 24.

The freighter will be drydocked for repair here.

ZERO WEATHER TAKES ONE LIFE

Alex Black Found Unconscious Four Miles West of Coboconk This Morning.

DIES SHORTLY AFTER.

LINDSAY, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Examiner.)— Overcome by freezing, 15 below zero weather, Alex Black, about 65, of near Victoria Road, died while being taken to a farmer's house, two miles away by teamsters who found him lying face downwards on the road four miles west of Coboconk at eight o'clock this morning. Still alive, although unconscious when found, Black could not be identified at first, the only identification mark he carried being a dog tag. Telephone calls to check up on this clue, however, proved only that the records had been burned, an dit was not until a friend had viewed the body that his identity was solved. He was thought to have been walking to his home from Kinmount where he has been working since last fall.

Coroner E. A. White of Fenelon Falls, was called but had only reached Coboconk at noon, and as he still had two miles further to go before opening the investigation, it is not known whether or not there will be an inquest.

SUDDEN ACTION BY FREE TRADER RAISES COMMENT

Beaverbrook's Daily Express Says Nothing on Springman's Withdrawal.

TORIES TAKE HOPE.

Laborite Press Hints Move is Outcome of Secret Parley Sunday.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent) —There was much speculation to-day over Lord Beaverbrook's attitude toward the withdrawal of his Empire Free Trade candidate in the East Islington by-election, Paul Springman.

Springman, who had been vigorously supported by Lord Beaverbrook and the Beaverbrook press, last night announced he was withdrawing and would support Miss Thelma Cazalet, Conservative, because she wished to approach as near as possible to Empire Free Trade and the other Beaverbrook policies of preference for the home farmer and for the Empire farmer.

Express is Mum

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express had no comment to make to-day, which indicated he might have been taken by surprise. The Conservatives are now hopeful of recapturing the seat, which was won in 1929 by Dr. Ethel Bentham, Labor, with a majority of 1,556 in a three-cornered fight. She died recently. The Conservatives indeed expressed the hope that Springman's example would be followed generally.

Two other by-elections are pending, one in East Toxteth, Liverpool, and the other in Fareham, Hampshire. Interest in the Liverpool by-election to replace the seat vacant by elevation of Hon. Henry Mond to the Peerage on the death of his father, Lord Melchett, has been greatly increased by the visit of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, who spoke in the constituency last night.

The Conservative Morning Post today pointed out that Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard as late as last evening was enthusiastically supporting Paul Springman in East Islington, and that on Friday last Lord Beaverbrook, speaking in the constituency proclaimed: "We have turned into tigers and when we get a by-election we spring." Lord Beaverbrook also said he would wage war on the Conservatives until they adopted his Empire Trade policy without reservation.

Wisdom in Move

When Lord Beaverbrook had "recovered himself," The Post added, "He will see the wisdom of Springmann's side-step, for a divided Conservative vote could not possibly help either the British Empire or British farmer."

The Manchester Guardian also remarked on Lord Beaverbrook's aggressive attitude, but said that while Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin might have changed his tariff policy overnight he would scarcely have changed his Indian policy as well.

The Laborite Daily Herald declared the development was a surrender by Miss Casalet to the Beaverbrook policies, indicating a resolve on her part to defy Tory headquarters. "This is the outcome of a secret all-night conference at Lord Beaverbrook's residence on Sunday." The Herald added. There was still time for another and more determined Empire crusader to enter the field, The Herald pointed out.

NEW AIR MAIL RUN INAUGURATED

Winnipeg to St. Paul's Route Completes Link From Actic to South America.

FOG PROVES HINDRANCE.

WINNIPEG, Man., February 3 (C.P.). — Favored by clear skies and a brisk tail wind, the Winnipeg-St. Paul air mail plane, with Pilot A. E. Jarvis at the controls, took to the air at 9.30 a.m., forging the last link in an air mail chain stretching from the barrens of Canada's Arctic to Equatorial South America. The inaugural flight yesterday was abandoned on account of fog.

The north-bound plane from St. Paul, with Pilot J. E. Rohrbeck at the stick, and which was forced down at Osakis, Minn., owing to dense fog, is reported to have taken off from Pembina, N.D., where transfer of mail will be made.

JUSTICE RANEY DRAWS COMPARISON BETWEEN ADMINISTRATION OF LAW IN STATE OF MISSOURI AND ONTARIO

Presides Over Court

Hon. Mr. Justice Raney, who is presiding over the Spring Assize of the Supreme Court, which is in session in Peterborough.

Judge is Not Favorable to Abolishing Grand Juries.

SUPREME COURT OPENS.

Sixty-two Jurors Were Summoned and Only One Case Presented.

A possible economy in the administration of justice by the reduction of the number of grand jury panels from four a year to two was suggested to the Grand Jury for their consideration by Mr. Justice Raney in his address at the opening of the Spring assize of the Surpeme Court of Ontario Monday afternoon. Sixty-one jurors had been summoned for duty in this court, and only one case was presented for trial. Grand and petit juries are also called for the autumn assize, and for both the June and December sessions of the County Court.

In measured and guarded phrases Mr. Justice Raney referred to a public opinion that the cost of the administration of justice to become burdensome especially to farmers at a time when their incomes have been substantially diminished by the decline in the price of their products. His Lordship did not ask the Grand Jury to discuss this subject, but he suggested to them that they might do so if they wished and include a recommendation in their presentment. Mr. Justice Raney spoke at length of the importance and efficiency of the Ontario courts, the necessity of maintaining that efficiency, and he also contrasted the public sense of justice and the people's appeal to the courts in this province with a recent lynching of a Negro in Missouri.

H. H. Adams, Peterborough; Wellington Burgess, Belmont; M. Coughlin, Douro; George Couch, Chandos; John Drain, Dummer; Rork Ferguson, Asphodel; L. J. Leclaire, Peterborough; M. W. Lyle, Peterborough; R. T. Lillico, North Monaghan; Walter McKee, North Monaghan; W. A. Roseborough, Smith; J. F. Lillico, Peterborough; Michael O'Keefe, Otonabee.

Mr. Ferguson was chosen foreman. He was a member of the county council, as Reeve of Dummer township, in 1912 during the wardenship of W. J. Porter of Otonabee.

His Lordship's Address

Mr. Justice Raney's address to the Grand Jury was, in part, as follows:

"Gentlemen, you have been summoned from your homes to-day to take your share in the administration of justice. As I was coming here on the train to-day I read the report of an incident or event that occurred since the first of the year in a State in the Middle West. A young man, colored, was accused of a crime against a woman. A lot of men got together and wanted to lynch this prisoner. The mob was restrained by the sheriff, but only by the threat of machine guns. The prisoner was taken to another jurisdiction for trial and on the way to jail in the custody of the sheriff a group of men overbore the sheriff and took the prisoner to the school house where,

FIANCEE IS ILL PRINCE WORRIES

Lennart Claims He Will Settle in Germany With Bride.

MAY GET TITLE OF 'COUNT.'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 3. — (CP) Unperturbed by King Gustave's refusal to sanction his marriage to a commoner, youthful Prince Lennart proceeded to-day with plans for his wedding to Fraulein Karin Nissvandt daughter of a Swedish-Dutch industrialist.

To interviewers he seemed much more concerned that his finance was lying ill of influenza at her father's home than that to carry out his purpose he will have to surrender his princely ranking and become plain Mr. Lennart Wilhelmson.

"What does the rank of Prince really mean these days in Germany, where we are going to settle?" he asked, adding that he would become a German agriculturist, but keep his Swedish heart. They hope to make their home, he said, at Mainu Castle near Lake Constance.

While Prince Lennart, who is the son of Prince William, second son of King Gustave, will lose his rights of succession to the throne by marrying against the King's will, the honorary title of Count or Prince probably will be bestowed upon him.

SIX ARE INJURED IN SUB EXPLOSION

Explosion Occurs on One of Britain's Largest Undersea Boats.

CAUSE IS UNDETERMINED.

CHATHAM, Eng., Feb. 3. (CP)— Six men were injured, one critically, to-day when an explosion of undetermined origin wrecked the internal combustion engine of the Submarine X-1, one of the largest undersea boats in the British navy.

She had left Sheerness for a trial run after reconditioning and had gone twenty miles on the surface to the Thames estuary when the explosion occurred.

The injured men were treated on the ship and the submarine came back to Chatham on one engine. The extent of the damage was not immediately determined.

The X-1 of exceptionally strong construction, is designed for deep diving and can remain submerged for two and a half days.

GENERAL STRIKE LOOMS IN HAVANA

Labor Organizations Meeting Separately Make Decision Effective For To-night.

NEWSPAPERS BE TIED UP.

HAVANA, Feb. 3.—A general strike to last 24 hours or more, has been called to begin in Havana at six p.m. to-day in protest at renewed authorization by the Cuban Congress for suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Havana Labor organizations, meeting separately last night, voted to call the walkout. There were indications that the order would be widely obeyed, most Havana newspapers, their employees affected by the strike called, gave notice that they would make no attempt to publish.

While the chief grievance of the Labor organizations is the renewed authorization for suspension of constitutional guarantees, the strike order also cites the recent suspensions of most of the Havana newspapers, imprisonment of students, and other measures of defense adopted by the administration of President Machado.

MANION PREDICTS GREAT PROGRESS IN ST. LAWRENCE

Sees International Negotiation on Power "in Very Near Future."

AT BANQUET FOR STEWART.

Taschereau Rapped Over His Radio Control Policy By Duranleau.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 3.—Belief that the water powers of the St. Lawrence will be developed "in the very near future beyond any doubt" was expressed here last night by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, speaking at a banquet tendered Hon. H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works, by the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Manion qualified his statement with an explanation that he used the term "the very near future" with proper regard to the international negotiations that must precede such a development, but he hoped the present Government would be in power long enough to bring improvement of the St. Lawrence, both in regard to water power and navigation, into effect.

The banquet was marked also by a reply on the part of Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, to Premier Taschereau of Quebec, in connection with the latter's proposal to exercise control over radio broadcasting in that Province. Mr. Duranleau compared Mr. Taschereau to King Canute of old, who bade the tide stand still and got his feet wet in consequence.

Raps Taschereau

"The Prime Minister of my Province," said Mr. Duranleau, from a prepared statement, "last week announced that his Government, regardless of Dominion Legislation, proposes to exercise control over radio broadcasting in the Province of Quebec, and to issue licenses for broadcasting stations therein, but he does not, at the same time, announce what method he proposed to adopt to prevent the radio waves from these stations flying across the boundaries of Quebec and interfering with the rights of the other Provinces, and across the international boundary and interfering with the rights of the United States.

Does he propose to go a step further and forbid any resident of Quebec hearing any outside stations. You who listen on your radio sets every night know perfectly well that radio waves act with a complete disregard of man-made boundaries, and, the Prime Minister to the contrary, I expect you will continue to listen to programs not only from the Province of Quebec, but also from Ontario stations, from the Maritimes, and from the United States.

"Radio control has been recognized for three years as an international matter. Does the Prime Minister propose to go to the United States, to Cuba, to Mexico and make a treaty with each of these countries whereby they will accept the radio channels he proposed to allot and guarantee to protect them? And does he further propose that the Prime Minister in every Province of this Dominion should do likewise? The idea, I think, you will agree, is unsound and not practical."

Death Strikes Twice In One Day At Paris

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 3.—Two tragic deaths occurred in Paris, Monday. The annual bonspiel was ended abruptly when Hugh Walker, while skipping a Galt rink, died suddenly of a heart attack. Dr. Woolber of Ayr and Dr. Turner of Hamilton, who were playing, also the Coroner, Dr. W. J. Logie of Paris, were present when deceased was carried into the clubroom.

Dr. Woolber pronounced life extinct.

The second death occurred in the river when 4-yearlold Clarence Baker either broke through shallow ice or fell through a hole in the ice. An alarm was raised and after 45 minutes' search the body was recovered. Efforts at resuscitation failed and on the arrival of Dr. F. H. Jeffrey, he pronounced the boy dead.

Blaze On Don River Gives Firemen Battle

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—The Don River, in the east end of the city, was a stream of blazing oil last night, and for some hours industrial concerns in the vicinity were threatened by the flames. The fire started when oil, seeping from nearby tanks, onto the ice, was ignited, apparently from sparks of a passing locomotive. Before the flames were subdued, a wood bridge at "the Cut" was completely destroyed.

MISSING TRAPPER RETURNS HOME

Grand Marias Resident Lost For Month on Isle Royal and Shore Line.

MISSED TRAIL IN STORM.

GRAND MARAIS, Minn., Feb. 3—Iver Anderson, 53, a fisherman is home here to-day after having been lost on Isle Royale and Lake Superior for almost a month.

Confused when a blizzard covered his trail while locating a trap line on the island, Anderson said he wandered in the forest for days, emerging on the west end of the island.

Following the coast line he came to Washington Harbor from where he saw the Rock of Ages lighthouse. He set out in a rowboat he found but high seas swept him to a desolate spot on the Canadian shore.

With abatement of the wind he set out for Grand Marais hugging the shore line. After days of rowing he landed at the mouth of Reservation River and was fed and given first aid by fishermen who returned him to his home yesterday. The Grand Portage Coast Guard crew with a volunteer group, and a coast guard cutter had searched for him.

BRITAIN INTERESTED IN ARGENTINE

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—"Great Britain has more money invested in the Argentine than she has in Canada," said G. B. Stevens, Canadian Trade Commissioner, in an address before the Canadian Club here yesterday. Mr. Stevens spoke of the British Empire Exposition in Buenos Aires as illustrating desire of the Mother Country to increase trade with South America.

CAMPBELL READY WITH BIG RACER TO TRY FOR TITLE

DOES 240 M.P.H. IN TEST.

Will Take Four Mile Running Start Before Entering Measured Mile.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—With ideal beach conditions prevailing and his trim racing car tuned to perfection, Captain Malcolm Campbell today set out to establish a new world's automobile speed record on the glistening sands of the natural speedway here.

Highly elated over his machines performance yesterday, when he attained an unofficial clip of approximately 240 miles an hour, the 46-year-old British driver was confident of setting a new mark considerably higher than the present record established here in 1929 by the late Sir Henry Segrave also of England.

Although the 240 mile an hour speed exceeded by nine miles an hour the standing record of 231, it was not officially recognized as no timing instruments were set up for the trial. Campbell calculated his approximate speed from his tachometer, which registers his engine revolutions.

Official Timer On Hand

With the arrival here of Odis Porter, official timer for the American Automobile Association, orders were issued for the setting up of the electrical clocking device which records a driver's time for his runs to a thousandth of a second. From the elapsed time, his speed in miles per hour is determined.

Policemen were instructed to clear the beach of all automobiles and spectators several hours before Campbell's Bluebird machine was to be towed to the course. Although low tide occurrs about 2:15 p.m. (E.S.T.) he planned to be at the starting post from one to two hours before that time to begin his trials as soon as the sun dries out the beach, after the tide recedes.

Attendants were stationed at mile intervals all along the nine mile course to report the progress of the speeding machine to the timing tower over a private telephone system. The timing stand is located at the south end of the measured mile, which is in the center of the course.

Campbell planned to take a four-mile running start and by the time he enters the official mile, probably will have his motor running as fast as beach conditions will permit. After flashing past the finish wire, he will require approximately four miles to bring his car to a stop.

TWO PETITIONS ARE PRESENTED TO THE COUNCIL

Much Discussion Among Campbellford Merchants Regarding Half Holiday.

NAMES DUPLICATED.

Council Decides to Lay Matter Over Until Next Meeting—Other Business.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence) — The regular meeting of the Campbellford Town Council was held last evening in the Public Library, Campbellford, with all members present: Mayor J M Bygott presiding.

One of the major items of business was the consideration of two petitions presented to the Council in regard to the open night for the stores of town. The first one, asking that Wednesday be observed as open night and that Thursday be the half-holiday, was signed by 55 merchants and business men of the town headed by D. A. Menzies & Son. This carried with it a supplementary petition signed by 33 others who did not observe a closing night but who favored the above arrangement.

Speaking on behalf of this petition A. T. Linton pointed out that all the stores closed on Wednesday, and by those in Campbellford keeping open it gave the business men a better opportunity of doing business. He also stated that with the old arrangement the open night, which was on Thursday, was too close to Saturday, and prevented the people from coming into town on the two nights when so close together.

Present Arrangement.

The second petition, which was signed by 40 merchants, asked that the open night and holiday remain as it was, which was a half-holiday on Wednesday with open night on Thursday. The clerk read a letter from Dr. O. C. Watson, who was unable to attend, giving some reasons why this petition should be granted. Among these he stated that the rest of Ontario was same as Campbellford, that he thought that it would keep business in town, that it would give people an opportunity to go to all sports which were held on Wednesday, and that he did not consider the first petition representative of the people, and that some names were duplicated on the two petitions.

Speaking on the first petition, W. J. Armstrong pointed out that he thought that the one that carried the most signatures should be granted. J. A. Irwin stated that the holiday was an institution of the merchants of Campbellford, and though they had been persuaded some time ago to change the holiday from the original day, they wanted to get back to it.

F. Menzie, who was instrumental in getting the first petition signed, declared that it was read and explained to everyone before they signed it. He knew, however, that there had been duplications.

T. J. Horkins pointed out to the Council that the date for the fall fair had been set for September 30 and October 1, the latter date being a Thursday and covering what he thought would be the half-holiday for the town.

Petitions Laid Over.

The petition then went before the Council for discussion, much talk

LEADERS BLAMED FOR NEW CHARTER

Wilkie Business Men Claim Move Not Due to Destitution Among Farmers.

MAYOR OPPOSES ACTION.

WILKIE, Sask., Feb. 3. (CP)—Rise of the Charter of Liberty movement in Northwest Saskatchewan is due to varied causes, according to divergent opinions expressed here. The charter, which more than 600 farmers have signed during a three-week drive, favors formation of a western Free-Trade Commonwealth, failing new Dominion Government moves for farm aid.

Business men in Wilkie contend that the move arises not from destitution among farmers, but is due to active leadership and campaigning. They say that the area dependent mostly on wheat and oats enjoyed very good crops, which, however, have been cut down in grade and value by early snows and dropping prices.

"Farmers are in desperate shape" contends C. C. Stoliker, chairman of the district farm body executive and a leader of the movement. They are willing to do anything ready to go the limit for they feel they are not getting a square deal."

Mayor Frank Beggs of Wilkie objects to the charter being called a Wilkie product and understands that it was drafted by three men in Saskatoon. He objects to six men, "reputed to be representative of the farmers of this area" having later sat at Wilkie and "represented that they themselves had drawn up the charter to reflect the opinion of a previous Wilkie meeting."

"We are not proud of this charter being given its alleged birth in Wilkie, and I do not think the farmers in this district will endorse such a document" he says.

Orlex will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

CHIMNEY POINT SITE FOR BRIDGE

Commission Sets Cost of Ogdensburg-Prescott Structure at $3,200,000.

REPORT TO ROOSEVELT.

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 3.—The St. Lawrence Bridge Commission has reported in favor of a site at Chimney Point, near Ogdensburg, N.Y., for the proposed bridge across the river, but suggested that three bridges were really needed, the other two to be built later at Collins' Landing (Thousand Islands) and near Massena. The report was made yesterday to Governor Roosevelt and the Legislature.

The cost of the Ogdensburg-Prescott, Ont., bridge was placed at $3,200,000, and the Commission said the bridge at this site would return the highest net revenue in proportion to cost, with an estimated gross return of $322,000 for the first five years.

The report recommended a bridge authority for all St. Lawrence River bridges that might be constructed.

The Commissioners said New York and Canada could finance their parts of the construction cost separately, and suggested that New York float a bond issue to pay its share. The cost of maintaining the international span would be borne jointly.

The Ogdensburg site is midway between the two proposed for later construction, about forty miles from each. The report said it was centrally located with reference to Eastern and Western traffic, and that ferry traffic here had increased 900 per cent in nine years. Fourteen individual sites were studied.

The Ogdensburg bridge would have an 840-foot span, providing an 800-foot clear channel. Clearance would be 135 feet.

Roses and other plants were blooming in parts of Scotland in January.

RUSH POINT

(Examiner Correspondence)

Mr. Freeman Hart and Mr. James Keating, of Rush Point are spending several weeks visiting in Smith's Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Keating and little sons have returned to their home in Niagara Falls, Ontario, after spending a pleasant holiday with friends at Rush Point and Campbellford.

Mr. Earl Orser, of Campbellford, has rented a house and lot, owned by C. G. Petherick, at Rush Point, and intends to take possession at once.

Mr. Murnie Barton, while on a business trip to Campbellford, with C. G. Petherick attended the shower and dance given recently at the home of Mr. Fairman in honor of Mr. John Hooper. Mr. Hooper is from the Herrington Welding Works in Peterborough and with his bride will take up residence in the city at an early date.

It is feared that the unusual depth of snow will block the roads for cars for a few days. The numerous trucks bringing logs, pulpwood and cordwood from the north country have had almost perfect roads so far this winter between Oak Lake and Campbellford.

Friends at Round Lake will be very pleased to learn that Clayton Barton, of Rosetown, Sask., is recovering from his recent illness.

Rush Point School still remains closed owing to illness of the teacher.

Mr. Matthew Petherick has disposed of a number of his thoroughbred Holstein cattle.

Mr. Walter Davis is trucking wood from South Lake to Havelock.

Mr. Leonard Davis had the misfortune to sever the main cord in his right arm between the elbow and wrist. It took several stitches to close the wound.

Mr. Harold Spinks brought out two fine red foxes from Sandy Lake recently. He reports wolves and deer both in large numbers.

Mr. Thomas Menzie who is spending the winter lumbering at South Lake, declares the conditions to be ideal there.

Mr. H. Vansickle, of Vansickle Settlement is trucking the lumber he cut at the Burnt Mill to Norwood.

With wells going dry and water so scarce the farmers of this district consider Round Lake quite an asset.

Mr. Robert Seeney is cleaning up the maple woods on the road to Round Lake, across from the farm of Mr. Matt Petherick.

Mr. Ross Hart has been putting in the year's supply of wood at Carrol's school.

A dance took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Toms at which Rush Point was well represented and all present reported the best of a good time.

LONDON, Feb. 3. — (AP) — The Princess Beatrice, King George's aunt who is seriously ill of bronchitis, rallied today from a set-back yesterday and her physicians reported her condition as "more satisfactory."

FALSE TEETH ARE A GREAT INVENTION but KEEP YOUR OWN AS LONG AS YOU CAN

Ten years too late most people seek Protection

The greatest mistake you can make is to wait until gums are swollen and spongy before you begin to think of pyorrhea. A famous British doctor states that many people have this disease for ten years before the symptoms appear.

And pyorrhea is to blame for half of all adult teeth extracted. Protect yourself now from this disease of neglect. You should, of course, see your dentist twice a year.

And, in addition, keep teeth clean—massage the gums—with Forhan's, the dentists' dentifrice. It was originated by R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a specialist in pyorrhea.

Brush your teeth at least twice a day with Forhan's, for it is a mild, safe, scientifically correct cleanser, which restores your teeth to their natural gleaming beauty.

At the same time, use Forhan's for massage (full instructions with every tube). It is specially prepared to tone up the gums when applied with gentle rubbing, and to awaken sluggish circulation. The health of the gums depends on this circulation. Only when they are firm and strong can they hope to resist infections which bring such trouble to almost every adult later in life.

Here, then, is double protection in Forhan's—a protection which every member of the family should have. Adopt Forhan's as your dentifrice: it comes in two sizes, 35c and 60c—just a few cents per tube more than ordinary toothpastes, and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Ltd., Montreal.

HAVELOCK COUNCILLORS CONSIDER STARTING OF GARBAGE COLLECTION

Lakefield System Studied But No Action Taken—Tax Collector Reports.

MONEY BY-LAW PASSED.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The regular monthly meeting of the village council was held in the council chamber, Monday evening at 7.30 p.m. Reeve Sanderson occupied the chair and the following councillors were present, Messrs. Ernest Seeney, Alf. Spencer, John Howe and Harvey Gordon.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as read. A few letters from various firms were read and ordered filed, with the exception of one from the Public Trustee re a patient from the village, who is in the hospital for the insane. There was considerable discussion about this letter and it is thought that the property of this patient will be taken over by the Public Trustee and sold for the expense in connection with the case.

Re Deputation.

For the first time in many meetings, there were no petitions or deputations waiting on the council. Tax collector J. Kinnaird gave a very satisfactory report, showing the amount of taxes paid being considerably over the amount that were collected this time last year. There is still some $2000 of last year's taxes unpaid. On motion of councillors Howe and Spencer, the tax collector's time was extended one month.

The electric heater, used for keeping the fire engines warm in the town hall, needed to be replaced and the reeve was authorized to attend to this.

At the last meeting the secretary was instructed to write the village of Lakefield to obtain details of their garbage collection system. This letter had been answered by the village clerk and a copy of the by-law and comments on its operation were read to the members.

The shareholders there have all their garbage and refuse collected once a month for 40 cents a collection. The members were all agreed that this was a cheap and very good way to have the garbage collected, but were afraid that it would be a difficult thing to get started.

On motion of councillors Gordon and Seeney, the clerk was instructed to write the clerk of Lakefield, thanking him for his trouble in sending them the details of the successful system, that has been in force since 1925.

By-law Overlooked.

At the last regular meeting the council overlooked by-law number 379, authorizing the borrowing of money for the coming year.

This by-law was given its several readings and the limit fixed at $12,000, and the rate to be the usual 6% per annum.

Councillors Howe and Spencer moved that the motion, rescinding the hiring of Charles Dewey as caretaker and advertising the position, be rescinded and Mr. Dewey continue as before. This was carried.

The following accounts were ordered paid on motion of councillors Seeney and Spencer.

Charles Dewey caretaking and meals for tramps, $19.60, G. W. Chiles, light bill, $8.64, E. S. Hubbel and Son, acct., $458.76, The Municipal World, dog tags and paper, $9.90; Mrs. Hogan, grant re Foley estate, $10; County treasurer, county rate for $9130, $3,181.12; Municipal World, for certificates for dog owners, $38; H. Dafoe, drawing 144 loads of gravel, $72; Mrs. E. J. Brown, for gravel, $6.40; Jas. Craighead, five cords of wood, $40; and heater for engines, $2.00; Chas. Armstrong, meals for tramps, $1.50. The council then adjourned until March 2, or at the call of the reeve.

parks in each of the five wards so that the children could enjoy their sport without danger. He moved that the City Engineer report back the cost of construction of such hills. The motion carried unanimously.

Alderman Tuggey introduced a motion that the City Council pass a motion requesting E. A. Peck, M.P. to bring a bill before the Dominion House that December 26 be a general holiday. Alderman Tuggey urged that store employees were tired out because of the Christmas rush and required the extra day's vacation and the motion was not seconded. It being maintained that the question should be first dealt with by the Retail Merchant's Association.

The Council, by a motion, expressed sympathy to Alderman Walter Stocker in his sad bereavement. The whole Council will attend the funeral on Wednesday afternoon.

A signal will be installed at the C.N.R. crossing at the corner of Westcott and Park streets. Forty percent of the cost will come out of the Grade Crossing Fund and the remaining 60 per cent. will be shared equally by the city and the C.N.R.

Other recommendations for the installation of wig-wag signals in the city made by the council did not meet the approval of the signal inspector.

Cutting of Trees

Indignation was expressed by J. A. O'Brien and Major Dodds on behalf of themselves and other residents of Engleburn avenue because of the alleged reckless and wanton cutting of trees by city workmen on the islands between the C.P.R. and Hunter street bridges in Otonabee river. Mr. O'Brien stated that the workmen had cut down many valuable trees, causing the islands to lose much of their scenic value. City Engineer Parsons explained that the workmen had been told merely to cut down small tres and those in a state of decay. He promised a check-up on the tree cutting.

Mr. O'Brien suggested that a row of poplar trees be planted on the west bank of the river. The trees would screen the dump and buildings on the west shore and aid in preventing the bank from being washed away, he stated.

Alderman Holland stated that he was assured that the tree work on the islands was under the charge of a capable man.

The local corps of the St. John's Ambulance brigade is requesting that the Council increase the annual grant to that organization from $50 to $100. Wm. Berry appeared as spokesman for the Ambulance men before the Council last night. He stated that the increased grant would enable the local corps to supply some of their members with uniforms. Outlining the corps' work he said that classes in First Aid had been conducted, 24 having passed first examinations and ten second degree examinations. In addition 24 men and women are now attending a nursing class and it is hoped that a nursing corps may be formed to render voluntary assistance to the needy. The corps had given first aid in 200 cases during 1930 and in five cases had given blood transfusions in the hospital to patients who could not pay the cost of a transfusion.

Mayor Denne stated that the local corps was to be congratulated for its work. The request for an increase was left to the consideration of the Finance Committee.

"During the month we received the decision of the County Judge in the matter of the Assessor's appeal against the decrease in assessment of George street property, as made by the Court of Revision. While the Judge's decision raises the value from that fixed by the Court of Revision it does not bring it up to that made by the Assessor, but is a compromise between the two. In this I contend that he was in error, in support of which I quote from the Judge's own words, taken from his decision:—

"'These are the two points, and the only two points to be considered in making such assessments. The difficulty is to arrive at a fair estimate or valuation of these two points. The Assessor has made in all the cases before me little or no increase as to the value of the buildings, except where special additions, or repairs, have been made; but as to the land he has increased most of these properties, and some of them very materially. As warrant for this he points to the sales made in recent years either of these very properties, or of lots adjacent to them. Evidence of such sales are pertinent, and this is the chief and almost the only criterion in these cases which assists me. Such sales are or should be such as are made by a willing seller to a willing purchaser.

"'It is argued that these sales proved before me were distinct or special sales, made under special circumstances and under special demands. That might be true if it applied to one alone, but all the sales in this immediate district of recent years have been brought to my attention, and the prices paid, and I must say that they would appear to justify very largely the increases made by the Assessor. I would suggest, too, that the increase might be extended even to a wider sphere than has apparently been done by the Assessor, in order to make the assessment equitable throughout the district.

"'Much or most of the evidence given before me was strangely foreign to the two points above mentioned and the real facts at issue. There is no question of these sales being made of the various lots, and the amounts paid for them; and there is also no question that such is a very generally accepted standard for fixing valuations and assessments of property.'

"As to the sphere being extended I might point out that there has been no demand for property on the east side of George street, and that in the opinion of many merchants along both sides of the street there is a difference of from 35 per cent. to 50 per cent. which was the basis on which the Assessor fixed his value.

"During the month the department has been busy in working out the reductions as made by Judge Huycke, in comparing assessments in other parts of the City, and getting out income forms."

Treasurer's Report

City Treasurer Adams' report, in part, read as follows:—

"The Collector's Rolls for the year 1929 were returned to me during the month of January last. This was the latest to have them outstanding during my experience and I hope that it will not be repeated.

The total amount of the rolls was....	$861,459.74
Amount of penalty was	2,435.94
Making a total of	$863,895.68
Of this total the amount paid in was	$842,218.72	97.50%
Amounts charged to land	17,965.96	2.08%
Taxes that could not be collected.	3,711.00	.42%
Total	$863,895.68	100%
The amount of the Collector's Roll for Collector's Roll for 1930	$923.757.41	91.98%
Amount paid to 31 Dec., 1930....	849,639.22	91.98%
Balance unpaid 31 Dec., 1930.....	$ 74,118.19
Paid in January, 1931	5,235.49
Balance due 31st Jan., 1931	$ 68,882.70

"In an editorial in The Globe on Saturday last, reference is made to the report of the City Treasurer of Toronto, that the proportion of 1930 taxes paid to date was 84.19 per cent. This was no doubt to the 31st December last, while to the same date, the proportion paid in Peterborough was 91.98% or 7.79% more than Toronto.

"Peterborough paid on 1929 taxes to 31 Dec. 1929, 93.74%; so that there was a slight decrease in 1930 of 1.76%. This must be considered very satisfactory under the circumstances.

"I hope to have the final statements for the year 1930 completed this week and when ready, copies will be mailed to the members of the Council."

the merchants and the assessor. In doing Mr. Henry gives his opinion that the Judge was in error and in support of hisclaim quotes from the judge's decision.

The Council meeting was lengthy and many motions were introduced dealing with subjects ranging from a Dominion-wide holiday on December 26, which motion was introduced by Alderman Tuggey, of the need to supply accommodation for sleigh-riding for children, which motion was fostered by Alderman McNabb and which received the unanimous support of the Council.

Oppose Firemen's Bill

The Council will oppose the Firemen's Superannuation and Benefit Bill introduced into the Ontario House in 1930 and to come before the House again this year. If passed the bill will mean the establishment of a fund in Peterborough of $26,000. The Council moved to approve the bill on the ground of its creating an increase in taxes and that when such legislation is passed it should apply to all city employees. Belleville is also apposed to the bill on the same grounds.

In view of the recent sleigh-riding fatality Alderman Jack McNabb suggested that hills be built in the city's

Bad Cold On Her Chest Had To Stay In Bed

Mrs. J. O. Winston, Jasper, Man., writes:—"I have every reason to praise Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as it has done me a world of good. I had a very bad cold on my chest, and had to stay in bed two weeks, and could hardly speak on account of coughing so much. I tried every medicine and liniment I could think of, but I got no relief. My husband read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup so I decided to try it. I took only one bottle and I am ready to recommend it to anyone with a cold."

TWO PETITIONS ARE PRESENTED

centring around the duplication of the signatures. The general feeling was that the Council wished to get a fair representation of the merchants of Campbellford so that they would have a majority of opinion on the subject. Eventually it was proposed by Deputy-Reeve N. Alexander McColl, seconded by Councillor H. S. Carr, and carried, that the petitions be laid on the table until next meeting, giving the petitioners an opportunity to prepare new lists if they desire.

In reference to a delegation to the Good Roads Convention to be held in Toronto, it was decided on motion that no delegate be sent this year.

Mayor Bygott addressed the council on the matter of the stone crusher, stating that he had been informed by the Raynard Construction Company that owing to the increased cost they would not be able to operate the crusher until the spring, the company having been given authority by the government to hold the highway work over until that time. It was agreed that this matter be left in the hands of he mayor.

Mrs. Holling addressed the council in regard to the laying of a sewer and water works on Raglan street, pointing out that she thought that it was necessary from all angles, especially from the sanitary point of view. She had appeared before the council before in regard to the same question and asked that they give her some satisfaction. This matter was referred to the Road and Bridge committee to get the particulars of and report back.

George Whitelaw, lessee of the town scales asked the council to handle the buying of weigh books so that he could purchase them from the town. He pointed out that all he used in one year was 175. The town could buy 500 at the rate of 7¾c a piece, and he was willing to buy them from the town at 10c per book. On motion of Councillors E. C. McKeel and N. Thompson this was granted and the clerk instructed to arrange for the same and sell to Mr. Whitelaw at the price quoted.

Kent Estate

J. A. Irwin addressed the council in the matter of a lot belonging to the Kent estate. This property, which lays near the gravel pit had been damaged by the town, and although the coucil hd offered him $50.00 for it he thought that it was too low a figure as adjoining lots were valued at $200.00 He stated that he was eager to settle up the estate, and would favorably consider an offer of $100.00. Before any action was taken with this matter it was agreed that Mr. Irwin visit the property with the council on their April rounds of the town and discuss the matter.

A communication was read from the Trent Waterways, Iroquois Trail Association asking that the town join up with the movement this year and stating that their assessment was $125.00. This matter was discussed and a motion was put forward by Councillor F. Long, seconded by Councillor McKeel, that the letter be laid on the table. An amendment was moved however by Deputy Reeve MacColl seconded by Councillor Carr, that the town become members of the association and pay the fees. The amendment carried when put to the vote.

A letter was also read from J. J. G. Kerry asking that the council fix a date when it would be possible to meet with him. This was discussed and it was decided that Wednesday, Feb. 11 would be put aside for that purpose.

A letter of thanks was read from the Sick Children's Hospital for the donation forwarded to them from the Campbellford council. The auditor's report was also received, and on motion it was returned to the finance committee for examination and to be reported on at the next meeting.

The matter of Ernest Flint was brought up by the Mayor, who had been asked by Dr. O. C. Watson if the town would pay for dental work being done for him. It was explained that he had been hit in the mouth by a hammer while working for the town this fall, causing among other things damage to his teeth. This was discussed and on motion of Councillor Carr, seconded by Councillor J. R. Battisby it was decided that the town be responsible for this dental work.

Reeve N. Stone and Deputy Reeve MacColl both addressed the council briefly on the work accomplished by the Counties Council at their recent sessions held at Cobourg.

The pay sheet amounting to $842.1. was presented and on motion passed.

Change Tires

Then he will change tires, inspect his car and make another run in the opposite direction, which must be completed 30 minutes after the start of the first. One trial must be made with the wind and the other against it. If the average speed of the two runs is higher than 231 miles an hour, he will have established a new world's land speed record.

Campbell, who has driven racing cars since 1903 and who has established straightaway records three different times, only to see them raised by faster cars, appeared calm and showed not the slightest sign of nervousness.

"It's just another day at the wheel," he said with a smile.

Then he added seriously, "You know, this really high speed racing isn't so simple.

"Back in the days when the record was around 150 or 175 miles an hour, I used to get a great kick out of driving that fast. It was thrilling and was not such a great task. Now with the record standing at 231, it is something to think about. It is not easy to beat I tell you, it's a real job."

GRAND JURY RETURNS TRUE BILL IN ABDUCTION CASE, EVIDENCE GIVEN BY MARY O'NEIL TO COURT

Criminal Action All That Remains on Light Spring Assize Docket.

ABDUCTION STORY TOLD.

Witness Declares That Joseph Robilard is Married Man.

Even after Ernest Joseph Robilard's alleged abduction of Mary O'Neil on Saturday, December 27, she sent him the following note:—

"I'll always be your true friend and pal no matter what happens. Write and let me know how you get along."

"And you sealed it with kisses," remarked Wilfrid Huycke, counsel for Robilard.

This criminal action was all that remained of a light docket for the Spring Assize of the Supreme Court of Ontario which opened at the court house Monday afternoon, with Mr. Justice Raney presiding. Two civil cases were settled out of court and a third was traversed to the Belleville Assize this month.

The grand jury brought in a true bill against Robillard, and the trial proceeded at four o'clock, with adjournment at 5.30 o'clock until this morning.

Robillard pleaded not guilty to the indictment of having abducted Mary O'Neil for an immoral purpose to the headquarters of the Burleigh Ranching Company, about forty miles north of the city in Burleigh township, on Saturday, December 27. Relatives found here there late in the evening of Sunday, December 28, and as the result of an ensuing encounter Robillard was charged in police court with assault and was acquitted.

Jury Empaneled Quickly

Mr. Thomas Costello, K.C., of Renfrew, special Crown prosecutor, briefly reviewed the facts of the case to the jury, and Miss O'Neil was called as first witness.

The personnel of the jury follows: Kenneth Junkin; Archie Brault; Fred Brooks; William Knapp, Sophia Street; Harry Buck, Asphodel; Thomas J. Burke, Park Hill Road; Clayton Breckenridge, Asphodel; R. J. Girven, Asphodel; Earl Petrie, Otonabee; Deniel Delaney, Douro; John L. Boyd, London street; Frank D. Lee, Hunter street east.

The calling of the jury took less than ten minutes. Only one juror was challenged, and he was turned back by Mr. Costello, who was assisted by Crown Attorney McElderry.

Met in August

Mary O'Neil said she was twenty-one years old and the daughter of James O'Neil, Romaine street. She first met Robillard last August at her home when he called with two friends. She next met him about ten days later on Park street. He was passing on a bicycle, saw her and turned back. From then until the alleged abduction she had been with him quite a number of times.

Mr. Costello: Is Robillard married?

Miss O'Neil: I asked him several times, and he denied that he was married. Shortly before Christmas he admitted that he was, and showed me a letter from his wife.

Approaching the ranch incident, the witness said she was engaged as a domestic at a house on Brock street. The prisoner called that afternoon, Saturday, December 27, and asked her if she wanted a job north of Lakefield. She declined, she said, she wanted no more association with Robillard.

"Ernie told me has was leaving for the country in a short time," witness continued. "I stayed at the house half an hour, thinking he would be gone by that time. It was my afternoon off, and I went down town. I saw Ernie at the corner of Simcoe and George streets talking to Hilliard McIlmoyle, the son of the woman Ernie was going to work for. He said he had something to tell me, and took me by the arm across the street to Mrs. McIlmoyle's car. He asked me if I wanted to go for a drive. I said, No. He told me he was going to his sister's, and as that would take me close to my home I got in the car. Mr. Drain was driving. He works at the ranch. There were also Mrs. McIlmoyle; her son, Hilliard McIlmoyle, about seventeen years old; Ernie and I. Ernie said they were going for a short trip and would make the turn."

After a stop at an office on Water street north, the car continued on toward Lakefield. They arrived there about 3.30. Several calls were made at stores in the village, and at the second one the car was turned toward Peterborough. Miss O'Neil said she thought they were going back to the city.

"Cried and Kicked Up."

"I don't know which way we started off, but we came to Clear Lake. I never saw it before. I asked where we were and started to cry and kick up. I asked Ernie to take me back. He said he had started and was going to see it through to the finish. Mr. Drain said I could phone from a farm near Mount Julian. Ernest wouldn't let me. He said I would tell mother where I was and who I was with. I gave Mrs. McIlmoyle the money to telephone. She and Ernie went in to phone, but I found out Ernie telephoned because Mrs. McIlmoyle said she was hard of hearing. When they came back to the car Ernie told me, mother said she didn't care if she never saw me again. We stopped at Haultain and arrived at the ranch about six o'clock."

Witness said she had remonstrated with Robillard about taking her to the ranch and also when she reached the place. She described the two connected houses that form the headquarters of the Burleigh Ranching Company. There were present Mrs. McIlmoyle; her sons, Raymond and Harry; Mr. Drain and his son, Garnet; Robillard and the witness. She recounted the events of that night and the following Sunday until about one o'clock Monday morning, when she was awakened out of her sleep by Harry McIlmoyle carrying her upstairs. About the same time she heard the horn of an automobile, and a few moments later her relatives demanding that she return home with them. At first Robillard denied that she was in the house, and then he declared she was not going back. When she went downstairs she saw her mother; her brother Joe; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Loucks.

And then—"Ernie came in and said 'Are you going?' and I said 'Yes'."

Miss O'Neil testified in the course of her evidence she was afraid of Robillard. She said he had threatened he would harm her "folks" if she left him. She understood he could get a revolver whenever he wanted one.

FARMER'S WIFE GETS STRENGTH

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wilton, Ont.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through the Change of Life. It helps me and I cannot praise it too highly. I was troubled with heat flashes and my limbs were heavy so I could hardly walk to do my farm work. I saw in the newspapers your ad about the Vegetable Compound and thought to give it a trial. The first bottle gave me relief and I have told others what it does for me. I am willing for you to use my letter if you choose."—Mrs. D. B. Parmas, Wilton, Ontario.

Ask Your Neighbor

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Town Hall was the scene of a pleasant, and somewhat unique social gathering on Friday evening when the local branch of the Women's Institute sponsored a "Hard-Time-Soshul," the threat of a "fine for any finery" compelling the guests, so far as the ladies were concerned, to appear apparelled in gingham dresses, aprons over summer frocks that later on, minus their print covering, were suitable for the dance which concluded the party, or in gaily patterned smocks that were "ekelly erpropirate," as the "Rewels and Regerlations" on the invitations stipulated. The men were warned that "know gent with a dood shirt and biled koller be aloud to kum, unless he pays a fine of 3 sents."

Mrs. T. H. Aiken, treasurer of the W.I., looked after the sale of tickets at the door, and W. H. Armstrong collected these as the guests passed in, curiosity running high as to the garb worn, while according to promise "a kompitent komity interduced strangers, and looked after bashful fellers."

Since the invitations read "Kum at Kandle Lightin, and Stay till Bedtime," guests were on hand in good time, Councillor P. I. Bentley taking the chair for the program which featured musical selections by Lawrence Winslow at the piano and James Wood with violin; and by the Silver Tone Orchestra, which included C. C. Garside and Percey Pitt with harmonicas, Bill Byam with the guitar, and J. W. Hutchison, violin.

A 'biscuit eating' contest brought a number of competitors to the stage Mr. T. G. Harkness and Mrs. W. J. E. Gilliott coming off victors, finishing their dry biscuit and whistling a bar or two before any of the others could accomplish this insisted-upon climax.

G. W. Sayles acted as judge for the fines to be imposed in the case of those who failed to conform to the requirements set forth in the invitations, W. E. Ball and T. G. Harkness being the policemen who hailed the offending ones before "His Honor"; Miss Jean L. Burnham was appointed to act as the judges' clerk. As a guide for the Judge in his decisions there were listed "Fines for Wimmin"; bobbed hair, 1 sent; no apron, 2 sents; beads or necklace, 1 sent; trimmed aprons, 1 sent; jewelry, 2 sents; knew dress, 5 cents; kurled hare, 1 sent; fummery, 5 sents."

When the ladies had all received their sentence, the men were given their turn as 'prisoners,' the list for them being: segars or cigarettes, 5 sents; glasses, 2 sents; kressed trozers, 2 sents; silk ty, 1 sent; makin luv or flirtin, 5 sents; rings, 2 sents; biled shirt, 1 sent; beardless man, 1 sent."

Needless to say there was plenty of fun created by the initiative of the whole performance, and the promise that "all wuz for 25 sents, easy worth 26 sents, children under 12, ten sents," was amply fulfilled, especially as "vittels were trown in, good homemade T and Kake; sandwiches free; and you can dance after fer nothin" all of which was carried out literally and in generous measure.

The "kompitent komity" is charge of the event included Mrs. T. G. Harkness, president; Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, secretary; Miss Ella Grandy; Mrs. Archie Lunn; and Mrs. Suttle Pritchard.

Petherick's Corners

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 3. —(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Lorne Barnum, newly-elected convenor of Christian Citizenship took charge of the Wednesday evening Zion League meeting with Mrs. Albert Petherick as leader.

The "Hustlers", captained by Lorne Barnum, led in the attendance contest by a safe margin over Fred Barnum's "Boosters," with a total attendance of near forty members. During the business hour it was decided to invite the St. John's play group to present "Miss Fearless and Co." in Sentinel Hall on Wednesday evening, February 11.

The program as announced by the leader: Prayer, Fred Barnum; scripture, Thomas Fry; current events, Lindsay Anderson; topic, Mrs. Lorne Barnum; song service led by Fred Barnum; devotional talk by Rev. Mr. MacTavish. This talk as well as the discussion topic dealt with the importance of instilling into the minds of young people the importance of saving money so that when they became mature they would be better fitted to meet the demands of life. There was a great deal of moral influence in the training a young person received while trying to lay aside enough for financial independence.

Roads Kept Open.

The recent storm has made all roads very heavy, but a number of local men especially Alfred Simpson, Hector Arnold and Dan Petherick have been scraping the road in the vicinity and motorists find the surface smoother than in summer.

AN IMPORTANT ORGANIZATION.

Peterborough sportsmen and all citizens generally who appreciate the benefit of conserving the fish and game life of this district should not fail to attend the annual meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association which is to be held to-morrow night.

This live organization, which more than doubled its membership last year and took an enthusiastic and consistent interest in many matters of moment to hunters and fishermen, as well as to the general public, proposes to discuss several problems of great importance, notably the closing of certain townships to hunters for a number of years and the creation of a fish sanctuary north of Peterborough, as recommended by the Ontario Game and Fish Commission.

In both of these proposals and in other activities of the association there should be a great deal of interest, and sportsmen who recognize what is involved in the carrying out of these plans would do well, whether or not they approve of them, to become members of the organization in order that all such propositions may be discussed from every possible angle by those best acquainted with and most concerned in them.

There should be a record gathering of fishermen and anglers when the president calls to-morrow night's meeting at the Empress Hotel to order.

IMMIGRATION POLICIES.

Most people who read the announcement of the Minister of Immigration the other day will have little trouble in deciding that in curtailing immigration into Canada until the present depression passes and employment is normal throughout the country the Federal Government is adopting the only policy that is justifiable at the present time.

To allow large numbers of new people to come into Canada at a time when unemployment is rife, even in industrial centres are being hard put to it to take care of their own citizens who are out of work, and when there is distress in rural districts as well would be little short of suicidal.

It is to be hoped that the day will soon arrive when Canada will be able to extend a welcome hand to immigrants of a desired type, for when conditions are finally adjusted and the period of stress has passed the great need of this country will then be more people to help develop the Dominion's vast resources.

Just as surely as immigration should be shut off now, just as surely the time will come when it will be necessary to throw down the bars and bring into Canada thousands of new people capable of being assimilated into the citizenship of this country.

SAFETY EDUCATION.

From figures issued by the organization, it is evident that the 1930 campaign of the Ontario Safety League, which marked the seventeenth year of the league's activity in safety work, was perhaps the busiest in the history of this movement.

Through the medium of bulletins, circulars, calendars, lectures and radio talks, a tremendous amount of safety first propaganda was circulated throughout the year.

A special feature of the campaign was the effort made to educate the school children of the Province as to the desirability of following safety methods in their play and on the street.

Thus 5,000 school bulletins were issued weekly to schools and boards of education; an essay contest was held early in the year in the schools of Ontario, in which 5,000 essays on highway safety were entered; a drawing contest on accidents, accident prevention and fire prevention was conducted during the fall term, 4,000 pupils participating, and during the full school year of ten months lectures on safety and accident prevention were given to 171,700 pupils in 424 schools of 127 towns and cities.

This was a notable effort that cannot fail to have most beneficial results.

If there is any criticism to be made of the league's work it is to be found in the failure of the organization so to utilize the most effective method of publicity that is available, namely, the advertising columns of the daily newspapers, to put its message before the public.

Some of the money that is so lavishly spent upon bulletins would, if used in newspaper advertising, reach more people and obtain better results, The Examiner is satisfied.

THE SCHOOL BANK.

The latest statistics in regard to the operation of the Penny Bank system in Ontario show that while economic conditions have been responsible for a decrease, deposits by pupils of Peterborough schools continue to be fairly satisfactory, and the local schools, while not up at the top of the list, have an average weekly percentage of pupils making deposits during November and December of 30 per cent., which gives them a satisfactory standing.

The last report shows that at the end of December local pupils had on deposit a total amount of $15,020.05, as compared with $12,606.94 on the same date in the previous year.

King George School, with a percentage of 69, heads the Peterborough schools, the others registering as follows: King Edward School, 65; Queen Alexandra School, 49; Central School, 47; Queen Mary School, 43, and Prince of Wales School, 38.

In view of present-day conditions, the manner in which the school banking system is standing up should be a matter of general satisfaction, and particularly notable is the fact that during November and December 26 schools throughout the Province received deposits from 80 per cent. or over of their enrolment on each banking day, four schools indeed reporting every pupil as making regular deposits during the period.

A quotation from a letter to the teachers of Ontario from J. R. Littleproud, Ontario Penny Bank inspector, should be of interest.

"School savings has demonstrated more conclusively than ever its strong position as applied thrift," says the inspector. "Hundreds of families are falling back on school savings balances to provide them with necessities and comforts at the present time. Hence, there is an increase in the number of withdrawals being paid. At the same time, the reviving of a truer sense of values—a sense of the moral responsibility of the present to contribute to the necessity of the future—has led to an increase in the number of deposits. A recent check-up on a large number of schools showed an increase of 9 per cent. in the number of deposits received over the same period a year ago, although the total deposit in money was slightly decreased."

CUTTING COUNTY PAY LISTS.

Indications are not wanting that there is a desire on the part of county councils to cut expenses, and the salary lists in several places have been looked upon as the spot to start. Perhaps this is done on the principle of pursuing the lines of least resistance. The lists are right there before the members, this is the start of the year when appointments are made or old ones reaffirmed, and so now is the time to insert the pruning hook.

Methods seem to differ. We notice where the County Council of Kent took action, and chopped off something like $2,300 from the county pay roll. The method was irregular and was done by lump sum rather than by percentage. For instance, the clerk had a salary of $2,350 from which was taken $150, being a 6.34 per cent. reduction; the treasurer fared a little better. He had been getting $2,400 and from him was taken away $100, being a reduction of but 4.17 per cent. When it came time to tackle the pay envelope of the county road superintendent the councillors were warming to their task; this gentleman had a salary of $4,000, and from this was subtracted the sum of $500, being a straight decrease of 12.50 per cent. But when they came to the clerk of peace, a gentleman with an allowance of $1,000, the Council put the tape line right half way and whacked it to $500, which, by simple arithmetic, means a 50 per cent. cut. There may be reasons unknown to us that would justify such a peculiar method of shrinking salaries, but it cannot be denied that a range of from 4.17 per cent. to 50 per cent. provides a rather picturesque variation.

Huron County went at it a different way. There was a motion to start on the plan of whacking off various amounts, but it went down to defeat and in place there was put into operation a plan that called for a 5 per cent. reduction to all township officials. On the face of it, the Huron County plan seems the better way.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

REDISTRIBUTION OF WORLD WEALTH.

Nothing is more common in the United States than the calm assumption of its moral superiority over the countries of the Old World. Laudatory references are not at all infrequent, even in newspapers that would be deeply offended, were their cosmopolitan character challenged, to the extraordinary altruism displayed by the Republic when it emerged from the Great War without adding a single acre to its already extensive domain. But these recurrent ebullitions of self-praise always conveniently ignore the other and far more valuable advantages quietly annexed by our pushful neighbors during the long period when they played the role of impartial neutral, gobbling up trade wherever the opportunity presented, bitterly complaining of interference with the free movement of their commerce and daily adding billions to their national wealth.

Some interesting information has been compiled by the Vancouver Sun regarding the changes in the distribution of wealth among the principal world nations during the past seventy years. At that now distant date Great Britain led all with forty billion dollars, followed by Germany with thirty-eight billion, France thirty-three billions and the United States with thirty billions. At the opening of the twentieth century these four powers ranked in the following order: the United States, sixty-five billion; Great Britain, fifty-three billion; Germany, fifty billion, and France, forty-three billion. Between 1900 and 1913 came a vast industrial development, Britain, in particular, enjoying a remarkable business expansion with her Dominions and her Indian dependency, and also with Asia; the United States also being marked by a great internal industrial expansion. At the outbreak of the war the wealth ranking of the same four powers is given as 190 billion for the United States, Great Britain seventy-five, Germany 65 billions and France fifty billions.

What the United States gained out of the war and out of the internal and external trade enjoyed while the European nations were striving to regain stability is best disclosed by their standing in world wealth at the close of 1929. United States wealth by that time had risen to five hundred billions, Great Britain was placed at ninety billion, Germany eighty billion and France sixty billion. Canada's figure is given at thirty billion. These figures are particularly timely in view of the evident revival of the whole question of the war debts settlement and its bearing on world rehabilitation. That question will not down and may become of crucial importance unless effective voluntary action is taken to have them placed on a more equitable basis.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

He leaned on the rail, looking out, mulling it over.—"I'll put you in as leading lady, and myself opposite. Tony shall be the villain." He turned and gave her a flashing smile.

"Poor boy! Why should you be jealous. He doesn't want to marry me."

"No. But he'll end by doing it. And you'll—let him."

"Well, of course, it's the logical thing, isn't it?"

"Is there any logic in love?" hotly. "Oh, I ought to put you in a play as a woman with a glass heart, so brittle that when it broke there was no blood in it, and the woman went on without a heart, perfectly happy."

"Nobody is perfectly happy," calmly, "and we are not talking about my heart, but the play . . ."

He came back to it. "We'll make it with a touch of symbolism—sardonic—a bit of a burlesque like some of the modern things. And you're to be some creature of an unreal world caught by a mortal and chained to domesticity. I'd like to see you chained to domesticity, Marty."

"No, you wouldn't. And please talk about the play—"

He was eager—"You catch my idea? The name could be something like—An Afternoon of a Faun with a Frigidaire, or A Dryad Washes Dishes, or An Oread Buys a New Bonnet!"

"Rickey—you're a wonder-child!" She spoke to Mrs. Bleecker, "Jane, come back here. We're going to get up a play."

Jane's gloom vanished somewhat when she heard what was in prospect. "You make out a list of the people," Marty instructed her a little later, "and we'll send one of the men over to telephone. Tell everybody they're to stay late, and we'll have a midnight supper."

The cabin was small, but there was room for a small stage and a curtain, and the chairs were set in rows. Marty went about directing the men, while Rickey in his room wrote madly. When at last he emerged, he demanded properties. He had called his skit, The Peri and the Permanent, and Marty must have wings. They could be made out of fringed white paper.

He demanded, too, that the electrician rig up an infernal machine like those used in beauty shops. "It is when you are faced by it, that you fly back to the regions whence you came."

"What are the regions whence I came?" Marty demanded.

"A half-world between hell and heaven."

The rain was forgotten in the bustle of preparation. Tony was sent ashore to bring back a gingham workgown for Marty to wear as a mortal, and an all-enveloping apron. He was also to buy gilt paper, and yards and yards of red and blue and yellow cheese-cloth. Pots and pans were borrowed from the cook, all the women were madly sewing.

The wind was blowing a gale, but nothing mattered. Some timid people sent word that they would rather stay on shore, but other braver ones came through the darkness of the storm, daring and delighted.

Then quite suddenly the moon shone out, and a warm breeze illumined a tropic night. It was decided to have the play on deck, and there were a few wild moments while the change was made. It was nine-thirty before the curtain went up.

The first scene showed that region between heaven and hell of which Rickey had spoken. A black background and red lights gave a lurid suggestion, and in the center of the stage, on a throne of gold paper, sat Lucifer.

Rickey was Lucifer—a Lucifer of such youthful and compelling beauty, that people asked each other, eagerly, "Who is he?"

He had thorwn about him, toga-like, a length of red cloth, and his shoes were gilded. On his head was a close helmet of gold paper. To him, to be judged, is brought the Peri. The charge against her is that she has lost her heart to a mortal. She has, indeed, gone to a gate and looked through.

"I thought it was the gate of Paradise,' she falters, "but it was the world."

"What saw you there?" demands Lucifer.

"The most beautiful man in the universe."

Lucifer is black with anger, 'More beautiful than I?"

"Alas, that I must say it."

Lucifer dismisses the attendant spirits with a wave of his hand, and in pantomime woos the Peri. Their dance is symbolic, and in the classis style, and at last repulsed by the Peri, Lucifer falls prone at her feet.

A clap of thunder rouses him, and he again ascends the throne and assembles his people. The penance of the Peri is pronounced. "She shall go to her mortal." The doors of a gate are opened, showing a yellow light beyond. Stripped of her wings, the Peri is thrust out, while Chopin's dirge sounds drearily.

Follows the scene on the other side of the gate. Anthony, as the mortal, is posed against a yellow curtain. With a spot-light full upon him, he seems to bask in sunshine. To him comes the Peri, in her flowing white, and he does not know her for a spirit. But, struck by her loveliness, he woos her confidently, offers her a ring, and summons finally a friar in brown to marry them.

In the third scene the Peri is chained to her pots and pans. In the gingham gown and the serviceable apron she is washing dishes. She is doing it competently, with her hair slicked back, but the audience wishes she wouldn't. They want her again a Peri. They know now what clothes do to a person. And they hate to look at her. Her figure in the gingham gown seems fat. And there's something the matter with her complexion. She needs dressing up, and the audience is relieved when her husband tells her so.

The music now is "Darby and Joan," and the Peri performs her domestic duties in rhythmic fashion, cutting bread and buttering it like Werther's Charlotte, filling a bowl with soup, heaping a plate with salad. As for herself, she eats nothing, which is a sign that she is still a Peri. Her husband, critical, as she stands before him, calls attention to her hair. He wants her different. She slips away and puts on her Peri's dress, and the audience is glad she had done it, for she is beginning to be beautiful. But her husband shakes his head. He wants her to look like other women. When he says that, she cannot understand. She wonders if she had her wings . . . "If I had wings, would you love me?"

He shakes his head. "No man," he says, "wants a woman with wings."

He continues his argument. If she had a permanent wave! And a bob, and a dress that showed her knees—"like the Colonel's lady." This nightgown thing she is wearing is awful. He'd like to see her in something brighter, something figured, green with black spots. The General's wife had worn one—and she put out your eye!

So in the next scene, the Peri wears green with black spots. She also wears a small felt hat. She is awful and the audience knows it. But her husband doesn't. He gives her the money for her permanent, and the music plays, "A life on an ocean wave—" and they go out to-gether. In a second we see them in the hairdresser's parlor. The infernal machine occupies the center of the stage. The Peri, beholding it, wrings her hands. She is overcome by awful fear. But her husband laughs at her. At last she seats herself beneath the dread machine, the attendants begin to wrap her hair in preparation for the final ordeal. Then, suddenly, comes darkness, and the audience hears a piercing shriek, "Lucifer, Lucifer!"

The scene which follows shows Paradise. The background is dull blue, and there are stars and a moon. The Peri is again all silvery whiteness, and it is wonderful! A gate opened shows a red light behind it, and in the gate stands Lucifer. He cannot come a step farther. The Peri tells him that through penance she has won Paradise. "In my extremity I called you, Lucifer, but I found myself here."

'I can give you more than Paradise," Lucifer tells her.

'What can you give?"

"Love," he stretches out his arms towards her, but dares not cross the threshold.

"If I come?" she asks doubtfully, "May I keep my wings?"

"I am no devil," he tells her, "my only sin was pride. Yet I know my head in the dust before you. In all humility, I will walk by your side, worshipping."

She goes near the gate and peeps through, then speaks with spent breath, "Perhaps, together, we might—attain Paradise . . ."

"Where you are will be my—Heaven."

She still hesitates, but he beckons, and at last she reaches out her hand to him. He takes it, and she puts a foot across the threshold. She looks back as he draws her to him, and then suddenly the light fades behind her, but there is a greater light ahead. And the gate closes.

The people in the audience said, as they came out of the silence that gripped them, that there had never been anything more beautiful than Rickey and Marty as they stood together.

And Rickey behind the gate was saying, hoarsely, "I mean it, Marty. You are my—Heaven."

And she, shaken by his emotion and seeing all the glory of youth in his face as he bent above her, lay for a moment in his arms until the applause brought them before the curtain.

In his hastily-written play Rickey had done a subtle thing. He had made Marty know the quality of his adoration. He had made her feel that within herself was that which she had not known she possessed—a reaching out for something beyond the mundane and material. The scenes of which she had been a part were farcical, but Lucifer had not been farcical—Rickey had seen to that. And he knew now that he had triumphed.

After the play he did not join the others. While they were at supper he stood alone in the moonlight. Let hem eat and drink if they wished, as for him he had different food. Like the Peri, he drew upon an inexhaustible source of sustenance.

And as he stood by the rail, Tony joined him. "Congratulations, Oliphant," he said, genially, "everybody is talking about your play."

"Why shouldn't they?" said Rickey with a touch of insolence, "the thing has genius."

Anthony looked at him in surprise. Was the boy drunk to speak like that? Had success gone to his head? He had had no other stimulant.

One must bear with him, however. Anthony said, quietly, "Your sister will be proud of you."

"Jinny."

"Yes. She's a rather wonderful person herself."

Rickey's tone was careless. "Oh, Jinny's all right. But she'll never set the world on fire."

Anthony wanted to knock him down, but there were limits to what one could do under the circumstances. So he leaned on the rail and said, "There's a storm coming. The people who are going on shore would better get there."

He went to warn them, but the wind came and held them all prisoners. It was a dreadful storm, and nobody went to bed, Rickey was, however, unaware of danger. He had Marty to himself while the frightened passengers huddled together, and he was saying, "Nobody will ever understand you as I do. No one will ever love you as I do, no one can show you Paradise, as I can show you, Marty."

Voice of the People

SLEIGH RIDING ON STREET

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I feel that a definite law should be established in respect to boys and girls playing hockey and sleigh riding on the busy streets.

A few days ago I was driving my car along Water street and with absolutely no warning a bob-sleigh came at fast speed around the corner from the Court House hill—with two boys on it, at the south side of the park.

I had to slew violently to avoid hitting these boys, although I was travelling only fifteen miles an hour. I stopped and spoke to them but they only laughed at me for my trouble. Peterborough's streets are full of children playing hockey and sleigh riding and and grievous accidents are inevitable.

I like to see the kiddies having lots of fun, but why not in the parks or elsewhere rather than be subject to such dangerous and unnecessary risks. "For Public Safety."

Yours sincerely,
W. R. Potter.

What To-day Means To You

"AQUARIUS"

If February 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The adverse periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Elderley readers, whose birhtday anniversaries occur on this date, will sense a rejuvenation in the spiritual and mental sense. Do not make changes, except those which are absolutely nesecsary and safe. Be careful of winter colds; feverish ailments threaten.

Children born on this February 3rd will have increased developments in the emotional side of their natures, and they will have an intense love of the beautiful, which may find expression in music, painting, dancing or literature. They will have fastidious tastes.

As a February 3rd person, you were born with an unhappy and discontented nature. Strange as it may seem, you like being dissatisfied, and you are not capable of being happy. In short, satisfaction would get on your nerves. You do not like peace and harmony, and are never happier than when enjoying a good word fight. The sooner you knock the chip off your shoulder, the better it will be for you. Your distrustful attitude towards others does not bring out the best that is in them. You never forget an injury done to you, and are never through reaping your vengeance. The negative emotions of hate and jealousy are more pronounced in your nature than love.

You have many of the every day virtues, such as sobriety, thrift and industry, and you usually make good in anything you attempt. Those who learn that your bark is worse than your bite, put up with your sharp tongue and pugnacious manner, for the sake of your better qualities. You are a hundred per cent honest, and are neither a shirker nor a loafer; you always carry your share of a load.

If you marry your exact opposite, you may find happiness in matrimony, but it would be fatal for you to be yoke-mated with one who has a positive and an independent nature. As a parent, you will be inclined to over-strictness, and you will try to dominate your children's lives.

A Thought

PRAYER IN THE MORNING

Father, hear us as we pray
For tolerance, throughout this day;
Broad-mindedness, and seeing eyes,
Courage to forgive the lies
And things that harry us;
To forget the things that worry us.
Teach us to see the narrow road,
And travel steadfast, with our load;
Help us to glorify Thy name,
Oh, Thou who knows our feeble frame.
—Eva McGown.

PENNY ISSUES CONTINUE ACTIVE

But Balance of Standard List is Dull With Slightly Easier Tendency.

McINTYRE RECOVERS.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3. (CP)—A few of the penny stocks continued active and firm on the mining market in the forenoon to-day, but the balance of the list was dull with a slightly easier tendency evident towards mid-day.

International Nickel was strong on the opening, but eased off at noon, Standard Oil, 15, at $14.25 when taken. Noranda dropped 2 to $17, while lower-priced base metals were in the discard.

McIntyre recovered a quarter to $22.25 and Vipond, Wright-Hargreaves and Barry Hollinger showed small gains from last night. Hollinger was off 5 to $8.3 and Dome, Lake Shore and Teck Hughes holding. Ritchie was active and up a fraction at 1¾, while Federal Peterson Cobalt and Gem Lake also made fractional advances. Nipissing gained 7 to $1.5.

Lower-priced oils saw light turnover, Dome oil, off a couple, showing about the only change.

NICKEL HOLDS STEADY TONE

General Appearance on Toronto Exchange But Continues Dull To-day.

BRAZILIAN FIRMER.

TORONTO, Feb. 3. (CP)—The general appearance on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning was that of the past several sessions. If there was change it was that the floor was even quieter than it has been.

Price fluctuations were negligible and it would be presumptious to try and indicate a trend. Over the course of the first couple of hours Nickel fluctuated ¼ of a point, selling at 14½ at midday where it was the same as it had opened and likewise the same as it had closed last night.

Of the other leaders, Brazilian was slightly firmer on a very limited turnover C.P.R. held up well above 42, Ford failed to make an appearance, Walkers was unchanged at 8. In the oil section, B.A. Oil was a shade easier at 14¾.

DeForest Crosley advanced ½ point to 14. Presumably on the strength of the announcement concerning the formation of a subsidiary to manufacture electrical refrigerators.

DO-X FLIGHT IS AGAIN HELD UP

Several Attempts Made By Big Ship to Get Into Air.

WATER TOO ROUGH.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Island, Feb. 3. (CP)—After several attempts to get into the air in continuation of its flight across the Atlantic, officers of the DO-X giant German seaplane had to suspend their flight to-day until to-morrow.

The plane taxied yesterday from near Las Palmas to Bahia Gando, but even here the water was too rough to-day for the take-off with more than 400 gallons of fuel.

The next lap of the flight will be from here tothe Cape Verde Islands the plane continuing from there to Fernand Noronha, Natal, Rio De Janeiro and New York. The DO-X came here Saturday from Lisbon.

QUESTIONS CANADIAN CREW.

NEW YORK, February 3 (C.P.).—Captain J. C. McKenzie, of the Semiramis, a 125-foot converted yacht powered with an auxiliary motor, and his crew of six, all apparently Canadians, were being questioned at the U.S. Barge Office to-day in an attempt to learn what the Semiramis was doing off Beach 136rd Street, Rock Island, early to-day. Neither Captain McKenzie nor his crew were officially under arrest, but the Semiramis, which is said to be registered in Toronto, was under guard. No liquor was found aboard the vessel.

GIRL KILLED IN 30-FOOT FALL.

GUELPH, Ont., February 3 (C.P.).—Slipping from a high trestle bridge and falling thirty feet to the ice on the Speed River, Mary Doorsky, 17, of this city, died about two hours later in St. Joseph's Hospital from a fractured skull. The girl was walking on the C.P.R. tracks, and as she reached the trestle, apparently became unnerved when a train approached. She is believed to have lost her footing and plunged head first on to the ice. An inquest has been ordered.

90 PER CENT. OF WORLD'S NICKEL IS BEING PRODUCED IN CANADA

Most of the Nickel is Being Derived From Deposits in Sudbury District.

ZINC-MINING EXPANDING

Canada produces 90 per cent of the world's nickel and has proved deposits which are estimated to be sufficient for the world's requirements for many years. In addition, there are still large reserves awaiting development. Most of the nickel produced in Canada is derived from the well-known nickel-copper deposits in the Sudbury district. From 830,000 pounds in 1889 the production of nickel increased to 92,500,000 pounds in 1918. After a slump to 17,600,000 pounds in 1922, production again expanded, reaching a record total of 110,276,000 pounds, valued at $27,115,000 in 1929. Production fell off last year, but stood higher than in any other year except 1929.

In recent years the producing companies have instituted researches to find new uses for the metal. The success attending their efforts accounts very largely for the marked increase in production during the past few years. The automobile industry, electrical machinery, cooking utensils, submarine cables and various nickel alloys are all helping to absorb this increased output. Although the volume consumed in 1930 declined with that of other raw materials, the past year witnessed an increasing diversification of the applications of the metal. The outstanding feature of the year was the rapidly increasing use of corrosion resistant steel of the nickel chromium type. It is rather significant that, in a period of curtailed industrial activity, the tonnage of alloys of this kind has steadily increased. These so-called "stainless" alloys have been adapted to a multiplicity of uses.

Consumption of nickel for the production of alloy steels, the backbone of the nickel industry, fell off substantially during 1930 because of the radical curtailment in the production of automobiles. This decline was partly offset, however, by an increase in the use of nicke steels by manufacturers of machinery for glass-working, sugar-refining, road-building, mining, textile manufacturing and similar purposes. The use of nickel with cast iron, after some recession during the earlier part of the year, reached its 1929 level in the last quarter of 1930.

The uses for Monel metal have also been expanded. This material is being utilized on an increasing scale for interior architectural decoration. For some years it has been used for the service and handling of food in packing-houses, dairies, cafeterias and for the large washing machines used by laundry companies. Monel metal is now bein introduced into appliances serving a similar purpose in the private household. Researches into the uses of nickel are still proceeding and it is anticipated that the consumption of nickel in its various forms will continue to expand.

The zinc-mining industry of Canada has recently made rapid strides, largely through the application of the electrolytic method of treating the lead-zinc ores of British Columbia. The metal recovered from Canadian ores was estimated at nearly 260,000,000 pounds in 1930, as compared with 53,000,000 in 1921 and 5,600,000 pounds in 1913. From an insignificant position, Canada has advanced to the sixth place amongst the world producers of zinc.

PIVOT STOCKS FLUCTUATE IN NARROW RANGE

SEVERAL 2 POINT RISES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (CP)—The stock market again stalled, in dead centre to-day.

An encouraging development was the drying up of liquidation of the U.S. government obligations in the bond division, but that was not sufficiently inspiring to budge the inter share market.

The pivotal stocks fluctuated within fractional ranges. Therewere a few special upward movements here and there, largely reflecting covering by discouraged shorts, or experimental efforts by impatient pools. Shares rising a point or two included National Biscuit, General Theatres, Air Reduction, Eastman, New York Central, and Ludlum. Best and Woolworth were firm in reflecting of comparatively favorable 1930 profit. Such erratic issues as Foster Wheeler, Worthington and Auburn jumped up about 3 to 4. Soft spots were Hudson Motor, Frisco, Rock Island and U.S. Industrial Alcohol, off 2 to 4 points.

WRECKAGE COMES ASHORE.

HALIFAX, N.S., February 2 (C.P.). — A piece of wreckage resembling the top of an engine room, and showing the marks of fire, has come ashore at Sable Island, according to information received by C. H. Harvey, local agent of the Marine Department, from the acting superintendent on the island. With it is connected about four feet of exhaust pipe. The sides of the fragment are painted white, the deck grey.

INDIAN LEADER SERIOUSLY ILL.

ALLAHABAD, India, February 3 (C.P.). — The condition of Pandit Motilal Nehru, aged Indian Nationalist leader, who is very ill, has become serious, and visitors are being kept out of his residence.

Mahatma Gandhi, his close friend, had intended to leave for Bombay this afternoon, but the time of his departure is now uncertain.

Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Indian Nationalists, who has been cooling his heels in the jail at Poona since last May, has been released to confer with his colleague on the matter of the result of the Indian Round Table Conference. Already Gandhi has shown that he does not think much of Britain's generous offer and predicts he will be back in jail in two months.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Feb. 3. (Special to Examiner.)—A few lower priced issues again had the floor on the mining market to-day, balance of the list enjoying only relatively light trade and displaying a slightly easier tendency. Interest in the penny stocks is still active, but buying for the higher priced issues appears to have dried up somewhat for the time being.

Bidgood was the subject of considerable gossip around the street. In some quarters it was claimed financing had been arranged with American interests, believed to be from Rochester, but officials could not be reached on the question. It is understood the management is determined to secure sufficient funds to guarantee a good campaign before going ahead with the work.

Announcement is made that Quemont has purchased an interest in the Ashley Garvey property of Mining Corporation in Bannockburn. The company receives a 7½ per cent interest in return for $25,000 cash. On this basis a valuation of approximately $33,000 is placed on the property. The following report was received from a well known prospector in Matachewan: "We are having the best of weather and work is going on in good shape. At the Ashley Garvey they are drilling away yet, and have good results. They are preparing for big work. They have let a contract to clear one mile square around the mine and this must be done this winter. They will be connecting up with the power line and installing heavy machinery very shortly."

He continues: "We recently shot a big quartz boulder on our property and it is rich in gold. We cannot be very far away from the vein so we expect to find it in the near future. We are digging very deep, and have already reached a depth of 12 feet in one place. We have located very rich quartz, even though it is only from a boulder. Our camp is very cozy."

The above exemplifies the spirit of optimism prevailing in the new camp. Prospectors are working away on their claims, buoyed up by developments on the discovery property, confident in the future of the district and happy in the enjoyment of conditions which, to the city dweller, leave much to be desired, but to them sold all the requirements of their simple existence.

CANADIAN CRAFT STANDING STILL AS SHOT STRUCK

Brother of Dead Captain Tells Story to William Duff, M.P.

Engines Started—Stopped.

Case Likened to U. S. Mackerel Fishing Boat Being Fired on in Canadian Waters.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 3.—Alfred Cluett, brother of the Lunenburg Captain, killed when the United States Coastguard 145, fired on the Josephine K, has informed William Duff, M.P., that the vessel was not making headway when the shots were fired, and was not "under steam." Alfred Cluett was the Josephine K's engineer. "He states that when the Coastguard lights were directed upon the ship", said Mr. Duff, "Captain Cluett had issued orders to cast off lines from the barge. He signalled the engine room 'full steam ahead.' The engines were warmed up for two minutes, and then started in neutral, but in a few minutes the signal to stop them was recorded in the engine room. The engineer then went on deck where he found his brother sprawled across the doorway of the pilot house, and looking backward, saw the Coastguard cutter within twenty yards of the Josephine K."

Mr. Duff likened the Josephine K. case, as interpreted by the Coastguard Board of Inquiry, to the discovery of a United States boat mackerel fishing in Canadian waters within the three-mile limit. "So she was given chase by the Canadian fishery patrol boat Arras and refused to stop. Say the Arras fired a blank, then a shell, and finally struck her. Say she killed one of the crew. I wonder what the reaction would be in that case."

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Smith Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market while firm, was dull and featureless yesterday, with prices holding within about ½ cent range. Lack of offerings and a little small scattered buying through commission houses was responsible for the firmness as prices were mostly higher than at the close on Saturday.

Very little export business could be confirmed as worked over the week-end and New York reported that generally all indications pointed to a very limited business, but that there were some bids under the market. European importers are slow in following the recent rally on this side and only small insignificant sales have been made since last Thursday. However, reports from abroad indicate a fair business in Manitobas.

Liverpool market was steady, closing unchanged to 1-8 lower, while Buenos Aires was ⅝ lower yesterday afternoon after opening a fraction higher.

While world shipments of wheat were fairly large last week at 16,987,000 bushels there was an increase of wheat and flour on passage of 6,440,000 bushels. This indicates a disappointing consumptive demand.

The local cash market was just a moderate affair yesterday with only a small demand. Spreads were principally unchanged. Country marketings on Saturday were 394,000 bushels as against 245,000 a year ago.

Europe is very likely to be a small buyer of Canadian wheat during the next month or six weeks while Argentine is shipping freely.

Would not buy wheat on any bulges.

Coarse grains—These markets were extremely quiet with very little demand in either futures or cash. Offerings inthe pit were nil and prices were forced fractionally higher in sympathy with the advance in wheat. Oats closed 1-8 to 3-8 higher, barley ¼ higher and rye ½ higher. No feature to flax, market was extremely quiet and holders forced prices higher by offering nothing. Closing prices were ½ higher.

Liverpool cables due ⅛ to 1-8 higher based on Winnipeg.

INJURED DRIVER ABLE TO APPEAR IN POLICE COURT

Judgment is Reserved in Frank Hooey Case of Reckless Driving.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT.

James Lang Man Who Was Injured Spent Several Weeks in Hospital.

Injured in a motor accident on November 18, James Lang, 135 Dublin street, got out of bed to-day for the first time to testify at the trial of Frank Hooey, driver of the other car, who is charged with reckless driving. In the accident Lang was thrown out of his car and dashed head first against a hydrant. He lay in hospital until January 3, when he was taken home and placed in bed.

He appeared in court to-day still badly crippled and according to Dr. Herbert Young will have to return shortly to hospital to have a piece of shattered bone removed from his back.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Sherbrooke and Park streets on one of those misty evenings last Fall, and Hooey's trial has been repeatedly adjourned from that date to allow Lang's injuries to mend sufficiently so that he might be a witness.

Having heard all the evidence Magistrate Langley withheld judgment until next Tuesday. Lang, testified that he was proceeding west on Sherbrooke street at about 6.20 on the evening of November 18. Having stopped at the stop sign and looked north and south he proceeded across Park street. Suddenly he felt a blow and remembered nothing else until he awoke at noon next day between white sheets in Nicholls hospital. As far as he could recall he said he was almost full way across the intersection when struck.

James L. Young, an eye-witness to the accident, declared that Lang had stopped before entering the Park street crossing and that he was all but three yards across when struck by Hooey's car which was going at "a high rate of speed." Mr. Young picked Lang up from beside the hydrant and rendered first aid. Witness stated that Lang's light were on.

Rita Wellburn, another Crown witness stated tht Lang's lights were several hundred feet down Park Street. She said that Lang's car was midway across Park street when struck. "I saw both cars going and wondered which was going to get there first" she said.

Constable John Naples, who investigated the accident and stated that the crash occurred 10 feet out from the west curb of Park street.

W. E. McNabb, passenger in the other car, and Frank Hooey, the accused, stated that they were proceeding down Park street at 20 mile an hour and slowed up for the Sherbrooke street intersection. Suddenly they said, Lang's car shot out directly in front of them. Both maintained that there were no lights on Lang's car.

R. Wilson, foreman of Gillespie's garage, and Carl Campbell also testified.

700 DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE AT WOMEN'S CONGRESS MEETING

Betterment of the World Was the Main Topic of Discussion at Congress.

HELD IN VIENNA.

The International Congress of the Women's Council in Vienna in 1930, was the subject of a very interesting address given by Mrs. J. W. Bundy, of Toronto. The lecture was followed by two films depicting the delegates' tour of Vienna, and some of the buildings, parks and streets of the romantic old city.

Mrs. Bundy was one of the ten Canadian delegates to the quinquennial meeting in Vienna last year. The last meeting of the Council was held in Washington in 1925. At last year's congress there were 700 delegates present from 40 nations, representing 5 continents. These composed women from all walks in life and all the races and colors of mankind. Despite the great heterogeneity of representatives, the one purpose of their meeting was the betterment of the world.

The delegates were welcomed by the Australian Council, by the Burgomaster of the city, by the Emperor, and finally by Lady Aberdeen who has been for the past seven meetings the President of the International Council. Lady Tatta, attired in her native Indian costume, gave the most eloquent message of welcome of any of the visiting presidents from National Councils. The Lithuanian delegates were the only others who wore their national costumes.

The Congress met in the City Hall of Vienna, and each committee had a separate room for arbitrations. English, French and German were the official languages. The resumee of the past five years' work was discussed in each committee room, and afterwards the conveners met in a general assembly.

Peace Committee Work.

Special mention was made of the Peace Committee, of which Mrs. George Cadbury of Birmingham, England, was the convenor since its inception. Mrs. Cadbury is of Quaker descent; her ancestors were the famous Cadbury chocolate people and she herself is a Justice of the Peace. So great was the importance of this committee, that Mrs. Cadbury was held in deep respect by every delegate and her department was the center of discussion at the general meeting.

At the Congress 71 resolutions were passed and 2 notices of motions were given. The resolutions included the advisability of sending women delegates to the League of Nations, and petitions for continued peace arbitrations, through a general limitation of armaments by land and sea and air. The Women's Council sent a message of goodwill to the London Disarmament Conference, and received a gracious reply from Premier Ramsay Macdonald, in which it was stated that "Women of the world have a great responsibility in creating peace in the world." Further resolutions passed consisted in the continued work among seamen, the doing away with duty on educational films, the adoption of an annual national child health and play day, the protection of miners, international assurance and the looking after immigrants. The notices of motion, which will be framed into resolutions in the forthcoming congress, were the protection of animals, and the permanent foundation of the cinematograph and broadcast committee.

Held Every Three Years.

The meetings are to be held every three years now. Formerly the central offices of the Women's Council were in London, but they will be transferred to either Geneva, Paris or the Hague before the 1933 session Spanish was made a semi-official language, owing to the large number of representatives from Spain and the Latin countries.

Several international organizations were present at the general meeting. The major social event of the visit was the sumptuous banquet in the City Hall, which was followed by a presentation of a Viennese opera. The delegates were also entertained at the residence of the British Ambassador, the Emperor's palace, and at other notable institutions.

The films gave a wonderful insight into the ancient capital of Austria, a city of some two million inhabitants. The three treasures of Vienna are the beautiful tooled leather products, the University of Vienna with its world famous medical college, and the operas and concertos given in the Burgtheatre, or Opera House, which has been patronized by famous musicians like Haydn, Beethoven, Schubert and others.

Three Famous Palaces.

Pictures were shown of the three most famous palaces of the city; the Imperial Palace which was built in the thirteenth century under Frans Joseph, the Schonburn Palace which Maria Theresa caused to be modelled after the Versailles Palace and which contains 1400 rooms, with outlying parks and gardens, and the Belvedere Palace constructed and presented to Prince Eugene in recognition of his military work in making the Austrian army invincible.

Views were also given of the magnificent botanical gardens, of the wide streets and beautiful and substantial stone buildings, The University of Vienna was also portrayed.

A very interesting feature in the improvement of social conditions in the city is the construction of enormous apartment houses. Before the fall of the Austrian dynasty and the formation of a Socialist Government, there were 35,000 families living in dwellings of one room each. The present apartments have been raised by the revenues derived from several types of taxes. Each apartment consists of three rooms, and rents cost $2.50 a month. Education is provided, and there is central heating and baths.

Thus the Congress of the Women's Council in Vienna, had not only its business side in the betterment of the world, but it had also an invaluable educational content for the members who attended.

Dominion Not Liable To Account For Lands

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 3 (C.P.)—The Dominion does not have to account to the Province of Saskatchewan for land within its boundaries alienated by the Dominion of Canada prior to September 1, 1915. This decision was handed down in the Supreme Court of Canada to-day.

The finding in favor of the Dominion is in reference to the Supreme Court of a series of questions arising out of negotiations for the return of the natural resources to the Province for any of the natural resources sold or otherwise alienated after the Province was closed in 1915. Whereas the Province contended that the accounting should cover all the time from 1870 when Prince Rupert's Island and the North Western Territory became part of the Dominion.

Hamilton finished with only a point over Orillia, 28 to 27; while Stratford defeated Toronto Oakwood, 34 to 26.

Kingston went down in defeat before the Galt representatives. Both the Limestone City rinks were beaten. Galt's first victory was suffered at the hands of the quartet skipped by W. J. Drysdale, who went down before C. C. Knowles' rink, 21 to 19, while the other Kingston crowd with George Hamson were defeated by W. D. McDougall, 18 to 14.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

(Pin Boy.)

Eight teams of ten-pin enthusiasts rocked the alleys on Saturday afternoon in their regular league battles, and judging from the enthusiasm shown by these exponents of the "big ball" game, this sport will soon make inroads on the popularity of five pins.

With four men over 500 and the other player only 8 pins under the league-leading Bowlrites had little trouble in totally vanquishing the disorganized Lucky Strikes, who were forced to bowl a dummy. This eight-point win firmly entrenches the winners in first place in the league for another week. Tommy Holyman broke the high three league record of 569 held by Foster in this game when he made a triple amounting to 590. G. Farnell was next with 534.

The Brintons, headed by Dawson, pushed their way to a 6-2 win over the Jokes, who bowled consistently, but were low. Scates and McIlwain secured 450 and 442 respectively for the Jokes, while Chamberlain and Munn were well up for the Carpet Makers.

The Rubes gave the Hasbeens a run for their money in a peppy argument which ended in a tie decision 4-4. G. R. Langley's triple of 564 and S. Shaughnessy's single of 214 kept the Rubes on even terms with their opponents when Delahaye, Foster, and Gimblett tumbled the pins for good totals.

BOSTON SYNDICATE MAY BUY SENATORS

New England Company, Boston Paper Says, is Going to Make Fine Offer.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 13. (CP)—A report that a syndicate of New England hockey enthusiasts is being formed to purchase the Ottawa Senator club of the International Hockey league, has reached here from Boston but nothing in the way of a tangible offer has yet reached Senators officials from the source. Nor has the club received definite word that those seeking formation of the syndicate are meeting with success.

According to the Boston press report, an offer which Ottawa directors will hardly be able to refuse, will be made by the New England group led by a former well known hockey player it is said.

William Foran, Senator club president, said it was the first intimation that Boston interests were interested in the local team. "If they come here they will find we are ready to talk business" he added.

FIRES FOLLOW DISORDERS.

CANTON, China, Feb. 3.—(C.P.)—The Nationalist Government's admittedly nebulous authority over Kwangsi Province suffered a setback to-day when rebellious forces executed a coup d'etat in Nanking, the provincial capital.

Sharp disorders and severe fires followed the coup. The commander of the Nationalist forces there left for Nanking to confer with President Chiang Kai-Shek about plans for rehabilitating Kwangsi under Government auspices.

CANADA'S BEST WEEKLY IS A STORY OF A MAN

Charles Clark Got His Chance When the Famous "Calgary Eye-Opener" Vacated

TO win recognition for exceptional merit in one's chosen vocation is an achievement of which anyone might well be proud. Some years ago a challenge cup was offered for competition by Mr. Palmer Pearce of Simcoe, Ontario. This cup was to be awarded annually to the publisher of the best weekly newspaper published in a town of less than 1,500 population and to be retained outright if won three times. At the annual convention of the association of Canadian newspaper publishers, held in Halifax, N.S., last September, the committee of judges awarded the cup for the third successive year to Mr. Charles Clark, the publisher of The Times at High River, Alberta.

Editor Clark

It is probably more true of newspaper publishers than of any other class of men that environment plays a small part in producing the finished product, yet it is interesting to trace the circumstances that had a bearing upon the early life of the publisher of The Times.

Mr. Clark was born on a farm near Kincardine, Ont., and is a younger brother of another Canadian who won outstanding recognition by his countrymen, Hon. Hugh Clark, who served as a parliamentary secretary in Sir Robert Borden's war government. Farm life to Charlie Clark after attending Kincardine high school was not attractive, so he soon found himself busy in his brother Hugh's plant, where the Kincardine Review was published. Then in July, 1899, the first excursion of the Canadian Newspaper Association to the west left Toronto, and Charlie Clark was in the party.

At that time the west had rather a high local color, but the imaginations of Canadians had not envisaged it as a promising land of homes. Also the South African war had broken out and Charlie Clark could not settle down to ordinary pursuits. Being denied enlistment in the units being raised for active service, he went to Ottawa and got himself sent out with equipment for the Strathcona Horse. In Africa he served on the transport and commissaria, and remained after the war, assisting in the work of re-establishing the Boers upon their farms and in their businesses. In the discharge of these duties, Mr. Clark found himself in London at the time of the coronation of King Edward VII., and while there the propaganda for western Canada being fostered by Hon. Clifford Sifton made an appeal which a first-hand observation of the country had failed to arouse.

Thus Canada reclaimed one of her own sons and in 1903 Charlie Clark was in search of a ranch site in Alberta. The ranch he was looking for was something of an ideal, and was not readily found, but when on a trip of inspection south of Calgary he stumbled upon an idle printing plant in Okotoks. This he bought as a sort of stop gap. Then in 1905 the late Bob Edwards moved his increasingly popular "Eye Opener" from High River to Calgary, and Charlie Clark took the opportunity offered in the larger town to establish his Times. Since then The Times has enjoyed steady growth, serving the district where the largest and best-known ranches are located, and now has, among others of its rural subscribers, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

In 1927 the British Newspaper Association organized an excursion to Canada and while at High River the president, J. S. King, graciously performed the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new home of The Times. Then in its twenty-sixth year the editor of The Times was awarded the trophy, emblematic of the highest achievement in his profession.

MR. MASSEY By R.T.L.

The Hon. Vincent Massey

MR. VINCENT MASSEY'S first name is really Charles, but he never uses it because he is afraid people might call him Charlie.

He will be forty-four next February, and still has plenty of time to become high commissioner provided Mr. Ferguson leaves any work to be done over there.

He was born in Toronto, but does not permit this to disturb him.

He is rather Spanish in type, though not in temperament, and has to shave twice a day if he is going out anywhere, which he usually is.

He finished Varsity when he was twenty three and then went to Oxford to be educated.

He didn't join a fraternity at Varsity, but he built Hart House and still likes going there to read the inscription at the end of the long corridor.

When he came home from Oxford he lectured to the boys at Varsity about modern history and was so good at it that they made him dean of Victoria College. He was only twenty-seven then.

He is usually a little anxious about something.

When he was at Varsity he though it would be nice to be a soldier, so he became a signal officer in the Queen's Own.

The war started when he was dean at Victoria so he went into the university O.T.C. as a captain, and pretty soon was a colonel and on the staff.

Then he stopped being a soldier and went to Ottawa to be secretary of the cabinet's committee on the war and was extremely clever at it.

He married Sir George Parkin's daughter when he was twenty-eight.

When he was at Oxford he went in for rowing and became a coxwain. He studied all the river currents.

He is interested in a great many things, and likes to sit in front of a fire and talk with clever people. He doesn't like bridge and understands that backgammon is something like badminton.

He is a bit of an actor and likes to get dressed up.

After the war he thought he would go in for commerce, so he became president of Massey-Harris and director of a lot of other companies, which was pretty good for a young man. He was thirty-four then.

He had just got nicely started at that when Mr. Mackenzie King made him a cabinet minister, so he had to abandon business and go in for a career. He resigned from Massey-Harris and everything else and ran for parliament in Durham in the election of 1925.

He had a farm in Durham, near Port Hope, and he went around and mixed with the people and made some excellent speeches about economics.

His wife went down from Toronto to help him and the papers called her the Lady Astor of Canada, which was highly unfortunate for the candidate.

He spent $15,972 and got beaten by 652 votes, so he couldn't be a cabinet minister.

After that he didn't do much for a year except travel, and then Mr. King sent him to Washington to be minister plenipotentiary for Canada, which seemed very nice indeed.

He worked very hard in Washington and was promoted to be high commissioner in London. He did not quite get there, however, as Mr. Bennett and Mr. King have different ideas about things, and it is now Mr. Ferguson who must save England from her decadency.

He is five feet eight inches tall and weighs one hundred and thirty pounds.

He still has his farm in Durham and likes being a farmer in August. He calls the farm Batterwood.

He likes the Arts and Letters club better and wishes he could paint so he could be a Group of Seven.

He got $12,000 a year for being minister at Washington, and had to spend a great deal more. He did not mind this until he heard that Mr. Bennett might give Howard Ferguson $75,000 a year in London.

He is an extremely nice man and would like very much to be a great one.

Taking a few days' respite between two series of lectures, G. K. Chesterton, the famous English author, honored Montreal for the second time within a few months by spending the time in Canada's largest city. Interviewed, almost against his will, he delivered with machine gun-like rapidity some of his characteristic utterances about Notre Dame University where he had been lecturing; Knute Rockne, its famous coach; American college football; the mechanical age; the newspaper and some other topics dear to his heart. Then, chuckling, he revealed how he, the maker of fine phrases par excellence, had recently been made the victim of his own methods. Producing a slip of paper he read: "Mr. Chesterton's real reason for being a Roman Catholic is the zestful paradox he finds in the idea that such a chronic non-conformist as himself should non-conform to non-conformity itself and therefore bow to authority." His hearty laughter blended with that of his interviewer as his huge frame shook with mirth.

Back to Authority!

IN the British House of Commons, which still numbers among its members many inheritors of famous names, question time is occasionally dramatic, and names, are curiously appropriate to events. Thus, during the recent debate on Mr. Snowden's subsidy to Covent Garden Opera House, the opinion was expressed that British classical plays were as worthy of support as grand opera. After Mr. Snowden had formally replied to the effect that Elizabethan plays were in no danger of being forgotten, several members rose to put supplementary questions. But the Speaker, ignoring the rest, called on "Mr. Shakespeare." No, he was not summoning the bard of Avon from the vasty deep. He was calling on the Liberal member for Norwich to put his question to the chancellor.

"THE cakes of the future," says a contemporary, "will all be made by electricity." Current cakes!

Quebec Judges Facing Court Contempt Charge

JUDGE AMEDEE MONET of the Montreal court of sessions of the peace, who has during a long career on the bench heard hundreds of civil and criminal cases, is now himself facing a charge of contempt of court.

The peculiar action taken by A. E. Maddocks, petitioner in mandamus proceedings before the superior court, is endeavoring to force the judges of the lower court to proceed with charges of perjury laid against H. Russell Wilson and Dr. James A. Farrie, arising out of a previous case.

After mandamus proceedings had been instituted in the superior court, Judge Monet dismissed the charge against Dr. Farrie when the complainant refused to go on because his witnesses were not present. This was done before a judgment had been rendered in the mandamus proceedings, and Maddock now contends that this step was taken by Judge Monet in order to defeat any order that might be given by the superior court.

Since it is necessary to direct the petition and writ against not only Judge Monet, but against all judges of the court of sessions and the court of sessions itself, Maddock has therefore brought about a condition whereby five judges and the Quebec court are all accused of contempt of court. Who is to render a judgment in a case where a court is held in contempt of itself is a problem that is baffling Quebec legal minds.

"MAMA," said little Dorothy, "sister don't tell the truth."

"Why, Dorothy, you mustn't say such things," reproved the mother.

"Well, last night I heard her say, 'Charlie, if you do that again I'll call mamma.' And he did it twice more and she didn't call."

WINSTON'S CLEVER BOY CASHES IN ON HIS NAME

Young Randolph Churchill Scooped Up Money in U.S.—His Cheek Was Admired

JUST a year ago a fair-haired, handsome youth, 18 years of age, startled the members of the Oxford union debating society by launching a smashing attack on the proposed Anglo-Egyptian treaty, in which he used all the withering invective, the cold sarcasm and the pugilistic mannerisms of Winston Churchill. The boy was Randolph Churchill, son of the former British chancellor of the exchequer, making his first appearance before the Oxford union, which for generations has been a recognised training ground for future British statesmen. Young Churchill showed conclusively that he was a chip of the old block, and his arguments followed the orthodox Churchill Imperialistic lines. On the subject of Egypt he spoke with all the assurance of the great Lord Cromer. This maiden speech and the personality of the speaker impressed the union.

Churchill, Jun.

At the present time young Randolph, now 19, is following the example of his father who, at the age of 25, undertook lecturing tours and earned $50,000. He is a Conservative of the true "die hard" type, and aspires to a seat in parliament next year when he comes of age. He has been giving a series of lectures in the United States, and began by telling New Yorkers that the government of Great Britain has for some peculiar reason been entrusted to the weakest invertebrates in the country. The reason for all the old country's troubles and misfortunes is, according to Randolph, that it is controlled by the sloppiest set of sentimentalists who have ever in all history sat on the treasury bench. This was at his first meeting when an admiring crowd of 2,000 people, many of them women, hung on every word uttered by the boy orator.

Young Mr. Churchill has certainly a grievance against the land of his birth. "Britain," he explained, "at present alone of all the victorious allied powers, seems incapable of asserting herself and safeguarding her inheritance. Even our naval power has to be decided by other countries. We have not the courage to administer our own affairs." He expressed very definite views on all the important topics of the day, asserting that he is a believer in big navies, and that the trouble in India is due to the "lack of a firm hand in suppressing anarchy and treason."

Modesty would hardly be claimed as a characteristic of the Churchill family, but Master Randolph showed perhaps undue modesty when he replied to the question, "Whom do you think should be the leader of the British Conservative party?" "It would not be tactful for me to say," he answered, and then went on: "Of course, I have the greatest admiration for Mr. Stanley Baldwin. He shares all the qualities of a suet pudding, is steady, solid, substantial, but as a leader—No, Sir!"

A United States newspaper described young Randolph as "an old man of 19 with pre-war ideas," and the subtlety of this description amused him immensely. So did some of the remarks of his audiences.

English Wife of Soviet Representative Does Her Own Washing at Geneva

Ivy Lowe-Litvinoff

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON

GENEVA, Switzerland.—When the curtain is rung down on the league's "preparatory disarmament commission" the end of January—that body automatically passes out of existence with the acceptance of its report by the 62nd council—as picturesque a group of characters as has ever been assembled under the aegis of the league during its decade of existence, will pass into oblivion.

To Ivy Lowe-Litvinoff, wife of the sarcastic commissar of foreign affairs of Russia, goes the honor of being the only woman to have fought in the preliminary skirmishes of Geneva's campaign for disarmament. Since the Bolshevists regulated their differences with the Swiss government, disagreements arising out of the unpunished assassination of Vorowsky at Lausanne, Ivy Litvinoff, has regularly appeared in Geneva as a member of the Soviet delegation. True, she has said very little on the floor of the commission, but in the councils of the Soviet emissaries, her voice and pen have been heard and heeded.

The advent of the black-haired, brown-eyed daughter of an English journalist (Mme. Litvinoff is the daughter of a man well-known on Fleet St. a generation ago) into Geneva's disarmament circles was auspicious. She first appeared the same year Lord Cushenden arrived as representative of the die-hard Baldwin government of Great Britain.

The dour Scottish lord encountred her in the lobby of the league. His eye brightened, and lumbering across the corridor to where Russia's second leading feminist was standing, he thundered:

"Why, hello there, Ivy, where have you been all these years? I've scarcely seen you since the days when I bounced you on my knee."

To which Mme. Litvinoff replied—demurely:

"My dear Lord Cushenden, didn't you really know that I am a member of the U.S.S.R. delegation? My husband is assistant commissar of foreign affairs now."

The honorable lord retired in confusion, and unbelievable as it may seem, hardly nodded to the girl he had acted as hobby-horse for in other days, during the remainder of that session of the preparatory commission.

It developed that before the world war so thoroughly scrambled social and other orders, Ivy Lowe, too, was a sort of journalist along Fleet St. Her husband-to-be was a refugee from the czarist secret police in London, where, besides plotting against the Russian emperor, he eked out a precarious existence at one thing after another. Fate—and marriage—made her a Russian and she has been serving under the Red flag instead of the Union Jack ever since, along with such feminine figures as Mme. Kolontay, Boutchkareva, Mme. Lenin and others. Except for Mme. Kolontay, who upset Washington's diplomatic equanimity so thoroughly when she became Soviet minister to Mexico, Ivy Litvinoff is the only woman who has made her mark in Moscow's foreign service. however.

In reality, however, Ivy Litvinoff's flare is not for politics. She prefers to dabble in literature. Articles from her pen have appeared in American and British periodicals, and her second book—a detective thriller—will shortly be published in England.

Nor does she aspire to be the "Grand Dame," as are the wives of so many foreign ministers and diplomats who come to Geneva. One day the writer met her on the streets of Geneva looking for a place where she might buy a certain brand of powdered soap, a brand preferred by women who are careful with their flimsy under-things.

"I'll give you one guess as to why I want it," she volunteered, and when the guess was politely declined she added:

"To wash silk stockings in the bathtub at the hotel, where a sign warns the guests that laundering in the rooms is not allowed."

Then, as an afterthought, she continued:

"I'll bet you never knew a foreign minister's wife before who did her own washing."

Exiled Mexican General Objects to Photographers

JOSE GONZALES ESCOBAR, general of the ill-fated Mexican revolution of 1929, now a resident of Montreal, has, after over a year of peace, again found himself in a heap of trouble.

Escobar was expelled from Mexico after his unsuccessful attempt at a revolution. He escaped to Canada and also escaped publicity. Recently, however, the action of his wife, Concepcion Goldner, in seeking an annulment of marriage and dissolution of community of property, has again brought the Mexican ex-general's name on the front page of the newspapers.

Senor Escobar

His young Mexican wife, winner of a beauty competition on the United States Mexican border, known to be many years younger than her husband, is accompanying her plea for annulment with a suit for substantial alimony, the amount of the ex-general's estate being variously estimated at $4,000,000, by his wife and her counsel, and as low as $4,000 by Escobar himself.

In the midst of all this trouble, however, Escobar has only one complaint to make. He is surprised at the action taken by his wife and annoyed by the insistence of Quebec court officials that he appear to answer claims and charges, but he is, above all, indignant that his picture should have appeared in the newspapers revealing him with a thick, dark moustache.

"G.B.S." Uses Green Paper When He Writes His Plays

BERNARD SHAW uses green notepaper when he writes his plays and essays, and postcards for his correspondence. He wears Norfolk suits, with the knickers that fasten just below the knee, and woollen golf hose. Mostly, he goes without a hat, and nearly every day the year round he swims. When he lays down his pen to play the role of host he is kindliness and mildness personified. His observations make front page copy for the press of the world. He likes actors and press photographers, the former because they present his ideas to the public, the latter because he sympathizes with the men whose jobs depend on their ability to get "scoops." He was only seventy-three when he wrote his fortieth play; he wrote for nine years in London before he made any money, and during that time lived on sixpence a day, furnished by his mother. He married a rich wife, but he loved her.

Bernard Shaw

Shaw is the only living dramatist to have a festival of his plays given during his lifetime. He wrote "The Apple Cart" for this festival at Malvern in 1929, but it was first presented in Warsaw. As Maurice Colbourne says, "Shaw's hair was once red with anger, and now is white with rage." He likes the "George" to be left off his name and so far he has refused a title.

Dynamic Figure of Spanish Revolution Pushes the Pen When He Goes to Jail

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON

MADRID.—The most outstanding, dynamic personality of the Spanish Republican movement is a small, rather unprepossessing and modest man called Senor Marcelino Domingo—journalist, writer, playright and revolutionist, who may or may not be in jail for the 'steenth time when this appears in print. Like the anti-Alfonso movement which is sweeping the Iberian Peninsula, which is full of inconsistencies, Marcelino Domingo is a paradox. A revolutionary, yet not a politician; an authority upon history and parliamentary government, he has never held public office nor aspired to such honors. Yet, like his deceased contemporary, Blasco Ibanez, he more or less personifies the heart and soul of Spanish liberalism.

When one comes to Madrid one finds Senor Domingo, if not in jail or out touring the country in the interests of Republicanism, in a pitiably barren room of a cheap "pension" on the Plaza de Bilbao. He lives there not of choice, but rather through economic necessity. There is scarcely ever any heat in the hotel—it is too low-priced for that. If his guests are uncomfortable, Domingo, without the least show of eccentricity, burns newspapers or discarded manuscripts to warm them.

Because of a sort of inherent tolerance that is another paradox one finds in Spain if one believes the history of the inquisition and other tales of the Conquistadores, Domingo and many of his colleagues or fellow anti-Alfonsists, have repeatedly managed to keep out of prison, although to the writer's knowledge he has been there at least three times in recent years. It is perhaps his disdain for imprisonment that enables him to go free. He was picked up by the garde civile once for alleged complicity in the Vera Affaire when armed revolutionists crossed the French frontier and precipitated an abortive revolt. Domingo, with a companion, "just happened" to be in the city at the time. His story is that he was collecting material for his drama, "Vidas Rectas," and a bagful of manuscript proved his claim. Nevertheless, they threw him in prison where he nonchalantly continued working upon his theme until they as unceremoniously threw him into the street again, when he returned to his meagre lodgings on the Plaza de Bilbao.

The second time was the night of the Saint John disorders. With none other than the notorious General Valeriano Weyler, of Cuban fame, he was reading the proclamation of General Aguelara when he was arrested. Again he casually devoted himself to writing until he was released.

The last arrest came under similar conditions. When Sanchez Guerra's threat crumpled at Cuidad Real the garde civile caught Senor Domingo in the dragnet and to jail he went.

Senor Marcelino Domingo

The worst they ever found out about him was that he seemed proud of being a Republican.

"For me prison is merely a circumstance," he said. "One can be as comfortable there as anywhere else if one only gets accustomed to it. It is easy to accustom oneself to one's fate, and when one accepts it there are always many things to do—read, write and contemplate the misery which one finds all about one in Spain."

Senor Domingo perhaps typifies, more than anyone else, the Spanish fatalism, an inheritance of Moorish ancestry. He regards life as an uncertainty, and knowing the conditions that exist amongst the poorer classes, he places little value upon it.

Like Ibanez, Marcelino Domingo is an indefatigable worker. He writes anything and everything—from plays to almost daily articles on politics that appear in La Liberta, an Independent-Liberal daily newspaper, and El Liberal, a Republican organ.

At forty-five he is still a bachelor. He has had no time, nor inclination, for romance. The little time he has to spare from his public speaking—a soap-box at the Puerta del Sol, or a tribune in the Plaza del Toros, Madrid's bull-ring, are the same to him—and his journalistic activities, he devotes to his more serious literary work.

DRAMATIC CLUB MAKES BIG HIT WITH ITS PLAY

"I'll Explain Everything" is a Real Snappy Farce Comedy.

REPEATED TWICE.

Play Was Under the Able Direction of George Lynch.

(By Jeanette)

Anyone who goes to Chicago is liable to get into trouble. Henry Becker found that out whe nhe took a business trip to the Windy City and lived to reap the whirlwind—six months later.

"I'll Explain Everything" is a snappy farce comedy that had its first presentation last night in the East City hall by the Dramatic Society of the Immaculate Conception Church, with a cast drawn from the three parishes of the city, and under the skilful direction of George Lynch, whose supervision of any amateur play always means that it will be well presented and that the cast will get the most out of the production.

To-night sees the second presentation of the three-act play, in the East City Hall and to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, it will be given for the third time in St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

The action moves about the complications which arise when Henry Becker, cashier of a Farmers' State Bank in the Middle West tries to explain away, in what he thinks is a convincing manner and with a specious tale, the circumstances surrounding a visit, while in Chicago, to the notorious Black Bell night club. The dialogue is humorous and swift-moving and the play progresses by leaps and bounds to an entirely satisfactory conclusion, but not until poor Henry has perspired freely and often, through a series of funny episodes and scenes. It is in three acts, with the same setting throughout, and the newly-reconstructed large stage in the East City hall formed an admirable background for the play, with handsome furnishings, some notable tapestry panels on the walls and rosy lighting contrived by the use of tall floor lamps and concealed back lights. The ladies were in pretty gowns and the whole effect was strictly up to date and very attractive. Stage furnishings and fittings were loaned by the Teco Store. William Collins acted as property manager.

During intermissions, orchestral music was played by a group composed of the Misses Irene Collins, Gertrude McDonell, Bernice Fynn, Gladys Perdue and Madeline Flynn, Patrick O'Toole, Michael Smith, Harry McDonnell, Alexis McCormack. Two clever young violinists of the East City parish, Gertrude and Harry McDonnell, also played very acceptably the Londonderry Air, during an intermission.

Splendid Acting

The acting by a cast that appeared to be very enthusiastic over their various roles and to be inspired by a wish to put it over in the best possible manner, was splendid in every instance. Jack Madden, as Henry Becker, the unfortunate center of all the complications, was on the stage nearly all the time and had a trying role that called for many changes of demeanor and expression. He carried it off finely.

William Collins was Henry's friend and adviser, Valentine Scott, in a very satisfactory and well-played role that made him talk a great deal, whenever he opened his mouth, and also made him bear the brunt of most of the complicated deception.

George Lynch the director, also made a hit as the elderly gentleman with a penchant for fair ladies. With a dignified appearance and a sly habit of poking fun at the unfortunate young men, he carried off the honors in convincing style and with a highly professional tone. He had the part of Montgomery Walsh, president of the Federal Trust Company of Chicago, determined to probe a mystery and having a little amusement on the side.

Don McKinnon was one of the best players in the cast. His very unselfconscious style on the stage and his appearance of meaning everything he said, even when he determined to kill someone, in order to even things up, added to a very personable appearance, made his role of Walter Dow, an advertising man from Los Angeles, one of the highlights of the production.

Then there was William O'Toole, as James Darby, one of those "Ha-ha, don't you know" Englishmen that everybody in the audience would like to shoot. He added much to the fun of the play with his gargled conversation and his simple manner.

As for the ladies, they were fully up to the standard set by the men. All good-looking and well dressed, they did their stuff beautifully. Miss Louise Flynn was Gertrude Becker, wife of Henry, and a very puzzled lady before the evening was over. Her pleasing manner and soft voice put the part over in splendid style.

Mrs. T. Kelly, a dashing blonde with a wonderful marcel, was Ada Becker, cousin of Henry, and his quondam wife, for a few hours at least, also very much bewildered and very, very good in her role.

Miss Stella Brady as Jean Darby was a perfect foil for the light-witted James, her husband, with a skittish manner and a lisp, very well done.

Mrs. R. Bacon had one of the telling brief appearances of the play, and excited plenty of hilarity by her well-presented part of the lady chiropractor, Dr. Blair, who discouraged flirting and searched for misplaced vertebrae, with a good-looking presence and a skilful tongue.

Last, but not least, with a short appearance that was at the same time, one of the most important of the play, as far as the other characters and the audience were concerned, was Miss Peggy Roche, as the Lady of Mystery, Caryl Carroll of Chicago, a stylish personage with a very clear intonation of her words and an interesting personality.

"I'll Explain Everthing" is one of the snappiest plays presented by amateur players in the city and is well worth seeing, either to-night or to-morrow night, in the East City Hall or in the Lyceum.

MILLBROOK

Miss Margaret McCarthy spent the week-end in Peterborough, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Scott.

Mrs. Lloyd Acton, of Detroit, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Gray.

The Men's Bible Class of Saint Andrew's Sunday School are sponsoring an entertainment on Tuesday, February 10, when the amusing play, "The Family Photograph Album," will be given by members of the class. Musical numbers will also feature the program, which will begin at 8 p.m., in the basement of the church.

Mrs. H. R. Scott, of Peterborough, and her sister, Miss Greta Gray, of Lindsay, were visitors in town last week. Mr. and Mrs. Scott removed to Peterborough to reside just prior to the new year, the former continuing his lumber and coal business in that city, Morris Gray heading the staff in charge of the Millbrook Coal Company, and the Lindsay Creamery Company here.

Miss Marjorie Skitch was the guest of relatives in Port Hope last week, remaining over the week-end.

Ernest L. Burnham, fourth year student at Toronto University, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

The Golden Links Mission Circle is holding a Valentine Tea at the Waverly parlors on Saturday, February 14, to which the public generally is invited. The hot meal will be served at the regular tea hour, beginning at five o'clock, and continuing until all are served. Miss Marjorie Sayles is the president of the Circle for the current year.

Grace Presbyterian Church is making a change in its hour of service, after March 1, when evening worship will be at 7 o'clock instead of at 3 p.m. as has been the practice for some time past.

The play, "Peg o' My Heart," which the Dramatic Club of Centreville is at present preparing under the direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, will have its presentation at Centreville on February 6, and again at Millbrook on February 13, in the Town Hall, the adult Bible class of Grace church having the entertainment under its auspices.

The many friends of Miss Mary Eagleson will be glad to learn that she is able to sit up a while each day now, after being in bed more than six weeks suffering from a fractured hip, the result of a fall on the icy pavement in front of the Armouries last December.

SALMON IS CANNED IN PRIME CONDITION

Spawning Habits Are Explained by Western Authority—Dies After Spawning.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—In a recent interview with Norman Hill, representative of the Clover Leaf Salmon Packers, some interesting facts were learned concerning the life and habits of salmon.

"The life of a British Columbia Red Sockeye salmon is four or five years, and it ends where it began, in the identical stream or lake in which it was spawned," said Mr. Hill.

"In the first year as little fingerlings, they venture out to sea, and for three years no man knows where they have gone. Then, in the fullness of their appointed time, they return to the fresh water which they left three years before, spawn their eggs, and die.

"During the past five years this suspected fact has been proven by scientists of the Biological Board of Canada. They marked thousands of salmon as they went out to sea from the fresh water streams and a great number of them turned up at the same stream again at spawning time.

For canning, they are caught in their maturity, when they reappear from the sea, fat and in prime condition. They come in great schools. Millions of them are caught in the nets of the fishermen other millions make their way up the rivers into the small tributaries. When they reach the headwater of the particular creek in which they were born they spend a full month without food, playing around while the eggs in the female ripen.

Die after spawning.

Then the female salmon hollows out with her tail and body a 'rudd' or nest, while the male stands by prepared to fight off trout or other natural enemies. The eggs are spawned and fertilized, and covered with gravel. The work of the salmon is done. Nothing remains but the inevitable fate of the species. In a short time usually a few days, the adult salmon die. This destiny of the British Coumbia salmon is one of Nature's wonders."

The Clover Leaf Salmon Packers are the largest fishing company in the world. Their products are marketed under the Clover Leaf label. They maintain forty-five canneries in British Columbia and pack over 50 of the total salmon pack.

REPLICA OF LUCERNE IN QUEBEC WILL BE CONSTRUCTED IN ONTARIO

Victoria Heights in Grey County Purchased by Resort Syndicate.

PLAN WINTER PLAYGROUND

PORT McNICOLL, Feb. 3 (Special to The Examiner)—Victoria Heights, an elevation of land, in Grey County, about half way between Port McNicoll and Midland, will once more be on the map. This time it is understood as an up-to-date winter resort, a replica of the famous Lucerne in Quebec. Eight hundred acres of highland with a gradual slope to Georgian Bay on the north, a perfect natural setting for tobogganing or skiing purposes, have been acquired by a Quebec Syndicate.

It is understood that during the coming summer a spacious hotel will be erected and equipped on this property. The ground will be graded and put in perfect condition in readiness for the following winter season. This means that this spot in Ontario as well as Lucerne in Quebec will be a mecca for the crowds of winter tourists drawn forth to enjoy the natural beauties of Canadian winters and participate in the invigorating sport of skating, skiing, tobogganing and snow-shoeing.

This property comprises the entire block of land lying north of the Port McNicoll-Midland road, bounded on the east by the Triple Bay road, and on the west by the Martyrs' Shrine property at Fort Ste. Marie. It is said one farmer sold a three hundred acre farm, partly wooded and with a generous water frontage, for the sum of $29,000.

In the years 1908-09 part of this very property was exploited by real-estate men, when the C.P.R. built a huge grain elevator at Port McNicoll. Miles of cement sidewalks were laid, large stone approaches to boulivards, and a few substantial houses were erected right in the centre of a vast stretch of pasture land, by enterprising realtors. Quite a number of lots were sold to individuals; most of these being afterwards sold for taxes when the project fell through.

The dwellings and stores comprising the village proper were built at the foot of the hill, to the east, and about a mile away. This brought the little village of Port McNicoll nearer and new elevator and the C.P.R. shops.

Full details of the present project are not yet available but will be forthcoming at a later date. It is known that an Orillia firm has been given the contract for grading.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miller entertained a party of neighbors on Thursday evening when a happy time was spent in music and games. Mr. Miller also gave his amusing impersonations of Sir Harry Lauder. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Eason, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson and Mr. Stephen Miller.

The young people's dance was called off on Friday night on account of the storm. 'Red' Moncrief and his orchestra arrived on schedule time but only a few hardy spirits had braved the cold.

On Sunday evening the young people's society held their devotional meeting which was in charge of Kathleen Nelson. The Bible reading was taken by Marian Gillespie and the explanation by Roberta Gainor. The prayer was given by Helen Weir followed by the topic by Helen Nelson.

For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this good advice.

Artificial digestants and starvation diets are seldom needed. Within reason, most folks may eat what they like, if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion. And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a little Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless form of Magnesia that swiftly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A few days' trial of Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets), which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that fully 90% or ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Try

A Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY BALL GAME.

Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail the jolly, fat pig gentleman, stood in the snowy woods. Mr. Twistytail was tossing from one paw to the other a glass jar with a hot carrot inside. Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail started to take the hot carrot to Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear gentleman, to cure his cold.

But the carrot, which Uncle Wiggily had boiled, was so hot inside the glass jar that the two animal friends had to take turns carrying it and tossing it from paw to paw so they wouldn't get burned.

"Well, have thought of anything yet?" asked Mr. Twistytail, for when Uncle Wiggily found the carrot too hot for him, his pig friend said he would hold it while the rabbit tried to think of a way for taking the hot vegetable to the bear's ice cave without burning their paws on the hot jar.

"I have begun to think," Uncle Wiggily answered. "Just hold the carrot a bit longer, Twisty, my friend, and I shall soon think out a way so we will have no more trouble. Hold it a while."

"It's easy enough to say hold it," grunted the pig, "but I can't hold it in one paw very long. I have to toss it back and forth and change paws or I would have some blisters."

So he kept on tossing the hot carrot in a glass jar from one paw to the other and Uncle Wiggily continued to think and, all of a sudden, the rabbit said:

"I know! we'll hold some snow in our paws and lay the hot carrot on top of the snow and carry it along that way."

"It sounds all right to me," Mr. Twistytail remarked. "Here, I'll let you try that first, since you thought of it."

Uncle Wiggily picked up some snow which he held in the fur mittens on his paws and then he said:

"Toss me the hot carrot, Twisty!"

The rabbit gentleman cleverly caught the glass jar with the hot carrot inside, but, no sooner did he have it in his paws, than the heat began to melt the snow which ran down Uncle Wiggily's legs and it wasn't very pleasant, let me tell you! Snow water on a cold day running down your legs is no fun!

"Oh, oh!" said Uncle Wiggily. "This isn't going to work! I can see that, Twisty."

"I can see it myself!" grunted the pig. "Why did you boil that carrot so hot?"

"You said you wanted a hot carrot to cure the Polar Bear's cold," answered the rabbit, "so I boiled it properly."

"I should say you did!" grunted the pig.

"Here! Catch!" suddenly called Uncle Wiggily as he tossed the hot carrot to his pig friend. "You jold it a bit until I get rid of this half-melted snow and then maybe I can think of a better way."

"I can't hold that hot carrot very long," grunted the pig as he caught the glass jar," "but I'll juggle it while you think."

Sohe juggled, or tossed, the hot carrot from one of his paws to the sher. And then Uncle Wiggily thought hard. All of a sudden the pig began to laugh.

"What are you laughing at?" asked the rabbit.

"I was thinking this was like some funny game—us tossing this carrot back and forth!" grunted Mr. Twistytail.

"Ha! That's it! A jolly, funny ball game! You have it Twisty! That will do the trick. listen! We'll pretend the hot carrot in the jar is a ball. We'll walk along toward Mr. Whitewash's ice cave tossing the hot carrot between us. In that way neither of us will have to hold it in our paws very long. It will not burn us if we toss it to and fro, and in that way we shall have no trouble."

"That sounds like a good idea," Mr. Twistytail said. "But one of us will have to walk backward in playing this funny ball game."

"Yes, that's so," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "We must be face to face as we toss the hot carrot between us, and one will have to go backward."

"Who will go backward?" asked the pig.

"We'll sort of count out to decide," stated Mr. Longears. "Think of a number from one to ten, Twisty." So Mr. Twistytail thought and said "seven"

"Wrong!" cried Uncle Wiggily with a jolly laugh. "You lose! You must walk backward and I will walk frontward and we will toss the carrot between us in a funny ball game on the way to the ice cave." So the two friends began tossing the hot carrot, walking along, with Mr. Twistytail stepping backward Then all of a su den, Mr. Longears said

"Oh, Oh!"

New Officers Elected For Literary Society

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The third fortnightly meeting of the South Monaghan Literary Society was held in Centreville Sunday School Hall on Thursday evening.

The president, Archie Deyell, presided and the meeting opened with "O Canada," Miss Grace Johnston presiding at the piano. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mackintosh Bradshaw.

The officers are elected once a month, and the officers elected for the ensuing month were: President, George Berry; secretary, Joe Barnard; honorary president, J. C. Campbell; vice-president, Arnold Brown; critic, Keith Barnard; assistant secretary, Iva Campbell; treasurer, Grace Johnston; janitor, Harry Larmer.

A debate, entitled "Resolved that environment has more to do with success in life than has ability," was held, when the affimative was ably upheld by Joe Barnard and Stanley Johnston, while George Berry and Muriel Whittington argued the negative points. The judges, C. Anderson and A. Deyell, gave the decision in favor of the affirmative.

An old-time spelling match then made plenty of amusement for all.

J. C. Campbell acted as critic, and in a competent manner gave the young people some excellent criticism.

The next meeting will be held the second week in February with the new officers in charge.

The society was formed to give the young people of the community training in parliamentary rules and platform etiquette, and a large percentage of the young people are availing themselves of the opportunity.

Label Contest Put On By Soup Company

A contest of widespread interest has just been announced by W. Clark Limited, of Montreal, who are looking for a new and distinctive label for use on the various lines of canned soups.

The fact that the Company is contemplating changing its soup label is in itself interesting to the public, and the added fact that the Company is throwing open to all Canadians the opportunity of creating that label is doubly interesting.

In order to assure a truly representative judgment in selecting the winning designs (for which the 1st Prize will be $300; 2nd Prize, $100; with four other prizes of $25 each) the list of judges includes two ladies, one prominent grocer and a director of retail display, representing the sellers of food products; two artists and a member of the Clark firm.

JUSTICE RANEY COMPARES MISSOURI LAW WITH THAT ADMINISTERED IN ONTARIO

I inferred, the crime had been committed against a school teacher. The mob opened up the ridge of the roof, fastened the prisoner to the ridgepole of the school, saturated him with gasoline, sprinkled gasoline inside the school and set it on fire. Three thousand people witnessed the cremation of this man in the town of Marysville in northwest Missouri. They then went to their homes. These men were not masked, and the whole affair was done in a way that showed they were not afraid of interference. The legislature sat shortly afterward and a resolution condemning the procedure was defeated, and there the matter rests.

An Educated People

That lynching took place in a community that is not much different from this in the intelligence of its people. Marysville is situated in the heart of one of the finest agricultural counties in that State. It is the seat of the State college. Its people are one hundred per cent. English-speaking. They are an educated people. That incident distinguishes sharply from the conditions with which we are familiar. We are accustomed to the administration of justice by the proper authorities, and it is in that connection you are here to-day.

The Missouri incident is the antithesis of civilization. Barbarism would be a polite phrase for it. We have difficulty in understanding the psychology of the community where that happened, yet in its outer aspects that community could scarcely be distinguished by the casual visitor from an agricultural community in this province.

On the other hand we may be carrying the thing a little too far in our anxiety to observe the rules for the administration of justice. For instance, we have sixty-one jurymen here to-day. Thirteen are the grand jury and forty-eight are called for a trial jury. Some people think that the administration of justice is costing too much, especially perhaps those farmers who think their taxes amount almost to a rental and that something could and should be done about reducing the burden of this expense. Personally I would not go that far, particularly if reduction of expense interfered with the administration and the efficiency of our system.

Sixty Jurors Summoned

Sixty men have been summoned for the trial of one man who is accused of abducting a woman. In the ordinary course he would be tried in the county judge's criminal court, but as the defendant is in jail and this court is a court of general jail delivery, the case is brought on here. If he is entitled to trial by jury, there had to be a panel of jurors. But it is a question whether grand juries should be summoned four times a year."

Mr. Justice Raney pointed out that in capital offences a coroner's jury was first called to deal with it. Then the accused was brought before a magistrate for preliminary hearing and commitment followed upon the taking of the evidence. The Crown Attorney then lays an indictment before the grand jury, and finally, if the jury returns a true bill, the prisoner comes to trial.

"There are those who suggest that this is too much machinery. They think part of the expense could be saved by dispensing with the grand jury, that the coroner's jury is sufficient.

"I am not sure that I would go that far. One of the duties of the grand jury is to examine public institutions and see that they are properly conducted. They have also a certain oversight of the public welfare. They can say anything they please in their presentment, and it usually carries a good deal of weight. Possibly one or two sessions of the grand jury in a year would be sufficient for the county. It might be called for the first sitting of the Assize Court or for both. Some time this matter will have the attention of the Legislature, I suppose, and it will be argued there.

Probable Expense to County.

"If this county gets away with a cost of less than $700 to-day it will be doing very well. Another day would add $300 You are free to discuss this matter if you will. It remains entirely with yourselves."

Mr. Justice Raney stated that Sheriff Hall's report to him showed that there were fifteen persons in the County Jail. All of them were men. The Governemnt was considering means for getting rid of the bastile form of jails which were built in other days to resist assaults from both within and without With a system of district jails under which four or five counties would amalgamate for jail purposes, provision would be made for the proper employment of prisoners. Idleness is always demoralizing, whereas imprisonment ought to do good in the ideal sense.

"Too often, I am afraid, it does harm," said Mr. Justice Raney, in conclusion. He advised the jury as to its duty in visiting public institutions, and then the jury retired to hear the Robillard case.

WINNIPEG, February 3. — In one of the dullest market sessions in some time, featured by very limited export business and small volume of pit trading, prices at the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange here yesterday were ⅛c to ¾c higher than the previous close.

Larger shipments of wheat from surplus countries was the only feature of the foreign news.

Cash wheat and coarse grain trading was narrow and dull. The spreads on all grains were unchanged. Futures:

HONOR PAID HAVELOCK PASTOR AT CONGREGATIONAL MEETING

Knox Presbyterian Church Enjoys Most Successful Year in Its History.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The best year in the history of the church was reported by Knox Presbyterian Church under the ministry of Rev. John Lennox, D.D., at the annual congregational meeting held in the Sunday School auditorium last week.

Notwithstanding the depression throughout the country the reports from the various organizations all showed that progress had been made and in each case a credit balance was reported, the receipts from all sources amounting to a little over three thousand dollars.

It was noted that all accounts had been paid, including several obligations which should have been met in the previous years.

In presenting the Treasurer's report the treasurer, A. E. Wilson, stated that he was proud to be able to present such a remarkable report. The success attained was a great credit to the congregation and painstaking efforts of their pastor and his wife.

Following these reports the following resolution was read by S. S. Joyce to Dr. Lennox, expressing appreciation of his strong christian leadership.

Dr. Lennox,
Minister of Knox Church,
Havelock, Ont.

We, the members and adherents of the Presbyterian Church in Havelock, desire to express our true allegiance to you for the splendid work you have done among the congregation. Your sermons have been of a high order and very helpful to the people who have heard them. You have always been ready to lend a helping hand and by your daily life you have proven yourself to be a true christian gentleman. Therefore we desire at this time to renew our vows to you and work together for the upbuilding of the church and its kindred societies.

Mr. Joyce on behalf of the congregation, also paid appreciative tribute to Mrs. Lennox for the splendid work she had done in connection with the various organizations of the church.

The resolution was adopted unanimously by a standing vote.

On motion by F. J. Squire and S. S. Joyce, a vote of appreciation was extended to the Treasurer, Sunday School Superintendent, the officers of the Ladies Aid, Women's Missionary Society, Christian Endeavor Society Young Women's Auxiliary and Mission Band. The resignation of Dr. A. S. Thompson, as Clerk of Session was accepted on motion by W. Martin and R. A. Buchanan.

On motion by F. J. Squire and Mrs. A. Watson, the Board of Managers was re-elected as a body with the addition of J. W. Ketchen, to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of H. F. McNichol, and that W. Martin, be chairman. The meeting was closed by singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," and the Benediction by Dr. Lennox, after which refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation and a social half hour enjoyably spent.

HOARDS AND MENIE AS YET UNDEFEATED

Latter Wins Handily From Bethel 7-2, While Former Defeats Glen Ross 1-0.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Hoards and Menie hockey teams have yet to suffer defeat, Menie having won handily from Bethel 7 to 2 while Hoards on Thursday night won a close game from Glen Ross 1 to 0. On the same evening River Valley blanked Springbrook 3 to 0. Hoards had much more of the play but poor marksmanship accounted for the small score, the winning tally coming from the stick of Hewitt, the speedy centre of the team. The Hoards' squad now lines up as follows: Goal, Roy Oddie; defence, Will Jeffs and Frank Heagle; centre, Hewitt; wings, A. Jones and K. Oddie; subs, M. Rimington, S. Hobbs, O. Rannie.

The management is trying hard to persuade Will Hume to get back in the game and should he decide to do so, Hoards will gain a player with experience who packs a shot with a decided sting. Roy Oddie in goal is the star of the team and his excellent showing in the two games to date shows that he is a coming netminder, as neither the Menie nor Bethel teams have been unable to pierce his guard for a counter.

Thusday of this week promises to provide two good games on the Stirling ice. Menie, after a week's rest, meets Glen Ross with the Fraser brothers going great guns, and a tidy battle is expected. Hoards meets River Valley and a win would keep the Hoards' boys right up with Menie or Glen Ross for the league leadership.

Congregation Honors Retiring Organist

HALL'S BRIDGE, Feb. 3. — On Wednesday evening, January 28th a very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. Harry Shearer, when the choir and congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at Hall's Bridge met to present their organist, Mrs. Adolphus Crapp, with a beautiful Chesterfield table in token of their appreciation of her church work.

During the evening various games and contests were staged and which were enjoyed by all.

The night was well advanced when the presentation was made. The address which voiced Mrs. Crapp's faithfulness as organist, and also the deep regret felt by her church friends at her removal from the community in the near future, was read by Mr. Gillespie, while Mr. H. Windover and R. Montgomery presented the gift. Dainty refreshments were supplied and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

McClenaghan Righted On Liquor Statement

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 3 (C.P.)—The Quebec Liquor Commission offices here stated yesterday that Stewart McClenaghan, member of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, showed a false impression of the working of the Quebec Commission in his comment on Mitchell Hepburn's address at Prescott.

Quebec Liquor Commission sales reports include hard liquor and wines, and not hard liquors alone as Mr. McClenaghan stated, officials said yesterday.

Mr. McClenaghan was also in error when he stated that wines are sold at taverns and groceries. The local offices point out that the 5 per cent profit mentioned comes from beer only, and is paid to the commission on gross sales by the taverns and groceries. Wine is sold with meals in restaurants and hotels. The commission sells direct to the restaurants and hotels as to any other customer.

Eighty-five members of the local store staff were present, also Mr. Hugh Henry of Lindsay, manager of the Canadian Department Stores there. The evening was a pleasant one, spent in dancing and bridge games, with buffet refreshments served at midnight. Mrs. S. Brown and Miss Mabel Desautel acted as hostesses. During the evening, the presentation of a white gold wrist watch was made to Mr. Butcher by Mr. Howard King, while Miss Iris Payne, also on behalf of the staff, presented Mrs. Butcher with a silver flower basket filled with roses, also a bracelet, the gift of the members to the small daughter of the house, little Isabel Butcher. Mr. J. C. Hall, new manager of the local store, read the address which expressed in appropriate terms the esteem of the employees and concluded with the words: "We shall always remember you with love and respect and shall entertain the hope that in your sphere of endeavor in Toronto, you will make as enviable a name for yourselves as good citizens and loyal friends, as you have in Peterborough." The address was signed, on behalf of the staff, by Mr. W. H. Turvey, Mr. C. Lapp, the Misses M. Reynolds, Helen Brooks, G. Shaughnessy, M. Ebbs, E. Trotter and Iris Payne. Mr. Butcher's appropriate acknowledgment was as follows: "Dear Fellow Employees: In my endeavor to respond to the words in the address in presenting me with this beautiful gift, signifying as it does a token of your esteem, it seems almost impossible for me to find words to tell you of my gratitude and appreciation, for I cannot think I am deserving of all the trouble that you have gone to in my behalf. May I say, soon I shall enter upon my new duties in Toronto, where my esteemed company have seen fit to place me. Changes unforeseen come in all our lives, but in leaving this prosperous store and city, I do so with many regrets, particularly because of the associations and friendships that I have formed with all my comrades here, and out over this flourishing city of Peterborough. May I also say in passing that we are employed by the greatest merchandising organization in all the world, because honesty and service are their ideals, and as we continue to work in the interests of our company, keeping in mind always their ideals, these labors shall always be rewarded. Let me tell you again of my thankfulness and appreciation for this mark of your esteem that I have received at your hands to-night. Assuring you that I shall ever hold the most pleasant memories of the friendships that I have made here, and wishing you all continued happiness and prosperity as a new business year dawns, and thanking you all from the bottom of my heart."

FASHION SERVICE

And what a fascinating affair it is to make and wear.

A peplum frill encircles the hips—but is cleverly placed so as not to interfere with its slenderness. A frill also finishes the fitted cape collar that chooses the becoming V-shape at the front and bow trim.

Plain flat crepe, sheer crepy woolens, lace and many rayon novelties are all lovely materials for this mode.

Style No. 3006 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The bindings are in plain colored crepe in the deepest tone of the print, while the collar uses the palest shade.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, etc.

Cereals are of special importance to people in Peterborough in view of the fact that they have been prepared in the city for a number of years and each year there are different ones being offered.

• • • • • • •

If you have not availed yourself of the opportunity to see through the Quaker Oats Company, by all means do so. You will be agreeably surprised at the processes through which many of the cereals pass, before they are ready for you to serve at your breakfast table.

• • • • • • •

Cereals have become known as breakfast foods because when boiled, steamed or machine prepared and ready to serve, they are an accepted course for this morning meal.

• • • • • • •

There are, however, many other ways in which grains are used in cookery, some of which are familiar to homemakers and some of which are so different that they are unfamiliar.

Have you ever made oatmeal water? This is an excellent drink for sick persons who require nourishment in everything they take because they can be persuaded to eat so little.

• • • • • • •

It is made by cooking one tablespoon of oatmeal in cup of salted, boiling water. Strain and cool it and serve with perhaps a little cold water added.

• • • • • • •

Many prefer to make it in quantities of about one quart and many prefer to drink it hot.

• • • • • • •

If you would desire it, you might add a little flavoring of some kind, too, although I don't believe this is done very often.

• • • • • • •

Have you ever made chicken and hominy chartreuse? If you haven't, here is the recipe. Boiled hominy (Indian corn) is used to line a pudding mold to the thickness of about three-quarters of an inch.

• • • • • • •

Fill the mixture made of minced chicken seasoned with onion, salt, pepper, chopped parsley, chopped sweet pepper, chopped celery or celery seed and moistened with one egg, beaten, tomato juice or soup stock.

• • • • • • •

Put a layer of the corn over the top so that the meat mixture is entirely encased. Stand the pudding mold in a pan of boiling water and put in the oven to steam for forty minutes.

• • • • • • •

Unmold and serve immediately.

• • • • • • •

Then here is how to make cornmeal dablets. To two cups of scalded cornmeal add one-half teaspoon salt, 2 beaten eggs, three tablespoons of cream or rich milk and one tablespoon melted butter. Beat vigorously and drop in teaspoonfuls on a buttered tin and bake in modern oven.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HEAT FOR COMMON COLDS

Just why some physicians think that weather has nothing todo with common colds is hard to understand.

Of course, we know that more colds, more sickness of al kinds, occurs most frequently over the week end, owing to the overeating, under exercising, the break in the regular habits as to food, and sleep, but nevertheless, the chilling of the body by dampness and cold is the match that lights the fire. The material for the fire is all ready due to above faulty habits, but the match is the cold and dampness.

Why?

Because cold and dampness interfere with the protective forces of the body.. Blood is drawn away from a certain part and the cold takes hold.

What then should be the remedy to prevent colds, and to cure them quickly when they do attack you?

Heat.

After the intestine, with its wastes has been cleared, heat to the part affected, nose, throat, chest, and so forth, should be applied, and heat to the entire body also.

The little disease fighters in your blood need heat in order to do their best work. Chilling by dampness and coldness, just at a time when these little white blood corpuscles are having a hard time to catch up with the wastes made by your overeating and under exercising is too much for them, and they fail to do their work properly.

You have often noticed a baseball pitcher, a runner, or an athlete cover his pitching arm, or in the case of a runner, he slips into loose trousers so that the "working" parts will be kept warm. If the pitcher uses the arm or the runner his legs when they are cold, there is often a strain, sprain, or even partial tearing of the muscles, tendons, or ligaments.

So keep your intestine clear and your body warm during cold damp weather.

Should you get a cold get heat to the body at once in any or every possible form; hot water bags, hot water bottles, hot drinks, hot baths, hot inhalations of Fryer's balsam, hot blankets and so forth Heat to the body anywhere and everywhere increases the circulation of the blood and this increased circulation is your safeguard.

Despite all theories as to the cause of colds there is no disagreement as to the treatment.

The treatment is heat.

WATER ICING FOR CAKES.

Ludbrook and started about eight o'clock on their jolly trip. After about an hour and a half's tramp, they returned tired and happy, and ready for a pleasant social time. Abundant refreshments, finishing off with marshmallows and popcorn added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. Music and the singing of hymns brought the pleasant party to a close, but not before a hearty vote of thanks had been tendered Mrs. Ludbrook for the use of her spacious home for the evening.

KING OF CANADA'S DOUKHOBORS CALLS PEOPLE TO REPENTANCE

Laments "Flappers" and Sport Clothes of Colony's Young Generation.

STUDY IN RUSSIA.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 3.—Peter Veregin the Second, Canadian Doukhobor "King," is calling his people to repentance. The leader of this sect, which had its origin in Russia, is fearful of the influence upon his people of contact with Anglo-Saxons and is casting about for a place to relocate his followers. The sport clothes and high-heeled shoes of Doukhobor flappers and the sleek-groomed fellows of the present generation of Doukhobor boys are not to Peter's liking. He sees in these innovations "signs of the times" and is disturbed as his addresses to his people clearly indicate.

"King" Peter, who is now conferring with Doukhobor colonies in the western provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, appears to feel that his people are in peril. There is plainly a revolt among the younger element in the sect. They have grown tired of the dull monotony of the communal life, of the plain home-spun clothing, of the limited opportunities for growth, and of their Russian names. During one of his talks in Saskatchewan the leader roundly condemned the practice creeping in among the "flaming youth" of the sect of adopting English names. It was a sure sign of the falling away and as such should be denounced.

No Immediate Exodus.

The same note of warning characterized Peter's addresses at the Cowley colony west of this city. At the Cowley conferences, hints were dropped that, while there would be no immediate exodus of Canadian Doukhobors to Mexico City where Peter Veregin and Aaron Sapiro, the economist and co-operative expert, were investigating, an ultimate move was contemplated.

His present idea, it seems, is to select ten boys and as many girls, and send them to Russia to live under the Communist system to which Veregin the Younger is attached. This would be an experiment. Moreover, he has in mind sending a group of selected families to Old Mexico to try out the land and to study climatic and agricultural conditions. It is understood the Mexican authorities have extended a welcome to the sect should they choose to locate in the turbulent republic below the Rio Grande. He does not wish the habits and religious beliefs of his people to be chanced, hence his interest in other feasible centres for settlement.

In addition to the colonies in Western Canada there are some 30,000 or more Doukhobors in Russia still, and these, it is gathered from letters, are not living in any bed of roses. They are on close rations, almost starvation fare, and an escape would be welcome. It is therefore not unexpected to find that among the Alberta colonies there is no keen desire to go either to Russia or Mexico. They are well satisfied here, although Paul Potopoff, the Cowley head man, says if Peter says to move they will move. For the son of the famous Peter the Great, whose life was virtually crowned with martyrdom, is feared. He is a strong man, almost an autocrat of the czarist school, and it is said he does not hesitate to use physical force if it becomes necessary to whip his people into line.

About all the average person knows about the Doukhobors is that they stage nude parades at times and burn school-houses. This is a misconception. The "Sons of Freedom" in British Columbia indulge in demonstrations in their "birthday suits" and have a habit of setting fire to schools in ignorant protest to the authorities against certain "wrongs," but not the Doukhobors. These "Sons of Freedom" are Doukhobors who have broken away from the main body and are really outlawed. One of their emissaries tried to address the Cowley colony recently and was locked up. A strange figure he was, too, tall and pale, with flowing hair that hung to his shoulders, homespun clothes, and beard — more like an understudy from the Passion Play than anything else. He carried a satchel in which, it was feared, there might repose a bomb.

Quiet, Thrifty and Peaceful.

The Doukhobors themselves are quiet, thrifty, peaceful and law-abiding. They are closely linked with the soil and operate a large group of ranches and farms in the Alberta foothills. They have been successful for they have adopted diversified farm methods and have their own flour-mill, elevators, tanneries, etc. The older generation comb the wool and spin it as they did decades ago. Their handicraft is beautiful and a stroll through their colonies is like a visit to a bit of the Old World.

Their religious life is simple. They seem to have based it upon nature, for many of their chants, sung in a deep, minor strain, are concerned with nature and her wonders and beauties. There is a plaintive note running through their songs rendered without instrumental accompaniment but in four parts. The effect is haunting. They believe in immortality and provide food for the dead when they are buried. Not long ago a child died at Cowley. It was dressed in a quaint new frock and apples, nuts and chocolate-bars were placed beside the tot in the little casket. They are fatalistic and there is feasting rather than mourning at death. The marriage ceremony is also very simple.

In their meeting, which often last for five and six hours, at a stretch, the people all stand, the men on one side and women on the other. There is singing and speaking, and in the centre of the hall or "big house," as they call it, is a table covered with a snow-white cloth, handsomely embroidered, and resting on the cloth, a pitcher of water, a large loaf of whole-wheat bread, and a dish of oranges and a dish of salt. The water, bread and salt are apparently religious symbols for they appear at all their devotional gatherings.

Peter Veregin the Second came from Russia to lead the sect on the death of his father. He is of a different mould than Peter "the Great," as he was called. Peter rules by force, his father ruled by persuasion. Just whether these tactics will succeed to-day remains to be seen. "King" Peter seemingly believes they will; observers of these people predict they will not, forecasting gradual disintegration, unless a move is made as Veregin is said to have in mind.

Trapping Scenes From Northern Ontario

When milady steps into a downtown furrier's store and orderss a fur coat it is a prosaic affair compared to the great northern drama that forms the background of each skin in the coat. Thirty or forty below, wilderness of snow, miles of trekking along trap lines and sometimes starvation—a setting as picturesque as a gold rush. ABOVE are photographs which show milady's fur coat in the embryonic stages. (1) Red fox caught by the foot in 38 below zero weather in a steel trap, along the trap line of Joe Laflamme, noted trainer of wolves for dog teams. (2) Sam White, one of the best trappers of the northland, setting his traps on the surface (3) Rod Hice, young Iroquois, with a wolf he has just shot, and Henry Harcourt, mining engineer, upon whose claim at Three Duck Lake the wolf fell before the Indian's unerring shot.

NEW YORK SHOW MAKES BIG HIT WITH FRED ROY

WILL AID TO DISTRICT.

Provides One of Best Mediums of Reaching the Best Kind of Tourist.

One of the finest tributes to the effectiveness of continuity in advertising and fully upholding the adage, "It Pays to Advertise," were the outstanding impressions brought back from the New York Motor Boat Show by Fred L. Roy of this city concerning the joint exhibit of the Ontario Provincial Government and the Trent Waterway Association.

Throughout the period of the show, Mr. Roy stated an average of 20,000 people per day filed past the exhibits. Of the large percentage attracted by the Trent Wateway exhibit, many of them were people already familiar with the district and its natural beauty and healthfulness. They usually came along with friends who had not been up here, but who were very soon sold on the idea, and who went away in nine cases out of ten armed with sheafs of pamphlets and literature on which to feed their desire to spend next summer in Ontario.

Most Popular in Ontario

That the Trent Waterway district is the most popular of Ontario's summer playgrounds, was Mr. Roy's conviction. It is not hard to see why it should be so, he stated, in view of the accessibility of the district to thousands of people; its natural beauty and attractiveness, which almost defies comparison, and the steady and effective advertising campaign which has been carried on for years past by the Trent Waterway Association, backed by the City Council, and which is just now beginning to show real returns.

The Trent Waterway Association booth in charge of Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Association, and Mr. Roy was open from 10.30 a.m. to 10.30 p.m. daily during which pictures of Kelly's Cruise and the more recent film of the Trent Waterway were shown continuously. Among local Old Boys who visited the booth and who evidenced a genuine thrill of pride in seeing their home district so well advertised were Messrs. Stuart Widdes, Scott Payton, Fred Allen, Hugh Campbell and Lorne Ardell of General Motors, Oshawa. A Mr. Cooke and his daughter, who spent a summer in this district cruising the Trent Waterway, were also interested visitors, and revived their trip again, when they witnessed the films of the old familiar scenes. Incidentally Miss Cooke was winner of a competition in one of the motor boating journals for her prize essay on her cruise through the Trent Waterway, and was thus instrumental in giving this district a great deal of valuable publicity.

That the New York Motor Boat Show provides one of the best mediums for reaching the leisured class, is proved by the fact that over $200,000 worth of boats were sold at the show in one day.

Mr. Roy also heard of a firm who were obliged to put 300 new hands on at their factory on the basis of business done at the show.

Wife Killed In Crash Husband Given $1,500

WINDSOR, Feb. 3.— Robert Zimmerman was awarded $1,500 yesterday in his suit against the Hydro Radials, based on the death of his wife, who died of injuries sustained when two cars on the Tecumseh division of the local street railway crashed in a fog on the morning of Oct. 14.

Mr. Justice McEvoy, who heard the case, in rendering his decision, expressed the view that compensation allowed by law for the loss of a wife was insufficient and that aside from sentiment there was monetary loss involved. He believed that in this respect the law should be changed.

FAIR MUSHERS WILL COMPETE IN NORTHL AND DOG CLASSIC

Star Performers From U. S. to Take Part in The Pas 200-Mile Non-Stop Test.

THREE DRINKS ENTERED

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 3 (By The Canadian Press). — Dog-drivers of the north, the great and near-great of this snow country's own sport, recently considered plans for defending their supremacy from a new southern assault. Over the longest and most difficult dog-sled course on the continent, northland mushers have never been beaten. This year they will be called on to defeat women drivers, star performers from the United States, whose records on eastern and mid-western trails indicate they have at least a chance in The Pas' 200-mile non-stop test.

Entry of three of the best female mushers in Canada and United States will make the field that starts out from here on March second the most colorful in the event's history. Veteran observers who have seen southern mushers vainly try to win this derby over a period of 13 years, doubt whether the ladies will conquer the snow-drifted route to Flin Flon mines and return — but they are interested.

Mrs. E. P. Ricker, of Poland Springs, Maine, and Miss Thula Geelan, of McCall, Idaho, will compete against such aces as St. Godard, Brydges, Russick and Pranteau. The third woman starter will be Miss Ida Carriere, of York Factory, Man., widely known as a musher in the north. All three will commence training here several weeks before race-day and the winding trail that hugs the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border will hold few mysteries for them in the March event.

But, while the north concedes the newcomers an outside chance, tried-and-true drivers from this region will be favorites. Emil St. Godard will return from his annual campaign of eastern races to compete. Earl Brydges, pal of the young French-Canadian and his conqueror last year, will come north from his new home at Lake placid, New York. Sam Pranteau, veteran Indian who made his first bid for The Pas derby prize in 1920, is scheduled to start again. Hector and Gabe Campbell, brothers from Cranberry Portage, Man., and Donald Flett, Flin Flon's main hope, are other entries.

St. Godard's defeat last year by Brydges marked the first time in six years that Emil had been beaten in the north. It definitely stamped Brydges as a leading contender, even though St. Godard had consistently beaten him in eastern races. Brydges had finished second to his friend in three classics, then returned to the toughest grind of all and won.

The return meeting of this pair will hold chief interest in the four-day winter carnival here. St. Godard has tried out several new dogs during the summer and these will receive their first test in the east. The dark-skinned youth, winner of his first major race at the age of 19, plans to have his strongest team for The Pas event. With his dogs in good condition, St. Godard has seldom been bested in competition. His fleet, cross-bred canines carried him to victory in 1925 over 204 miles of country from The Pas to Herb Lake, Man., and return, and for the succeeding three years in the 40-mile lap races. In 1929, when the event again was made a non-stop affair, Emil led the way.

A field of at least 15 is expected to rush northward from this town on March 2 for the run over the snow, frozen lake and river and muskeg to Flin Flon, 100 miles north. Without a stop at the little mining settlement, they will turn back to finish here. Officials hope that Leonhard Seppala, famous Nome, Alaska, dog pilot, will enter, seeking revenge for the numerous defeats St. Godard has inflicted on him in other years.

Certain starters include J. H. McPherson, of Prince Albert, Sask.; J. A. Robertson and T. G. Dainard, of Nipawin, Man.; and Dave Lavallee, New Factory, Man.

The new feature at the fourteenth renewal of the greatest dog-sled racing tests is entry of women to the field, but the north is waiting for the return battle of the trails between St. Godard and Brydges, both champions.

S. AFRICA CHANGES MILITARY SYSTEM

Cadets for Either Air Force or Artillery Will be Trained for Both.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 3. (By The Canadian Press)—The Union Government has made an important change in its system of military training in order to give an officers more opportunity of making a military career a life profession. In future all cadets, whether for the South African Air Force or South African Field Artillery will be trained as both gunners and pilots.

This will ensure that when a cadet qualified for a commission he will be appointed in the permanent force and will be posted to the South African Air Force, where he will serve some years as a pilot and will then be transferred to the artillery or, if qualified in the staff duties course, to the South African Staff Corps.

This science opens considerably a wide field of promotion for airmen, and it is under these conditions that the next cadet course of 20 cadets, commencing on May 1, will be conducted. It will mean that in time to come all officers in the South African permanent force will be pilots, which will place South Africa's little army a step in advance of the other armies of the world.

In the case of the individual cadet it is obvious that the possibilities of a military career are increased, and the objection to the present Air Force as being in the nature of a dead end is to a great extent removed. In the past it has not been possible to present the South African Air Force generally as a ful and final career for months, as conditions of service peculiar to this arm did not allow of it.

It is accepted all the world over that no fighting pilot should be retained after the middle thirties, and it is for this reason that the Royal Air Force is divided into two categories, the permanent pilots who have had a reasonable chance of promotion to the higher ranks of command, and short service commissioned pilots who serve up to the age limit of usefulness of the pilot and are then retired with compensation. In South Africa the government have up to now followed the same idea, but as the force is a very small one, all airmen under the rank of major are now on short service commissions, which are renewed every three years, subject to satisfactory service commission, which are renewed provided he is not over the age of 30 as a lieutenant or 35 as a captain.

The department naturally welcomes the quick turnover of pilots, as the present system was calculated to supply a large reserve available in an emergency, so that money spent on training was not lost as was sometimes said. From now onward ,however, the young airman in South Africa will also be a gunner and his change of entering upon a permanent military carreer will be far greater than under the old system. This consideration, will, it is expected, induce a considerable number of young men to apply for admission to the cadet course which begins next May.

C.G.E. EMPLOYEES RECEIVE AWARDS

List of Suggestions Adopted During January and the Proposers.

M. McGILL HIGHEST.

The Examiner has received a copy of the report of the suggestion awards made to employees of the Canadian General Electric Company during January.

Eight suggestions of economics and improvements were adopted and put into practice. Mr. McGill headed the list with $35, and this sum was in addition to the $35 which he received on December 1929 for the same suggestion. The report speaks for itself, but this form of encouragement to the employees will be further explained at a later date. An interesting feature is the fact that one of the prizes was sent to a former employee now in England. The January group whose co-operation was recognized by the company is as follows:

Sugg. 3475—Mr. M. McGill, Fractional Motor Dept., changes to packing boxes to eliminate wastage. Mr. McGill was paid one award of $35.00 on this suggestion and on checking the saving at the end of the year it was found that he was entitled to an additional award of $35.00.

Sugg. 4493—Mr. A. Brown, formerly of the Armature Dept., but now in Enland. Improved method for certain soldering operations. Award sent to England, $5.00.

Sugg. 4687—Miss Rose V. Williams Engineering Dept. To eliminate making spare copies of certain instructions and save filing space in vault. Award $5.00.

Sugg. 4700—Mr. J. Burns, Punch Press Dept. To eliminate waste in the manufacture of certain parts. Award $5.00.

Sugg. 4805—Mr. J. Hope, Brass Dept. Improvement in certain parts for oil Circuit Breakers. Award $5.00.

Sugg. 4857—Mr. Perry Kitchen, Wire Dept. Improvement to certain reels for special use. Award $5.00.

Sugg. 4861—Mr. J. F. Pilley, Machine Dept. Improvement on switches on cranes. Award $5.00.

Sugg. 4825—Mr. W. Sandiford, Meter Dept. Method to salvage certain packing boxes now scrapped. Award $5.00.

Total Awards, $70.00.

Regarding suggestion 4493 to Mr. A. Brown. This suggestion was sent in while Mr. Brown was employed in the plant and had left for England before the suggestion was finally settled. In all such cases the award is forwarded to the suggestor if he can be located.

Niagara Falls Bank Is Swept By Fire

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 3.—(C.P.)—Damage estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000 was caused to-day when fire swept through the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at the south end of the city and also one of the Walker Drug Company stores.

The blaze was discovered about three o'clock this morning.

A broken gas main added to the troubles of the fire figters, and the open pipe blazed for a considerable time before the gas was shut off by the Gas Company.

The bank will open to-day in another location.

Among French parents who received prizes for large families last year were two couples having 15 children each, three with 14, and eight with 13.

May End Subvention Of Municipal Music

Bournemouth Hesitates to Go on Losing Money Through Subsidized Orchestra.

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., Feb. 3 (By The Canadian Press). — The fate of municipal music at Bournemouth hangs in the balance, and this municipality's subvention of its orchestra may end, owing to the heavy loss entailed. For years it has cost the town thousands of dollars to maintain the subsidy, but the expenditure has been considered worth while on the ground that, as a distinctive feature of the social life of the place, it has attracted visitors and has proved a powerful advertising medium.

It is the heavy loss on the new municipal pavilion that is bringing the orchestra into a limelight different from that to which it has been long accustomed. There is a feeling in some quarters that the continual subsidizing of the orchestra from the rates may not be justified in an age in which there are so many counter-attractions for which the public show a preference.

When the orchestra performed at the Winter Gardens the average annual loss, during recent years, was about $25,000. With the opening of the pavilion, in March, 1929, there were hopes that more people would be attracted. At the end of the first year there was a deficit of nearly $95,000 on the pavilion, a building which cost the town more than $1,000,000. For the six months ended September 30 last there was a loss on the concert hall of $10,810, which is $4,000 more than the deficit on the opening six months, when the pavilion was something of a novelty alike for visitors and residents. These figures embrace the prosperous summer months when the resort is full of holiday people. At a recent meeting of the town council it was stated that for a big symphony concert during the Christmas season, when many visitors were about, the receipts were $300, and that when Miss Gracie Fields, the comedienne, was present on the following day the takings went up to $1,900.

Aviation activities in Mexico are increasing.

All Set For Record-Breaking Attempt

Above is the trio who are largely responsible for the success of the trails of Miss England II., and who will go with the boat to Buenos Aires this month in an effort to break the existing world's speed boat record. The trio comprises (left to right), Mr. Cooper, the designer of Miss England II., Mr. Willcocks, mechanic who was the only survivor of the Segrave disaster last year when the famous motorist lost his life on Lake Windermere, and Kaye Don, who will pilot the speed boat. This picture was taken at Lough Neagn, Ireland, where the trials were completed.

PETES GRAB SECOND PLACE AND WILL MEET OSHAWA IN PLAY-OFF; BOWMANVILLE BEATEN HERE 4-2

Manager Coursey's Team Again Defeat Olympics, Taking Round 10 to 5.

NOT A THRILLER

Most of Scoring and Excitement Crowded Into Last Period.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes grabbed second place in the O.H.A. intermediate group race and earned the right to meet Oshawa in the final series for the group title by beating Bowmanville 4 goals to 2 at Brock street rink last night, thus taking the round 10 goals to 5.

For two periods the game was nothing to get excited about.

It started off as if both teams were certain that the Petes' three-goal lead set up in Saturday night's game at Bowmanville was enough to settle the argument.

Both outfits seemed to have difficulty in developing team play and both fell down badly in front of the nets, the marksmanship of the attackers leaving a great deal to be desired.

The result was that while there was plenty of skating and everybody got a lot of exercise those first two sessions were pratically scoreless, only a quick goal by Jarvis a few seconds before the first period ended marking the scoring summary.

Nearly all the scoring and all the excitement was crowded into the final twenty minutes when after the Petes had increased their lead to two goals the visitors struck back hard and tied the score, only to have Manager Coursey's outfit come through with another two goal spurt that represented their final margin of victory.

Starting in three goals in front the Petes seemed unable to drive themselves into a scoring mood and it is fortunate that their checking was not as ineffective as their early attacking. They backchecked persistently enough to protect their lead and although the visitors never stopped trying they made little headway during the first two periods and when play opened up in the final dash the Petes developed sufficient punch to their attack to belt home winner. The shooting of both crews was generally off the target and both handicapped themselves continually by pefisting in skating in front of the puck-carrier with the result that Referee Armstrong nearly rang his bell to pieces calling back the offsides.

However the last period saved the game and sent the fans away happy for they had seen the homesters overhauled and then fight back into the lead, which makes a snappy ending to any man's hockey game.

For the homesters everybody went well in spots with Hatton, Maudsley and Jarvis particularly useful. Hatton figured in two scoring plays and was always in position and always working despite the fact that he had to finish the game with borrowed skates after breaking a runner. Jarvis got the first goal on a smart play and checked very effectively in mid-ice, while Maudsley, in spite of an injury sustained in Bowmanville, was going good both ways. Creighton skated the proverbial million miles but wasted most of it by weird marksmanship. Both defence men checked well and Gillespie starred between the posts, especially in the last period when the Olympias gave him a lot of work to do.

James performed brilliantly in the nets for the visitors while Hooper, the big defence man, broke up many a Peterborough play and despite his lack of speed was among the most dangerous Bowmanville attackers. Piper and Jamieson, the first string wings, were the stand out on the front line, Candler's performance in centre falling below his usual standard.

Referee—A. W. Armstrong, Oshawa.

There wasn't a great deal to the first period so far as goal-threatening plays were concerned. Bowmanville had one glorious opportunity when Candler pounced on a rebound close in and shot a yard wide while the Petes tossed away several chances, both Creighton and Calladine missing the mark after the Bowmanville defence had been beaten. In the last five minutes of the period the Petes were steaming in fast but they could not finish their plays and it looked like a scoreless session until 30 seconds from the end. Then from a face off at the side of the Bowmanville net Jarvis secured possession, skated out in front and backhanded a sizzler past the surprised James, for the first counter of the night.

That was the only goal until the final chapter.

The second period was even going with both teams checking close and the few close in scoring chances beaten by the goalers or by wild shooting on the part of the attackers. Both Gillespie and James smothered long shots easily and the result was a scoreless session.

There was plenty of action in the closing period. Maudsley and Hatton started the fun with a combined attack that wound up with the right winger scoring at close range. That made it 2 to 0 and the Petes looked to be well away. Then Hatton drew a penalty and while he was off the visitors hived round the Petes' nets and played a tatoo on Gillespie who stopped four shots in rapid succession in one scrimmage. The sides were even again when Bowmanville finally scored, Hooper carrying the rubber down and slipping a nice pass to Piper, whose shot from the side gave the Petes' goalie no chance. That made it 2 to 1 and a little later Jackman went in alone and the puck slid under Gillespie's body as the goaler flopped in an attempt to save. Bowmanville tossed everybody up on the attack but could not score again while the Petes, breaking fast with the barber poles up the ice, came close several times before Creighton finally broke loose, and went in to net, his own rebound to put the homesters in front. A little later Maudsley salted the game away by scoring on a rush by Hatton and that about wound up the activities for the series.

Foley Plays Nice Game in Peterborough Goal Mouth—Few Penalties.

In a contest with "luckless" Lakefield last night, Peterborough Hockey Club squad came through on the right side of a 7-4 decision, nosing out Norwood - Havelock for second place in the league standing and earning the honor of meeting St. John's, the league leaders, in the play-offs for the group title.

The tilt, which was played before a small but eager group of hockey fans at Lakefield arena and which meant little or nothing to the hometowners, who were at the bottom of the league and out of the running anyway, and which on the contrary was an important fixture for the visitors, nevertheless, resulted in a good fast brand of hockey, and combination play on the part of the northerners which probably eclipsed any of their previous efforts in the series.

Hockey Club also played a good clean game and possessed the advantage of a forward line outweighing that of their opponents and who relied more upon combination play, than the speedy lone efforts of the Lakefield attackers.

The red, white and blue hometowners relied chiefly for their strength last night upon their defence, which countless times proved itself invulnerable against the pressing rushes of the blues; not that Lakefield was on the defensive throughout by any means, they did in fact assume the offensive at many stages of the play and harrased Foley with a veritable bombardment of shots from long range and short range, and from all angles of the compass, in a most determined and praiseworthy effort to register their first win of the series and to eliminate their rivals from the race for group laurels.

R. Rose of Peterborough, who handled the bell, made decisions and abided by them. Towards the end of the second stanza Northey apparently scored for the home team. The goal referee awarded it, the fans applauded it, and the referee ignored it. His pronouncement that it would not be allowed, was not very gracefully accepted by the crowd, which was apparently unmindful of the fact that a referee, handles the game as he sees it from an impartial angle.

Play Opens Slow.

Opening somewhat languidly the game progressed for the first few minutes of an even keel, when Wood got away with the rubber and brought it down ice into the enemy territory. Following a short sharp struggle in which the Lakefield defence men checked vigorously Jones registered the first tally for the Lift Lock City men, off a pass from Dallin.

Northey on the opposition left wing played gamely, although repeatedly checked by the Thirnbeck-McCullough-Tuck combination. Kennedy and Wannamaker adopting fresh tactics performed some nice cooperative work, but again the Petes' defence proved impregnable. The visitors adopting a strictly offensive attitude pressed Stewart, the Lakefield custodian, who deflected the rubber in quick succession during a few hot minutes struggle. Then away went Lakefield with Kennedy on the left wing and Jewell on the right, in a speedy combination, that was again checked. The pace was steadily quickening. Stewart was hard pressed and had just made a nice save from Dallin, by forcing the rubber from the very jaws of his net back into play on the left wing, when Dallin seized it again, passed neatly to Jones, who obligingly netted it for the Petes' second counter. It was not so long afterwards that Northey off Stenner scored a well-earned goal for the red, white and blue. It was coming to him. One minute later Kinslie evened up the score on an assist from Kennedy, but the even count was not destined to stand unchallenged for thirty seconds later Dallin bulged the twine for the Petes' third tally, off a pass from Epps. Succeeding minutes to the end of the period saw some real fast play in which Lakefield and Peterborough both came within a hairbreadth of registering further scores. The period ended on an exciting note, the play centring around the visitors' goal with Foley on the qui vive. Kennedy passed the puck out from the left corner to Kinslie to Jewell, the latter failing to make the best of a good opportunity to beat the custodian.

Petes Take Offensive.

Turning the tables from the position which they had occupied in the dying minutes of the first installment, the Petes adopted the offensive in the opening of the second, till Northey, trusting to lady luck, took seevral shots from long range at the Petes' goal. Realising the ineffectiveness of this course, Northey decided on another plan and broke through the enemy defence on a whirlwind dash, piloting the puck around the back of the blues' net and passing out to White, who evened up the score once more for Lakefield. Two minutes later the Lift Lock squad retained the lead, Jones scoring off Thirnbeck. Again Lakefield pressed hard and in a good combination effort Elmsley almost scored off Jewell. In this period the first penalty of the game was imposed on Whatley of Peterborough and subsequently Lakefield was a man short when Kennedy was penalized. His time in the box was served by White.

Peterborough was at this stage pressing hard. They were tightening up on the team play, Whatley, Jones and Epps making things extremely hot for Stewart; so hot that after several brilliant saves he let a shot through off Wood.

Retaliating Wannamaker, Kennedy and White opened up a bombardment of the opposition goal, Elmsley chipped in to their assistance and certainly should have scored off a pass from Wannamaker. Unable to maintain the pace, the homesters fell back again to the Petes. Stewart made a brilliant save off McCullough and was beaten a second later by Thirnbeck, who registered the visitors' sixth count.

Speeding up the ice in nice unison play Northey, White and Stenner centred their combined attention on the task of placing a hot shot back of Foley. Apparently Northey did so. The goal referee waved his red flag, the fans cheered, but Referee Rose edcided against a counter, and the score at the end of the second remained 6-3 in favor of Peterborough.

Undeterred by the disappointment which they felt, the Lakefield squad came back on the warning bell for the final struggle with the glint of battle in their eyes, and went right after the elusive rubber with a snap and dash. Wingett chanced some lightning long shots. The play switched again, Lakefield were on the defensive working hard, and seven minutes from commencement Thirnbeck found the net for the Petes' seventh goal. Wannamaker, on the right wing for the home team, worked to the limit, showing both speed and endurance in breaking through the blues' forwards. Twice he approached within close range of Foley's net and sent in the disc which was caught by the custodian on both occasions and flung from him as if it were a hot rivet. The third time counted, and nobody will deny that the little right winger's efforts had earned it for him.

The teams:

Hockey Club—Goal, Foley; right defence, Wood; left defence, Whatley; centre, H. Epps; right wing, Jones; left wing, Dallin; subs Tuck, Thirnbeck and McCullough.

Saints' Centre and Petes' Left Wing Are Leading Respective Teams.

ALL THE AVERAGES.

Gardner, St. John's Right Wing Player, is Close Up to Leaders.

Norm. Calladine, the tricky centre player of the St. John's crew, and Verne Dallin, fast skating left wing of the Peterborough Hockey Club, are the leading scorers for their respective teams, a study of the goal-scoring averages reveals. Calladine is the top scorer of both local outfits, having beat the goalies sixteen times, which, with four assists, gives him 20 scoring points to lead the parade. Dallin has not scored nearly as many, but leads the Saints' centre in assists, the summary crediting him with nine goals and eight assists for seventeen points; while Jack Gardner, St. John's speedy right winger, is a bang-up third with sixteen. Ellis is the leading scorer among the defence men of the two outfits with eight points, while Wood of the Petes is close behind with seven. Here are the records:

Tweed Strengthens Third Place Berth

TWEED, February 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — Tweed's hockey team strengthened their position in third place in the Trent Valley League here last night by taking the lowly Frankford sextette into camp by 4 goals to 2. Tweed were out in front from the time in the first period when Fred Geraldi placed the rubber behind Goalie Prevost on a pass from brother Max, and Frankford never threatened greatly in the scoring although they gave a courageous display of speedy hockey.

It was merely a matter of too many Geraldis as far as Frankford were concerned. The Geraldi brothers all took a big hand in the Tweed victory, George registering on the score column twice in the second period on passes from Bill Cripps and D. Boyd. Cripps notched the fourth counter in the third period on a sweet pass from A. Campbell.

It promises to be a big night in the local arena on Saturday when Mados come here to encounter the fast-stepping homesters.

The teams:

Frankford—Goal, Prevost; defence O'Malley and Boland; centre, Bowen wings, Shaw and McLean; subs Phillon, Munn and C. O'Malley

Tweed — Goal, B. McGee; defence, M. Geraldi and J Marchen; centre, Campbell; wings, A. Geraldi and B. Cripps; subs., F. Geraldi, B. Boyd, and G. Geraldi.

CANUCKS MEET LEAFS FOR 5TH TIME THIS YEAR

Toronto Club Playing Their Seventh Match in 12 Days To-night.

FALCONS AT BOSTON.

Much Depends on Rangers-Maroons Clash in Gothamites' Garden To-night.

(By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—Meeting for the fifth time this season, Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the northern section and Toronto Maple Leafs provide the feature of tonight's National Hockey League program of four matches.

Running a close second to the headliner is the fourth encounter between Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers, while a game that may have considerable bearing on the play-off prospects of the third and fourth place teams in the Canadian group is scheduled at Ottawa where the Senators entertain New York Americans. An all-American tilt rounds out the program, Boston Bruins, leaders of the southern division are at home to the third place Detroit Falcons.

"ACE" BAILEY.

"Ace" Bailey, hard working right winger, arrived with the Leafs in Montreal today, following a three game lay-off. His presence will bring the Smythemen to full strength. The Habitants will also be in top shape for their sixth straight victory.

The teams have each won their two home games, Canadiens by counts of 2 to 1 and 6 to 1, and Leafs by 2 to 1, and 3 to 1. The Leafs are winding up their most strenuous two weeks of the season, this being their seventh match in 12 days, so that even their most ardent supporters do not expect them to "take" hockey's most colorful machine tonight.

With their third place berth threatened by New York's star-spangled squad, Montreal Maroons arrived in New York determined to make a better showing against the Rangers than on Saturday when they were held to a 2-all tie. The Munromen have played two more games than the amazing Amerks and a defeat, coupled with a win for the Americans, will leave them with only a one-point advantage in the battle for third place.

The Rangers, too, are having their troubles in trying to enter the select circle inhabited by play-off teams. They are three points behind the Falcons, who have played a game less. Victory to-night, however, will improve their chances considerably. The teams are even on their series to date, each having won on home ice by clean-cut margins. The Rangers have not won a game in their last eight starts although three stalemates have saved from a complete washout.

Amerks at Ottawa.

Eddie Gerard's Americans have beaten the Senators two out of three games and they arrived in the capital confident of downing the Canadian section tail-enders for the third time. It will be no easy task, for the Ottawans, after trouncing the A's earlier in the season, lost the next two decisions by close margins, and may hand the Amerks play-off hopes, a jolt in the fourth encounter.

Enjoying a six-point lead over their nearest rivals the Bruins are in an enviable position in that they are not forced to burn themselves out in order to reach the coveted status. The Falcons have not had much success against the Bostonians to date, having lost twice and tied once to the greatest scoring machine in the League.

SMALLEST THEATRE IN WORLD OPENS FOR SEASON IN TORONTO

"Little Playhouse" Will Produce Nothing But Canadian Plays.

ACCOMMODATES SIXTY.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3. (CP)—The smallest theatre in the world, the "Little Playhouse" opened here last night on what is believed to be the first all-Canadian theatrical season ever attempted. The miniature show seating but sixty persons but having full stage accommodation for presentations, is operated by the Dickson Kenwin Academy of dramatic art here, and each performance will feature three one-act plays, all written by citizens of Toronto. The plays last night were "one Chance in a million" by Florence Blaisdell, "Frawnie" by Rica McLean Farquharson, and "Open Doors" by Lois Reynolds..

Nothing but Canadian plays will be produced for the balance of the season, according to Dickson Kenwin who contends that Canadian play writers have little chance to develop unless a market is opened at home for their plays. Two Canadian presentations are in the rehearsal stage. Plans ar being made to secure plays from writers in all parts of the Dominion.

The little playhouse is unique in the stage world. The tiny auditorium is not nearly so large as the stage. There is no room for an orchestra so a phonograph is used. The stage drops and other properties are all of full size.

Paddlers-Electricians Battle To 3-all Draw

In a snappy Mercantile Hockey League game last night, Peterborough Canoe and Grant & Thorpe battled to a 3-all draw. The boys took advantage of fast ice to keep the play at top speed the entire distance. The teams were very evenly-matched, and while the checking was hard, few penalties marred the contest.

Neither side countered in the first period although there was plenty of shooting. In the second frame, Heal bulged the twine twice, while Miller notched one for the Paddlers. The last chapter saw Peterborough Canoe taking the edge in play, Clancy and C. Meyette both slapping the rubber past Reid. Just before the final bell, Heal went through to tie it up on a pretty individual effort. McCarthy in the net for the Paddlers turned away a flock of tough ones throughout the game. For Grant & Thorpe, Heal was the best man, getting all three goals. Fields also played a nice game.

To-morrow night at 6.30, Utilities and Silverwoods meet in a scheduled game at All Saints' rink.

Postponed Games To Be Played To-Night

The two bantam and two juvenile games in the South End City League which were called off last week owing to soft ice, will be played to-night at the Sacred Heart rink. Fosters and Canucks go on at six, and Ravens and Athletics at seven. The juvenile teams, Canucks and Raybestos begin at eight; and at nine, St. Peter's and Tigers take the ice.

Single Game Scheduled In International Loop

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3. (CP)—Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets who are probably attracting bigger crowds at home than any other team in the International League, clash with the Bulldogs at Windsor in to-night's one-game program.

Holders of second place the Border City team has been striving unsuccessfully to overtake the league leading Buffalo Bisons. They have met with marked success themselves against the Bisons but have received scant support from other teams in the King loop and to-day find themselves eight points behind Mickey Roach's team.

Victory over the Yellow Jackets while it will not reduce the Buffalo margin to any great extent, will enable the Bulldogs to pull away from the third place London Tecumsehs who are only two points in the rear.

ST. PAUL'S TAKE 4-3 VERDICT FROM ALL SAINTS IN MIDGET

Senior Fixture Postponed Owing to Misunderstanding Regarding Rink Arrangements.

IN CHURCH LEAGUE.

Only two of the three scheduled Church Hockey League games were played last night at All Saints' rink. Through a misunderstanding, the rink was not obtainable for the senior fixture. Of the two midget games played, one was close but the second was a one-sided shut-out. While the ice was in great condition, the cold weather kept many of the fans away.

In the first battle, St. Paul's and All Saints played a hit-and-miss game, with the former hitting and the latter missing oftener to give St. Paul's a 4 to 3 verdict. It was fast and fairly clean most of the way. The winners bagged three in the first session while holding their opponents to two. The second frame was very even. In this go, All Saints evened it up, and should have got more only for poor shooting. The last frame found St. Paul's going strong, and slipping in the winning counter toward the end. Platt, for the losers, played a bang-up game, getting two goals and trying all the time.

St. Paul's.—Goal, Morrow; right defense, Kirkwood; left defense, Pulkinghorn; centre, A. Clark; right wing, G. Clark; left wing, Clifford; alternates, Anderson, Currie and Leith.

Referee.—H. Hall.

Easy Victory

In the second game, George Street whitewashed Trinity 7 to 0 in a struggle as one-sided as the score indicates. Most of the time, the losers were kept bottled up in their own territory by the faster-breaking and better stick-handling George Streeters. Only the second period was at all close. The winners netted three in the first, one in the second and three more in the last. Despite the big score, Freeman did some nice net-minding for the losers. Howland for George Street, was dangerous whenever he got away.

Referee—H. Hall.

SKI CLUB RUNS

Members of the Ski Club held two successful "runs" over the week-end, one on Saturday and the other on Sunday. Some of the senior members tested the new ski-jump, but as the take-off angle was too great, the president forbade anyone going over it till this is corrected. Jumpers expect to make around a hundred feet on this jump when it is perfected. Twenty-five new members were signed up at the club house the last two days.

Another "run" will be made Wednesday night. Members are requested to meet at the corner of Park Hill Road and Water street at seven o'clock.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENS TO-NIGHT

Four Teams in City Loop Will Be Seen in Action in Double-header.

GAMES START AT 7.15.

To-night at Brock Street Rink, the Junior City League opens its schedule with a double-header. Last week's opening games had to be called off because of soft ice, but there should be no trouble on that score to-night. There are now four teams in the league, and all will be seen in action to-night.

The first game begins at 7.15 with C.G.E. Office opposing the Star Athletic Club. At 8.30, Johnson's Sea-horses and Choate's Juniors take the ice for the second contest.

This league has some of the best hockey talent in the city, and fans are assured of plenty of action in to-night's fixtures.

Oshawa Still Unbeaten In O.H.A. Junior Race

OSHAWA, Feb. 3. — Continuing their record of no defeats Oshawa juniors triumphed over Trenton by a score of 6-2 in a fast game played before a large crowd at the local arena to-night. Both teams provided some fast hockey, but Oshawa practically clinched matters by scoring four goals in the first period, while the visitors were held pointless.

Trenton secured its first in the second period and also scored again early in the third. Grabowsky, however, brought disappointment to the hopes of the visitors when he netted two goals in quick succession.

FIRE FRIGHTENS CAFE PATRONS

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 3. (CP)—Supper patrons in a downtown restaurant were driven into the street in a near panic last night when fire which broke out in the adjoining building suddenly flooded the place with smoke and shot long tongues of flame up the walls. Unestimated damage was caused to the ladies' wear store of Benjamin Neidleman. The blaze which started in the cellar was of unknown origin.

PETROLLE STOPPED IN OPENING ROUND

King Tut Scores Knockout Over McLarnin's Conqueror.

AUDITORIUM, St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—Billy Petrolle, surprise conqueror of Jimmy McLarnin and Tony Canzoneri, met his Waterloo last night. Just 24 seconds after he raised his hands to defend himself against the rushes of King Tut, wild swinging youngster from Minneapolis, Petrolle sat on his haunches in his own corner with his head hanging over the second rope—a knockout victim. A terrific right-hand blast to the chin delivered almost before Petrolle knew what hit him, was the punch that did the damage. His knees began to bend and Tut, battling with the ferociousness of a tiger, opened up with a barrage of left and rights to the head. All of these blows found their mark, and Petrolle suddenly collapsed. He tried to struggle to his feet at the count of nine, but his benumbed legs refused to respond and he sat there with his head hanging over the ropes, while the referee counted him out.

Galt Terriers Crush Stratford Nationals

Kitchener Drops Guelph Leafs 7-6 in Other Ontario League Fixture.

TORONTO, Ont, February 3 (C. P.). — Stirred by the drubbing suffered in Guelph last Saturday and reinforced by the signing of Earl Clapper, Regina product, Galt Terriers crushed Stratford Nationals 6 to 2 in a fast Ontario Hockey League match at Galt last night.

In the other scheduled fixture Kitchener Silverwoods dropped the Guelph Maple Leafs almost to the basement by nosing them out, 7 to 6, after 10 minutes' overtime.

The acquisition of Clapper gave the Terriers two complete forward lines which enabled the team to set a speedy pace. The Nationals were unable to keep up, and the defeat shoved htem into fourth place.

Kitchener's rousing victory enabled them to climb to within a point of the second place Niagara Falls outfit, who are three points in the rear of the Terriers.

To-night the Niagara hockeyists travel to Oshawa to meet the Pats in a game postponed from last night.

READY FOR WATER RECORDS

Sleek and speedy is this boat, the Miss England 2nd, which holds the world's water speed record of 98.7 miles per hour, piloted by the late Sir Henry Segrave on Lake Windermere in 1930. The boat capsized at that time, but has been reconditioned. The front step, which was holed at Windermere, has been covered with a sheet of Firth's stainless steel. Otherwise the boat is similar in all respects to its original condition.

GREAT INTEREST.

Meeting Between Junior Teams Should Be Best Battle of Season.

Peterborough Hockey Club Juniors fought themselves into second place last night by beating Lakefield and finishing a point ahead of the Havelock Combines.

That leaves the group race between the two local junior outfits and what a series that should be!

The first game will be played at Brock Street Rink to-morrow night with the second scheduled for Saturday, goals on the round to settle the argument.

The rivalry between the two outfits is at fever heat, and both have their supporters who can see nothing but victory for their respective favorites. Each team has given the other a real shellacking; Hockey Club winning the first clash 6 to 0 early in the season and St. John's coming back last week to romp home winners by 11 goals to 5. Anything may happen tomorrow night, but one thing is certain, it will be a memorable exhibition. The Saints have some great crowd pleasers in Calladine, Gardner and Ellis, whose flashing hockey has featured the Red team's work all season, while Hockey Club do not lack color with the speedy Dallin, the fast skating Epps and other stellar performers. Despite the big score last week the game was replete with brilliant hockey and tomorrow night's battle should be another classic of the same calibre.

With goals counting on the round, neither team can afford to let up for a moment, and the pace should be lightning fast from start to finish. The line-ups have not yet been announced, but it is not expected there will be many changes from the teams which faced each other last Wednesday night.

The winners of the series will meet the Lindsay Midgets next week.

REQUESTS RECEIVED FOR INFORMATION

Letters Are Indicative of Augmented Heavy Tourist Trade This Summer.

The purpose of the Trent Waterway-Iroquois Trail exhibit at the New York Motor Boat show is being realized now, and letters which are being received are indicative of an augmented tourist trade this summer. Many more letters are being received from prospective visitors asking for information on the Trent Canal and Peterborough.

The following is a letter received from the vice-president and cashier of a prominent Ohio bank:

"Since returning from the Motor Boat Show in New York, I feel that I have been amply repaid for the trip by the conversation I had with you in regard to the possibility of a cruise up the Trent Canal.

"I am assuming that you will not forget my request for additional information in regard to my laying up a boat in Canada without being subject to duty, although I presume from what I said that this will be possible.

"Please accept my very sincere thanks for your courtesy, and trust that some time I will be able to see you in Peterborough.

This gentleman proposes a trip up the Trent to Georgian Bay this summer, and leaving the boat, which is of American registry, in Canada until the following year. In 1932 he will cruise around the Georgian Bay and Manitoulin Island, and again lay his boat up for the winter. The next year he will end his trip by returning to Ohio.

His boat is about 40 feet in length, and it is to be expected that the owner and his family will spend at least $1,000 a year in this district. The only difficulty is the question of his being able to leave his boat in Canada, but the Association is taking the matter up with the Government at present.

Another letter comes from a New York business man, who contemplates a trip with his friend this summer:

"A few years ago I think you mailed me a map or pamphlet describing the Trent Waterways.

"I have a friend, manager of Westinghouse Electric Company Syracuse, New York. He has a Matthews 38-foot cruiser, and we would like to make a trip next summer on the Trent Waterway and I would appreciate it if you would mail him and myself information concerning it."

PASSION PLAY'S DIRECTOR HELD

Bank Clerk Confesses to Losing $81,000 of Funds in Stock Market.

18 YEARS ON STAFF.

NEW YORK, February 3. — Alfonse Eberling, chief clerk of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company branch at 874 Broadway and a director of the Passion Play staged by the Catholic Church of the Holy Family, Union City, N.J., was arrested last night accused of embezzling funds of the bank.

After Eberling had been held all day at the bank while the auditors checked dormant accounts in his care, police assert he confessed losing more than $81,000 of the bank's money in the stock market.

Eberling, who is thirty-three and lives with his wife and three small children in his own home.

Rehearsed Passion Play.

Officials said discrepancies in the statement of one account led to the checkup.

Eberling was allowed to telephone to the Holy Family Church, which opened its Passion Play for the twelfth season yesterday, that he was too ill to attend. He had directed the cast in rehearsal.

With Bank 18 Years.

Eberling, who had been with the bank eighteen years and its trusted chief clerk more than three years, is alleged to have been taking funds from dormant accounts. Experts in going over the books declared that withdrawals had been ingeniously concealed.

UNION FAVORS LOAN COUNCIL.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 2 (C.P. Cable via Reuter's).—The Australian Workers Union, largest individual union in the Commonwealth, stoutly turned its back on suggestions of inflation and in convention here to-day passed a resolution demanding that the operation of the loan council be continued. Premier J. T. Lang of this State has demanded the abolition of the loan council, through which all overseas borrowings of State and Commonwealth governments must be conducted.

The Amateur Theatre
A Community Asset

(BY P. T. MOSELEY)

The Examiner recently carried a report of one of the many amateur dramatic presentations that are being given just now in this district, and mention was made of the Little Theatre.

Unfortunately for Peterborough, there is no Little Theatre movement, yet most of the larger cities and some of the smaller ones have this valuable community asset.

With the public attitude to see and hear the drama and musical presentations on the screen, and the enormous growth of the numbers who patronize this form of entertainment, the ordinary theatrical business has become a problem to the profession.

When the manager of a visiting theatrical company that was here recently made the statement that the public were beginning again to patronize legitimate drama, it was good to hear, especially since the motion pictures have converted many who once looked upon any type of theatre as evil, to lovers of the drama.

Knowing these facts, it is pleasing to note how amateur societies are found in most of the Churches, yet, apart from the value as a money-raising proposition to the particular church, the value to the community as a whole is small.

Peterborough has a theatre lying idle; it has the talent both musical and dramatic, and offers a wonderful opportunity for a Community Operatic Society, and for the Little Theatre movement.

To go into the question of the Little Theatre is not the intention for this article, perhaps to sow the seed for the ultimate adoption of this valuable movement, but to point out some of the faults of amateur actors and amateur societies, and a plea for native drama.

However, one thing in connection with the Little Theatre can be mentioned, especially as it is one of the outstanding faults of many amateur players. Self must be placed last. There cannot happen such incidents as in a local amateur company where a young lady would only take a part if her boy friend was given one also.

Fourth Raters.

Since it is the fashion of the age to rate everything, we may as well follow the fashion and divide the amateur actors into two classes—those seriously interested in the drama, and those seriously interested in themselves. The second class predominate and are largely responsible for most of the faults of the amateur society and they will be dealt with here—the rest can well look after themselves.

Just as film aspirants flock to Hollywood with the idea that they are as good, or better, than the accepted stars of filmdom, so do amateur actors plague the life of the directors with the idea they are born Barrymores and Terrys.

They only join the company on the understanding they are given fat parts—written for actors and singers who have specialized in certain roles—and proceed to give a fourth-rate imitation of the creator of the role with all his foibles exaggerated and most of his art (if any) obliterated. This paragraph deals with the amateur presentation of accepted stage successes and not the mediocre type of silly sentiment so beloved by the majority of amateur societies.

Should the critic, who usually knows his business, dare to offer good constructive criticism, or say anything but most obvious flattery, he is told that as a critic he should be judging cattle.

Old Timers.

One thing to remember is, that the amateur performance of the last fifteen years or so, has greatly improved and in most communities, the younger sets are showing great talent, hence the remarkable progress with the Little Theatre movement. The difficulty is with the older members, the ones who played a part or sang a role twenty-odd years ago, and still thinks that what was acceptable in those days is regarded as such to-day. This fact was excellently illustrated in that very enjoyable comedy of a few years ago "The Torchbearers."

Theatrical art has progressed, and the old-timer with his well-intentioned, but silly tendencies, is exasperating. Then there is the concert singer or church soloist who, while good enough in their respective spheres are dead when filling individual parts on the stage. These people could be of great assistance in building up a splendid chorus, but their personal ego compels them to accept a role or harass the life of the director for a part and if he is weak in will-power, allows them to fill the part to everybody's disgust and the inward contempt of the audience.

It is not necessary to give the parts in musical shows, (apart from the Gilbert and Sullivan Operas) to singers as the writer who has had much experience in staging this type of play knows only too well. To cite one instance. In one show, the two leads were singers, and having had stage experience were able to fill the roles satisfactorily. There were several other parts as is usual with musical comedies. None who filled these parts were singers, some thought they were, but the audience were not given a hint. With thorough training, these players put their "songs" over without a note being sung. All that was necessary was a sense of rhythm, ability to act and a good stage presence. In all the plays staged by the writer, the policy of giving parts to those whose personality has been best fitted for the character, with the result performance have been of a professional status.

The list of amateur failings is a long one, and these points have been gathered from long experience. One could smile on them for while, just as we smile on an old-fashioned automobile crawling along the highway, but let that affair hold up our speedy progress, then the thing becomes a nuisance.

Simply Hobbies.

It is in the matter of plays that most amateur societies fall down. There has been a dreadful tendency to play over and over again a limited repetoire of plays—musical and otherwise—until one despaired of seeing anything original on the stage. Should something different be attempted, it is usually something beyond the powers of the ordinary amateur troupe of players or else the silly sentimental play depicting American rural life, and billed as a "comedy."

These plays are admirable in their way, notwithstanding the fact that comedies are the hardest things for amateurs to undertake. They are good from a box-office point of view; they satisfy an unsophisticated audience; most of them are easy—or seem easy—to perform, but of no value or significance to amateur theatrical progress.

Amateur theatricals boiled down is simply a hobby, because it is so, all the more reason for continuing to be amateur after the elementary stages are past, and as with every other hobby, to try experiments in every way possible.

What a poor collection of articles a man would have if he contented himself with the everyday varieties instead of going after the rare pieces or editions, so it is with the amateur theatrical societies. They should make it their business to find out plays that have not been done before, that is, to seek out new plays that need creative work in producing.

Originality Needed.

When the amateur actor can create a role instead of giving these imitations of some imitator who probably gave his interpretation of the original character, then that actor does something worth while and the amateur theatrical societies prove their worth.

The Little Theatre movement is doing its best to foster original work, but this should not be left to one body of enthusiasts. If societies in general would make it their business to demand original works, and original works by Canadians, the demand would be filled. There are many amateur playwrights—young writers who have the ability, but lack through immaturity and no opportunities, the qualities essential to success in the wider world.

If amateur players would help the amateur writers, then the dearth of good dramatists would be no more, the faults of the one revealing the faults of the other, defects that further work would remedy. All immature work is not of necessity impossible."

A Canadian Duty.

A few years ago, there were many talks in the larger centers upon the subject of a national theatre and it is to the amateur players and singers that we must look for the development of a Canadian drama.

As long as Canadian amateurs ignore the works of their native dramatists and go in exclusively for imported productions, the dramatic world in Canada will be nothing but a joke.

Local talent is usually looked upon with suspicion. If a man writes a book, play, or opera, and has the same produced in one of the great centers of art, he becomes a candidate for civic honours in his home town, but let him offer his work to a local society, more than likely it will be turned down or made a subject for a joke.

There are many instances of this happening. One which comes to mind is that of two Vancouver men. Both excellent in their respective spheres and both have had their works published or performed in the large centers. The composer has had his works performed at the famous Queen's Hall, in London, England, and has also many pianoforte pieces, songs, choral works and symphonies published by the foremost publishing houses. A few years ago, when both men were new to Vancouver, they collaborated and wrote an excellent musical play which was offered to some of the Greater Vancouver Operatic Societies only to have it returned to them with supercilious smiles as immature" or with the excuse that the public will only patronize the works of accepted writers. If some of the piffle given on the majority of amateur stages are by accepted" writers, then it is time that fresh talent was discovered. It is the usual case of a prophet in his own country."

Amateur theatrical societies can help to create a Canadian drama by looking for plays, even going out of their way to extort plays from Canadian writers. When this is done there will be less money going out of the country for royalties, etc.

For every genius of the Victor Herbert or Galsworthy order, there are a number of quiter souls who will only answer when they are called and he who argues they are not worth calling is either a fool or a Philistine.

This is not a case of Canada for the Canadian" but the same phrase reversed and a more excellent slogan "The Canadian for Canada."

The means to obtain plays are not as hard as may be imagined. In other countries these are obtained either by competition or through the efforts of the musical festival committees who offer prizes for dramatic and similar works. In amateur societies urged the musical festival committees throughout the dominion to interest themselves in dramatic works, or got in touch with the headquarters of the Little Theatre movement in Canada, then they would experience no difficulty in procuring native drama.

Our amateur societies are doing great work, they can do greater even if to stir them to this effect it is necessary to prod them in their most sensitive parts.

TRIP TO ENGLAND IS ABLY OUTLINED TO ROTARY CLUB

S. H. Neale Gives Interesting Address at Campbellford Rotary Luncheon.

OLD LONDON CUSTOMS

Praises Beauty of St. Lawrence Waterway, Montreal and Quebec.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3. — (Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The weekly luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club, held in the St. Lawrence Hotel on Monday, with the president, H. N. Carr, in the chair, was featured by a talk from S. H. Neale, a recent member to the ranks of Rotary, on his impressions of England, gained while on an eight weeks' trip to that country last summer.

Taking his audience with him on the tour, he started from Montreal, boarding a C.P.R. boat at that port. It was the first boat of that line upon which he had travelled, and the speaker paid a high tribute to the magnificent service extended to the passengers. The next thing that impressed the speaker was the gallant work of the tugs and the size of the Port of Montreal. The latter, he stated, could easily berth thirty liners besides the host of smaller tramp steamers, having seventeen sheds owned by different companies, each having space for two ships.

Of the trip down the St. Lawrence River, Mr. Neale dealt at some length praising the scenery, both of the Labrador coast and the Gaspe Peninsula. Pointing out the places of interest on the way down, the first world sight was the Quebec bridge, the middle span of which is noted for being the longest in the world. Of the old Port of Quebec the speaker praised the scenery, especially the water front with the Duffern Terrace and the old fort surmounting it. Leaving the St. Lawrence behind, forty-eight hours were spent in the fog belt, after which plain sailing occurred for the remainder of the voyage.

The first intimation of nearing land, Mr. Neale stated, was the numerous smoke puffs that could be seen coming from many ships that were all converging in the same channel. After some time these ships closed in until they were within hailing distance, and so the trip proceeded to the Isle of White. This was the first piece of English soil sighted, and it looked very pretty with the sun shining on its white chalk and the red roofed houses dotted about it. Proceeding up the Solent, the naval base of Portsmouth with its many war vessels and the old H.M.S. Victory of Nelson's fame were to be seen.

Cowes came next with its array of fine yachts, and then disembarkation at Southampton, that port of history, and the Customs inspection.

The English trains Mr. Neale said, always drew attention, owing to their smallness, but pointed out that the platforms of the stations were built up to come on a level with the steps of the carriages, which gave to some extent this impression. Of his trip by train to London, the speaker said that he made the journey with Herbert James, manager of the western division of the C.P.R., who started with the road at Madoc.

The old city of London, which is one square mile in area, the speaker passed over briefly, pointing out, however, that some old customs are to be found there which are very interesting, such as the one that forbids a regiment to march through it with fixed bayonets, and another that on occasions forbids the King from entering until he has knocked and been greeted by the lord mayor, who is legal head of the city.

Making a starting point at Ipswitch, the home of relatives, Mr. Neale described the quaint houses and the narrow streets, and drew attention to the new mode of transportation, the trolley bus, which operates like a motor and receives power from overhead wires, but has no track to run on.

From this point the speaker took a 1,500-mile trip through the Old Land, going north, then west and returning via the south coast. One place only he had time to mention and that was the city of Norwich, which is now the resting place of Edith Cavell of the World War fame, of whom a statue is placed in front of the cathedral.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Elie Brunelle and seconded by Dr. H. B. Longmor, being conveyed to Mr. Neale by the president.

Millbrook Societies Enjoy Sleigh Ride

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The members of the Tuxis Square, with their teacher, W. A. O'Brian and their associate leader, Rev. W. W. Jones, were hosts for a jolly part on Friday evening, their guests including the members of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group.

Three sleigh-loads of the young people, with Oliver Brock, Kenneth Fallis and Mr. O'Brian as drivers, in sleighs well supplied with warm robes and jingling bells on the horses, left for drive north of the village shortly after 8 p.m., and though the mercury had dropped well down and there was a biting wind, yet the party managed to have a good time and soon banished the chill from the wintry weather out of doors when return was made to the well warmed and lighted parlors of St. Andrew's United Church after an hour or more 'on the road.'

A hot supper, with singing of group songs, laughter, and happy converse about the tables, was followed by games of various kinds, in which all heartily participated, and previous to the breaking up of the party, Miss Phyliss Kidd, vice-president of the Wide Awakes' group, on behalf of her fellow officers and members, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the hosts for the delightful evening provided, Miss Marian O'Brian seconding the motion, which was endorsed with warm applause on the part of the girls. Kenneth Fallis, praetor of the Tuxis Square, replied on behalf of the boys and their leaders, and shortly afterward departure was made for the several homes.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones, Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, and Mrs. F. A. Kidd took charge of the supper arrangements, waiting also upon the guests, and they too were included in the vote of thanks for the enjoyable time which the evening had afforded.

Later the girls expect to return the boys 'invitation for a social evening, but at present the group has suspended its regular meetings in order to prepare the pageant-drama, "World Fellowship", written especially for use during C.G.I.T. week for the whole of Canada, February 8-15, the local organization taking the evening of Sunday, February 15, for the presentation. The contributions to the National Girls' Work Board will be made immediately following, this annual levy being necessary for the upkeep of Canadian Girls in Training work.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH TROOP

About twenty boys of the First St. John's Troop fell in for "Flag Break" on Friday evening at the Parish Hall. In the absence of the Scoutmaster, the A.S.M., Warren Turner, had charge of the meeting.

After inspection the boys retired to their patrol corners for patrol in council and instruction work. Later in the evening the Troop Leader, Victor Millard conducted a game of "scout baseball" for the boys.

At the campfire the boys sang a number of songs lustily, as usual, if not tunefully. Peter Demos, a recent acquisition to the Troop roll entertained the boys with a pleasing violin solo.

Before the close of the campfire the A.S.M. read out the standings of the Patrols in the new contest, as follows:

Buffalo patrol, 16½ points; Bulldog patrol, 13½ points; Wolf patrol, 9½ points; Seal patrol, 5¼ points. The total number of points obtainable at one meeting is six. The competition has been running for three weeks.

The date of the Troop father and son banquet was forecast as April 17, 1931.

Bailieboro

While cutting wood in the woods of Mr. H. Dawson last week Eddie Townsend, a farm employee, had the misfortune to have the ball of his eye scratched by a chip that flew from the stick he was cutting. The unfortunate young man went to the Peterborough clinic where the eye received medical attention. It is believed by physicians that the sight will return quite as well as ever in a short time.

Three car-loads of the village young people motored to Bewdley to skate on Saturday evening. The ice was in splendid condition, but the weather was so extremely cold that the young people did not remain long until they were forced to leave for home, where they found the warm fires more comfortable than open-air skating rinks on a cold winter night.

Miss H. Donaldson, of Keene, is the guest of Miss B. Morton.

Miss B. Barnard, of Port Hope, spent the week-end the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barnard.

Mr. Stanley Johnston was a visitor to Peterborough on Saturday evening.

Mr. David Taylor was the guest of Mr. E. White on Sunday.

Friday's storm made the lake so heavy for travelling on that motor traffic has been made impossible. Many of the township roads are now closed to motor traffic.

Miss H. Fry, of Port Hope, spent the week-end the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Fry.

Mr. Charles Dawson, of Peterborough, spent last week the guest of his brother, Mr. A. Dawson.

Miss Ruth Dawson, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at her home on Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nurse visited at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Barnard, on Sunday.

EDMONTON, Alta., February 2 (C.P.). — Rev. J. H. Webster, Anglican missionary at Coppermine, lost for almost seven days on the Arctic ice fields, was found on Friday by Eskimo searchers in an exhausted and badly frostbitten condition, according to meagre reports received here.

The young missionary, who first went into the north country in 1928, left Coppermine a week ago to visit the Eskimo sealing camps, the first of which was located ten miles from Coppermine.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 62 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Rokoff stood as though petrified, his eyes protuding from their sockets, his mouth agape, and the cold sweat of terror clammy upon his brow. Below him on the deck he had seen the great anthropoids, and so had not dared to seek escape in that direction. Even now one of the apes was leaping to seize the rail and draw himself up to the Russian's side. Before him was the panther, silent and crouched.

Rokoff could not move. His knees quaked. His voice broke in half-uttered shrieks. With a last piercing wail he sank to his knees—and then Sheeta sprang. Full upon the man's breast the tawny body hurtled. As the Russian fell, Jane turned away in horror. But a cold expression of relief touched the lips of Tarzan of the Apes. For at last he was avenged.

For all his countless crimes the Russian was punished in those brief moments of his hideous end. When Tarzan, after a moment, attempted to wrest the body from the panther after Rokoff's struggles had ceased, the great cat rose snarling above its kill, threatening even the master it loved in its savage way, so that Tarzan was forced to relinquish his intention rather than slay his own jungle friend.

Of Rokoff's evil party, all were accounted for except Paulvitch, his righthand man. Four were prisoners in the Kincaid's forecastle and the rest lay slain. All that night Sheeta, the panther, crouched upon the bridge. Beneath the tropic moon the great beast, conqueror of Tarzan's arch enemy, struck horror into the hearts of the prisoners as they stared out at it from the forecastle.

EINSTEIN GIVES RELIGIOUS VIEWS

Discusses Attitude on Science and War in Series of Questions and Answers.

IN YALE DAILY NEWS.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 3.—In a series of questions and answers published in The Yale Daily News, Professor Albert Einstein to-day set forth his views on a variety of subjects including science, war and religion. He phrased his answers in the third person.

Q.—Is civilization as we knew it before the world war in danger of breaking up; and can scientific research do anything about it?

A.—Professor Einstein thinks indeed that the lack of international understanding and organization may be a serious danger in this connection, but thinks scientific investigation could not have any direct influence on the solution of this problem; only man's own determination can solve the problem.

Q.—Is there any basic conflict between scientific research and a religion that pre-supposes an all-intelligent omnipotent God?

A.—This question is not clear enough to be answered, because under religion you may understand so many different things. It would take a whole volume to answer it.

Other questions and answers show Einstein believes it is possible that the person of average intelligence will sometime understand the theory of relativity as well as he understands gravitation.

The main problem of the relativity theory at present is extension of the theory to include both gravitation and electro-magnetic phenomena.

The professor is working on a unified mathematical theory to show gravitation, light, electricity and electro-magnetism as different forms of the same thing.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ANSWERS 46 CALLS

Increase of 18 as Compared With 27 During Month of January in 1930.

The month of January proved to be a rather busy one for the local Fire Department. During the month, 37 telephone, 2 box, 2 verbal, 2 private and 2 Chief's special alarms were answered. This totals 45 calls, as compared with 27 for the same month in 1930, and 37 in 1929.

At the fires during the month 5,830 feet of 2½ inch hose, 250 feet of chemical hose, 342 feet of ladders, 147 gallons of chemicals, 3 gallons of Foam, and 17 tarpaulins were used. The total distance travelled was 85.7 miles.

The estimated losses for the month included: buildings, $11,400; contents, $15,395.75; total, $26,795.75 as compared with $123 for the same month in 1930 and $16,580.22 in 1929. Last month's losses were larger than any month for the last two years, due to the two large fires.

Inspections were, by the Chief 11, re-inspections 10, ordinary inspections 186, total 207. Drills and lectures have been carried on as usual during the month. Fireman S. Foster reported on duty. Fireman J. MacFarlane, reported off duty for the second time this month. Engineer J. Masters is off duty owing to injuries received at the fire on January 29, at Eastwood's Garage.

BLAST ON SUB INJURES SAILOR

Under-sea Vessel Just Started on Trial Cruise—in Thames Estuary.

LARGEST IN NAVY.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (C.P.).—One man was badly burned and several others were less seriously injured to-day when an explosion occurred on one of the largest submarines in the British Navy during manoeuvres near the Edinburgh Lightship in the Thames Estuary. The blast occurred shortly after the under-sea boat had put out for a trial cruise. An Admiralty official said the explosion was believed to have been of minor character, but its definite nature had not yet been determined.

The vessel is the X-14 of nearly 280 tons displacement, carrying four 5.2-inch guns and equipped with six torpedo tubes. She has a surface speed of 19.25 knots, and carried a crew of 110 men. She cost more than $5,000,000.

In 1925 she went on an extensive world tour, joining the Mediterranean fleet in 1927. During manoeuvres with the fleet in 1929 there was a minor explosion aboard but no one was injured and the damage was slight.

The navy lists gives her commander as E. M. C. Barraclough.

Customs Men Apologize to MacNider; Hope He Likes Canadian Congregation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(By Ken Clark C. P. Correspondent)—Friends of Hanford MacNider, United States Minister to Ottawa, are passing around an amusing story which the Minister told against himself.

It appears that on a trip across the border, Mr. MacNider being over-tired and not wishing to be disturbed, instructed the porter to inform Customs and Immigration officials that he was the Minister to Canada.

In the course of the night, however, his rest was broken by investigation of his baggage. The Minister from his berth soundly berated the disturbers.

The next morning upon arising he was surprised to discover Customs and Immigration men sitting in the seat opposite his berth.

The Minister said nothing but the Immigration man spoke up and said that they were waiting to apologize for having bothered him.

"We hope, sir," he said, "that you will like your congregation in Canada."

The porter, apparently, had indicated to Customs and Immigration men that Mr. MacNider was an American clergyman.

On his present visit to Washington the Minister said he hoped his "congregation" liked him half as well as he liked them.

BISHOP CANNON GOES ON TRIAL

No Details of Court Proceedings to be Given Till Hearing Over.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Bishop Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, to-day hobbled into the Mount Vernon Methodist Church on crutches to face charges. The doors were locked immediately.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, who has charge of the proceedings, sent word to reporters by a uniformed policeman, who was standing guard at a side door that he would see them.

He informed them "This is an ecclesiastical proceeding carried on as a church law prescribes, and nothing will be given to the public until it is over. When a conclusion is reached, I will give out the results as well as the names of the men who are conducting the hearing."

He then stepped back into the church. The door was closed and the policeman mounted guard.

PRINCES VISIT CITY OF KINGSTON

Thousands of Jamaicans Prepare Great Reception For Noted Guests.

OPEN GOLF COURSE.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 3.—Jamaica to-day extended one of the greatest welcomes of its history to the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, arriving at noon aboard the Oropesa from Havana, Bermuda and, Spain.

Thousands from outside the city have flocked here in their best bib-and-tucker to be present when the two Princes, who are en route to South America on a British goodwill tour, debark for their island reception. The city was decked in bunting, much as it was forty years ago when their father, now the King, visited here.

According to the program arranged for them, the two Princes will land at noon to be greeted officially by the Governor and other high dignitaries. They will participate in the opening of a new golf course six miles from Kingston; watch a polo match, and be the guests of honor at a reception to-night at Government House by Governor Sir R. E. Stubbs and Lady Stubbs.

Tomorrow morning the Prince of Wales will unveil the memorial clock tower at Kingston Paris Church, erected to honor the Jamaicans who fell in the Great War.

ment subsided several degrees. Mary came downstairs. Mrs. O'Neil was anxious to start for home. Just as she thought the trouble had cooled down, some one in the dim light landed a haymaker on her son Joe. He didn't revive until later out in the taxi car.

"I knew Robilard since August," witness said. "I knew my daughter was with him at times, and I told him to stay away from the house. That was especially after we learned he was married. He said he could prove he was not married. I heard him say he was going to kidnap her. That was in our house. I told him we would get the police after him. Then said he was only joking.

Hilliard McIlmoyl, 17, was the first witness called by Wilfrid Huycke for the defense.

McIlmoyle stated that on the trip to Lakefild Mary O'Neiel was laughing and singing.

Adjutant Amy Wood of the Salvation Army, police matron, was called to the stand by Mr. Justice Raney. From her experience of twenty years' social service and from her observation of the girl, Adjutant Wood said she regarded Mary O'Neil as mentally subnormal, although bright in many respects. She believed the girl was "easily led."

Stabbing In Sudbury Ends With $50 Fine

SUDBURY, Ont., Feb. 3 (C.P.). — "Fifty dollars and costs, or two months," said Magistrate McKessock this morning in imposing sentence on Tony Barsecco, charged with stabbing a fellow Italian, Reno Bragnocola, on October 12 last. In giving his evidence in the case yesterday, Bragnosola claimed that the accused had stabbed him for no reason whatever, and under no provocation, but the bench believed Tony's story when the latter said he had been slapped on the face and called "a dirty crook," which aroused his temper and the stabbing had followed.

Immediately after the affray, Tony was filled with remorse, and after summoning medical aid for the wounded man, the assailant gave $100 to Bragnocola's brothers and promised them $40 more if the case was not brought to court. However, when the $40 was not forthcoming, the police were notified.

NEW POWER SITE TAPPED BY HYDRO

Commission Reaches Out to Forestall Shortage Predicted in 1936.

AT MASSON FALLS.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3 (C.P.). — Faced by engineers' predictions of a possible power shortage in 1936, the Provincial Hydro Commission has reached out to tap another Quebec power source, contracting for 136,000 horse power at a cost of $1,875,000 per year. This purchase, it is announced, is being made from the MacLaren Quebec Power Company, the power to be supplied from the concern's development near Buckingham, Que., at Masson Falls, 170 miles from Ottawa.

C. Alfred Maguire, Hydro Commissioner, stated the first block of power will be delivered by July 1, 1931. The development was one of those mentioned by Hydro engineers in their survey of Ontario's possible power sources a year ago, Mr. Maguire stated. "If we have any kind of an industrial boom we shall have a power shortage in 1935 or 1936, our engineers tell us. By 1936 we shall be receiving power from all the purchase contracts we have made. The way things look now, we cannot expect power from the St. Lawrence for possibly six or seven years or more. Hence, we must buy or be threatened with a shortage later.

This is the fourth power source to be tapped by the Commission in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence district. The other three are the Carillon and Chats Falls on the Ottawa and the Beauharnois on the St. Lawrence.

SALE of HORSES
We will have about 100 of the very best horses we have had for some considerable time, for sale in a few weeks time. These horses are all tried and proved, and mostly young, sound horses. Owing to the fact that very few lumber companies have been operating this year, there will not be the great number of horses available this spring from the lumber camps, that there has been in years past.
We expect our horses to commence to arrive back in about three weeks time. These will be sold at our own stables, and we invite inspection. There will be a scarcity of horses in Ontario this season. We expect to announce later the arrival date of these horses coming in our barns. If you want good horses, see us.

Jury Finds Robilard Is Not Guilty

JUSTICE RANEY SCORES ACCUSED AS UNDESIRABLE

Jury Took One Hour to Consider Evidence in Robilard Abduction Case.

TOLD MEND HIS WAYS.

Defence Witnesses Claim Girl Made No Effort to Leave Prisoner.

"You have shown yourself to be a very undesirable citizen," was Mr. Justice Raney's parting shot in discharging Ernest Joseph Robilard Tuesday evening after the jury had found him not guilty of abducting Mary O'Neil on Saturday, December 27.

"I understand that you served a term in penitentiary for some other offense" His Lorship continued, "but you have escaped this time because of the jury's difficulty in finding a verdict against you. If you don't mend your ways, the next time a jury will not have so much difficulty. I hope you will be more careful of your conduct in the future. The jury has found you not guilty. I am not sure that I am in accord with the jury's verdict. There have been difficulties in this case, especially in accepting your story. I can understand how the jury might have accepted your story. I am not quarrelling with their verdict. You are discharged."

Jury Out An Hour

The jury retired at 5.45 p.m. and returned almost within the exact hour. Their written verdict of not guilty was read by Archie Brault, the foreman. It stated that the jurors [illegible] against her will; and 3. further declared their unanimous conclusion that she went of her own accord.

Mr. W. P. Hutoke defended the prisoner, and Mr. Thos. Costello, K.C., of Renfrew, was the special Crown Prosecutor. After their addresses to the jury, Mr. Justice Raney explained the law applying to the case, and also reviewed the major features of the evidence. His Lordship stressed two points which, he said, tended to show the disposition of Robilard in regard to the alleged abduction.

In the case for the prosecution it was brought out that Robilard had telephoned to the girl's mother in Peterborough from one of the places where the party stopped on December 27 on their way to the Burleigh ranch. When he returned to the car he told the girl, according to evidence, that her mother had said to him over the telephone that she didn't care if she never saw Mary again.

Telephoned to Mother

In contrast with that story, Mr. Justice Raney quoted the mother's evidence, and repeated it with significant emphasis.

"Mrs. O'Neil swore that Robilard telephoned her he was leaving town and taking Mary with him" said His Lordship. "The mother's story was this: 'He said he was taking Mary away and there was no need of my

PLAN NEW HONOR FOR WILLINGDON

Governor-General of India to be Created Earl Before Leaving For Post.

ANNOUNCED TO-DAY.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 4.—Viscount Willingdon, who has been appointed Governor-General of India, will be created an Earl before he takes up his post at Delhi, according to The News-Chronicle, which understands that the honor will be announced to-day.

The announcement of the appointment of Lord Willingdon's successor as Governor-General of Canada will probably be made during the present week, according to a statement in this morning's Morning Post. The Post understands Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has been in communication with Prime Minister R. B. Bennett during the last few days, and that the two men have decided upon the name of the next representative of the King at Ottawa.

Thirty-one bathers, ranging in age from 17 to 68 years, recently took a dip in the chilly Serpentine, Hyde Park, London.

Lamb and Airdale Act as Guardians To Windsor Trio

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 4. (CP) Mary and her little lamb are widely known in legendary verse but in Windsor there is the modern prototype in Edmond, Margaret and Ruth Marentette, 609 Sandwich Street West.

Twice a day the lamb and its guardian, a sturdy Airedale named Mabel, accompany the three children to St. Alphonsus School, a distance of about a dozen blocks and right into the business heart of the city. When the youngsters climb the steps the pair start off home, the lamb leading the way and the dog acting as rear-guard. They work their way through traffic at a couple of busy intersections and although they have been making their trips for some time they have not met with mishap.

QUAKE SURVIVOR HAD CLOSE CALL IN HASTINGS CITY

Falling Pillar Misses Him By Inches, Killing Girl Before His Eyes.

SCENES OF HORROR.

Water Mains Burst— Fire Engines Buried Under Debris of Own Stations.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 4 (A.P.)—E. C. Weston, manager of the Christchurch Company, who was [illegible] North Island, when yesterday's earthquake struck, told of the disaster when he reached here to-day.

"I had just completed my business in the store," he said, "when I felt the preliminary tremors. A young girl clerk ran into my arms and I tried to pacify her, telling her it would all be over in a second.

"A heavy shock came on the heels of the first movement and a great steel pillar fell across the girl's body, crushing her against the counter. She screamed, but the pillar was so heavy that I could not budge it and she was dead in a moment.

"It came to me that I had escaped by inches and I managed to crawl on my hands and knees from under the wreckage.

People Panic Stricken

"Everywhere people were panic stricken and there were screams for help coming from all sides.

"In what was once the shoe department I saw a man struggling desperately under the debris, but help was out of question. I could not reach him.

"In one corner of the store, fire broke out, but shouts for buckets made no impression on the terrorised people. Their fight for their lives was an appalling sight.

"The fire engines were buried in the wreckage of their own stations, but the water main had been broken by the quake and the firemen could have accomplished very little anyhow."

Trio Facing Trial On Smuggling Count

LIVERPOOL, N.S., Feb. 4. (CP)—The case of J. Ross Byrne, Liverpool barrister, will be called first when three alleged conspirators to defeat the customs law of the Dominion appeared for preliminary hearing at the courthouse here this afternoon. The accused men are Harry Low, of Windsor, Ont., George Downey of Cornwall, and Byrne, all faced with three charges resulting from the seizure of a carload of liquor billed as fish at Truro, N.S., on December 29.

The charges are conspiracy to smuggle, attempting to bribe an official and inducing a a man to be concerned in the landing of goods without permission of the authorities.

The Weather

The lowest temperature last night was 14 degrees above zero. The highest point yesterday was 36 degrees. This gave a range of 50 degrees in the 24 hours. This is a rare occurrence, although not a record. A gentleman told me he picked up a starling frozen to death owing to the recent cold dip. The so-called "black birds" which many people have claimed to have seen are probably starlings, and not blackbirds, or grackles.—W.F.

DRIVER IS FREED OF ALL BLAME AT MORGAN INQUEST

Recommends That Places Be Provided in City to Allow Children to Sleigh-ride.

LITTLE GIRL ON WATCH.

Driver Did Not See Children Until They Were Right Upon Him.

Inquiring into the circumstances surrounding the sleigh-riding fatality here last Wednesday evening in which Audrey Morgan, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, met her death, and her playmate, Hazel Reynolds, aged nine, was seriously injured, when they speeded across Water Street from the Anson Street hill directly into the path of a truck, a coroner's jury returned a verdict clearing Reginald McKeown, driver of the truck, of all blame.

The jury which heard the evidence at the inquest conducted before Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., returned with the following verdict:

We find that Audrey Morgan died of injuries suffered in an accident while sleigh-riding on January 28, and that no blame is attached to Reginald McKeown.

"Further, we recommend that the places be supplied in the city to allow the children to sleigh ride without placing themselves in the danger of motor traffic."

Helen Liddell, a sweet-faced girl of nine, who was the only real eye-witness of the tragedy, supplied the [illegible] was standing at the bottom of the hill and was watching for motor cars going along Water Street, she said: "I saw the car coming and shouted to Audrey and Hazel to turn off because there was a car coming. Yes, they heard me all right. And they yelled back that they didn't care, they were going across anyway. Then they went right on in front of the car. When they were picked up, neither one of them could talk, they were hurt too bad."

Later she told Mr. McElderry that she wasn't sleigh-riding, but was keeping a sort of watch-out for cars in order to warn the other children.

Charles Morgan, father of the deceased girl, first witness, said she was eight years and ten months.

Reginald McKeown, driver of the truck which struck the children, stated that he was proceeding at 18 or 20 miles an hour, up water Street about 5 o'clock in the evening. He had Dolores Johnston with him. Chains were on the rear wheels of the truck.

He said he did not see the children until they were right in front of him. He turned the car quickly to the right and put on the brakes in order to avert the accident. They struck the left front wheel of the truck. He did not think the wheels of the truck went over them. He could not say whether Audrey Mor-

DRIVER UNAWARE HIS CAR HIT BOY

Stroyan Leith, Aged 8, Slightly Injured While Running Across Street.

DRIVER WENT ON.

What was this morning suspected by police to be a case of a hit-and-run driver later to-day proved to be another case of a child being struck by a car without the driver's knowledge. Stroyan Leith, aged 8, 563 Gilmour Street, was knocked down and injured at 8.45 this morning near his home by a car which backed out of a lane, and without stopping proceeded east on Gilmour Street.

From a description supplied by the boy, G. R. Hardman, 199 Reid Street, was identified by Constable Jack Deannard as the car's driver. When told of the accident, Mr. Hardman stated that he was unaware that he had struck any child, and immediately went to the boy's home and arranged to pay for medical treatment and any other damages.

The boy was cutting across Gilmour Street and slipped as the car backed out of the laneway. As he fell, the car struck him, bruising his head in several places and his back.

CHARGES PROVED HEENAN CLAIMS

Delves Into Details of Living Conditions on Pay For Northern Laborers.

IS BACKING PHILPOTT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4 (C.P.) — Hon. Peter Heenan, M.P. holds that statements made by Ontario Cabinet Ministers and Government supporters go to prove the truth of his contention that laborers on the Kenora-Winnipeg highway are employed by the Ontario Government under slave conditions. In Ottawa today, the former Dominion Minister of Labor in the late Liberal Government, referred to a press report in which Joseph P. Earngey, ex-Conservative Provincial member for Kenora, was quoted as stating working conditions on the highway were ideal.

"Hon. W. Finlayson and Hon. Charles McCrea, and now Mr. Earngey admit as I have stated that the laborers are being paid 35 cents an hour for an eight-hour day, with 31 per day deducted for board," Mr. Heenan commented. "That leaves $10.80 per week for each laborer, many of whom, Mr. Earngey says are married men with families of three children. After paying $6 a week rent, the wife of a laborer working for the Government, if she got her husband's whole check, would have $10.80 per week. If there were three children that would be $1.20 a week for each or 17 cents per day for each to live on, without providing for fuel, light, clothing and other necessities of life."

Mr. Heenan goes to Hamilton tomorrow night to speak there in the interests of Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate in the West Hamilton Pro-

Death is Cheated Of Three Victims By 'Human Bridge'

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—When Patrolman James Fitzpatrick goes to a fire where folks need saving he's a "human bridge." That's what he was last night when flames trapped a man and his wife and their son on the top floor of a three storey building in Brooklyn. Stepping out on the fire escape of an adjoining building, he twined his legs around the railing and bent backwards until he could grab the window of the burning apartment.

He gave the signal and the march began. Mrs. Jeanette Schwartz, 175 pounds, tripped across. Next came Louis Schwartz same poundage, and then the boy Benjamin. As the flames soared upward they passed to safety in the next building and then Fitzpatrick straightened up.

NEED PREDICTED FOR BIGGER NAVY

Britain Will Reconsider Program Unless France, Italy Adhere to Limitations.

LOSING GROUND.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 4. (CP)—Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, first Lord of the Admiralty, declared in the House of Commons to-day that unless Franc and Italy adhere to the principals of limitation of naval armaments Great Britain will have to reconside r her present construction programme.

The British Commonwealth, he said, was now building 46,145 ton warships of which 2,655 tons were destined for Canada. France was building approximately 100 694 tons and Italy 109 777 tons.

Major Ross, Conservative member for Londonderry, declared that in view of the fact that France and Italy were each building more than twice as much naval tonnage as Great Britain, this country was losing ground in European waters.

TORONTO CLUB DEFEATS GALT BY 28 SHOTS

Semi-finals in Ontario Tankard Play is One-sided Affair.

PERFECT CURLING.

Lindsay Wins From Grand Valley By 11 Shots in Burden Trophy.

GRANITE RINK, Toronto, Feb. 4 (C.P.). — The semi-finals were one-sided affairs, Toronto Granites defeating Galt by 28 shots, while Hamilton Victorias won by 27 shots over Sarnia.

Eddie Brower and his rink were curling in perfect style, defeating W. V. McDougal 24 to 6. The Galt quartette only scored on 3 of the 16 ends played, getting singles on the second and eleventh end and a four on the thirteenth. The veteran curler, John Dennie, playing third for the Granite rink, was doing everything his skip asked of him, while Bob Hamilton's leading was perfect. The Galt rink curled well but never had a chance.

In the other half of this game, Charlie Bully accounted for C. E. Knowles by 10 shots. The Knowles four only scored on five ends of the 15 played, and gave up without playing the 14th end when Bully counted a "big 4."

In the other semi-final both of the Hamilton Victoria rinks had easy victories, C. Smith defeating Col. McKenzie 22 to 7, while Dr. Walkey was 12 up on H. Watson with only 14 ends played. The Watson rink scored on six ends, but had to be content with singles on all but the 11th, when they got a two.

Col. McKenzie's rink started out well, getting five on the first two ends, but they failed to score again until the 13th when they got a single. In the meantime Smith scored 18.

The rinks and scores were:

Craft Explodes On Striking Water Goes Down at Once

Tragedy Occurs as Huge Seaplane Was Completing Manoeuvres Over Plymouth Sound — Small Boats Rush Out at Once With Divers.

TWO OFFICERS AND ONE OF CREW PICKED UP LATER FLOATING AMIDST WRECKAGE—ALL BADLY INJURED

One Theory of Disaster is That Pilot Mistook the Level of the Water When He Glided Down For Landing, Due to Reflection of Sun on the Calm Surface.

PLYMOUTH, England, February 4 (C.P. Cable).—Eight lost their lives when a Royal Air Force seaplane dived into the waters of Plymouth Sound to-day, and was wrecked by an explosion.

As she struck she heeled over on one side and sank immediately. When rescuers went out in small boats they picked up two officers and one of the crew, all injured, but Commander Tucker, Flying Officer Wood, and seven enlisted men were missing.

Divers who went to work quickly recovered one of the bodies this afternoon. The cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

One theory is that the pilot mistook the level of the water when he glided down to a landing through the reflection of the sun on the calm surface.

The Victims.

Known victims of the seaplane disaster to-day were: Commander C. G. Tucker, who had a splendid war record; Flying Officer F. K. Wood, and six others, as wollows:

eLading Aircraftsman Oates, of Penzance; Stevens, of Wrexham; Rutledge of Lee-on-Solent; Ongley of Plymouth, and Davies of Llanelly; Sergt.-Pilot Wilson.

Flight-Lieut. M. H. Ely, Flying Officer C. Ryley, and Corporal Barry were picked up later from the plane or water critically injured.

Congress Party Announces Members Plan to Publicly Manufacture Salt.

TROUBLE LIES AHEAD.

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 4.—(A.P.)—On the eve of peace parleys with delegates returning from the Round Table Conference the Congress Party headquarters announced today that its president and members of its War Council will publicly manufacture salt in the great Maidan Square to-morrow.

This is in direct defiance of the law and it is the offence for which Mahatma Gandhi was imprisoned last May. The gesture of civil disobedience is certain to result in the arest of all those who engage in it and the authorities were prepared for trouble.

PLANE ACCIDENT GOES TO COURT

Owners Claim Woman Plaintiff Ran in Path of Their Machine.

$10,000 SUIT.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 4.— Defendants in a $10,000 Supreme Court action being heard here, Harry Peterson and Douglas Macklin, of Sarnia, are attempting to prove that the plaintiff, Mrs. Mary McGillivray, of Parkhill, ran in front of their airplane as Macklin was about to land on the beach at Port Franks. It was said that Macklin was on this 13th trip when the accident, in which the Parkhill woman was injured, occurred.

One of the McGillivray children, according to Macklin, had run into the path of his descending machine. Although he did not see her, he believed that Mrs. McGillivray ran to save the child. He had pulled the plane into the air so as to save the child, but one wing had struck the woman, the evidence disclosed.

CABINET HEARS REQUESTS FROM BOARDS OF TRADE

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. (CP)—Urging the removal of tax from municipalities for maintenance of highways in the suburban areas, a delegation of the Association Boards of Trades and Chambers of Commerce yesterday called upon the Ontario Cabinet. Owing to the illness of Hon. George S. Henry the Cabinet was presided over by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General.

Other resolutions presented to the Cabinet urged the Dominion and Provincial Governments to co-operate in arranging for immediate construction of the trans-Canada highway; that the use of affidavits in filing civil income taxes should be abolished.

Spokesmen for the delegation were T. J. Patten, North Bay, H. K. Carruthers, Ottawa, K. J. Dunston and F. D. Tolchard, Toronto.

Revivals of old ballets are popular in London this winter.

DREAD DISEASE HITS LONE TOWN

Deputy Sheriffs Guard All Trails Leading Into Arizona Camp.

DEATH CLAIMS ELEVEN.

CHRISTMAS, Ariz., Feb. 4.—There was something about Christmas today suggestive of Arizona's "ghost" mining camps. All places of amusement were closed, no groups gathered at corners or other usual meeting places and persons seen on the streets hurried to stores for necessary supplies and back home again.

Christmas, isolated naturally by hills, was further cut off from the world by quarantine.

Eleven of its less than 1,000 inhabitants have died since the first of the year, six from cerebrospinal Meningitis. A death yesterday from the disease was said by Dr. J. W. Davis, camp hysician, to indicate a new outbreak and the quarantine order was invoked. Sheriff's deputies guarded the winding road leading into the camp and only officers or truck drivers with supplies were permitted to enter or leave.

Premier Gets Report In Josephine K Case

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4 (C.P.)—Premier R. B. Bennett early this afternoon received a report from the Canadian Legation at Washington in the Josephine K. case. The contents of the report will be studied by the Prime Minister and Department of External Affaire, and a reply will probably be sent shortly.

While no official statement has been made, it is understood that the report includes the findings of the United States Coastguard Board of Enquiry, held last week, in New York. The report of this board exonorated the American Coastguard.

Geese and Hawks Visit Jack Miner

KINGSVILLE, Feb. 4 (C.P.).—Thousands of Canada geese are visiting Jack Miner's bird sanctuary here, because there is open water on Lake Erie. The geese are resting before beginning their long flight to the northland Yesterday 8 large hawks were seen migrating northward. FORMER PREMIER OF CANADA MAY BE FINANCE MINISTER

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Mentioned at Ottawa to Fill Vacant Chair.

MR. MEIGHEN WILLING.

(By Wilfrid Eggleston.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4.—A very interesting situation is believed to be developing at the capital as the result of a growing boom for Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen coupled with the failure so far on the part of Mr. Bennett to choose and name a minister of finance.

It is several weeks now since Mr. Meighen visited Ottawa, but the last time he was here he made it quite clear that he would welcome an invitation to join the government. "I am in the position of an impecunious young clergyman waiting a call," he is reported to have said on that occasion.

Mr. Meighen is undoubtedly being urged by his political friends to place himself prominently before the powers that be at Ottawa as an eligible minister of finance. Some time ago it was reported on good authority that the present ministry was solidly opposed to the re-entry of the former Conservative chieftain for the sake of harmony, but current gossip today credits a faction of the cabinet—four or five ministers—with more favorable attitude towards such an event.

Some Conservative journals and public men are growing restive over the prolonged vacancy of the finance minister's office. There is not even a deputy minister there. Of the three men who headed the post at the time of Mr. Robb's death, not one is there to-day. Only Mr. Robb's private secretary, Watson Sellar, now assistant deputy, has been promoted to take their place. With the finances of the Dominion facing a crisis and new taxation inevitable, only a part time leader engaged in a thousand other things, is available. So argue those who would see Mr. Bennett unload one of the several burdens now hanging on his shoulders.

The chief obstacle to Mr Meighen's selection is the reported unwillingness of Mr. Bennett to invite him in Parliament Hill gossip credits the prime minister with being adamant on the subject, and good friends of the government say quite frankly that the cabinet is not big enough for a Mr. Bennett and a Mr. Meighen.

Should the unexpected occur, however, no difficulty will arise over a seat for Mr. Meighen, R. C. Matthews would open up Toronto East centre, it is said, and would be made Lieutenant Governor at the end of 1931, when Hon. W. D. Ross's term expires. Mr. Matthews is in line for some recognition, having been disappointed when the ministry was formed, Hon. E. B. Ryckman getting the preference.

Though Mr. Meighen's friends have him in mind as a probable finance minister, there is a story going the rounds here and given some credence, that Mr. Ryckman himself will be the next minister of finance. If Mr. Bennet thas decided to promote the minister of national revenue, the announcement is looked for at an early date since the coming budget will be momentous and will require all possible preparation.

TOLL OF 'QUAKE IS RISING FAST

Estimate Set at 300 in Hawkes Bay Area With Number Growing.

HUNDREDS INJURED.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, February 4 (C.P.). — An estimate of 300 dead in the Hawkes Bay area where Napier, Hastings, and a score of other towns and villages were devastated by an earthquake was made in Napier to-night. The roll of casualties grew hourly and some feared the number of dead might run past 1,000.

Cabinet members meeting with citizens at Hastings last night were given reports of deaths there totalling between 80 and 100, with many injured. There are more than 30 dead in the small township of Taradale.

Refugees from the devastated regions arrived here last night with tales of the horror attending the tremors, which lasted for more than five hours after the first quake at 8.51 a.m. yesterday.

ABOVE is shown a photograph of Miss Muir and the car in which she made the trip.

GOV'T MOVES TO FOLLOW UP ROSS REPORT

Cabinet Approves Construction of Nurses' Home to Cost $150,000.

AT ONTARIO HOSPITAL.

Commission's Suggestion For Sterilization of Defectives Not Adopted.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. — Construction of a $150,000 nurses home at the Ontario Hospital at Brockville was approved by the Ontario Cabinet in session here yesterday. This is the first major unit in a plan whereby the Government will start to implement the Ross Commission report of last August. The commission recommended expenditure of $20,000,000 on "absolutely and immediately desirable" additions to and improvements of the criminal, mental and reform institutions supervised by the Government.

It is definitely learned that the sterilization of criminal, mental and normal defectives advocated in the Royal Commission's report will not be adopted. The Government, it is understood, desires a much longer period in which to investigate this step in social legislation.

Confirmed by Premier

Announcement of the Government's approval of the new nurses home at Brockville was confirmed by Premier Henry at his home last night. The new building will house between 60 and 70 nurses and will be constructed on ground adjacent to the Ontario Hospital. The present nurses' quarters will be used for accommodation of patients.

Hon. D. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, indicated that the Brockville building was the forerunner of many similar improvements throughout the Province, stating that the construction work would be along the lines recommended in the Commission's report.

While no confirmation was forthcoming from Government quarters it is reliably understood that the next step in the construction program will be to build extensions in Western Ontario.

Wolves Shot at Head of Stoney Lake

Each pelt will net $25 bounty and $8 from the fur trader. On Mr. Murphy's right is T. E. Curvin, local fur dealer.

PHILPOTT RAPS BUYING OF POWER

Claims Every Gov't Electrical Contract Made is Betrayal.

HINTS AT TORY THREATS.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 4.—Conservatives of this city were "broadly hinting" that widows might lose their Old Age Pensions if they cast a Liberal vote in the West Hamilton by-election, Capt. Elmore Philpott, M.C., Liberal candidate for the riding, charged in an address before Liberal women here.

Continuing his attack on the present Ontario administration, Capt. Philpott said the Conservatives had disregarded the principles of the late Sir Adam Beck, and every Government electric contract now made at Toronto was a betrayal.

Capt. Philpott, who has attacked Hon. W. H. Price and the Attorney General's Department for several weeks, stated that the period of depression was the result of the stock market crash, for which the Attorney General's Department was to blame.

Regarding the announced intention of the Ontario Hydro Commission to obtain 125,000 horsepower from the McLaren-Quebec Power Company, Capt. Philpott charged the Government with paying half as much again for power as they should pay.

COMMONS GIVES MAJORITY OF 65 TO REFORM BILL

Sudden Turn in Second Reading Comes From Liberal Support.

BITTER TORY OPPOSITION.

Measure Has Yet to Run Gauntlet of Conservative House of Lords.

LONDON, February 4.—The House of Commons last night did the expected thing and the Electoral Reform Bill sponsored by the Labor Government, was carried on second reading by a safe majority of 65 votes. The support of the Liberals at whose behest the Bill was shaped, accounted for the comfortable victory. The vote was 296 for the Bill and 230 against.

But the Bill is still a considerable way from becoming law, for it has yet to pass through the Conservative-minded House of Lords The Lords may, or may not, take a stand and make an issue of electoral reform.

Its Immediate Future.

The immediate future of the Bill lies in committee of the House of Commons; then will come the third Conservatives opposed the Bill bitterly yesterday, but with little hope.

"This Bill," said Commander Sir Hilton Young, "introduces into our politics the methods of the racketeer."

"A few formidable gunmen," he went on, as he waved toward the Liberal benches, "are imposing their will upon the community represented by the Labor Party." Sir Hilton meant that the price of Liberal support for the Government was the passage of the Bill.

The House of Commons, said the Right Hon. L. C. S. Amery, former Secretary of State for the Dominions had wandered far, indeed from its ideal purpose, that of being a Council of State.

Mr. Amery and other Conservative speakers criticized the alternative-vote system, which is the heart of the Bill, and declared the introduction of proportional representation would give electoral minorities a better chance for representation.

COMMUTER TRIES TO REGAIN RIGHTS

Walkerville Man Has Date For Hearing Before Federal Judge Set Feb. 16.

BANNED FROM DETROIT.

WINDSOR, Feb. 4.—Residents of the Border Cities who are working in Detroit and who have complied with all the regulations of the United States Immigration Department are not permitted to pay brief visits across the ocean and retain their commuting privilege.

Such is the ruling that has been placed against Alexander Fletcher of Walkerville, who has been in the employ of a Detroit factory since August, 1923, but who in 1929, while on leave of absence from the firm, paid a brief visit to Scotland to see his invalid mother. He was away from work just six weeks. This is the only absence of more than a day or two that he has recorded since he went to work for this firm.

He has been deported for a year and a day, and has appealed to Washington against the ruling of the Detroit board which deported him. On receiving a reply from Washington, he has now applied to Federal Judge Charles C. Simon for an order returning his communter's rights. Hearing on the application is set for February 16.

Press Is Excluded At Presbytery Meet

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4.—With the chairman casting the deciding vote, the Toronto Presbytery of the Presbyterian church excluded the press from what was termed one of the most stormy meetings of the year. The motion was precipitated by Rev. J. A. Mustard, who, in presenting his resignation as interim moderator of St. Paul's church here, declared that he had "reason to believe that there were certain sinister and subtle influences at work and that so far as he could judge there was outside interference."

At this point the speaker was interrupted by a motion that the press be excluded. "The less we do behind closed doors the better," Rev. Mr. Mustard declared.

Following some heated discussion, the press retired from the meeting.

WITNESS WARNED BY TWO THUGS TO CHANGE STORY

James Creighton Told He Will Be "Taken For Ride"—Given Drugged Liquor.

TESTIFYING FOR CROWN.

Claims Steinberg Admitted to Him That He Murdered Nephew.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. — Two thugs, one of whom is alleged to have carried a revolver, are reported to have threatened James Creighton, police witness in the Steinberg murder trial, if he did not change his evidence at the trial. Abraham Steinberg is charged with the murder of his nephew, Samuel Goldberg, and the trial is now in progress.

The two men, it is claimed, gained admission to Creighton's home on Monday night. The witness, it was reported, had a gun thrust in his face with the warning that he would be "put on the spot" or "taken for a ride" if his evidence went against Steinberg. A bottle of liquor was produced, and Creighton became ill after drinking some of it.

An air of secrecy prevailed about the Police Department when officials were queried as to the facts regarding the alleged intimidation.

At the first trial, at which the jury disagreed, Creighton was the main Crown witness. He was a prisoner at the local jail when Seinberg was on remand. His evidence was to the effect that, during a conversation with the accused man, the latter allegedly admitted committing the crime.

Dr. Allen Rogers

Ph. D., University of Pennsylvania

says: "As a Cleansing Dentifrice Colgate's has no equal."

Dr. Rogers Says;

"My tests reveal that Colgate's Toothpaste produces the lowest surface tension. Since surface tension determines detergent or cleansing action, it follows, therefore that as a cleansing dentifrice, Colgate's has no equal."

"The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. A toothpaste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

Allen Rogers

Dr. Rogers' tests on toothpastes and their action are of the highest interest not only to the public but to scientific circles as well.

WHEN a distinguished scientist like Dr. Allen Rogers announces without reservation that one dentifrice is vastly superior to all others, the world wants to know his reasons. And he gives them. Conclusive, scientific reasons. Backed by painstaking, impartial laboratory research.

Colgate's has no equal. Very well, why? It is a matter of low surface tension, as Dr. Rogers explains. The ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. His tests indicate that Colgate's gives the best results.

Nothing need be added to Dr. Rogers' statement, but if one should ask further scientific proof of these facts, there are such noted scientists as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Henry Leffman, and scores of others equally well known whose individual researches agree entirely with those of Dr. Rogers.

The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

A.Y.P.A. PUT ON MOCK COUNCIL

Lakefield Organization Delights Audience With Their Program.

PLAN EUCHRE PARTY.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 4. (Examiner Correspondence.)—At the regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. held on Monday evening, the chief feature of the program was a mock village council, which was very amusing. Reeve Simpson was in the chair with Councillors Payne (chairman of the charity committee), Charlton (chairman of the Roads committee), Hampton (chairman of the Property Committee) and Graham (chairman of the Finance committee). Clerk Fred Hampton read the minutes and presented a financial report which contained some amazing items. Business was rushed through with a dispatch which the real council might envy. It was unanimously decided to tax pussy cats, twenty five cents per pussy and dogs and cats are also required to conform to the regulation of carrying lights.

Bill Edwards was appointed road master at a salary of $6 per month and required to furnish his own gravel. Robert Alford was appointed Chief of Police and caretaker of cemetery and his request for a stout elm club was granted on motion.

Jack Woodhouse was appointed Fire Chief at a salary of 25 cents per fire, with a deduction of $1.00 for every case of arson. Better street lighting was arranged for the corner of King and Queen Sts., and also Chippewa Ave. The spectators were convulsed with laughter at the burlesque council. At the business session which preceded the council Miss Winifred Payne was elected first vice president.

It was decided to hold a euchre party this week on Thursday, February 5, and a committee was arranged for.

It was also decided to hold a court whist party on February 16, at the last meeting before Lent with prizes and pancakes and real maple syrup. This will be the last meeting before Lent.

2 RHODESIANS SLOW IN PROJECTED UNION

Colonial Secretary Said to be in Opposition to Proposals for Amalgamation.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 3 (By The Canadian Press.—"Despite the enthusiasm felt in Southern Rhodesia for the idea of amalgamation with Northern Rhodesia," says the Cape 'Argus' in an editorial, "the proposals for amalgamation are making very slow progress. A couple of months ago it was announced that at an unofficial conference between members of the two Legislatures, virtual agreement had been reached, and a telegram was dispatched to the Colonial Secretary, Lord Passfield, by the northern representatives, asking him to consider amalgamation.

"Shortly afterwards the Governor of Northern Rhodesia, Sir James Maxwell, landed in Cape Town on his return from England, and took the unusual step of throwing cold water on the proposal and suggesting that Southern Rhodesia's ardent wooing was dictated by the development of the copperfields in the north. Sir James, indeed, has never disguised his hostility. A year ago when the matter was discussed in the Legislative Council he suggested self-government as an alternative ideal, adding that 'in all reasonable probability' self-government would come within a few years.

"It is a little difficult to understand why the Colonial Office should oppose a step which would relieve it of much trouble and responsibility, except on the assumption that it has been piqued by the attacks upon its administration. However that may be, the elected members have cooled off since Sir James's return, and the project seems to have lost some of its driving force.

"At Bulawayo recently W. W. Leggate, Colonial Secretary of Southern Rhodesia, made a strong effort to revive enthusiasm, even going so far as to promise that the northern territory should receive a representation in the joint Legislature, which would in effect give it control. This final throw may very well bring the people of the north into line. But obviously it will not overcome the opposition of the Colonial Secretary and his deputy, which remains as strong and as incomprehensible as ever."

Modern Paper Mulch

One of the most recent developments in the use of paper is a paper felt saturated with asphalt which is used as a mulch paper and is laid on the ground between rows of certain growing crops to prevent the excessive evaporation of soil moisture and to keep down weed growth.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were 745 cattle, 312 calves, 645 hogs, 318 sheep and lambs.

There were 350 stale cattle in addition to the fresh supply at the opening of the market. Opening trade was slow and less than 100 head had gone to the scales up to 11 o'clock. Some fair quality butcher steers sold from $5.75 to $6.25 a cwt. Prices are fairly steady with last week's close with quality considered.

A few good baby beef sold up to $9 a cwt. Milker and springer trade is dull, with prices ranging from $50 to $85. The calf market is firm at $10.50 to $11 for choice vealers, with the odd top selling up to $11.50. Light calves are selling downward to $7 a cwt., and bids on grass calves are $4 to $5 a cwt. The supply of lambs is light and prices are about the same at $8 to $9 a cwt. for fair to good ewes and wethers. Cull lambs are a poor demand, some selling as low as $5 a cwt.

Sheep are a shade easier than last week at $5 to $5.50 for good light butcher kind and downward to $2 a cwt. for culls.

Bids on hogs are steady at $8.50 f.o.b. and $9.50 a cwt., w.o.c. for bacon. Salesmen were holding for $8.75 f.o.b. and $9.75 w.o.c. up to 11 o'clock.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.— Egg prices to country shippers were higher yesterday and the reason given was a better demand and increased consumption, which proved that a drop in prices by retailers stimulates trading generally. Consumers were able to buy extras at 40c this week, which was a reduction of 6c to 8c per dozen, but even this new price gave the retailers a 10c profit.

Country shippers were quoted 25c for extras, 22c for firsts and 18c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, an increase of 2c per dozen. Prices to retailers were steady at 32c to 33c for extras in cartons, 30c to 31c for extras loose, 27c to 28c for firsts, 23c for pullet extras loose, and 21c for seceonds loose.

Fresh Graded and Storage.

Brokers reported a little better tone to the market, with a stronger demand for candled out of sotrage eggs which were quoted at 17½c for extras, 15½c for firsts and 13c for seconds. They also found a fairly good demand for fresh supplies, graded, in free cases, at 29c for extras, 25c for firsts, 22c for pullet extras and 20c for seconds, with odd sales of extras at 30c.

Butter.

The butter market was steady, with a fair demand. Dealers were quoting 31½c to 32c for No. 1 creamery solids, and 30½c to 31c for Co. 2.

Cheese.

Cheese prices were unchanged at 14¼c to 14½c for new large, 14½ to 14¾c for twins and 14¾c to 15c for triplets. Prices to retailers were firm with previous quotations.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Egg prices were higher, while butter, cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Carlot prices of fresh eggs were 1c higher, extras being quoted at 29c to 30c a dozen, and firsts and pullet extras at 25c to 26c. Seconds were unchanged at 20c. Storage firsts, in carlots, gained 1c at 16c, and seconds were unchanged at 14c a dozen. Quotations to retailers were unchanged. Receipts 23,431,508 cases.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized, regraded grassmake, creamery butter in carlots, was unchanged at 32c to 32¼c a pound, and to retailers, solids were 34c and prints 35c a pound. Receipts were 2,059 boxes.

Only 5 boxes of butter were received here yesterday, and prices remained unchanged. Winter white was quoted at 12c and colored at 14½c a pound, and summer cheese at 15½c a pound.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were 75c per 90-pound bulk, and to retailers 85c per 90-pdund bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 4.—All grains darted upward yesterday, impelled by drought reports and by authoritative estimates that feed use of wheat has been much larger than supposed. With forecasts giving no promise of rain or snow, wheat finished at almost the day's top level, and corn rivalled wheat, although summer-like weather has heretofore been construed as enabling feeders to economize corn. I leading unofficial authority estimated that domestic disappearance of wheat for six months was 60,000,000 bushels in excess of last year.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged at 1⅞ up, corn showing 1½ cents advance, oats ⅝ to ⅞ gain, and provisions at 10 cents to a rise of 2.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 4. — May wheat bounded to the 60-cent mark on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. It was the first time since December 16 last that this future managed to gain this mark. In an extremely strong market the two other months made wide advances, closing quotations revealing gains of 2 cents to 2½ cents for the day.

At the final gong May wheat was quoted at 60½ cents per bushel after striking a high of 60⅝ cents around mid-session. The July future closed at 61¾ to 61⅞ cents and October at 63¾ to 63⅞ cents.

The spurt to a higher ground was believed due to increased activity in the export of Canadian wheat. Traders were unable to estimate the amount of grain exported over night, but declared that New York exporters moved some wheat to the United Kingdom.

gan was riding on the front or rear of the sleigh.

McKeown estimated that when he first saw the children they were not more than 15 feet away and coming straight at him

After the accident he picked the injured children up and carried them into a house, telephoning immediately for a doctor. Both were unconscious.

Dolores Johnston said that he jumped out of the truck immediately after the accident. The car was over to the right, off the beaten track He said that the pavement was icy and the truck skidded 18 feet.

Helen Liddell, 9 years old, said that she saw the accident. She was at the corner of Water Street. The children came down from the top of the hill. Witness warned the children as they came down the hill to stop as a car was coming. She said they could have turned off and not go over Water Street. The children had replied that they were going to go across Water Street, and they continued on, she said. She said that the children had been sleighriding on Anson Street since 3.30.

Arthur Fitzgerald, a Smith Township farmer, said he saw the accident. He was proceeding north on Water Street. He said that in his opinion the sleigh ran into the truck. The truck driver could not have done anything to avert the accident, stated Mr. Fitzgerald.

Robert Smith, county constable, who investigated the accident, said that the car had skidded about 48 or 50 feet. He thought that considering the slippery condition of the road that it was very good stopping. The truck's wheels were right on the edge of the right side of the road.

Dr. Murray Fraser, who attended the child, said that death was due to a fractured skull.

The jury consisted of W. Pollard, G. Giroux, E. Rutherford, M. Clancy, W. McDougall, G. Hetherington, G. Quartermaine, W. Easton, F. Young, W. Flannery, foreman, J. Kylie, and W. H. Tedford.

looking for her or trying to go after her. He said he was in the country and was not coming back. I said he would get into trouble if he did not bring her back. He said he was not worrying, and there was no use looking for Mary because I'd never find her. I said I would send the police after him."

His Lorship pointed out that Mrs. O'Neil's statement was not contradicted by the defense. He also referred to the evidence bearing on the events at the ranch house on Sunday night December 28. Robillard told Mrs. O'Neil and those who accompanied her that the girl was not there. Robillard's sister, Mrs. Loucks, who with her husband went with Mrs. O'Neil to Burleigh that night, replied to Robillard that Mary was there and she would have to come home. Robillard then took down a rifle from the wall, and threatened that he was going to spill blood rather than let the girl go. Mr. Justice Raney observed that this evidence was not contradicted by the defense.

Sang on the Trip

In the concluding evidence Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. McIlmoyle stated that on the trip from the city Mary O'Neil did not ask where she was going, she didn't ask anyone to take her home, nor did she cry. Mrs. Drain said the girl was singing during part of the drive.

William Drain of Dummer township said he was employed in cutting wood for Mrs. McIlmoyle on the Burleigh ranch during December.

"I saw Miss O'Neill for the first time at J. Louck's home on Rubidge street. She was sitting on Robillard's knee in the kitchen.

On the drive to Lakefield and the ranch Miss O'Neil sat on Robillard's knee. He had one arm around her and she had an arm behind him. I saw her kiss him several times. There was an old wine jar on the floor of the car between my feet and Robillard's. We used it for filling the radiator of the car. Robillard said his leg was cramped, so I moved the jug over between my feet to make room. There was plenty of room on the seat, but Miss O'Neil did not take advantage of the opportunity to sit on the seat."

Drain related the week-end events at the two adjoining ranch houses. It transpired in his evidence that the rifle which Robillard pointed at Mrs. O'Neil was not loaded. However as a precaution. Drain spiked the gun.

John Loucks, Rubidge street, brother-in-law of Robillard, stated that Mary O'Neil had come to his home quite a number of times She was very much in love with him.

"I heard her say to him that she wanted him to elope with her to Hamilton. I told her to cut that talk out because Robillard was a married man, and I didn't want to hear any more of that talk."

Mary O'Neil, recalled, denied that Loucks had ever discussed Robilard with her.

Mrs. O'Neil was also called to the box again. "When Mr. Loucks heard of the case against Robilard he telephoned to me. I think it was on Friday night and said he wanted me to withdraw the charge. Mr. Loucks said he didn't want to see Robilard go to court because he had a terrible lot of trouble with this man, and he didn't want to see him go back to penitentiary.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1931

A REMARKABLE SHOWING.

The manner in which the taxpayers of Peterborough met their obligations last year is gratifying, of course, to the members of the municipal government, and it should be a matter of pride in the community generally.

The fact that after a lean year when business and industrial conditions were consistently bad, this city is able to report that almost 92 per cent. of its taxes were collected in 1930 and that the collections, despite the depression, only fell off by 1.76 per cent., is certainly a condition from which satisfaction can be derived.

There has been much said about the success of Toronto tax officials in gathering in 84.19 per cent. of the taxes on the rolls, which has been hailed by the Toronto press as a remarkable achievement in a year of depression.

Peterborough's success in garnering 7.79 per cent. more in proportion than did the Queen City is therefore the more notable.

When the statement is contrasted with that presented in a number of other Ontario cities, notably Oshawa, there is still more cause for satisfaction.

The simple truth is that Peterborough is weathering a period of stress and depression in remarkably fine style, and the city treasurer's report as to tax collections is merely another evidence of that fact.

THE INSPECTORS' REPORTS.

There is one feature of the new system by which county school inspectors are appointed by the Provincial Government that many people believe should be corrected.

Under the old plan the inspectors made reports each year to the county council and thus a large amount of interesting information on school conditions was made public for the benefit not only of members of the council but of the people generally.

Now, however, the inspectors deal directly with the Government and are not required to submit their reports to the county body.

The local inspectors, Messrs. Downey and Copp, did, it is true, make verbal reports at the recent session of the Peterborough County Council, but there is no obligation on their part to do so, and in many counties nothing was heard from the school inspectors, whose review of the year's work and suggestions for the improvement of the conditions are forwarded directly to the Department of Education.

It is felt that the inspectors' reports should be available to the public, something that could be easily made possible if the department were to issue instructions that these officials should continue, as under the old plan, to bring their annual statements to the attention of the county council and thus to the notice of the people generally.

THE MYSTERIOUS MR. BENNETT.

Premier Bennett is coming under fire for having preserved such a mysterious silence in regard to his "unofficial" visit to the United States.

The opinion has been expressed in more than one quarter that the people of Canada are entitled to know the objects of his journey across the international line, and to be told of the matters discussed with President Hoover and members of his Cabinet.

No one is deceived by the suggestion that the visit was merely one of courtesy.

Mr. Bennett has too many problems on his hands to permit him to get away from Ottawa except on business of major importance, and it is accepted as certain that the matters discussed in Washington could properly be placed in that category.

The Premier, of course, may make the defence that big business executives do not advertise their movements or go into important conferences headed by a brass band and an army of reporters and press photographers, and that in keeping secret the details of his mission to the United States he is merely following the methods of big business.

Mr. Bennett should, however, remember that he is a public character—in other words, that he is in politics—and that game is not always played according to business methods.

The public does not like mysteries except in the form of detective stories or film plays.

FEWER GRAND JURIES.

Although the local grand jury in its presentment made no reference to the suggestion that grand jury panels might in the interest of economy be reduced from, four to two or possibly one each year, the point stressed by Mr. Justice Raney at the opening of the Assizes has undoubtedly impressed many people as decidedly worth while.

There are not a few who would do away with grand juries completely, regarding them as an archaic institution that might well be scrapped without interfering in the least with the efficient administration of justice.

Yet Mr. Justice Raney's tribute to the useful purpose served by grand juries will be supported by a large measure of popular opinion.

The inspection of public institutions, if properly carried out, is an important duty, and there are many other matters upon which grand juries have an opportunity of declaring themselves, and the Assize Court judge pointed out their presentment "usually carries a good deal of weight."

The suggestion that such juries should only be called together once or twice a year would seem to solve the problem of retaining the institution, and at the same time materially lessening the cost.

Conditions in local institutions are not likely to change a great deal in a year, and an annual check-up would seem to be all that is necessary in the interest of the public.

Mr. Justice Raney usually has something helpful as well as interesting to bring forward, as his present visit and his useful suggestions have unmistakably shown.

The Labor party slogan in Britain seems to be, "We may be down, but we're never out."—Oshawa Times.

A FIVE-YEAR PLAN.

"Let us make up our minds that five years from to-night we will call Dr. Manion back to Montreal and make him a present of this system, free of the need of financial assistance from the Government."—Montreal Star.

These challenging words were uttered by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, at a great banquet of directors and executive officials on Thursday night. Sir Henry seems to have a happy faculty of choosing dynamic slogans.

The Five-Year Plan of Russia is a matter of world-wide interest, although Russia practically admits to-day that her Five-Year Plan is an exhilirating stimulus to super-human effort rather than a practical economic task. Yet no one can measure the enormous driving force of that slogan in the peaceful revolution of Russia.

Since Russia began her five-year plan new cities have been built, giant factories and farms have been constructed and a whole continent has thrilled with the echoes of the tapping of new sources of creative energy.

Sir Henry Thornton has already inspired the ranks of the Canadian National to a loyalty that has achieved marvellous results. It is typical of him to display the fullest measure of courage and cheerfulness in times of depression. Five years is a short time in the span of human life, or in the progressive achievements of a great railway system. Yet few will contest the truth of the statement that on the course followed by the Government in the development of its railway system a large share of the measure of Canada's prosperity depends.

If Russia is succeeding it is due to an almost fanatic belief of her leaders in the justice of the cause, and in the confidence of her converts to effect a great revolution by the power they themselves can generate.

Canada will watch with sympathy the efforts of the employees of the Canadian National, from the chief executive to the humblest trackman, to carry out the five-year plan which Sir Henry Thornton has launched so confidently.—St. Catharines Standard.

LIP SERVICE TO ECONOMY.

(From the New York Times)

Addressing a meeting of London business men, Lord Grey of Fallodon touched the root of the system of unproductive extravagant expenditure and overwhelming taxation which, as Sir Robert Horne said on the same occasion, "is rotting the character of our people":

> The competition of all parties in spending public money must be stopped. It is a danger to our own prosperity.

The Liberals began the game. The Conservatives found it to their advantage to play it. The Laborites have played it harder than both. All parties are to blame. At the last general election each bid against the other. This London meeting was planned as the opening of a campaign all over the United Kingdom for economy. It was advertised as "non-political." The Labor leaders stayed away, and properly. It was the wastefulness of the Labor Government that moved the indignation of speakers and audience. Certain Labor policies, actual or proposed, were denounced. Since that Government remains in power by the connivance of the majority of the Liberals in the House of Commons, the pretended Liberal passion for economy—and the Liberal program is a project of spending—manifests itself in curious ways.

Whatever business men may think, has any great change come over the Conservatives and Liberals since that day in December when Sir John Davidson, who has sat in two Conservative Cabinets, moved?—

> That, in the opinion of this House, it is of primary importance in the interest of the nation that public expenditure should be reduced and every economy effected, with the corollary that the burden of direct taxation be lessened thereby, giving to trade and industry that relief and confidence which is essential to the general prosperity and welfare of the people.

Where were the Conservatives, if economy is their policy Where were the Liberals? The attendance of both was not enough to furnish the requisite forty members, and the resolution was "counted out." We have no disposition to behold the mote that is in our brother's eye and not to consider the beam that is in our own. For years we have read those affecting dedications to economy, those solemn denunciations of wasteful and unnecessary expenditure, that gem our national party platforms. Republicans and Democrats went through the usual flourish in 1928. Contrast the performance with the promise.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

CHAPTER TWENT-ONE.

Jane Shoots an Arrow.

A few days later Tony, all in white and very goodlooking, lay in a long deck chair beside Marty and said with some heat: "He's an insufferable young brute. Why don't you send him home?"

"I'd rather send you home," Marty's little smile held a hint of Mona Lisa. "Rickey's always thinking of me. You are always thinking of another woman."

He did not deny it. He simply warned her, "You'll have trouble with that young poet. If you try to drop him some day, he'll explode."

"Perhaps I shan't try to drop him," Marty told him.

"You will when the next one comes along."

"The next?"

"There's always another for you, Marty. And there always will be."

"How wonderful. It sounds like a funeral procession." She laughed and sat up. "There he is now."

Rickey came toward them. He, too, was in white and good-looking. Tony knew that the thing which attracted Marty was not Rickey's likeness, but his difference from all the other men she knew. There was the glamour of boyish beauty, of temperament which swung him swiftly from one mood to another the charm and wit of his lighter moments the reminder when he was serious of the young romantics of other days.

When he reached them, the boy gave Tony a curt greeting. "I've something to read to you, Marty," he said.

"If it's poetry," she told him, "it's too early in the morning."

He flushed. "It's almost noon."

"I haven't eaten anything. I must eat luncheon before I let my brain work."

Rickey stood looking down at her. "What makes you say things like that? You don't mean them. You want to hear what I have to read. You know you want it, but you never shall—" He tore the sheet in two and tossed it over the rail, then strode away.

Marty's eyes were clouded. "I've hurt his feelings," she said.

"What if you have?"

"It's like hurting a child."

"You are not usually so tender of the men who love you."

"I know. But in this case it isn't a question of the man who loves me, but of the man I love."

His quick exclamation showed his astonishment. "You don't mean you are going to marry him?"

She shook her head. "I don't know what I mean." Then after a pause, "Run along, Tony mio, and I'll send for him and soothe his ruffled feelings."

"You really want me to go?"

"Yes. I'm sorry. I know it is hard on your vanity."

"I haven't any vanity. Nobody loves me."

"Not even Virginia?"

"I wish she did." He rose and looked down at her. "I'll leave you now to your young poet. Remember if anything happens, I warned you."

But Marty would not be warned. Tony saw the pair of them that night under the moon—Marty wrapped in silver, Rickey at her feet, adoring.

Jane Bleecker saw them, too, and said to her son, sharply: "Marty ought to be ashamed of herself, leading Rickey Oliphant on."

"Perhaps he's leading her on."

"What do you mean?"

"She's in love with him."

"Marty—in love?"

"Yes."

"Nonsense."

"You may call it that, Midget, but she told me so herself."

"She'll never marry him."

"You can't be too sure what Marty may do. She's her own mistress."

Jane digested that in silence. All her life she had meant that Tony should marry Marty. She did not mean at this late day to have her plans frustrated.

So after her son had gone in, and Marty, and everybody except Rickey, who learned on the rail and lookedat the moon hanging low in the sky like a lantern, Jane still remained.

As for as Rickey was concerned, she might not have been there. Only a few minutes ago Marty had left him and he was in a heaven of his own She loved him—!

Then suddenly, Jane Bleecker said, "For Heaven's sake, Rickey, stop looking at the moon."

He turned to her. "I thought everybody had gone to bed."

"Everybody has except the two of us. But why sleep on a night like this?"

Rickey came toward her. "You feel it, too? The enchantment?"

"Yes. We'll all be going north soon and you will be cool and calm and sensible."

"I shall never be sensible."

"Sit down," Jane ordered, with a little gesture toward the seat beside her. "Every year," she began in a musing voice, "we come down here in Marty's yacht and have a few weeks of hallucinations, and when we go back we wonder how it happened."

Rickey asked idly, "What do you mean by hallucinations?"

"Oh, I flirt and Marty flirts, and we fall in love and fall out again."

She had his attention now. "Marty has never been in love," he said with a sort of tense eagerness, "until now. All the rest—were—what did you call them—hallucinations."

Jane's cool laugh matched her crystal beads. "She tells all of them that. It's a part of the game—to tell the last man there has never been another."

Rickey's face was turned toward her. "I wish you wouldn't say things like that of Marty."

"Oh, if you want evidence, there's enough of it. Ask the man at the wheel how many nights she has sat late under the moon."

"Why are you telling me this?"

"I don't want you to be hurt."

He laughed, such a joyous laugh that Jane was startled. "How can I be hurt when I have her promise?"

"Her promise?"

"Yes, to marry me."

Jane stared at him incredulously. "Of all the mad things," she said.

"We are both mad, I think. But it's a beautiful madness."

Jane stood up. "You are two beautiful fools, if you want my opinion."

"I'm not sure that we want it," was Rickey's assured response, "if it's cynical and all that. Marty says she's tired of her world. She wants to live in the world I create for her."

"After you're married," said the practical Jane, "she'll live in your world for about five minutes."

"She'll live in it forever." Rickey's tone was rapturous.

Jane went to bed after that. She had not shot all the arrows from her bow. She had always meant that Marty should marry Tony.

And she still meant it.

The next morning as she sat in her cabin writing letters, Tony came to her. "I'm leaving this afternoon, Midget."

"My dear boy, why?"

"I've got to get back. Come with me."

"Go with you—"?

"Yes. Dad's a bit lonely. I wish you and he might—"

"Might what?" as he hesitated.

"Might see more of each other."

"Tony, we'd be bored to extinction."

"You shouldn't be. Dad's splendid."

"He's too much of a superman. He towers too high above me."

So that was it? Jane's smallness resented the bigness of old Anthony. Her cramped soul set side by side with his free mind and spirit—! Tony sighed as he left her. Hearthstones! Poor Dad!

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

Tony Makes a Gestore.

When Tony came at last to Annapolis, he was aware for the first time in his life of a feeling of great loneliness. It was a new experience to be denied what he wanted. And now he was crying for the moon.

As he walked through the streets of the old town that night, he thought of Marty's cool glitter, of his mother's insincerities, and of Virginia's simplicity and straightforwardness. What a difference it would make in his future if he could marry her. How hard he would try to reach up, to find at his own fireside what old Anthony had missed.

He stopped in front of the Oliphant house, and as he leaned on the gate looking up at it, he saw a light coming down the stairs. There were windows on the stairway and the illumination made golden rectangles of the closely drawn shades. The light traveled to the drawing-room and stopped. Tony watched it for a long time, wondering if he should ring the bell and ask who was there in the empty house. His heart almost missed a beat as he thought that Virginia might fiave come back. The light went out at last. The front door opened and a man emerged. The glow from the street lamp fell full upon him. There was no mistaking the grace of the slender figure, the alert lift of the head. It was Michael McMillan!

What was he doing in that house? Some instinct held Tony silent. Michael walked up the street, unchallenged, his quick footsteps making a sharp sound on the rough-laid bricks.

Tony went home to toss and tumble. In his dreams he saw Michael going up and down the stairs. Virginia's house! What did it mean? What did it mean? It was dawn before he slept.

The next day in the late afternoon, he went out on the river. April was burgeoning in pale beauty. There was an amethystine haze over the woods as the buds grew big on the branches. There were other buds crimson as drops of blood In the marshes among the dried reeds and rushes, bits of emerald flashed as the water plants shed their sheaths of brown. Tony's boat, cutting into the serene surface of the Severn made little sound as he left it to drift with the current

He came at last to the strip of beach, where, the preceding October, Michael McMillan had seen Virginia Oliphant lift her arms to the sunset. On the strip of beach a man was standing. His hat was off and the wind ruffled his hair. Michael!

Tony started his engine and steered his boat toward the low pier. At the noise of the quick explosions, Michael turned, and Tony called to him, "Come on out, the river's wonderful."

Michael ran down to the landing place. "What luck! I'd like nothing better."

As they pushed off Tony asked, "What on earth are you doing in Annapolis? Hunting authors? Or getting a rest from them?"

"I wish I might find one." Michael leaned back lazily and took off his hat. "Do you see those sandpipers, Tony, on that little beach? Not many of them left in these degenerate days."

Tony was not interested in sandpipers. "Rickey Oliphant is doing a book," he vouchsafed, "with Marty Van Duyne in it. Rickey goes mooning about the yacht like a young calf. But Marty calls him a tragic young god."

"He is tragic—a boy like that. With great talents, but without the blance to use them properly."

"He is not like his sister. Virginia has a level head."

Tony tried to say it casually. But both men were aware when Virginia's name was introduced of a quickening of their pulses. It was a significant moment and they knew it.

Shadows were falling across the water, dyeing it deep purple. To Michael, trailing his hand in it, it seemed like seemed like wine of some heavy vintage. "The boy's a selfish little beast," he said, "and Virginia makes him so by her unselfishness."

"There was a lot of talk about him in the town when he lived here. But everybody blamed the father, on eccentric old aristocratic if there ever was one."

Michael brought his hand up out of the water. It seemed strange that it was white. It should, he felt, have been stained with the purple wine. "Old families produce eccentrics," he said. "The boy shows it; the girl escaped."

They had come to the bay—a wide stretch of pale gold under the rising moon. A boat going down from Baltimore showed a line of twinkling lights. There were lights, too, above shoals and shallows, shining like stars.

Tony, shanding up and steering, his hair blown back by the wind, was like some legendary figure—Lohengrin, perhaps, or a fair-haired Viking, strong and splendid.

"I saw you," he said, suddenly, looking down at Michael, "last night, coming out of the Oliphant house."

"Did you? I've bought it."

Tony showed his surprise. "Bought it?"

"Yes."

"Does Virginia know?"

"That it's mine? I haven't told her."

"What are you going to do with it?"

"Heaven knows," Michael laughed, and was silent, for how could he tell Tony the whole story? How he had come down seeking Virginia—how he had not dared ask questions openly, but had found that the general impression was that she had joined her brother on the Van Duyne yacht. Grogan had given him the Van Duyne address. "We've been instructed to send everything to the brother," he said.

tIt was from Grogan that he had secured he keys of the old house. He had roamed through its rooms, fitting it out with things Virginia would want if she were here. If she were here? She was in spirit, going up and down with him, into the old kitchen and climbing to th attic where they looked down together from the dormer window to the garden. She roamed with him through the great rooms on the first floor, and always her hair was a burning halo and her eyes deep wells of blue.

And because she was there he had bought the house. No one else should have it. No one else should banish that bright spirit from the place where it belonged. Some day he, Michael, would find her and bring her back and tell her he had loved her from the moment he had seen her going up the stairs.

He was startled out of his reverie by Tony's sudden remark, "I saw Virginia before I went to Florida."

"Then she didn't go with Rickey?"

"You thought she did?"

Michael said stiffly, "I haven't her address."

"I came on her by chance. I'd tell you where, but she bound me to secrecy."

"I see—" dryly.

"I am telling you the truth, McMillan. Oh, I want her badly enough. But I'm not so small as to play the game unfairly. You love her and I love her. They say the best man wins. Well—you've won."

Michael spoke sharply, "What do you mean?"

Tony waited for a moment as he turned the boat in a wide semi-circle toward home, then he said, "I asked her to marry me. I took her up to Derekdale and showed her all I had to give her. And she told me she didn't love me, that it was you she loved. She's not the kind that changes."

Michael tried to say something, but found he couldn't. Tony was more than ever like a shining knight. Michael thought of the Bronze Knight on the stairs—verite sans peur—truth without fear. Tony had made a splendid gesture. Not every man could have done it.

At last Michael found words: "I shall never forget this, Bleecker."

"I've done nothing," Tony said, and meant it. His talk with his father had done things to him. He wanted a wife who loved him. Marriage without that would be dust and ashes.

Undergoes Operation

Booth Tarkington, noted novelist, expects to see again. Reports from the Wilmer Institute of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, are that his latest eye operation is a success. The author may have to wear glasses permanently, but it is anticipated that the writer's vision will be restored enough to permit him to continue his works.

A Thought

WISE WORDS

The certain way to be cheated is to fancy onself more cunning than others.

Nothing is degrading which a high and graceful purpose ennobles, and offices the most menial cease to be menial the moment they are wrought in love.

What services are rendered around the bed of sickness which else considered mean, become at once holy and quite inalienable rights.

To smooth the pillow, to proffer nourishment, to soothe or obey the fancies of the delirious will to sit for hour as a mere sentinel of the fancies of the delirious will, to sit for hours as a mere sentinel of the feverish sleep, these things are suddenly erected, by their relation to hope and lige, into sacred privileges.

"Taking up one's cross means simply," writes Ruskin, "that you are to go to the road which you see to be straight one, carrying whatever you find is given you to carry as well and stoutly as you can, without making faces or calling people to come and look at you."

Born on February 4th, your chief characteristics are straight-forwardness pluck, modesty and a sense of humor. You have a hot temper, but you do not bear ill-will against anybody. If you are hit on the jaw, you hit back on the spot, and then forget about it—no backbiting. You call a spade a spade on all occasions, and you are never afriad to express your very strong convictions.

You are inclined to give the casual observer the impression that you are easy-going. As a matter of fact, you take life very seriously, and when things are not going quite right, you worry a lot. You keep your troubles to yourself, however, not even sharing them with your family. It is your good fortune to be able to see a bit of humour in everything, and many a tear has been forced back by a sincere laugh.

Your homing instinct is very highly developed, and you are loath to spend your leisure hours away from your own fireside. You would be a home-sick traveller, and one who would make odious comparisons with the things abroad and those "back home." You dislike publicity and you never seek the front benches, no matter how deserving you may be to sit there.

WALL STREET LIST CONTINUES LOGGY

Mid-week Business Statistics Fail to Provide Impetus for the Advance.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. (CP)—Bull cliques, grown impatient with the watchful waiting attitude of recent sessions, experimentally put forward some of their favorites in to-day's stock market, but the list as a whole remained loggy.

The mid-week business statistics failed to provide impetus to the advance, but were perhaps a little more favorable than otherwise. The bond market maintained its better tone of the previous session, and while the prospect of soldier bonus legislation still clouded the security outlook, the nervousness of the past week seemed largely to have subsided.

Merchandising shares made conspicious headway partly in response to Woolworth's January sales report, showing a gain of 4½ percent over the like period of 1930. Woolworth, Sears Roebuck, Mongomery Ward and Best made gains of around a point and Macy sold up more than 2. A few issues were pushed up 2 to 3 points.

Moisture Lack Leads Chicago Grain Gains

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. (CP)—Official confirmation of need of moisture through out the entire winter wheat area led to fresh upturns in grain prices to-day. Government reports suggested danger that a sharp fall in temperature would cause crop damage. Opening at ¼ cent off to ⅜ up, wheat afterward showed general gains. Corn started ¼ 1 1-8 higher and subsequently hid unchanged to the initial range.

WIND DELAYS SPEED TRIAL

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4.—High wind to-day prevented Captain Malcolm Campbell, British race car driver, from attempting to lower the world's automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour on the ocean speedway. He hopes to try tomorrow if conditions permit.

OIL SECTION REMAINS DULL

British American and International Nickel Both Drop Small Amounts.

NORANDA UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb 4. (CP)—Toronto Ecahnge Trading during the course of the first two hours to-day was very dull.

Bell Telephone and Deforest Crosley both attained new highs for 1931. Oils were dull as a group with British American and International Pete both dropping small amounts, while Imperial rose 1-8 to 17¾. These were the only stocks traded up until the noon hour.

International Nickel and Noranda were unchanged to fractionally higher at different intervals throughout. At the end of the second hour Noranda was up 5 cents to 17.15. Nickel went unchanged.

Brazilian Traction and Canada Dregе were the only others in the industrial group to show gains while Massey Harris, Walkers and Page Hersey Tubes all sold lower. The latter was subject to a mild run of profit taking and as off a full point to 87. The company nmade public their earnings statement yesterday, and it was quit favorable.

Wineries and Imperial Tobacco on the curb alternated, the former showing a gain while the latter registered a small deficit.

MONTREAL BUTTER

MONTREAL, Que., Feb.—4 (CP.) While Unites Stated butter prices have been on the toboggan since last summer, Canadian butter prices have been advancing. Last summer No. 1 butter at Montreal was selling at a low of 26½ center per lb. To-day No. 1, butter on the Montreal market is 32 cents to 32½ cents per lb.

Higher protective duties are responsible for the strength of the Canadian market. The duty on United States butter is now 14 cents per lb.

While more than 90,000 people went from Europe last year to settle in Argentina only about 2,000 from North, Central and South America did so.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Reports of continued dry weather over many States of the American winter wheat belt was the chief feature in the wheat markets yesterday, the shorts being disturbed in their position and were forced to cover. There was also some buying of wheat by Chicago interests a little early buying by Continental houses and fair investment buying coming through commission houses, while offerings were none too liberal until top levels were reached. The market opened a fraction higher and prices advanced 1½ cents above the close Monday night, from which point there was a pratical setback, but the market again rallied into new highs on the movement, scoring gains of 2 1-8 to 2 3-8 cents for the day.

There is little doubt but what the bulk of the buying was short covering which will probably leave the market technically at least, in a weaker position. Export sales over-night were moderate, sea-board estimating the total at about 400,000 bushels. While the report of dry conditions existing over large areas of the American wheat belt, both winter and spring, was somewhat alarming, the danger is in no snow covering in midwestern states in winter, and good generous rains will be absolutely necessary before spring growth begins. The season is undoubtedly bad and the crop in danger any time.

Coarse grains—There was nothing of particular feature to these markets except that prices were all sharply higher, largely following the upturn in wheat. There was a little short covering and offerings were very light throughout. The cash demand was quiet with only the odd car changing hands for domestic purposes.

Liverpool cables due 7-8 to 1 1-8 higher based on Winnipeg.

WEST INDIES TRADE LOOKING TO CANADA

Big Development in the Fruit and Vegetable Trade Expected in Near Future.

PORT-OF-SPAIN, British West Indies, Feb. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—"Canada is expecting a huge trade development with the British West Indies in fruit and vegetables," says The Trinidad Guardian editorially. "Last year the Dominion imported a million dollars worth of tomatoes from the United States of America and Mexico. Next year it is believed the whole supply will come from the Caribbean, with a consequent reduction in price to the Canadian consumer of about 40 per cent and, of course, considerable benefit to the producers in these islands.

"There is also a good demand in Canada for other West Indian vegetables such as cucumbers, egg plants, carrots and string beans. Under the provisions of the new Dominion tariff, West Indian vegetables are admitted free and it now remains for enterprising growers to walk into the door which has been thrown wide open for their reception.

"Several of the smaller islands are making active preparations to take advantage of the opportunities offered in the Canadian market. In tomato production a splendid example has been set by Montserrat, for example, where a central packing house has been established and already has achieved practical results. A recent report states that tomates were accepted from a hundred growers on three days a week, in spite of great difficulties in handling, preparing and packing for the market. These difficulties included the lack of cold storage facilities in the island. Shipments were made to Canada every fortnight and owing to care in accepting at the packing house only first class fruit no complaints were received.

"Canada has done its part so far as tariffs are concerned, and business interests in the Dominion are displaying unprecedented interest in the possibilities of diverting to the West Indies some of the patronage which now goes to the United States of America, and introducing to their own public new agricultural products from the colonies."

Trinidad is using less Canadian flour than formerly; at least, less flour (by 5,500 bags) was imported from the Dominion in 1930 than in 1929. The Canadian Trade Commissioner to the British West Indies, Lester S. Glass, in an interview with The Trinidad Guardian, says he thinks Trinidad housewives are abandoning the use of flour as a luxury.

But one Trinidad baker says that his importation of Canadian flour in the past year was increased by nearly 100 per cent. He says other bakers and biscuit manufacturers are using large quantities of English flour.

Peterboro Is Chosen For Plowing Match

TORONTO, Ont., February 4 (C. P.). — The annual meeting of the Ontario Plowmen's Association opened here to-day and the report on the International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery demonstration formed the major part of to-day's early session.

It was intimated at to-day's meeting that Peterborough district would be chosen for this year's "International." Hon. Dr. Monteith, Provincial Minister of Public Works, and Denton Massey, were the two principal speakers at to-day's luncheon.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR DOMINION

De Forest Radio Corporation Announces Acquisition of Norge Refrigerator Firm.

MANUFACTURING RIGHTS.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The announcement was made to-day by Major James E. Hahn, President of De Forest Radio Corporation, of the formation of a new subsidiary company to be called the Norge Corporation of Canada Limited, This company will manufacture and sell electrical refrigerators in Canada.

This announcement follows the successful conclusion of negotiations with the Norge Corporation of Detroit, a unit of the Borge-Warner Corporation of Chicago, a $33,000,000 concern. All patent manufacturing and selling rights have been secured. It is anticipated that operations will commence immediately A distributor and dealer organization will be set up for the merchandising of both domestic and commercial electrical refrigeration units from coast to coast.

The capital of this new company is owned entirely by De Forest Corporation and an interlocking directorate has been set up. Major Hahn is Chairman of the Board. The other officers are as follows: President and General Manager, Mr. D. H. Pollitt, Vice-president, A. L. Ainsworth, Secretary-Treasurer, J. W. Peart.

Interviewed upon this new development, Major Hahn made the following statement:

"The creation of the Norge Corporation of Canada is in accordance with our announced policy of diversification in the electrical industry. In December we established the Hammond Company of Canada Limited, for the manufacture of electrical clocks which, together with the radio and refrigerator units, now makes three associated enterprises.

"In instituting this new venture we feel that a large market exists in Canada to-day for the sale of electrical refrigerators. The Norge product has a wide and favourable acceptance in the United States and is a mechanism of proven worth. With ample financial resources and wide research facilities the permanence and efficiency of their products is assured. The experience of our company in the merchandising of specialty products will, I feel, be invaluable in marketing the products of the Norge Corporation of Canada, Limited.

"We are particularly fortunate in having Mr. D. H. Pollitt as president and general manager of the new company. Mr. Pollitt is known throughout Canada for his merchandising ability, amply testified by his record as general manager of De Forest Radio Corporation. His knowledge and abilities especially suit him for the management of this new enterprise.

"The Norge Corporation of Canada will commence manufacturing in Toronto at an early date. In line with the De Forest Radio Corporation policy, only Canadian labour will be employed and Canadian materials will be used wherever possible."

HIGHER TONE ON MINE MART

Strengthening Movement Among the Higher-priced Golds Gives Improved Appearance.

GENERAL LIST DULL.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. (CP)—A strengthening movement among higher-priced golds gave the mining board an improved appearance in the forenoon session, though balance of the list displayed an irregular trend in dull turnover.

McIntyre and Lake Shore were strong spots, former gaining three-quarters to $23 and the latter 30 to 326.5. Hollinger advanced 10 to $8.35, Dome and Mining Corp., 5 apiece to $10.30 and $1.85, respectively, and Wright-Hargreaves and Vipond a cent or 2 each. Teck Hughes failed to respond easing 5 to $7.10.

Waite-Ackerman was higher in the base metal group, gaining 15 to $1.9. Hudson Bay dropped a like amount to $4.60 and Norand and International Nickel were just holding. White Lake and Abana were easy. Nipissing at $1.40, was off 10.

Oils were dull and practically unchanged, Imperial, up 30 to $17.5, Showing the only interesting movement.

Czechoslovakia now has 250 football fields, and 1,345 tennis courts.

HUMPTY DUMPTY

Many inquiries have been made as to the authorship of a poem signed "W. T. White" which appeared in the Wall St. Journal and was promptly copied by financial publications all over the country. The author is now revealed as Sir Thomas White, of Toronto, former finance minister of Canada. The story goes that he wrote the verses while sick in bed. As to that, a Toronto man commented: "If he can write as gaily when he's sick, what couldn't he do when he's well?" At any rate, a prominent Toronto banker sent the poem down to New York and it has been widely circulated. A recent letter from a Toronto financier in England revealed the fact that it is being quoted there, and it is said that a Canadian life insurance company is issuing 568 000 copies. Here it is:

Humpty Dumpty sat on the wall,
Humpty Dumpty got a great fall.
All Morgan's money and Henry Ford's cars
Can't put Humpty Dumpty together again.
What made Humpty Dumpty fall?
Nobody knows for certain at all;
Some say the cause was the stock market crash,
And the call which the brokers sent out for more cash,
While others say Humpty had started to fall,
Before the crash and before the call,
But nobody knows for certain at all.

Some think Humpty was filled up with gas,
And thus it was that it came to pass,
Inflated with credit, high prices and rent,
And call-loan interest at twenty per cent,
With watered stock and no-par shares,
And bull propaganda that frightened the bear
With high-pressure selling throughout, the whole nation,
Instalment-plan buying and goods saturation,
Humpty, they say, with all this inflation
Just naturally burst and fell from the wall,
But nobody knows for certain at all.

Some say that Humpty had lived far too high
On Good Times cake and Prosperity pie,
Had too much to spend and too much to eat,
Causing surplus production of cotton and wheat
Of silver and copper and sugar and meat,
Of things to see and hear and drive
Radios and motor Cars—sakes alive!
'Twas little wonder he didn't thrive
And so got sick and fell from the wall,
But nobody knows for certain at all.

Can Humpty be put together again?
So far all efforts have been in vain,
But everybody is doing his best,
President Hoover and all the rest,
Captains of industry, financiers,
Doctors, lawyers and engineers,
Politicians and journalists,
Preachers, professors, economists,
Efficiency experts and psychologists,
To work the baffling puzzle out
And they'll succeed without a doubt,
But when they'll get him back on the wall
Nobody knows for certain at all.

Wellman Rink Wins 1st Half Of Schedule

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Next summer's navigation program on the new Welland Canal is outlined in a statement issued by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals. From the opening of the season boats similar to those in use last year will be permitted through the canal. After May 24 it is expected the canal will be able to handle larger boats and after July 1 Lake vessels of all sizes will be able to pass through.

The statement follows:—

"The Department is receiving so many requests from marine men, insurance brokers and underwriters interested in the operation of the Welland Ship Canal for information as to the use of the new canal next season, loading depths, etc., that it is considered advisable to make the following announcement of the expectations of the Department with respect to the work:—

"On the opening of navigation about the middle of April it is intended to continue to allow the same size of boats and same draughts as was allowed through the canal at the close of navigation last Autumn; namely, present St. Lawrence canal-sized boats up to a maximum draught of 18 feet.

Increase Size After May 24

"By about May 24, it is expected that the progress of the contractors on the dredging work will permit the passage of boats up to a length of 45l feet, with a maximum draught of 11 feet.

"Should the progress of the contractors continue as expected, it is hoped to be able by July 1, to permit Lake vessels of all sizes to pass through the canal, with a maximum draught of 20 feet, which is at the present time the restricting depth of the channels between Lake Superior and Lake Erie. The minimum navigable depth of the new canal will be 20 feet, and consideration remains to be given the question as to whether the official inauguration of the new canal shall take place on July 1 with the advent of the maximum Upper Lake draught, or later, on the actual completion of the dredging of the canal channels to 25 feet."

Palpitation Of The Heart Nerves Were All Gone

Miss Rose Griffin, Ashern, Man., writes:—"About five years ago I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, caused by a shock, and my nerves were all gone, and I could not sleep. I read about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and decided to try them. After I had taken three boxes I was feeling fine again. I think they are a wonderful remedy, and wish all others who suffered as I did would give them a trial."

The Extra Cough Help Extra In Power And Price

Creomulsion is a super-help for coughs from colds. It is for deep coughs where you dare not risk a weak help. Seven major helps are embodied in it, including the best known to medical science.

The creosote is blended, emulsified and palatable. It is to soothe the membranes and combat the germs. It presents the world's best help for coughs of this kind in a pleasant form.

There are white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. All the greatest helps in one, but with no narcotic. Despite all its power and efficiency, it is harmless to a child.

Some coughs call for one help, some another. Nobody can tell. So we combine the best in Creomulsion to be safe.

Creomulsion costs $1.25—a little more than lesser helps. But all druggists guarantee it and return the full price to anyone not satisfied.

It may be too good for your cough. A lesser help might serve. But is it wise to take the risk when coughs are danger signals? Anyway, a cough from a cold which hangs on calls for this super-help. Do the best men know, so be sure.

District Churches

TRENT RIVER

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—Rev. W. R. Archer, of the United Church, chose his text on Sunday afternoon from Hebrews 32.32—"But I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted strengthen thy brethren."

Rev. Mr. Archer in opening his sermon said, "A man may have conviction and refuse to act by it. Faith and conviction are closely related and the later is the very life blood of the moral life of our country. Quench not the Spirit but yield your heart to Him. When we have done this we have done the greatest thing in life. No dynamo yet created has more power than the spirit of conviction, and are we going to let the convicting power go to waste?"

FENELLA UNITED CHURCH

FENELLA, Feb. 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. W. R. Paton, of Fenella United Church, selected his text on Sunday evening from Jeremiah 8: 22, "Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? Why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?"

"Jeremiah, cahed the weeping prophet, was a man with a delicately sensitive nature, a profound attachment to the cause of God and a deep and patriotic love for his country and his fellow countrymen. It was his lot to be living at a time when the children of Israel had fallen into most fearful apostacy. They had strayed far away from God. His heart goes out to them in love and pity. Oh, that they might go and be healed by the healing balm of Him. Who can forgive every iniquity and heal every disease. He compares sin to a disease of the body. Sin resembles disease because it has its seat in the very heart and citadel of man's life.

Sin is like disease because if allowed to run its course it will eventually prove fatal. Sin is that disease of the soul which if allowed free play will bring about its destruction by separating it from God. Men can be constantly guilty of the great sin of indifference toward God and yet be entirely satisfied with themselves.

"Let us note the similarity between the balm of Gilead and the healing remedy of Our Lord Jesus Christ. The balm of Gilead was a resinous substance which flowed from the balsam tree of Palestine and was valuable because of its healing qualities. The tree, although ordinary in appearance was much sought after because of its healing ointment. Jesus Christ was the ordinary Nazarene, the carpenter, but He attracted the multitudes because of His power to heal, not only physical maladies, but sickness of man's soul.

"The balsam tree had to be wounded before a healing power was manifested and Jesus Christ was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities. We thank God that Jesus Christ has become our Saviour, that by his stripes we are healed and Who can make us fit to enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Are So Popular.

They are Invaluable as a Family Medicine as Well as a Preventive and a Help for all Kidney Ailments.

Ennsdale, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Special).—There are two things certain in this world. One is that everybody is liable at some time or other to an attack of Kidney trouble, the other is that Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve all forms of Kidney derangements, even when all other remedies have failed. Still more proof of what Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing is furnished by Mrs. John McPhail, a respected resident of this place. She writes:—"My back was very painful indeed. I got some Dodd's Kidney Pills and before long 't was better. My little boy has been sick quite a lot. He suffered with involuntary urination. I tried all kinds of things but they did no good. At last I gave him Dodd's Kidney Pills and they soon did him a lot of good. Many thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

BOARD OF EDUCATION REQUIRES $252,300

HALL FUND HAS HELPED NEEDY FOR 55 YEARS

Thousands of Dollars Have Been Distributed to the Protestant Poor.

$30,000 IN THE FUND.

Pioneer Merchant in Peterborough Remembered Poor in His Will.

Fifty-five years ago William Hall, partner of the firm of Nicholls and Hall and uncle of the late Richard Hall, died, but in his will he provided a sum for the relief of this city's Protestant poor and down through the years thousands of dollars have been distributed annually to need old people.

Through the mist of more than half a century all but a few persons have forgotten of the existence of Mr. Hall's thoughtful bequest to the city's poor, but month by month, year in and year out, 30 to 35 have always been benefitting by the fund established by the old Peterborough merchant. The fund is called the William Hall Protestant Poor Fund and on Monday the 55th annual meeting of its board was held. The first board meeting was held on August 15, 1876.

Interest of $30,000.

Mr. Hall left $30,000, the interest on which was to be given to the relief of the poor. A board to which members were appointed by the Protestant churches are trustees of the fund. Annually four to five dollars a month are distributed to the needy folk of the fund's lists. As the old people died off new needy folk are added to take their place, and so the benefits have gone on and on.

The Board is now composed of: J. H. Connal, John Crane, secretary-treasurer; A. Gibson, W. A. Richardson, George Evans, H. B. Cowan, A. W. Wray and Felix Brohw.combe.

The general store of Nicholls and Hall stood upon the site now occupied by St. Alphonsus Lyceum. Mr. Nicholls, the other partner, was the husband of Charlotte Nicholls, who so richly endowed the city with parks and public institutions.

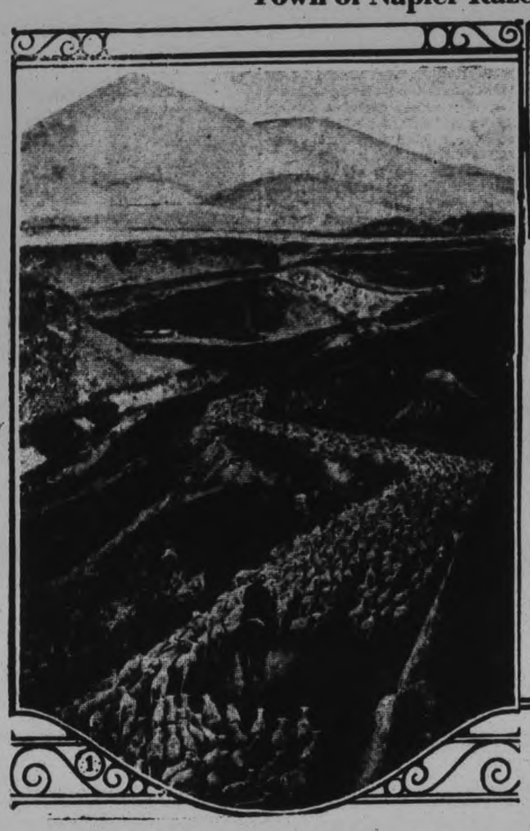
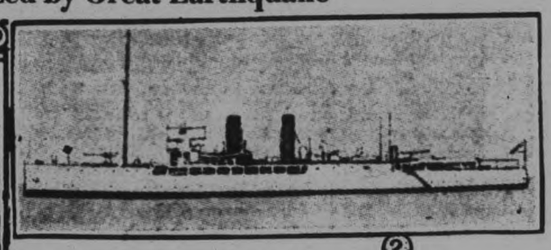
Town of Napier Razed by Great Earthquake





In an earthquake reported from New Zealand, Napier, a town of about 11,000, is said to be practically razed with tidal waves, landslides, river blockage, undetermined loss of life following in the path of the tremors. Above are shown: (1) View of the country in the vicinity of Napier. (2) Naval sloop Veronica, which was caught when the water rushed from the bay and left stranded on the ocean bottom, to be refloated some time later by a tidal wave. (3) Map showing the quake centre at Napier. The last serious earthquake at Lyell in the South Island in 1929, when $5,000,000 damage was done, and 17 persons were killed, is also indicated.

1931 REQUISITION FOR EDUCATION IS $3,100 LESS THAN LAST YEAR, GOV'T GRANT REVENUE INCREASED

Board of Education Will Ask City Council For $252,-300 For 1931.

$88,200 FOR COLLEGIATE.

Public Schools in the City Will Require $164,100 During Year.

The Board of Education by whom estimates for the financing of the work in the Public Schools and the Collegiate and Vocational Training School were struck at last night's meeting, is this year asking the City Council for the sum of $252,300, an amount lower than that appropriated last year by $3,100. The amount apportioned to the Public Schools is $164,100, and to the Collegiate and Vocational School, $88,200.

In making this cut the Board has done so by paring the estimates as finely as possible, consistent with meeting the full needs of the city's educational requirements, and with an eye on the city's tax rate. The decrease has been made possible by the increased revenue on the Government grant for Public Schools and while the Collegiate and Vocational School requirements are a little higher than last year, this is made so by the larger number of students enrolled for the County and for which the County has to pay.

Estimate of revenue and expenditure of the Peterborough Public Schools, year ending December 31, 1931:—

Expenditure
Balance due bank, 31st December, 1930	$ 473.01
Salaries, Teachers and Officers	147,090.00
Salaries of Janitors and Supervisor of Repairs	10,550.00

AIMEE ONCE HAD BIG OPPORTUNITY SAYS REV. GOHEN

Former Associate Declares Declares Honest Man Could Not Follow Her.

DISAPPEARS AGAIN.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—"Aimee Semple McPherson had the greatest opportunity of anyone in the world. She was called of God to perform a great mission. . . . But she slipped!"

Thus did Rev. John Goben, for two years associate pastor of Angelus Temple, California, and general supervisor of Aimee McPherson's activities, describe the evangelist who for the umpteenth time is reported to have mysteriously disappeared from her church and friends, at a time when the report is due from a Grand Jury regarding charges of alleged misappropriation of Temple funds.

Mr. Goben is in Toronto conducting an interdenominational revival meeting. Interviewed at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Goben denied that he had been discharged from Angelus Temple. "I resigned," he said. "An honest man couldn't continue working with Aimee, knowing what I did."

"I can't understand why she disappears like that," Mr. Goben said. "No, I don't know of any legel action threatening her. I know that the report from the Grand Jury is expected shortly, and it may reveal some interesting things. I cannot say all I might until that report is published. It's bad publicity, suddenly disappearing like that."

Mr. Goben confirmed reports that Roberta Semple, 19-year-old pretty, dynamic, ash-blonde (once red) haired daughter of Aimee, has assumed the official title of Vice-President of the Temple Association and Secretary to her mother. Rolf McPherson, young son of the evangelist, is studying the mundane affairs of the Temple under the tutelage of F. C. Winters, Business Manager. He will probably take over that post later.

Miss Semple assumes the post held by Miss Mae Waldron. It has been known that Miss Waldron had been the cause of disputes between Aimee and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy is recently quoted as having said, "There will have to be further house-cleaning before my daughter and I become reconciled."

They have quarreled frequently, Mr. Goben said.

"Do you really believe that happened?" queried the visiting Evangelist, when the writer asked if it were true that Aimee had punched her mother's nose. He intimated that he knew nothing of the affair. He smiled at the suggestion that Aimee had her face lifted and would say nothing about Aimee's claim that she had a nervous break-down through overwork.

Mr. Goben was acquainted with the details of Aimee's visit to the home of Alexander Pantages, one hour after the theater manager's wife had been convicted of manslaughter. "Mrs. McPherson called on Mrs. Pantages with Ormsby, her attorney, and a few days later the case was dismissed. I am not saying anything. I will leave it to your judgment."

Aimee's relationship with Cromwell Ormsby, her attorney, was thought by Mr. Goben to be "unwise". "I once heard Aimee say that she would rather split with the Church than with Ormsby", he said. "It was he who piloted Aimee through all the legal troubles she found herself in. When five pastors, including myself, charged Aimee with a misappropriation of Church funds, and Aimee said she had the books audited regularly, she didn't say who was the auditor. But it was Ormsby's brother. Yes, I have proof of misappropriations."

Mr. Goben told the writer that he had been in charge of the Missionary Funds of the temple, and had a separate bank account for those funds. While he was preaching in another town, Goben alleges that Aimee instructed the Bank Manager to transfer the Missionary funds to the general funds of the Temple, over which she had control. "When I got back to California, I went at once to my Bank Manager, and expressed my amazement that he had transferred the funds without authority from the Temple Board. He said he had a letter from Aimee, which was enough."

Mr. Goben wanted to make it quite clear that he was not discharged

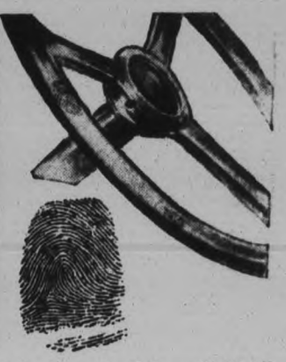
He Stole a Girl and Killed Her

He deposits her remains and runs.



But a mark on the wheel says, "I did it."

He left his Mark— and it Convicted him

Walter Hickman, Los Angeles, kidnapped a girl from school. He killed her. Then he demanded $1,500 from her father for ransom. The father paid on a dark corner at night. Hickman drove away; the father found a dismembered body left by Hickman in a sack.

But Hickman's auto stalled, and on the steering wheel they found his finger prints.

In the Los Angeles police department those finger-prints were registered for a previous crime. So they knew the man, they had his picture, and they caught him up in Oregon in three days. Result—this despicable criminal was punished by death in the chair.

Be Careful of Your Marks

You are not a criminal, but you leave your finger-prints on every thing you touch. Those prints are germ-laden, and they all present danger.

You have gathered them by touching things which other hands have touched. You have clasped hands with other hands which, for instance, have checked a sneeze laden with cold germs. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in that way.

Touch a piece of bread, a candy, and you leave that dangerous imprint on it, unless your hands are clean. And a few germs multiply to millions quickly.

The safe way is to wash hands often, and always before a meal. Not with ordinary soap, but with Lifebuoy Soap, which contains a germicide. There is every proof that no active germs can exist after its application.

But that isn't all. You smell the pleasant germicide for a minute, then it disappears. There remains only the odour of utter cleanliness. Then you have only the effects of a supreme beauty soap, the finest that men have created. A soap, based on two palm oils, which has won its way to top place as a complexion soap. And a bath soap.

Lifebuoy Soap combines a germicide with the factors that you love. Here you have both safety and service of the highest order.

Keep a cake of Lifebuoy handy by the wash basin. Urge the family to use it. Make it easy for them to benefit by Lifebuoy's wonderful protection. Your nearest dealer sells it.

Acute Gastritis Gets a Knockout

Mr. Arthur E. Roots, of West Croydon, writes:—"Discharged from His Majesty's Forces with acute gastritis, I was left with a very weak inside, and those who suffer similarly know how very careful one must be in what they eat and what medicines they take. STAY IN JAMAICA GREATLY ENJOYED BY TWO PRINCES

Leave For Panama This Evening to Continue Their Spanish American Tour.

FLY OVER PANAMA.

Prince of Wales in Addressing Jamaicans Says Brighter Days Are Ahead.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, February 4 (C.P.).—Banqueted and feted here, in just the same fashion as was their father, now King, forty years ago, the Prince of Wales and his brother Prince George will leave here this evening for Panama in continuation of their Spanish-American tour.

The Oropesa, which brought them from Santander and Bermuda, will take them to Cristobal, Canal Zone, where an airplane will carry them across the Isthmus to Panama City for the first of their official visits outside the British colonies.

A crowd of 50,000 who had gathered from all over Jamaica, met the Princes when they arrived yesterday at noon aboard the Oropesa, and watched while officials extended the welcome of the island. The two Royal figures were given an impressively enthusiastic reception wherever they went.

Brighter Days Ahead.

The Prince of Wales made a short speech at the end of the ceremony assuring Jamaicans that brighter days were ahead and asking them to face the future with courage. He expressed regret that he had not been able to visit Jamaica when he was in this part of the world ten years ago.

They found time for inauguration of the new golf course at Constant Spring, where the Prince of Wales practised for a while. He excited considerable admiration with the length of his drives, which did not appear to be far off because of his long voyage. Later he attended a polo game.

Last night they were the guests of honor at a reception given by Governor Sir R. E. Stubbs and Lady Stubbs at Government House.

To-day the two Princes will visit the local military camp to meet the World War veterans and Regulars of the West Hampshire Regiment, of which the Prince of Wales is a colonel.

The annual social evening of the members and friends of the Art Study Club of the Lyceum Women's Art Association was a pleasant event of last night in the studios at the Conservatory of Music. The entertainment was featured by the reading of one of Browning's poems by Mr. F. J. A. Morris, whose pleasant voice and enthusiastic appreciation of his subject lent an added charm to the words of the poet. Mr. Morris chose the monologue addressed to his wife by Andrea del Sarto, called the "Faultless Painter," bringing out the characterization of the poet, whose weakness for a worthless wife helped toward his own lack of success in his artistic life. This poem had its inspiration in a picture of the artist and his wife, Lucrezia, in which a quarrel is suggested and Browning followed out in rhyme his traditional method of enlisting the aid of unseen watchers and listeners and of identifying his own words with some imaginary character. The reading was a brief and delightful interlude and was much enjoyed by the listeners. In the absence in Toronto of the convenor of the Art Study Club, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. W. Blackwell, president of the Art Association, introduced the speaker, and also tendered him the vote of thanks which was gracefully worded by Mrs. N. D. Seaton. Arrangements for the evening were in the hands of Mrs. F. C. Neal, (convenor), Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Mrs. B. L. Barns and Mrs. H. W. Morphet. Dainty refreshments were served about the lighted fireplace in the front studio after supper partners had been decided by the use of a novel device, the matching of daintily decorated cards bearing the name of a famous artist, with the companion piece showing the title of one of his pictures. A limerick contest was the occasion of much interest, the prizes for the best efforts going to Miss Cathleen McCarthy and Mr. F. J. A. Morris.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

I have noticed recently that a great number of housewives are guarding their house plants very carefully these cold nights, lest they should be frozen.

• • • • • • •

Those of you who have never had your plants frozen do not know the disappointment felt when one finds that her most cherished plant has been frozen during the night.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps your plants are not thriving just as well as you would like them to. Plants, you know, must be tended almost like pets. If they are not given the proper amount of care, they droop and die.

• • • • • • •

Window plants and those in winter rooms wherever they are placed are peculiarly decorative because they are living elements of beauty.

• • • • • • •

If the plants are lovingingly tended they respond and flourish as if they understood that a friend was watching them expectantly and was encouraging them to do their best and appear their most beautiful selves.

• • • • • • •

Without going into any special discussion on the care of plants a few suggestions for plant lovers who know little about particular needs of their plants may be welcome.

• • • • • • •

If you will notice gardeners at work you will see that they are constantly raking the ground about plants, keeping the top soil loose. This is imporatnt for the roots then ca nabsorb the moisture in the air.

• • • • • • •

So with an ordinary kitchen fork, loosen the top soil in the flower pots. In these small containers, plants require more water than they do in the open.

• • • • • • •

The heating agents in the house consumes the moisture and saps the air of this vital element. So water your plants frequently.

• • • • • • •

It is better to give them small drinks of water each day than to deluge them one day and then let many days intervene between drinks.

• • • • • • •

I am told that a few drops of ammonia put in the water occasionally when watering the plants is good for them, but if you do not think this is good for the plants, there are various good plant foods on the market.

• • • • • • •

It is advisable once a week to stand the pots in cool, fresh water and to spray the foliage. An ordinary bath spray is satisfactory and is adequate.

• • • • • • •

Let the plants remain standing in the water for several hours. This will not harm the plants and is the nearest thing to a rainstorm that plants can get in the winter.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS SAFETY ADDRESS BY THE BLIND ORATOR

Walter E. Darling Tells With Pathetic Eloquence the Tragic Story of His Life.

LOVED ONES WHO PAY.

In important lesson in the educating of people, especially industrial workers to the importance of "Safety First" was given last night in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute when Walter E. Darling, the blind orator of Cincinnati, Ohio, forcefully told with pathetic eloquence the tragic story of his life from the time he was blinded in an industrial accident, stressing the real cost of any serious accident, namely the untold suffering which is endured by the loved ones of the unfortunate victim.

Mr. Darling, who is widely known as an outstanding safety man, was brought to the city by the safety first leaders in the Peterborough Industries in co-operation with the Ontario Accident Prevention Association and told his life story with a brief safety talk as part of a program which embodied in interesting form a thorough education in every phase of accident prevention dealing with the hazards common to every day life.

C. A. Salmonsen, manager of the C.G.E. who was called on by chairman Robt. Cotton to speak a few words to the audience, expressed himself asbeing very pleased to see such a large audience at a meeting which dealt with a subject of vital importance to every individual not only in industry but in daily life and also that he believed that by education and not mechanical means lay the hope of safer conditions in the future.

Mr. Lovett, representative of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association was the next speaker and briefly explained that the purpose of this organization was saving of human life and limb, and that it was a purely co-operative unit working in the interests of employee and employer. He showed two motion pictures the first of whichillustrated how a workman indifferent to the law of safety could endanger his fellow employees' lives as well as his own.

The second film dealt with the prone pressure method of artificial respiration or resuscitation, and clearly showed how the internal organs were affected while a person was being revived. The effectiveness of this method in cases of drowning, asphyxiation and electric shock were outlined in a very simple manner.

Minor Injuries

Mr. Lovett introduced Mr. Darling, who prefaced his life story with some remarks on the importance of having minor injuries treated at once. He also stated that every man was qualified to be a good safety man and, after itemizing the various monetary costs which present themselves whenever an accident takes place, he went on to show how in his own case the cost that really counted was the trouble his own particular accident had brought to his father and mother. He was blinded in an explosion just at the time in life when he had begun to be of real assistance to his aging parents. Then followed three and a half years of treatment, including a series of seven operations before he knew that he would never be able to see. His mother who had tenderly treated him during the greater part of the time and who had existed in the hopes that he would sometime regain his eyesight, collapsed when the decision was given and three months after died. Fourteen months later Mr. Darling's father died also. The terrible ending that had come to his loved ones made him vow that he would do all in his power to save someone else's parents from the same suffering.

Mr. Darling said, in part: "Now understand me, I am not telling you these things to enlist your sympathy. I don't need that nor do I want it, but I ask your help and understanding in so worthy a work. There isn't a bit of doubt in my mind that any one of you could not and would not go through with all I have and bear it equally as well, but that is not the point. For the victim, it is not so bad. A physician can, with a few drops of cocaine, stop your pain or at least relieve it, but remember that he or no-one else can administer an anesthetic to the hearts and to the feelings of those who do the actual suffering—the ones that pay a price that can never be reckoned in dollars and cents.

That is just a little bit of my story. I have tried to make it short. There isn't any of it that is a pleasure to recall and there is a lot of it that I would like to forget, but if coming here and telling it to you will save your eyes for your mother and father, your hands and feet for your loved ones, or your lives for your wife and kiddies, then I won't mind. The whole thing amounts to this: I am no different than any of you and, in fact, was a workman. What has happened to me can happen to anyone. I want you to feel this way about it. You may be hurt and your injuries may be deep and very apparent, but please remember that there will probably be four or five whose will be lots deeper and more lasting than yours. It is them that I ask you to think about. You have probably not thought about safety from this angle but neither did I, but you must try and guard against accidents for if they come, they come like a crack of lightning out of a blue sky, and then as a rule you have more time to think about it than you know what to do with.

I am not going to tell you that all accidents are carelessness, but I think that ninety per cent of them are, so I am going to sum it all up by asking you just one question: How soon are you by carelessness going to let my story become your story?"

You have given me good attention, the speaker said, and I want you to know that I appreciate it. This groping around the world is not a pleasure by any means. To me it is a duty and if I can go away feeling that I have saved one mother or father or one wife and group of kiddies the anguish and sorrow that my family knew, then I will have been compensated, for if what has been a tragedy to me serves to benefit humanity, then it can no longer be a calamity.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mr Darling was moved by G. MacDonald of the De Laval and seconded by Mr. Huggins of the William Hamilton Co.

An interesting feature of the program was supplied by Bob Hendry and Jack Smith, who sang several Scotch songs in tuneful harmony, accompanied on the piano by Jack Cuffe.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHAT LONG BREATHS WILL DO

One of the habits I had as a boy, was to draw in my breath at one telegraph pole, and try to hold it until I reached the next one.

In thinking about it since I believe the greatest benefit I got from it was not so much the development of the lungs, but the beneficial action of the diaphragm—the floor of the chest—as it pressed downward on the digestive organs, the liver stomach, and intestines.

What happens when you take a long breath.

The liver gets squeezed so that the circulation of the blood through it is hastened and sluggishness prevented. The bile in the gall bladder, which is in a thickened state, likewise flows into the small intestine and does its three jobs of breaking up fats, killing harmful organisms, and helping to move the contents along.

The stomach, with the pressure of the diaphragm upon it, is enabled to mix the blood more rapidly with the stomach digestive juice, and the food gets digested and out of the stomach in a shorter time.

The food in the intestines is likewise stimulated to move along more rapidly thus preventing stasis or constipation.

And, another very helpful thing, is the way deep breathing helps the gas in the large intestine to move along. An accumulation of gas in the curve adjoining the appendix often causes a most acute pain resembling appendicitis, and if it remains there any little time it may be mistaken for appendicitis.

Gas accumulating in the curve of the large intestine below the liver, may be mistaken for gall bladder trouble, while pain in curve of large intestine on the left side may press up against the floor of the chest and against the heart and make the individual feel that he has heart disease. Pain in lower left side of abdomen due to gas, has been suspected breaths will not only ventilate your lungs but will squeeze the liver helping its circulation, and forcing out bile; will squeeze bile out of gall bladder into small intestine; will help stomach to digest food and get it promptly into small intestine; and last but not least, will prevent accumulation of gas for any time in the "bends" of the large intestine.

MONTREAL AVIATRIX WINS COMPETITION

Miss Daphine Paterson of Montreal in Light Aeroplane Obtains Highest Score.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4. — Miss Daphine Paterson, well-known member of the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club, and at the present time secretary of the Ladies' Aeroplane Club of Saint John, N.B., gained the highest score in a novel landing competition here, beating her nearest male competitor by one point.

Keen interest was displayed in the efforts of the fliers to land their machine according to the exacting requirements of the competition in which the pilots were supposed to be making a forced landing on a narrow field. Flying downwind at a point about 1,000 feet directly above the flag-marked enclosure, each competitor was required to shut off his engine, turn into the wind, and enter the imaginary field by diving under a telegraph line and over a hedge which were represented by two tapes stretched between two poles ninety feet apart. The tape, representing the telegraph line, was fixed at a height of twenty feet, while the so-called hedge was five feet from the ground. Having safely entered the enclosure the pilot was required to bring his machine to rest within 300 feet of the hedge, points being awarded for the nearness of the machine to the 300-foot limit, for the style of the approach and for the landing itself.

THE MISTAKE OF A FAMOUS DOCTOR

Dr. Robert G. Jackson's paternal grandfather, father and seven paternal uncles and aunts, and his own brother and sister, all died of heart disease. At 50 the great Sir Wm. Osler gave the doctor himself only four months to live, dying from heart disease and "general breakdown." He'd lived five years on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years after Osler gave him up he climbed the fifty storeys in Washington's Monument, up and down, and was not even tired. All a result of changed living habits—chiefly a change from civilization's disease-causing acid foods to alkali-forming Roman Meal. His 436-page book, "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL," tells the entire story—shows how anyone may be always well, by natural means. Remit $3.00 by P.O. order for a copy, or write for descriptive literature, to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 502 Vine Ave. Toronto 9, Ont., or write for his free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and sample of Roman Meal and the new alkaline beverage, "Kofy-sub."

AIMEE ONCE HAD BIG OPPORTUNITY

from Angelus Temple. "I resigned on a Wednesday," he said. "Aimee wrote me the following Monday and suggested that I leave. I got out because I couldn't go on, knowing what I did."

Describing Aimee Sempie McPherson's break-downs and fainting spells as "hoaxes," Mr. Goben said that Aimee was a great actress. "When the board asked her to explain certain questionable practices with the finances of the Temple, Aimee fainted. Miss Waldron, her secretary, seized the opportunity to get the board to sign their names on an agreement turning over everything to Aimee, and appointing Aimee president of the Temple Association for life, with power to appoint whom she wished on the board, and to discharge them at will. I tell you, the half has not been told. I could write a book."

That reminded the reporter about "Elmer Gantry," Sinclair Lewis' 'expose' of methods employed by evangelists. Mr. Goben had started reading it, but hadn't finished it. He didn't like to say whether the book was about Aimee or not.

"Evangelists make a lot of money, don't them?" the writer suggested.

"And they give away a lot," was his reply. "Billy Sunday took in $36,000 in Chicago, but gave it all away to the Pacific Garden Mission. 'The newspaper don't print news like that.'"

"Angelus Temple must be an expensive business—these field secretaries, lawyers, business managers, editors . . ."

"You can't run a place like Angelus Temple without money. But we had plenty of money. On March 5, 1928, the free-will love offering was $20,000. Some months we took in $15,000."

"But Aimee's clothes—her elaborate wardrobe—her extended 'holidays'—her 'week-ends' — who paid for all these?"

"Aimee is a wonderful preacher," Mr. Goben said. "A laborer is worthy of his hire. But I do think that preachers ought to live within the dignity of their calling."

Rev. Mr. Goben was scheduled to conduct revival meetings in Florida. For some reason these have been cancelled. Mr. Goben admitted that he had had several invitations but said he was returning to California when his mission in Toronto had ended. He would remain here as long as interest in the mission was maintained.

"I still believe Aimee has been called of God to do a great work," he said, "and I have told her more than once that I would go back and work with her if she would only return to her early methods. I couldn't continue with her, knowing what I did. An honest man couldn't."

Morrow Scholarships

In announcing to the Board the manner in which the Morrow Scholarship was to be awarded, H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate and Vocational School, stated: "The sum of $180 granted annually by Mr. Morrow is to be divided so as to give $60 to each of three vocational departments: the Commercial, Industrial Arts, and Household Arts."

"In the Commercial department, $9 will be awarded to the pupils in the first year, second year, third year and special commercial, who stand first at the Christmas, Easter and June examinations in their respective forms. Six dollars will be awarded on the same conditions to pupils who stand second."

"In the Industrial Arts department $15 will be awarded to each of the boys in third year who are considered best in drafting, electrical, machine shop and woodworking courses respectively."

"In the Household Arts department $12 will be awarded to the girls in first, second and third years, standing first at the Christmas, Easter and June examinations in their respective forms, and $8 will be awarded on the same conditions to pupils who stand second."

Mr. Kenner was granted the sum of $1,050 for the purchase of books for the school library, for scientific apparatus and for Art department requirements.

Attendance and Health

The monthly report of Dr. A. W. McPherson, school medical officer, and the two school nurses, the Misses Deyell and Jory, revealed a wholly satisfactory state of health among the city's school population, borne out also in the attendance figures for January, which show a 96 per cent. attendance at the Collegiate and 94 per cent attendance in the Public Schools.

The Advisory Vocation Committee recommend that the sum of $3,200 be placed in the estimates for 1931 for the purchase of the following supplies and equipment for the Industrial Arts Department of the Vocational School: Draughting—Supplies, $125; new tables, $400. Woodworking—Supplies, $300; new equipment, $225. Machine Shop—Supplies, $300; new equipment, $800. Electrical Construction, $150. Electrical Laboratory—New equipment , $300. Science equipment and supplies, $800. It was further recommended that the stenographer, Miss Sawyer, who is employed during the period the night classes are conducted, be paid at the rate of $15 per week, dating from January 1st, 1931.

Dr. A. Moir, chairman of the Supervision Committee, reported "that Miss M. J. V. Jory, school nurse, be allowed the sum of $125 towards the expense of her car for the year 1930, and that for the year 1931 she be paid the sum of $75; also that the Public School Inspector be authorized to spend this year the sum of $138 on books for the school library."

In answer to a question I. P. McNabb was informed that the difference in the allowance for the nurse's car between this year and last, was due to the fact that the expense was considered excessive and that $75 this year should be ample for the amount of work that will be done.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, chairman of the Board was appointed as delegate to the convention to be held in Windsor on March 9, 10 and 11 of the Urban School Trustees' Association.

Dealing with a request from Douglas Blagrave, President of the Literary Society at the Collegiate, in which he stated the society was prepared to bear half the cost of the installation of a motion picture machine for the school, providing the Board could see their way to provide a grant of the remaining fifty per cent, it was thought by Dr. J. J. Craig that his was a generous offer on the part of the students to provide a piece of equipment of great use to the school. He was of the opinion that every teacher would agree with him, that if proper use was made of such apparatus it would prove of inestimable benefit.

Following full discussion, in which other members of the Board participated, the matter was referred to the Supervision committee, with power to act, after Dr. Craig had moved that the Board accept the offer and pay half the cost.

N.H.L. Group Leaders Strengthen Positions

CANADIENS LENGTHEN GROUP LEAD BY DEFEATING MAPLE LEAFS 2-1

Two Goals Engineered By Morenz in First Period Give Habitants Victory.

4TH PLACE CLUBS UP.

TORONTO, Ont, February 4 (By George Maguire, C.P. Sports Writer) —Group leaders and fourth place teams of the National Hockey League improved their positions in last night's four-game program. The pace-setters o f each section now have a three-game lead on their nearest rivals, but the victories of New York Americans and New York Rangers, fourth in their respective groups, tightens up the race for the remaining play-off berths.

Montreal Canadiens, led by the dashing king of mid-ice performers, Howie Morenz, nosed out their nearest competitors for the northern division leadership, Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, in the headline attraction at the Forum.

The game lived up to expectation's and provided Montreal fans with a continuous series of thrills. At the end the Red Shirts were staggering and lifting the disk the length of the ice to stave off the frantic Leaf onslaughts.

During the first frame the Habitants literally swept the Smyth men off their feet by the momentum of their speedy offensive, only two minutes of the session remained before the Canucks were successful in breaking through the stubborn Toronto guard for a goal. Larochelle turned the trick following a passing bout with Morenz and Leduc. Less than a minute later Morenz careened through for another goal.

There is only one way to stop speed, and realizing this the Leafs started in with a barrage of body-checking which halted the Red Devils' scoring parade, but drew down on themselves numerous penalties.

King Clancy, the losers' dynamic defenceman, notched the lone Leaf market half way through the final 20 minutes.

While the Leafs were losing, however, the Rangers were doing them a good turn in New York by shellacking the Maroons, 3 to nil, and thus prevented Canadiens' intra-city rivals from closing in on the Torontonians, who still hold a three-point margin in the battle for the runner-up position.

It was the New York blue shirts' first triumph in eight starts, and it came at an opportune time. Detroit Falcons, holders of third place in the American Group, were taking their worst beating of the season in Boston, while the Rangers were coming to life, and in consequence Lester Patrick's pupils are now only a point behind for the coveted play-off position.

Dark-haired Murray Murdoch, who spends his summers on the Western Canada Prairies, played the major part in downing the Maroons. He scored the opening goal unassisted in the last minute of the first chapter, and after Bill Cook had taken Ching Johnson's pass for the Rangers' second tally early in the second period, Murdoch clinched the game with a beautiful goal, on a pass from the dashing Butch Keeling, just six minutes later.

Amerks Advance.

Weakened by injuries Ottawa Senators battled valiantly against the Americans. After enjoying a two-goal lead early in the first 20 minutes they finished on the short end of a four to two count. The victory placed the Amazing Amerks within one point of the Maroons, and having played two games less than the Montrealers, the A's are now in a promising position.

Hec Kilrea and Danny Fox gave the Ottawans their lead, but goals by Ayres and Carson saw the count knotted before the period's end. Billy Burch and Sheppard scored in the middle frame to give the Americans victory.

The Falcons have not had much success against the American leaders this season, and at no time did they appear to have a chance last night. The final score was seven to two. The Bostonians notched five tallies in the opening chukker and two more in the last. Detroit's brace of markers came in the middle frame.

LAKEFIELD READY MARKHAM INVASION

First Game of O. H. A. Intermediate Playdowns to be Held in Cement Town.

Lakfield residents will be out strong to-night to cheer their team on in their clash with Markham in the first round of the intermediate playdowns in the O.H.A. Markham has a flashy squad and are especially strong in a pair of rugged defence men who are reported to be adpets at stopping the puck carrier.

Against this speedy aggregation Doctor Kennedy will ice his complete lineup. Lakefield players have been going great guns in the E.P.I. and are counting on getting an edge in the series by taking the first game. The battle promises to be one of the best seen in the district this season.

DEFEATS PITTSBURG 4-1.

(By George Maguire Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. — Carl Robinson, leading point scorer of the International Hockey League, practically defeated Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets single handed when the Smoky City puck chasers visited Windsor last night for the only scheduled fixture.

The Bulldogs on the tilt, 4 to 1, with Robinson notching three of his team's total goals, two in the first period and one in the last. Paul Haynes who gave Robinson a pass for one of his markers, notched the other Bulldog tally, while Leo Reise, veteran defenceman registered the lone Pittsburgh counter in the first game.

Having secured a firm grip on second place, four points in the van of London Tecumsehs, though six points behind the leading Buffalo Bisons, the Border City team journeys to Syracuse today to meet the lowly Stars. While they are thus engaged the Bisons will be tackling the fast climbing Indians in Cleveland. The latter team can catapult into third place by downing the Bisons as they are one point behind the Londoners who are idle.

STIRLING DEFEATS MADOC TEAM 2-1

Eight Hundred Fans See Fast Hockey Game in Trent Valley League Fixture.

MADOC, Feb. 4.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Stirling hockey team played Madoc boys in Madoc arena and won out 2-1 in the regular schedule of the Trent Valley Hockey League on Monday evening, February 2. With the sharp frost and extreme cold weather, the ice was in excellent shape. The game was rather slow at first, but much faster as the players warmed up. Barrett of Belleville refereed and inflicted few penalties.

A large crowd of over eight hundred hockey fans cheered themselves hoarse as the fortune of play favored one team or the other, and until the last peal of the gong, excitement was kept at its height, for both goalies were kept on the alert, and their fine play helped considerably to make it a guess which team would be the winner. During the last period most of the play was kept around Morton's goal, except when the Reds resorted to the age-old custom of "ragging the puck."

In the first period, both teams found it hard to get going, but Stirling got the lead by winning the first goal about half way through the period, and though both tried hard, no other goal was made. This goal was the work of B. Little, who proved himself a hard worker, and a good man for a straight rush. No penalties were awarded in this period.

After the intermission, the play became serious, and Stirling tallied their second goal, which however was hotly contested, but was allowed by the referee. Shortly afterward, Henderson for Madoc made a quick rush landing a goal in Morton's net, which was also contested, but allowed. Each team had a penalty in this period, Barkey and Davis going off in company for a rest and to cool off.

The third period opened with long rushes, and much defensive play on the part of the Stirling aggregation. Madoc kept the play around the opponent's goal, and only the sure work of Morton, and the alert defence of the Little brothers saved the day for Stirling. Both teams missed many beautiful chances to score. Stirling, 2 penalties.

For Madoc, L'Heureux and Johnston were the outstanding men, with the solo rushes of Andrews and Barkey, bringing the fans to the feet with excitement. For Stirling, Davis and the Little brothers played some excellent combination, and both goalies were as usual on their toes, making many a save.

Final score, 2-1 for Stirling.

Line-ups:

Stirling—Goal, Morton; defence, Ingram and Beatty; centre, Davis; wings, B. Little and C. Little; subs, Day, J. Ackers and White.

Madoc—Goal, J. W. Hulin; defence, M. Barkey and F. Andrews; centre, F. L'Heurex; wings, N. Johnston and H. McGuire; subs, Henderson, Watson and Moon.

INTELLIGENCE NOT ACQUIRED QUALITY

All Human Traits Hereditary and May be Measured, Dr. W. D. Tait States.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4—It is no use trying to instill intelligence into those without it for it is inherited and cannot be acquired, Dr. W. D. Tait, professor of psychology, McGill University, declared emphatically in an address to the nursing education section of the Association of Regis-Quebec.

"No amount of education will put brains into a skull where Nature has omitted them. All we can do is to put the individual in the most favorable environment, then the person of superior qualities will develop more rapidly and further," said Dr. Tait.

Teacup readers, graphologists or phrenologists may cheer their subjects by telling them they possess intelligence, ambition, initiative, or all of these. Everybody has these characteristics, Dr. Tait said; the question is, to what degree? Everybody possesses every human trait, but the proportion varies with the individual. Every idiot has so much intelligence and every harumscarum has ambition.

Tests have been made by the department of psychology to determine whether blondes or brunettes react the more quickly. There was a difference of 2.75 thousandths of a second— but then it was found to be due to an error of the recording instrument. Studies have been made in Germany lately concerning identical twins. Although brought up in different environment, it was found that when one developed tuberculosis, the other was almost sure to have it also, said Dr. Tait.

Psychology can measure certain acquired traits, said Dr. Tait. Musical and all other artistic ability depends upon inheritance of certain types of nervous structure. No amount of training will ever make a musician of a person who lacks such structure. Training has no effect whatever on the sense organs, the speaker emphasized, yet, he said that a blind person may perceive things that the seeing do not. His hand is not any different, it was added.

"Please advise parents not to impose music on children unless they have a certain amount of musical ability," Dr. Tait urged. It would be as useless as to try to teach a color blind person to paint.

The question of what a person shall do in life is entirely a matter of individual tendencies, the lecturer continued. He expressed the wish that more had been done with regard to the vocational tendencies of girls, which had been comparatively neglected in studying the aptitude of boys. Family history plays quite as important a part as does the psychological examination in determining vocational abilities.

Intelligence might be called the common factor of every other trait, said the speaker, and like them can be measured. He believed that if intelligence tests were employed in selecting candidates for the nursing profession many failures later could be avoided. He also advocated mechanical tests for nurses, considering ability to manipulate of high importance. He looked for nurses or physicians to develop tests of personality, involving emotional stability, the tendency to keep one's head in emergency and to develop confidence in the patient.

FOUR RINKS IN TANKARD EVENT

Hamilton Vics, Sarnia, Galt and Granites Reach Semi-finals.

TORONTO BEATS LINDSAY.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Four rinks survived out of the thirteen which started play in the Ontario Tankard curling championship round at four local clubs yesterday morning and afternoon. Three of the survivors are out-of-town clubs—Hamilton Victorias, Galt and Sarnia. The fourth is the Toronto Granites.

Hamilton Vics and Sarnia reached the semi-finals by winning two matches yesterday. Galt and Granites qualified by winning only one, the luck of the draw placing them in the first round. Hamilton's two rinks eliminated Orillia in the morning preliminary game by 1 shot, this making one of the closest matches on the day's program. In the afternoon the Hamiltonians disposed of the strong Stratford rinks by a margin of 11 shots.

Sarnia, with those veteran skips, Col. Bob MacKenzie and Harry Watson, at the helm, successfully navigated through the first two rounds, winning in the morning from Oshawa by 15 shots and eliminating Grand Valley in the afternoon by 7 shots.

Galt defeated Kingston by 9 shots and Toronto defeated Lindsay by 4 shots. Lindsay had won its morning game from Stouffville by the highest total of the day, 27 shots. Other winners in the morning were Stratford, who accounted for the Oakwood rinks, and Grand Valley, who handed Guelph a defeat by 2 shots.

The losing rinks entered the consolation event for the Burden Trophy, Oakwood, Kingston and Guelph again falling by the wayside, Orillia accounting for Oakwood, Stouffville beating Kingston by one shot, and Oshawa disposing of Guelph by 8 shots.

The draw this morning brings together Hamilton Victorias and Sarnia, while Galt will meet Granites. The final game will be played this afternoon, starting at 2.30 o'clock. The games to-day in the Tankard event will all be played at the Toronto-Victoria curling rink on Huron street.

Lakefield Prep School Beats Trinity College

PORT HOPE, Feb. 4.— Lakefield Preparatory School's first team scored a decisive victory over the Trinity College Schools seconds in a hockey match here yesterday. The Lakefield lads, featuring the game with their combination play, scored eight goals and prevented their opponents from tallying.

McRae at centre scored eight goals and Elmsley three. Disney, the Lakefield goaler, played brilliantly. Ross and McClouskey were best for the losers.

FIRST JUNIOR GAME TO-NIGHT

Expected Largest Crowd of Season Will See St. John's and H. C. Tangle.

PLAY OPEN HOCKEY.

One of the biggest crowds of the year will flock into Brock St. Rink to-night to see the first battle of the junior play-off series between Peterborough Hockey Club and St. John's.

These two clever outfits play wide open hockey and travel at top speed all the way which in combination with the rivalry that exists between them should make to-night's clash one of the most interesting of the season. Both have their eyes upon the group title and the fact that each has given the other a sound lacing only adds to the uncertainty as to the outcome of the play-off series in which of course goals will count.

To-night is St. John's home game, the Saints having excercised the option given them as a result of finishing at the top of the ladder in the regular schedule while the second game to be played on Saturday night will find the young Petes the home club.

Elwood Coombs of Lindsay, an official who always gives satisfaction here has been named as the referee for both games which means that the teams will have to stick strictly to hockey or find themselves shorthanded.

Both teams are in good shape, both are confident, and the game should sizzle with speed to-night.

PLENTY OF SPEED AND ACTION SEEN IN SOUTH END LEAGUE; FOSTERS WIN FROM CANUCKS

O'Leary, Houlihan, Thornley and Ellis Are Marksmen For Winners.

BOTH GOALIES GOOD.

Athletics Take 3-2 Win From Ravens—Canuck Juveniles Beat Rays 4-2.

The hockey on the bill-of-fare at the Sacred Heart rink last night more than satisfied the crowd of fans who turned out for the treat. Four snappy games in the South End City League made up a hockey dish fit for a king, if the king likes action and speed. Only in the first game was the score a little one-sided, the other three being touch-and-go, and mostly go, from start to finish. Penalties were few, and none at all of a serious nature.

In the first game, Fosters icing a bigger and faster team let Canucks down 4 to 1. Both goalies showed to good advantage for the entire contest. The winners passed the puck more, and using their weight kept working in on their opponents' net. O'Leary got one for them in the first, but Collins quickly tied it up. In the second, Houlihan put Foster ahead again. Canucks tried hard in the last stanza, but couldn't click. Thornley and Ellis ran in two more in this period, the latter on a beautiful piece of stick-handling. Vinette and little "Red" Gilbert of the losers played a nice game.

Referee—C. Raney.

3-2 LOSS FOR RAVENS

In the other bantam struggle, Athletics squeezed out a 3-2 win over Ravens in the last minute of the game. The first period was even, up and down hockey with neither teams scoring. Coming out for the second, the boys set a stiff pace and maintained it. Watson netted one early but Connelly balanced that. Late in the frame, Kingdon batted in the odd one from a scramble in front of the goal. The third chapter was fast and furious, with plenty of checking and long shots. Just before the last bell, Robertson put the Athletics ahead on an individual rush. Kingdon for the A's was good throughout.

Referee—C. Raney.

DEFEAT RAYS 4-2

Canucks Juveniles took a 4-2 decision over Raybestos in the third game. The winners looked superior in the second period running in three counters to put the game in the bag. The Rays early took the offensive with Budd and O'Brien each slapping one home. Lefavre notched one for Canucks on a long shot. In the second, Wells for the winners shoved one in, and Depellaro got two within a few minutes. There was no further scoring in the game, although the losers had four men up the ice in the last period. The winners boring-in tactics gave them the edge on the play, with Wells working hard for them all the time.

SHUT-OUT FOR TIGERS

The curtain game was a shut-out, Tigers winning over St. Peter's 1 to 0. The ice was pretty well cut up at this time, and lone rushes marked the contest. The losers gave one of the finest exhibitions of back-checking seen this year, as the play was almost entirely in their own territory. Melrose did some fine saving in holding the Tigers to one goal. Watson nicked that one in the second, and that ended the scoring. The winners kept the offensive all the time, sending five men up at times. Every one of the Saints worked his head off to hold the league leading wildcats.

St. Peters—Goal, Melrose; right defense, Lebarr; left defense, Sweetman; centre, Koster; right wing, Heffernan; left wing, Sullivan; alternates, Carrol.

Referee—D. Jones.

STAR SEXTET COPS 3-1 WIN FROM C. G. E.

Brilliant Stock-handling Exhibited in First Game of City League Double-header.

GOOD GOAL-TENDING.

Choate's Juniors and Johnson's Sea Horses Battle to 5-all Tie.

A snappy double-header ushered in the City League hockey schedule last night at the Brock Street rink, before a small but noisy crowd of rooters. Fast ice kept the play going at a good clip most of the way, and little time was spent in the "cooler" by any of the players.

In the first game, the Star Athletic Club finished stronger to win 3 to 1 over the C.G.E. Office. The game started slow, but as the boys became accustomed to the rink, play speeded up. Flashes of brilliant stick - handing were exhibited by both teams. The first period was scoreless, although there was considerable shooting, but most of it was from the defense. The middle chapter was very even, both sides counfering once. Coming out for the last session, the Stars began things. They went through time and again testing Doxsee with wicket thrusts, two of which finally got past him to give the Stars the game.

The teams:

Referee—G. Jarvis.

BATTLE TO 5-ALL DRAW

Choats' Juniors and Johnson's Seahorses battled to a 5-5 tie in the second half of the double-header. The hardware boys were bigger, but the Sea-horses broke faster and combined to better advantage to make it a hammer-and-tongs struggle all the way. Persistent back-checking on the part of both outfits marked the opening go, with a few penalties handed out when the boys got excited. The second canto saw some nice saving at either end as the players started to travel fast. Choates bodied hard but legitimately, but their opponents out-speeded them in this frame. The play kept getting faster and faster in the last period, with the puck first in one team's area and then in the other. Rink length rushes and mad scrambling around both cages failed to break the dead-lock before the gong went. There was no outstanding player, everyone working hard though Murdock for Choates notched two and shot often throughout.

The teams:

Referee—Pat Calladine.

SILVERWOODS WIN FROM ATHLETICS

Utilities Lose Out 6-4 in Fast Game Played in Mercantile League.

The standing in the Mercantile Hockey League, to date, is:

	P.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Grant and Thorpe..	3	2	0	1	5
Peterborough Canoe	2	1	0	1	3
Silverwoods	2	1	1	1	2
Brinton Carpet	1	0	1	0	0
Utilities	2	0	2	0	0

Last nights' game between Silverwoods and Athletics went to the former 6 to 4. It was a fast game despite the soft ice, with the play pretty evenly divided. Utilities got two in the first, Dyer notching both. Rogers tallied one in this frame for Silverwoods. The latter player ran in one more in the second and Don Anderson scored twice. Hughes kept trying and finally pushed in Utilities' third. In the last period, Dunkerley netted one, while the winners were getting two more, both by K. Anderson. Spargo, in goal for the losers, stopped some tough ones, while for the winners, Rogers and K. Anderson looked good on individual rushes.

The teams:

Referee.—J. Batterson.

ON TEE AND GREEN

Latest news and views of the Golfing World

By RALPH H. REVILLE

Copyright, 1931

The next two or three months will see all the golf clubs in the Dominion, holding their annual meetings and from advance reports received it would seem that golf clubs, unlike most institutions, have not suffered to any appreciable extent, from the recent country-wide depression. On the contrary, a large number of clubs have increased their revenues and increased their memberships whilst so far, no club has reported any very serious falling off in either. Then too, nearly a score of new clubs were put into play last season.

The prominent St. Charles Club, Winnipeg, at its recent annual meeting, reported that the membership now exceeds 1,000. Thistledown, Toronto, added over 90 members in 1930. Cedar Brook, Toronto, some forty, with an increase of revenue from $38,325 in 1929 to $44,673 in 1930. These are only a few of the many satisfactory annual reports issued already.

Another evidence that golf did not suffer as a result of the depression of the past year is contained in the fact that Sporting Goods firms without exception, report that their golf business in 1930 was the largest on record. One important firm in fact, stated it nearly trebled its output. In other lines of sporting goods, however, this was not the case, many of them showing decrease.

"Hard Times" may have compelled many men and women, to cut down their travelling and other expenses but apparently, this curtailment, was not extended to their enjoyment of golf.

Members of Canadian golf clubs, today, boasting as many of them do, revenues running all the way from $30,000 to over $100,000, as in one or two cases, may well wonder, how the game could be played and supported half a century or so ago, on less than $100 per annum. But such was the case. For instance, in 1881 or fifty years ago, the total receipts of the Brantford Club, as evidenced by the old records, were exactly $73.32. The principal source of revenue was from membership, 24 active men players at $2.00, 1 honorary member at $1.00 and 13 lady players at $1.00. And yet the canny treasurer of the club in those early days of golf (perhaps hardly necessary to state he was a Scotsman, and a Scottish banker of the old school, at that) managed to show a balance on the season's operations of 2.01. Think of that, ye golfing executive spendrifts of today, dabbling recklessly in your tens of thousands. The total expenditure on the Brantford course, fifty years ago, was $20.76, "sodding, mowing, etc." The caretaker was paid the princely salary of $10.00 whilst $14.91 was spent on prizes. Wonder which of the old pioneer players pulled down that odd 91 cents as a result of his prowess on the annual prize day? The treasurer meticulously, enumerates the value of the club property at the end of the season as follows: Notice board 85c (probably notifying the uninitiated in the game that "tresspassers would be prosecuted") 6 flags and posts, $1.29. 6 tees, $1.50; 60 books of rules, $6.00; Total assets $9.64. Golf was certainly not in the million-dollar class in Canada half a century ago, but its devotees, possibly enjoyed the game just as much as its followers do today with all its luxurious surroundings.

It is no secret that the leading American professionals were profoundly glad when last season Bobby Jones decided to drop out of championship golf. The shadow of the great Georgian player, had rested heavily upon them the past few years. In whatever event he entered and wherever, he was the dominating figure. He it was who drew the galleries, the Armours, the Hagens, the MacDonald Smiths and Diegels being more or less neglected. Jones is out of the picture but now along comes another colorful player in the debonaire, blond George Von Elm, who, forsaking the amateur ranks a few months ago, has already stepped in to pull down $6,750, his half share of 1st and 2nd money in the $25,000 Agua Caliente tournament. It was bad enough for Jones to steal their popularity thunder but Von Elm can also do that perhaps, plus the real money itself which Jones could not take.

A very big threat is the former U. S. amateur champion who has ranked for years second only to Jones himself. He is quite well known and very popular in Canada. In 1928 he participated in the Canadian Open at Rosedale, Toronto, and won the gold medal awarded by the Royal Canadian Golf Association to the leading amateur. In 1929 however, at Kanawaki, Montreal, he had to play second fiddle to Ross Somerville. Last year at Ancaster he again led all the amateurs competing in the Canadian Open, and once more won the gold medal. Johnny Golden, who tied with Von Elm at Agua Caliente and defeated him in the playoffs has played once or twice in the Canadian Open, but has never made any showing here.

In British Columbia, where they play golf the year round, they are still clicking off "Holes-in-one." This month at the Victoria Golf Club, two such performances were registered. Vancouver players came across with five such feats, Mr. F. L. Townley, of the Shaughnessy Heights Club, quit making golfing history on the Pacific Coast, by recording the stunt for the second time in a period of two weeks, each time at the htird hole. The far-away Powell River Club, also registered the performance.

The reports presented at the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association this month in New York, show that the governing body of golf in the States, has very extensive and successful activities. Total receipts in 1930 were $112,985. Of this very large sum, the galleries at the championships, contributed $53,432. Admission fees in the Amateur were $27,659. Open, $23,382, and Women's championship, $2,390. It will be noticed that the public paid more to witness the amateurs play than they did for the professionals. In Canada the very reverse is the case. The "gate" in this country at the Amateur championship, does not commence to compare with that at the Open championship. In Canada, no entrance fee is charged to witness the Women's championship although there has been some agitation lately, that spectators should pay to witness the event. The other big item in the U. S. receipts is $32,520 from annual dues paid by the 1065 clubs affiliated with the Association. Nr. Ramsay, the President in his annual address estimated that there are now over 5,000 clubs in the States and over 2,000,000 golfers.

Tournament expenses amounted to $19,922 the Walker Cup team representing the United States, in Great Britain last year, accounting for $9,511. It costs money to play International matches and it will be many years before Canada can afford to send a team of amateurs Overseas. The sum of $41,918 was expended last year by the Association on the Green section which has its headquarters in Washington, but it is generally conceded that this large amount of money is well spent as the service is invaluable to the member clubs in the upkeep of their courses. In fact, Mr. Ramsay went on to record that "golf would be impossible today without the services of the Green Section.

The Association is in splendid financial shape having no less than $108,347 invested in gilt edged securities. The Executive evidently has faith in Canada, for no less than $50,000 of the total investments is in Canadian Pacific Trust Bonds. It is interesting to note that Mr. F. J. Byers, chairman of the International Relationship Committee, reported that "with the exception of the size and weight og the golf ball, the governing bodies in Great Britain and the United States are virtually in accord. Your Committee is hopeful that before long the smae ball (presumably the new U. S ball) will be played in both Great Britain and the United States."

Mr. B. L. Anderson, Secretary, Royal Canadian Golf Association, has announced this week, that the dates fo the Canadian Amateur Championship at the Royal Montreal Golf Club are, August 10th, to the 15th. The inter-Provincial match which will also be held at the Royal Montreal, will be played on Friday and Saturday, August 7th and 8th. As previously announced, the Open Championship of Canada is scheduled for the Mississauga Golf Club, Toronto, July 9th, 10th and 11th.

Metcalfe was 4 up on Hamley coming home, but the latter got a five end and beat Metcalfe out 9 to 8. At the end of the tenth end in the Archibald-Best contest both rinks were tied. An extra end was played and was played so fine that the umpire was called to render his verdict. N. H. Hamley and R. J. Martin played another very close game, and an extra end was played by these rinks with the decision going to Hamley.

ASK GRAIN EXCHANGE PROBE.

WINNIPEG, February 4 (C.P.).—Activities of grain exchanges should be investigated by a Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion and Provincial Governments, it was urged in a resolution passed by the Canadian Council of Agriculture. The Council, in annual convention here, will refer the resolution to the Government concerned.

Another request made by the Council was for the reduction of the domestic freight rate on wheat to the level of the export rate.

OSHAWA HERE ON THURSDAY

Motor City Manager Bringing Crew of Starry Ice Performers For Group Play-off.

FIRST OF SERIES.

"Doc" Rowden and his company of smart Oshawa redshirts come to the Brock Street Arena to-morrow to clash with the Petes in the first game of the group championship series. The Motor City crew have a sextet of starry ice performers and completed their regular schedule without a loss. Many experts early picked them as the probable winners of provincial honors in the O.H.A. this year.

However, the redshirts are going to meeting strong opposition when they face- off with the fast-coming Petes. In the last two games with Bowmanville the blue and white shook themselves down into real form and had no difficulty in disposing of Ringer Evans' team, which had trimmed them in the early stages of the season.

The whole blue outfit is hitting on high right now and with their better combination and greater speed they are given almost an even break to turn the tables on Oshawa and emerge as the Lakeshore group's champions. The whole squad will be out at strength for the main fixture to-morrow night, and fans are promised a sizzling hockey entertainment.

WOULD FINGERPRINT TRIVIAL OFFENDERS

Massachusetts Police Chiefs' Association Plans Drastic Measures.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 4. — Drastic measures by which police plan to photograph and fingerprint every person arrested in this State for even the most trifling offense excepting those involving city or town ordinances, are contained in a bill which the Massachusetts Police Chiefs' Association will attempt to make law.

The proposed measure, prepared by Police Commissioner Hultman and unanimously approved by the police chiefs at their monthly meeting here, will be submitted to the Legislature shortly. It is the most startling legislative bill of its kind ever considered in this State.

The measure would have an extremely wide scope. Such trivial offenders as persons charged with drunkenness, profanity, simple assault, speeding, evading a fare, making excessive smoke with an automobile and hundreds of other minor offenses would undergo the same procedure in the rogues' gallery that criminals do at the present time.

In addition to the photographs and fingerprints, a record of the name, age, height, weight and general description of each person arrested would be placed on file. Police would also be permitted to take measurements by the Bertillon system.

As a result of the increase in crime during the past years better means of coping with criminals must be employed said Commissioner Hultman in presenting the bill to the Police Chiefs' Association. The proposal was to establish a finger-print bureau in every city and town in the State, and the head of any police department would be obliged to furnish copies of fingerprints and photographs to any other police chief requiring them. The records would be sent to the National Identification Bureau at Washington, D. C., which acts as a clearing house for all police departments, and would also be available for direct transmission from one State to another.

For years Boston police have been taking fingerprints of persons arrested for serious crimes, although statutes make no provision for the taking of either fingerprints or photographs of persons not convicted of any crime.

Everyone arrested in London and Paris, said Commissioner Hultman, was fingerprinted and photographed. Sir Hugh Turnbull, police commissioner of London, had told him that the number of "wanted" persons discovered by these records was astounding.

Chief of Police Arthur H. Pratt, of Weymouth, President of the Police Chiefs' Association, expressed the opinion that every child should be fingerprinted.

Buyers Purchase Fish From Schooners in Port

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 4.—Competition among buyers and wholesale fish houses along the Portland waterfront began when the bidding method of buying fish direct from the boat was resumed in place of the former system under which all firms paid the fishermen one price according to a "gentlemen's agreement" reached at daily price conferences.

The new system affects three large wholesale houses here, one Boston firm, smaller buyers and several hundred fishermen operating out of this port.

Fishermen agreed the change would benefit them and especially those owning the greater interest in their vessels, inasmuch as they would sell their catch to the highest bidder and thus obtain the maximum price.

The so-called gentlemen's agreement which had been in force at this port for some time was a regulation of fish prices agreed upon by officials of the wholesale companies each morning regardless of whether or not the fish were offshore or shore fish. The price offered in the morning remained fixed for the day.

This system, according to the fishermen, discriminated against those operating on a small scale who landed their catch the same day it was caught. Shore fish, it was contended, were fresher and should command a higher price. Fishermen believed that under the new system all men owning their own craft would be able to secure a higher price for their catches.

MEANT FREE BEER FOR HIS FRIENDS

Boston Book Seller Throws a Little Excitement Into Ranks of "Dry Agents."

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 4.—H. Elisha (Chiek) Marston, who runs a small bookshop on Fayette Street, started something when he advertised that homebrew would be served free in his establishment during open-house week in the Fayette Street artists' colony. Applications for reservations came in the proportion of a deluge and Marston was forced to serve belated notice that the highlyMprized home-brew was not for the general public, but only for friends and old customers.

Marston was unable to get a ruling from Attorney-General Warner on the legal aspects of free-beer dispensing. Instead of 'going to the mat" on the question, it was indicated he would be very careful not to attempt any tests of the law with prohibition officials.

Despite the book-seller's later statement, a goodly throng was expected to be present when open-house week started at the bookshop and it was not anticipated that signs in the windows referring to luncheons and supper would offer any distracting influence so far as guesses concerning the brew's alcoholic content were concerned.

No indication as to what action 'dry" sleuths might take in the matter was given before the largesse was scheduled to begin.

Marston declared the beer was ready and ripe and had the tang that cheers. Then he added considerable discouragement for the thirsty population.

'I am sorry that the notion has somehow got around that I have unlimited hogsheads of free beer for distribution to the general public during open-house week in the Fayette Street artists colony," he said.

'Such is not the case at all. I have made a modest batch of what I consider to be very good home-brew, for distribution in my own kitchen to my old customers and friends.

'At first I thought of including the strangers within my gates, but I had no idea so many strangers would apply. I have had hundreds of applications for reservations and I have been obliged to refuse most of them because of the difficulty of telling honest citizens and prohibition agents apart these days.

'Besides, the movie camera men were down here to attend the meeting of the Amateur Brwer's Union, and between them and the brewers they managed to drink up one of the small kegs. I only made 50 gallons and it looks as if the beer I have wouldn't last very long when my friends descend on me."

THERE should be no health penalty attached to Motherhood. There isn't among really healthy women. Expectant mothers who think of the baby's health as well as their own, should take a good vegetable tonic to protect the two lives. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol—nothing injurious. It strengthens the mother before the baby's arrival. Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The 16 ounces thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SIX and sixty are good pals—for six never has a thought that isn't full of sunshine, and sixty is one of those rare old ladies who has learned how to live. They both get their brimming and joyous health the same simple, normal, natural way.

Doctors pretty well agree that (barring germ diseases) most illness and headache are due to failure to keep "clean inside."

In blaming this condition for most of our sickness, so they agree also on the safe way to relieve it—keeping clean inside by the Nujol type of treatment. Nujol is not a medicine at all. It contains no drugs. It is colorless and tasteless, and children love it.

Two things you have to remember if you want to enjoy "Nujol health."

One. Don't expect results overnight. This is nature's own method, and nature is never violent. Two. Be sure you get Nujol. Your druggist has this pure and drugless product in a sealed package, trade-marked "Nujol" to protect you.

Give the simple Nujol treatment a real trial. Why not begin tonight?

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

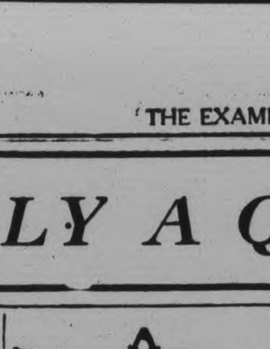
'What's the matter?" asked Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig.

'Plenty is the matter!" answered Uncle Wiggily.

'But can't you tell me so I'll know?" asked the pig, who was walking backward and could not see what went on behind hime. Uncle Wiggily was also walking, but the rabbit was going frontwards and he could see things that his fat friend couldn't.

Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail were walking through the snowy woods, the rabbit going frontward and the pig going backward, and they were tossing between them a hot carrot in a glass jar. It looked as if they were playing a funny ball game.

But, really, they had to toss the carrot that way because it was so hot they could not hold it in their paws to take it to Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear gentleman, in his ice cave, to cure his cold. You know how it is when you pick up a hot, baked potato. If you toss it from one hand to the other it doesn't burn as much as if you held it all the while in one paw. That's what Uncle Wiggily and the pig were doing with the hot carrot. And as they were walking along, the pig going backward because he had guessed the wrong number, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily said: "Oh! Oh!" And the pig asked what was the matter.



Here you go! Catch!

"The Fox is coming!" said the rabbit 'Is he?" asked the pig and he started to turn around to see. But Uncle Wiggily said:

"Don't turn your head. If you do you may not catch this hot carrot when I toss it to you If it falls the glass jar will break and then the carrot will lose its hotness and it can't cure Mr Whitewash's cold."

"All right," grunted Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig. 'I won't turn around, but please tell me what the Fox is doing. I suppose he is coming along back of me, isn't he?"

'Yes," answered the rabbit, 'he is, and I think he is going to nibble one or both of us. But keep on tossing the hot carrot, Twisty, and keep on walking. We may get to the ice cave of Mr. Whitewash before the Fox can catch us."

So the two friends tossed the hot carrot to and fro, like a ball game, but alas! Before they reached the ice cave of the Polar Bear gentleman, the Bad Chap was close behind Mr. Twistytail and was looking over the pig's shoulder at Uncle Wiggily.

'Ah, ha!" snickered the Fox 'You are playing a ball game, I see!"

'Sort of!" Uncle Wiggily answered, tossing the glass jar of hot carrot to the pig. It went through the air so fast that the Fox could not see what it was. But he thought it was a ball.

'Yes," grunted Mr. Twistytail, for now he could see the Fox who had come out from behind and stood at one side sort of between the rabbit and the pig. "We are having a fine ball game."

'Don't you want to join us?" asked Uncle Wiggily politely.

'Whatever did he want to ask him that for?" thought the pig. "If the Fox plays in this game I know what will happen. Either Uncle Wiggily or I will soon be 'it' and we'll be nibbled. What's the idea?"

But Uncle Wiggily had thought of a way to fool the Fox. So he asked him again:

'Don't you want to play ball?"

'Why, yes, I'd love to!" snickered the Fox, thinking to himself: "I will not only play ball but I will nibble Uncle Wiggily."

'Here you go! Catch!" suddenly cried the rabbit and he tossed the hot glass jar of boiled carrot to the Fox who thought it was just a regular baseball. The Bad Chap caught it, but when he found it burning his paws he howled:

"What shall I do with it! Ouch! Ouchie! What'll I do!"

"Hold it! Hold it!" cried Uncle Wiggily, just like a baseball player. 'Come on, Twisty!" he called. "Let's try to make some runs!" So the rabbit and pig ran away through the woods. After them ran the Fox, holding the hoot carrot and being burned more and more all the while and the Bad Chap kept yelling:

"What'll I do with this hot ball?"

'Hold it!" cried Uncle Wiggily. Hold it!" Then he and the pig ran fast and got to the ice cave. In they popped, but Mr. Longears turned and, reaching his paw through the half-opened door, said:

"Give me the hot carrot ball now!" He took it from the Fox, who howled as he put snow on his burned paw:

'What about me?" asked the Fox.

"You're out!" And that's how Uncle Wiggily outed the Fox The Bad Chap ran away howling, the hot carrot soon cured the Polar Bear's cold and all was peace and happiness.

Welfare Legislation Prepares For Session

Ontario Assembly to Deal Extensively With Hospitals and Prisons.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4 (By The Canadian Press). — Genera revamping of the laws governing hospitals and penal institutions of the province and action on cancer research and radium, following the recommendations of the Ross Commission on Public Welfare, will be the basis for much of the legislation at the second session of the eighteenth Legislative Assembly of Ontario which opens on Feb. 12.

Minor amendments to the Liquor Control Act, Motor Vehicles Act, Municipalities Act, Security Frauds Prevention and Highways Act may also be included on the government's legislative programme. Despite the deficit of $628,000 shown in the presessional report of the Provincial Treasurer, no change is anticipated at the forthcoming session in schedules and methods of taxation.

One new portfolio has been introduced to the executive council and considerable change has occurred in the personnel and grouping of departments, since the last session. Three ministers return with the portfolios they held in the last session. Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General; Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, and Hon. W. F Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests. Newcomers in the Executive Council are Hon. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health; Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Provincial Secretary; Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, the new portfolio created in accordance with the report of the Ross Commission. Hon. Paul Poisson and Hon. H. C. THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 63 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

With the men who survived, Tarzan got up steam upon the Kincaid, with the aid of the mate he planned to set out in quest of Jungle Island. Next morning came a heavy gale from the west, forcing them for days to lay within shelter of the river's mouth. Upon the deck the pack wandered by day without restraint, for they had learned through Tarzan and Mugambi that they must harm no one now on the ship.

At night they were confined below. Tarzan's joy had been unbounded when he learned from his wife that the little child who had perished in the village of M'ganwazam was not their own son. Who that baby was they could not guess. It seemed logical to them to hope that their little Jack had never been brought aboard the Kincaid, since the faithful Swede had insisted no other child had been on the ship since he lay at Dover.

As Jane and Tarzan stood upon the Kincaid's deck recounting to one another the details of the various adventures through which each had passed since they parted in their London home, there glared at them beneath scowling brows a hidden watcher upon the shore. Through the man's brain was passing a plan whereby he might still thwart the escape of Lord and Lady Greystoke, and achieve a terrible vengeance besides.

This watcher was Paulvitch, athirst for revenge. He alone had managed to escape the Kincaid during the bloody carnage. When midnight's silence betokened all asleep aboard the ship, he made his way, undiscovered, to her side, a sinister smile curling his bearded lips Here he halted, trembling with nervous excitement. But no sound came from above. Ah! If he could but get his hands on a certain little hardwood case hidden in the cabin!

IN MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, Minn., February 4 (C. P.). — More than $50,000 in loot was obtained in three postal robberies under investigation to-day by Minnesota postal inspectors.

All Saints' To Spend $17,000 on Parish Hall

More welcome perhaps than robins in April are rumors in February of prospective jobs for the coming of spring. Two of them were reported on the street to-day, possible contracts, not robins.

The congregation of All Saints' Anglican Church decided at a meeting last night to spend about $17,000 in renovating their Parish Hall at the corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke Streets, and it is understood that the congregation of St. James' United Church have plans under way for the expending of $18,000 on improvements to their church. TUXIS BOYS PLAN TO RAISE $125.00

Peterborough Boys' Work Board Sponsoring Bond Selling Campaign.

NEW SYSTEM THIS YEAR.

Peterborough Boys Plan to Raise $125.00

Peterborough's part in the coming Bond Selling Campaign is being sponsored by the Peterborough Boys' Work Board as usual. The local board had one of its most successful years last year. The Bond Selling Campaign was a real success and as a direct result there was sufficient funds to take care of local needs. The board was successful in the operation of an Athletic Contest, a Boys' Conference, a Church Softball League and the Church Hockey League. The latter was under the able leadership of Howard Hall and his associates. The local board also directed the Parliament Election Campaign which was one of the most successful in the history of Peterborough. It is hoped that this coming year will be even more fruitful than season just experienced.

This year the Bond Books have been changed somewhat. They now include six $1.00 bonds, four $2.00 bonds, one $5.00 bond and a fifty cent share to be bought or sold to boys only. A Bronze Medal is presented to a boy selling $6.00, a Silver Medal for selling $14.000 and a Gold Medal for selling over Fifty Dollars worth.

Peterborough's objective is $125.00. The local board receive 10% of monies up to objective and 50% of it over and above objective. The Campaign runs from February 7th to February 21st.

The Ontario Boys' Work Board have formed a Graduate Members' Association of Parliament where all the past members can still keep in close fellowship with the Parliament. The President of this association is Jim Gibson a past premier of the Parliament. The purpose of this newly formed body is not only to keep in constant touch with the activities of the Parliament, but to also increase in spiritual and cultural growth.

The most important articles taken into consideration in Parliament were:

(1) World Friendship—Suggestions to join the "Youth Section of the League of Nations of Canada"—to study war, its effect and its prevention. Also encourage groups to put on a Model Assembly of the League having different members take the part of different peoples through out the world to encourage a better feeling of fellowship between different races and creeds.

(2) Morning Watch—To lay stress on our Spiritual Growth by the keeping of the morning watch-reading a portion of the Scriptures and engaging in devotions.

(3) Personal Problems—To have leaders help boys with the many problems that face them in the process of growth.

(4) Three C's Campaign—To help fellows live a better life. Clean speech, Clean living and Clean Athletics.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb. 4. (CP)—A wind storm that raked snow into impassable drifts along highways had practically isolated many northern Vermont municipalities to-day.

The late Mr. Sargent was born in Peterborough, on Marcy 19, 1855, and moved to Westwood at an early age. He was a blacksmith and auger maker by trade, but later established a general store which he operated for more than forty years.

He was a staunch supporter of the Methodist Church holding many offices and was a firm believer in the Union. Eleven years ago deceased suffered a stroke from which he partially recovered, but was seriously stricken three years later. Through these long years of suffering his patient endurance and Christian fortitude were ever manifest. He was a man of sterling qualities and a lover of clean 'port.

W. White, both of England.

There will be a short service at her late home on Friday at 2.00 p.m., followed by a service in St. George's Anglican Church at 2.15 p.m. The rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, will officiate, and interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

NORWOOD, Feb. 4.—The funeral of Mrs. John Christie held from the family residence here on January 27, to St. Paul's cemetery, provided fitting tribute to the memory of a young woman whose kindly, Christian character had earned for her a number of friends throughout the district.

At the High Mass, which was sung by Rev. Father McCarthey, he also touchingly referred, in a short address, to the sterling qualities of the deceased young woman, who had passed away at the early age of 21 years.

Before her marriage on September 30, 1930, the deceased was Mary Amelia Quinlan, and her passing is the cause of much sorrow. She leaves her husband; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Quinlan, and six brothers.

McFadden, elder daughter of R. W. McFadden of this city.

ASSOCIATION HEARS REV. J. D. PATERSON

Trip Through Scotland is Subject of Address to Prince of Wales' Organization.

The regular February meeting of the Prince of Wales' Home and School Association was held in the Kindergarten Room on Monday evening with a splendid attendance.

The President, Mrs. G. A. Spiers presided.

A very interesting program was rendered with Rev. Douglas Paterson as the speaker. He took his audience on a trip through Scotland and described very graphically the lovely scenery and customs of the land of the heather. He described the birthplace of Robert Bruce and Annie Laurie. During his address, he called upon Mrs H. E. Connolly to give a reading entitled "In Covenanting Days," by S. R. Crockett, and later in his description of Annie Laurie's birthplace Mrs. Howard sang the song one never tires of "Annie Laurie." At the conclusion of his speech she sang "My 'Ain Folk."

Other numbers on the program which were much enjoyed were: Vocal solo by Kenneth Gibson; violin solo, Ruth Fisher; banjo duet, E. Clarke and Mr. James; reading, Allegn Shoales.

Mr. Kerr of the Prince of Wales staff moved a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Paterson and all those who assisted with the program. This was seconded by Miss Myra Baird. Before the conclusion of the meeting the roll was called, and Miss Connolly's room and Miss Packenham's room were found to be tied for the honor of holding the banner for the ensuing month. It was decided that each should have it for two weeks. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Fire Strikes In Northern Ontario Town

GOGAMO BLOCK MASS OF RUINS $100,000 LOSS

Occupants of Ten Buildings Forced to Flee in Night Attire.

BLAME OVERHEATED STOVE.

Citizens Turn Out En Masse to Fight For Very Existence.

GOGAMO, Ont., Feb. 5. —(CP)—Damage which is expected to reach $100,000 was caused by the early morning fire which razed the business block of this town early today. Although the fire was first discovered at 4 a.m., it was considered remarkable that there were no lives lost as the town was asleep and the occupants of the buildings had to flee from the flames in their night attire.

The buildings, ten in number, which were mostly all frame structures were soon swept to the ground and the flames were not brought under control till the driving wind changed at about 6 a.m., and a slight snowfall began.

Forestry Men Aid

Members of the Ontario Forestry Branch stationed here turned out with their special pumping engines, while a Canadian National Railway train, equipped with fire tanks and other apparatus was rushed from Foleyett arriving in time to aid in extinguishing the flames.

During the early hours of the the morning the citizens turned out en masse to fight for their homes, in many cases their existence, for few of the buildings or their contents are insured.

Starts in Hotel.

Starting in the hotel from an overheated stove, the flames quickly [illegible] and red the streets in sub-zero weather. All escaped from the hotel and homes safely, and the town is minus casualty was reported.

In an effort to stem the advancing flames, horses were hitched to walls of buildings and the structures forcibly pulled apart to create a fire gap.

Gogamo is 368 miles north-west of Toronto on the Canadian National Railway.

STOCK MODELS WILL TRY PACES

Daytona Beach to be Busy Racing Course Remainder of Week.

CAMPBELL WAITS CHANCE.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.—While Captain Malcolm Campbell of Great Britain again groomed his huge Bluebird II machine for an assault upon the land speed record of 231 miles an hour, four smaller cars were entered to-day in trials for class speed records.

Campbell planned to make his straightaway attempt this afternoon sometime after low tide, weather and beach conditions permitting. Low tide occurs about 3.45 p.m. (E.S.T.).

Meantime, L. Warren Baker, chief steward, announced that two stock cars were en route from Detroit for trials in Class B, 305 to 488 cubic inch displacement, and that a machine, powered with a Diesel engine, would arrive to-night or to-morrow for trials in the experimental class.

Has Midget Model

Besides his giant racing car, Captain Campbell also has brought with him a midget four cylinder car, in which he hopes to set a new speed record for automobiles having a piston displacement less than 45 cubic inches.

Baker said Billy Arnold and Harry Hartz, well-known United States drivers, probably would arrive with stock cars tomorrow. C. L. Cummins, Indianapolis, is coming here with the Diesel car, similar to one in which he attained a speed of 80 miles an hour last year. There is no existing record now for the stock cars Arnold and Hartz will drive. The record for cars similar to the midget machine Campbell will drive after his trials in the big Bluebird is 87.70.

Campbell was prevented from making an attack upon the world's record in his Bluebird yesterday because of a high wind that swept the natural speedway at the beach and blew soft

Amateur Radio Fan Keeps Police Busy On Fake Messages

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 5 (C.P.). —If the Evanston police ever find him they plan to try to collect for several gallons of gasoline and possibly for the wear and tear on the tires of their automobile.

It seems that the person they are looking for is an amateur radio fan who built himself a set on which he can transmit on the same wavelength as the police broadcast. Then he proceeded to amuse himself by sending out such false alarms as these:

"Gentleman beating his wife," "Autoists passing red lights," "Burglar climbing fire escape," and "Bootlegger delivering his goods."

And the worst of it was that he placed his addresses so the squad car was kept going from one end of the city to the other.

STRAIN TELLING ON LABOR CHIEF

MacDonald Will Take Week-end Rest But Rumors of Breakdown Denied.

AT DESK AS USUAL.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (A.P.)—Disturbing reports that Premier Ramsay MacDonald had suffered a breakdown in health and would take an immediate vacation to recuperate were discredited at Number Ten Downing Street this morning.

The Premier, despite an all-night session of the House of Commons, was at his desk. His presence was not required in all of last night's debate which kept the Commons members on their benches for 17 hours, and it did not greatly interrupt his schedule.

Authoritative statements were made [illegible] down in health.

The Labor Government now has clear sailing in Parliament and the chief helmsman, Mr. MacDonald, is watching for an opportunity to take a long English weekend at one of the English south coastal resorts.

The strain which he has been under for months has been a severe tax on his strength. He shows fatigue, but he has a reputation for marvellous recuperative powers.

He is a tremendous worker, laboring almost incessantly from seven o'clock in the morning until after midnight. He starts the day, when at Downing Street, with a brisk walk to St. James' Park.

SMUGGLING TRIO ARE COMMITTED; TRIAL IN JUNE

Session Purely Formal Following Yesterday's Startling Evidence.

METHODS LAID BARE.

Low Released on $21,000 Bail, Downey $16,000 and Byrne $12,000.

LIVERPOOL N.S., Feb. 5. (CP)—J. Roes Byrne, Liverpool barrister, Harry Low, of Windsor, Ont., and George Downey of Cornwall, Ont., were committed this morning to stand trial at the next session of the Supreme Court on charges of conspiracy to smuggle and inducing others to be concerned in illegally landing goods. Downey and Byrne were also committed on the charge of attempting to bribe a customs official, but on this charge Magistrate E. S. Hendry did not commit Low.

Formal Proceedings

This morning's proceedings were purely formal, following a sensational session yesterday afternoon, in the course of which E. C. Smith, fish merchant, described the landing of 500 cases of liquor at his wharf, for which service he was paid $1,200, and E. H. Nickerson, customs officer, told how he was offered $200 weekly to see that Nova Scotia police were out of town when landings were being made. An envelope containing four $50 bills which Nickerson said he received at the post office was introduced in evidence and identified by A. T. Logan Chief Preventive Officer, who described the seizure of a railway car containing $16,000 worth of liquor packed in fish boxes. By means of a waybill and seal numbers, the car seized at Halifax and emptied at Truro, was identified as one which had been reloaded packed with the fish-labelled liquor. Arrival of the empty car at its Ontario destination led to the arrest of Low, Downey and Byrne.

Bail in the sums of $21,000 for Low, $16,000 for Downey and $12,000 for Byrne was renewed. They will appear for trial at the June session of the Supreme Court here.

WHEAT SHORTAGE POSSIBLE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(C.P.)—Chairman Legge of the Farm Board to-day declared a shortage of wheat in the United States was 'entirely possible" if the drought contnues.

Middlesex Agent Accepts Live Chicken In Payment for Subscription to Paper

LONDON, Ont. Feb. 5.—(CP)—The Western barber who swops haircuts for a bushel of grain has nothing on the Middlesex agent for an Ontario publication who gives a year's subscription to his magazine for a live chicken (the edible kind).

His strange merchandising scheme was disclosed when four young Strathroy men appear before Magistrate F. M. Scandrett in County Police Court this morning charged with transporting fowl without a license. One was fined $1 and costs, while the others were let go with a warning on payment of court costs.

County Constable Fred Alfred, who had the young men haled into court said that they had been acting as agents for the "Ontario Farmer" in canvassing the rural districts they accepted a live chicken in lieu of the $1.00 subscription fee, the constable said.

They then sold the chickens to dealers who in turn sold them to the public.

The Magistrate held that the youths had no right to carrying the fowl from place to place without a license and said that he could not accept their plea that they were ignorant of the law.

CROWE IS GIVEN THREE MONTHS

Pleaded Guilty to Two Counts of Chicken Stealing in North Monaghan and Smith.

ASKED FOR LENIENCY.

Arthur Crowe, aged 45, city resident, was this morning sentenced by Police Magistrate Langley to three months' determinate and an indeterminate term thereafter not to exceed six months, in the Ontario Reformatory on two counts of chicken stealing.

Crowe pleaded guilty to stealing 28 chickens, valued at $35, from H. Mickell, of North Monaghan, on January 18, and 60 birds, valued at $70, from Walter McKee, Smith Township, on several midnight visits to the hen coop during December and January. Crown Attorney McElderry stated that the chickens stolen from McKee were prize birds, and that Crowe had killed them and peddled them around to local restaurants.

"Previous to this man's arrest there were almost nightly reports of chicken thefts in this district, but since he has been detained in the bastile, chicken thefts have entirely ceased," declared Mr. McElderry. "Those with whom he lived say that he had a habit of going out about 3 o'clock every morning."

In his own defence, Crowe merely asked the Magistrate to be as lenient as possible.

An aged lady pleaded guilty to vagrancy. According to police for the past two years she has been staying at many private homes in the city, leaving each in turn without paying her board. Police are at a loss as to the manner to proceed in handling her case. She was remanded for three days for sentence.

Soviet 5-Year Plan Be Completed In Four

MOSCOW, Feb. 5. (CP)—Joseph Stalin, making one of his infrequent speeches, to-day told the national industrial congress that the five year plan of industrialistion certainly will be completed in four years.

The Soviet Union soon will be the greatest agricultural nation on earth he said, and the Communist system has been demonstrated before the world as the only one in which an economic crisis such as has laid low the capitalistic nations is impossible.

Australian Imports Reveal Big Decrease

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 5. —(C. P. Cable via Reuters)— Imports to Australia in the past six months showed a drastic reduction owing to the important tariff changes effected by the Labor Government in that period, and were also substantially lower than the exports for the same period.

Imports amounted to $192,000,000 compared with imports of $374,000,000 in the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Exports for the last six months were $300,000,000 compared with exports of $301,000,000 in the same period of the previous fiscal year.

LITTLE COMMENT MADE ON LUMBERMAN'S MOTION

Members of the government are unwilling to make direct comment on a resolution of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association that credit be extended New Zealand to enable purchase of Canadian lumber for reconstruction purposes. The resolution was passed at a meeting of lumbermen in Toronto yesterday. The general feeling in official circles, however, is that the Government would not hesitate to provide such credits if they were asked for by the New Zealand Government.

Local Girl Makes Continental Trip

When Miss Rhea Muir of St. Catharines recently completed a motor trip alone to California and back, American motor club officials told her she was the first woman to make the transcontinental tourist trip alone. However there is a girl right here in Peterborough who did that very thing last summer. She is Miss Aurelia Giroux living at 191 Locke street.

Miss Giroux left here the first week of July, travelling alone in a Ford coupe she motored to Chicago and west to Monterey, California, going by the northern route. From time to time, her friends in Peterborough received post-cards from her, sent from different towns along the way. When she arrived in Monterey, she wrote a letter home describing the place and her trip so far.

The return trip took her through Texas and many of the [illegible] home early in August after a very enjoyable tour. Miss Giroux says nothing worse than a few punctures happened to the car the entire trip. The distance covered has been estimated to be around ten thousand miles.

CANADA LARGEST CUSTOMER OF U.S.

Exports to Dominion Were $659,326,000 Against Imports of $402,306,000.

RUSSIAN TRADE GROWS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 5 (C.P.). —Canada remained the greatest national customer of the United States in international trade generally for 1930, though the actual sum total of exports sent from this country to Great Britain was somewhat in excess of Canadian purchases, it was shown in a Department of Commerce report made public to-day.

Exports to the Dominion amounted to $659,326,000, against $949,446,000 in 1922, and imports from Canada for the same period were $402,306,000, against $503,496,000.

The 1930 exports to Great Britain were $676,106,000, against $948,000,000 the preceding year, and imports were $309,393,000, against $329,750,000.

Exports to Russia amounted to $111,362,000, the largest for any year in modern times, and compared with $36,653,000, which was the average annual export of the United States to Russia in the four-year period from 1923 to 1926.

Imports from Russia amounted to $21,963,000 in 1930.

FORMER FLIER SUICIDES

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 5.—John P. Dandy, 40, a lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps during the Great War, committed suicide on a street here early to-day, after seeing a moving picture which dramatized the part aviators played in the air, police reported.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Dandy, with whom he lived, said her son had been despondent recently because of ill health.

RED ORGANIZER FREED

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Feb. 5 (C.P.) —After a three-day trial, John Hudson, Communist unemployed organizer of Winnipeg, last night was found guilty in King's Bench Court of having been a member of an unlawful assembly, but was acquitted on a charge of making seditious utterance.

The trial of the organizer rose out of unemployed demonstrations in Moose Jaw last November and December.

MAXTON CLASHES WITH MACDONALD ON PROGRAMME

Left Wing Leader Makes Virtual Declaration of War on Premier.

CHALLENGE FLUNG BACK.

Premier Says Gov't Not Prepared to Open Cotton Mills Under Emergency Act.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Labor's left wing, aggressively pursuing Sir Oswald Mosley's policies for drastic action to curb unemployment, made a virtual declaration of war on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Interest was keen as the Prime Minister promptly accepted the challenge and immediately flung it back at the Independent Labor Party.

The tussle came about when the Prime Minister announced the Parliamentary program for next week: telling Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin that Wednesday would be allotted for discussion of the Conservative motion of censure, with a subsequent date for a Liberal motion on unemployment.

James Maxton, leader of the Independent Labor Party, immediately demanded whether time would be allowed for discussion of the left wing's motion dealing with the cotton lockout in Lancashire. This was more

Settlers Continue To Flow Westward

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 (C.P.)—A heavy budget of technical papers dealing with such subjects as navigation along the Hudson Bay route and the flow of settlement to Western and Northern Canada, faced members of the Dominion Land Surveyors' Association as they swung into the second and last day of their 20th annual meeting. Installation of officers for 1931 will conclude the sessions this evening.

Presenting the report of the Land Settlement Committee, K. F. McCurker declared the flow of settlers to the Northern and Western parts of Canada showed no signs of abatement in the last fiscal year. More homesteads and soldiers' grants had been filed at the Grande Prairie and Peace River land offices than in the previous fiscal year.

FISH AND GAME ORGANIZATION PROPOSES TO ASK GOVERNMENT FOR GAME SANCTUARY IN COUNTY

Sudbury Pioneer At Century Mark

SUDBURY, Ont., Feb. 5 (C.P.). — To-day Jean Henri, pioneer habitant settler on McFarlane Lake district, five miles from here, celebrated his one hundredth birthday.

It was to have been a splendid "fete d'naisance," but a pall of gloom was cast over the anniversary by the death last week of the partner for 66 years of his joys and sorrows. So it is a quiet celebration.

If there is anything in the theory, hard work is conductive to long life, Jean Henri is evidence of it. "I worked hard all my life," he says, "and in bad conditions, but it did me no harm."

FARMERS WILL TAKE ACTION

Entitled to Share of Millions Being Spent For Relief of Unemployment.

IN PITIABLE STATE.

KINGSTON, Ont., February 5 (Special to The Examiner). — A representative delegation of farmers is under way in Eastern Ontario to make a pilgrimage to Toronto and Ottawa to lay befoe the Provincial and Federal Governments their conviction that they are entitled to a share of the millions being spent for the relief of unemployment. They are satisfied that the Governments know that agriculture is in a pitiable state, but it is quite plain that neither will do anything about it unless the farmers themselves take some action.

A Lanark County farmer writing on the matter, says: "I also urge that the Agricultural Development Board of Ontario be requested to cancel all payments due May 31 next, for if the present state of affairs continues, the debtors won't be able to pay a nickel. Every politician admits that agriculture is the basic industry. Then why not stimulate it first? If something is not quickly done the Province will soon own one big farm and, in due time, not less than half of the land of the Province will be in the hands of a foreign element, which may be expected eventually to lead to the gravest kind of trouble."

Association Went on Record as Opposing Dogs in Hunting Deer.

HONOR CHRIS GRAHAM.

100,000 Trout Fry and 500,000 Pickerel Placed in Waters Last Summer.

A proposition that the Provincial Government be asked to close one or more of the townships of Belmont-Methuen, Cavandish, Anstruther and Galway to be set apart as a game sanctuary received the unanimous endorsation of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association at the annual meeting held in the Empress Hotel last evening, with president J. W. Gravestock in the chair.

The matter was brought to the attention of the meeting by F. Barrett, on whose initiative it is understood the proposals were first made. He is at present busy getting signatures to a petition for presentation to the Provincial Government, which is at present signed by 75 persons and also by the association.

Mr. Barrett explained that only three out of the 75 petitioners are in favor of the use of dogs in deer hunting. Following some discussion "that the association go on record as being opposed to the use of dogs in deer hunting." The motion carried with 17 for and 3 against.

Receives Recognition

Chris Graham was unanimously elected an honorary life member in recognition of his outstanding contribution to the work of the association of which he has been secretary since formation. Mr. Graham who is also past-president, earns the distinction of being the first and only member to receive such recognition.

Officers for the ensuing year were re-elected as follows—

Honorary President— E. A. Peck, M.P.

President—J. W. Gravestock.

Vice-President—Alex. Waddell.

2nd Vice-president—S. J. Black.

Sec.-treasurer—Chris Graham.

Some changes were made on the executive committee, with the election as follows: F. L. Roy, F. L. Bradburn, E. M. Austin, F. Barrett, C. Smith, H. Lacheur, C. Lech, H. S. Routley, C. H. Rogers, C. Kingdon, B. W. Harvey and L. W. Turner.

In presenting the committee's report for the work of the past year, Mr. Gravestock referred to the large amount of fish re-stocking which had been accomplished stating that "in May we received some very fine consignments of fry from the Government. In all we received 100,000 trout fry for local streams and somethink like half a million pickerel fry for the Otonabee River above Peterborough."

"It sounds as if we got a lot of fish from the Government and perhaps it would sound even more impressive if I was to state we could not have gone into the open market and bought those fish for a thousand dollars," he stated.

In June the report continued, to explain the Department presented the association with about 200 very large brook or speckled trout which

EMPIRE FREE TRADE CANDIDATE SERVED WITH CANADIAN CORPS

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express Fails to Mention Important Fact.

FOUR ENTER CONTEST.

LONDON, February 5 (C.P Cable) —Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express devoted half a page to-day to the entry of Brig.-General A. C. Critchley into the East Islington by-election as Empire Free Trade and United Empire Party candidate without once mentioning that Brig.-General Critchley was born in Calgary or that he served with the Canadian Corps practically throughout the war.

Brig.-General Critchley himself apparently never mentioned his Canadian connections when talking to a Daily Express representative. He "strode up and down the room with that vigor and concentrated energy," said the Express, "which drove him from the rank of junior subaltern in 1914 to Brigadier-General at the age of 28."

Brig.-General Critchley, however, told the reporter, "I know this country and I know the outer Empire as well. It has been terrible to see Britain going steadily down when it ought to be the most prosperous nation in the world."

Four Entered in Field

Besides the Empire Free Trade candidate, who replaces an earlier candidate, there are Conservative, Labor and Liberal candidates in the field for the seat held by the late Dr. Ethel Bentham, Labor, elected in 1929, with a majority of 1,358 in a three-cornered fight.

Free trade journals were to-day more scornful than ever of the changes in the East Islington campaign since Paul Sorinagman Empire Free Trader, withdrew in order to support the Conservative Miss Thelma Cazalet. It is still a mystery whether Lord Beaverbrook approved the earlier candidate's withdrawal. Miss Cazalet says His Lordship did approve, but Beaverbrook denies this.

Lord Beaverbrook will speak on behalf of Brig.-General Critchley tonight. Mrs. Leah Manning is the Labor candidate, and Major H. E. Crawford the Liberal.

Bandit Takes Fall, "Sleeps" on Street

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (C.P.). — "Come over to my grocery and arrest the fellow who just held me up," Joseph Barone telephoned to the police last night. "He's asleep on the sidewalk."

The officers reported they found Robert Schultz on the sidewalk in front of the store, with a pistol in his hand. Apparently he had stumbled on the steps and fallen face downward, the impact knocking him unconscious.

BANK MANAGERS CLAIM FARMERS ALWAYS GENEROUSLY DEALT WITH

Have Not Changed Credit Policy State Sir John Aird and A. L. Phipps.

ANSWER WEIR'S DEMANDS.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5. (CP)—Statements made by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture regarding Canadian banks and the financial situation in the west at the banquet tendered to stock breeders and exhibitors by the Canadian National Exhibition directorate last night were replied to to-day by Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and A. E. Phipps, General Manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

"The banks always have been very generous with the farmers of the West and they haven't changed their policy" said Sir John in commenting on Mr. Weir's demand that the bankers make their stand clear as to whether or not they will give credit next spring.

Other Considerations

Instances cited by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture at the banquet in which a farmer and a rancher, both men of standing and large property holdings, had been refused relatively small loans were referred to by Sir John. Other considerations must have entered in he said, "if the facts are as Mr. Weir says, "the farmers might have appealed to superintendents of the bank at Winnipeg, Calgary or Vancouver" said Sir John. "They had a right to do that or Mr. Weir might have written a letter to the head office of the bank setting forth the circumstances and I think everything would have been straightened away satisfactorily."

The President of the Bank of Commerce stated that the banks at present have under consideration the proposal for the formation of a company to aid the western farmers capitalized at $5,000,000 and which it is proposed to have backed by the Government, the railways and the banks.

Mr. Phipps declared that instead of a shortage of credit to western farmers, the banks had been overindulgent.

Lauds His Medicine, Negro Falls Dead

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (C.P.). — Robert Martin, a Negro, was called a "doctor" because he went from house to house selling his patent medicine.

"I take it myself," he would tell his customers.

Yesterday he entered a home, produced a bottle with his customary remark, and then fell dead.

No Date Is Yet Set For Matthews' Appeal

No definite date has yet been set for the hearing of the appeal against Judge O'Connor's nine months' sentense of ex-Constable Leonard Matthews for burglary on eleven counts, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., informed The Examiner to-day. Hearing of the appeal will not take place for at least another week. Mr. McElderry thought. Meanwhile work is progressing on arranging the evidence for presentation before the Appeal Court.

Matthews is still confined in the county jail, and Mr. McElderry stated that the prisoner will be served with notice of date for the appeal hearing when that date has been fixed.

FIND ARCHBISHOP ROAMING SUBURB

Driven Insane By Conviction He Was Instrumental in Romanoff Deaths.

INTRODUCED RASPUTIN.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 5 (A.P.) — Crazed by a conviction of having been the instrument of death for the Romanoffs, the Archbishop Theophan, former rector of the Orthodox Russian Academy in St. Petersburg, has been interned in an insane asylum here.

The Archbishop was found wandering about a suburb last night muttering self accusations for having introduced Rasputin, the "Black Monk," to the Czar and his family in the days before the war.

Rasputin exercised considerable influence over the Czarina, who believed he would be able to cure the Czarevitch's hemphilia.

Rasputin eventually was assassinated, but the stories of his debaucheries contributed to the loss of popular confidence in the Russian ruling house and were instrumental in bringing about its fall and the deaths of the Royal family.

After the death of the Romanoffs Theophan fled from Russia to Sofia.

sand over the course. He hoped velocity of the wind, which he estimated yesterday at 40 miles an hour, would abate by this afternoon.

FEAR INCREASES AS NEW TREMORS RAZE BUILDINGS

Authorities Send Urgent Appeal For Railway Cars to Evacuate Napier.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS.

Harbor Floor Raises, Trapping Warships—Small Steamers Steer Clear.

NAPIER, New Zealand, February 5 (C.P.). — Frightened by new tremors which toppled standing buildings about the heads of rescue squads, authorities to-day speeded up complete evacuation of this once beautiful New Zealand seaport.

An urgent appeal was sent to railroad officials at Wellington to provide the rolling stock necessary to take refugees from this city and the surrounding country to camps where they can be cared for until sanitary conditions can be restored here and dangerous buildings levelled.

With every hour the death toll has mounted and to-night Red Cross officials said that the number of dead in Napier, Hastings and surrounding villages stricken by Tuesday's quakes, would mount well past 1,000. Thousands are injured and practically everyone is homeless.

Citizens Seek Valuables

Desire of the striken citizenry to make last visits to the shambles which were their homes is complicating evacuation. Many have insisted upon returning to their former residences and searching the ruins for valuables, relics and the like. The authorities have clamped down on this as dangerous and as liable to result in further casualties.

The sewage systems have all been destroyed and if any great number of people remain in the devastated zone much longer pestilence could be expected. H.M.S. Veronica, which was in the harbor when the quake occurred, has asked for new demolition stores to level buildings which are considered hazards.

In the main rescue squads have had their work confined to digging out bodies of victims from the debris but late to-night two women were found alive in a ruined house and extricated. They had been imprisoned since Tuesday morning.

Premier Forbes to-day designated Sunday as a national day of mourning. Churches of all denominations were asked to arrange appropriate services.

Four Ladies Remain.

Four women members of the Commons remained all night along with the men. Lady Astor was dressed in her usual black and white, with a huge bunch of white flowers. She flitted about the chamber during the discussions, but the other three, Lady Cynthia Mosley, Miss Susan Lawrence, and Mrs. Mary Hamilton only paid occasional visits in order to be counted in divisions.

During one of the divisions a Scottish Labor member offered Lady Cynthia a pinch of snuff from his ivory box. Lady Cynthia laughingly accepted, but Lady Astor, to whom the member extended the same courtesy, declined with her characteristic decisiveness.

At about two o'clock this morning a party of society people, including three blonde women and one brunette, strolled into the Visitors' Gallery and were greeted with cheers from the House. The women had on green, white, pink and crimson dresses.

Harbor Floor Raises

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 5 (A.P.)—Refugees from Napier, stricken East Coast city, to-day said ed that H.M.S. Veronica had been stranded in the harbor there by the earthquake which lifted the floor of the bay as much as 18 feet.

The tidal wave which followed the 'quake left the British naval vessel high and dry, but when the water returned she was floated, although the exit to the ocean is barred.

The 'quake apparently had its epicentre at sea not far from Napier, and the entire sea bottom has risen so much that steamers are not venturing close to the quays pending a fresh survey. The inner harbor, where the smaller craft usually anchored, is now dry.

Royal Brothers Land On U.S. Soil Friday

S. S OROPESA, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Oropesa, making good time through the Caribbean to-day with its Royal passengers, the Prince of Wales and Prince George of England, was expected to touch United States soil early Friday morning at Colon or San Cristobal in the canal zone.

An airplane there will take the two Princes eastward across the Isthmus to the Pacific Coast and Panama City where they will board the Oropesa again for the trip to Peru when it has concluded its passage of the canal, which vies with the British owned Suez canal in its importance to world trade.

After leaving Jamaica late yesterday the Prince of Wales expressed deep appreciation for the treatment accorded him and his brother there and transmitted to the authorities an expression of gratitude for the pains they had taken to make their sojourn pleasant and successful.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY IS CHOSEN FOR PROVINCIAL PLOWING MATCH

Delegation's Invitation is Accepted by the Ontario Association.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

TORONTO, February 5. — Peterborough was unanimously chosen as the scene of the Provincial plowing competition to be held next autumn, by the Ontario Plowmen's Association in convention yesterday at the King Edward Hotel.

The invitation to the association was extended by J. J. Duffus past president, who headed a delegation from Peterborough County, composed of J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative, Howard Quinn, champion oat grower, and William Thompson, president of Norwood Fair, and world's champion honey producer.

Report of the last competition held in Perth County last autumn, was presented by C. D. Graham, secretary of the Perth committee. Attendance had exceeded 100,000 he said, and there had been 437 entries.

The educational value of competitions in plowing was stressed by Frank Bell of Perth. Directors of contests must make certain that the rules were rigidly adhered to; that visitors were not allowed to interfere with competitors, and that a time limit to contests was recognized, he said.

Urges Fixed Prices.

A. J. H. Eckardt, honorary president, who, J. Lockie Wilson told the meeting, had "given more trophies to the farmers of Ontario than any other man in Canada," visited the meeting for a few minutes. In a short address he stressed the need of fixed prices for agricultural produce, and expressed the belief that world recognition of such fixed prices would much improve the status of farming communities.

Officers elected for 1931 were: Hon T. L. Kennedy and A. J. H. Eckardt, honorary presidents; D. A. McIntyre, Alvinston, president; L. H. Winslow, Ida, past president; Neil Calder, of Holstein, 1st vice-president; Elliott Moses, Oshweken, 2nd vice-president; J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto, secretary and managing director; Clark Young, Milliken, treasurer; J. H. Herrington, Richmond Hill, auditor; and William Doherty, Toronto, honorary treasurer.

The executive consists of the officers and W. C. Barrie, Galt; James McLean, Richmond Hill; D. D. Gray, Ottawa; George Waldie, Stratford; J. J. Duffus, Peterborough; and J J. Tierney, Brockville.

Directors elected were: Messrs McLean, Barrie, Gray, Waldie, Duffus and Tierney, and A. E. Culver Simcoe; James R. Henderson, of Portsmouth; F. G. Fuller, London; George B. Little, Agincourt; Alexander McFadyen, Cameron; H. A Cormack Arthur; and A. E. Wilson, Perrytown.

Fight Outside Home Stirs Fears For Duce

ROME, Feb. 5. (AP) — Alarming rumors of disturbances involving the home of Premier Mussolini, Villa Torlonia, were officially and emphatically denied and their source apparently revealed as in a fight Tuesday morning between two men and police near the famous Trevo fountain.

It was reported here that a man had been arrested near the fountain after a revolver battle with police in which one policeman was wounded. The man was found carrying a bomb. Another with him escaped.

The name of the arrested man was understood to be Michele Schiror. The incident gave rise to rumors that the arrest had been made outside the Duce's home.

LLOYD GEORGE HOLDS IN HAND FATE OF GOV'T

Last Few Years Seen Great Change in Now Immaculately Dressed Liberal Chief.

MAY NEVER REGAIN POWER.

Only Briand in All Europe Remotely Compares With Welshman as Orator.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 5. (AP) More than Premier Ramsay MacDonald, more than Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin or any other of a dozen British political leaders, one man, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Britain's wartime Premier, to-day holds the fate of British politics in his hands.

Leaders of a small coterie of Liberals in the House of Commons he has been able to throw enough votes to the Labor Government to keep it in office. But—and it is like the sword of Damocles over the head of Premier MacDonald—he could if he wished at any sitting of the Commons turn the votes to the opposition and put the ministry out.

Unmoved at the most scathing criticism of his wielding of the balance of power, Mr. Lloyd George continues to criticize both ministry and the Conservative opposition, but in return for some of the things he wants—such as the Electoral Reform measure now before the Commons—he is keeping the Government in office.

Great Change

The last few years have seen a great change in Mr. Lloyd George. Once the criticism was made of him that he was slovenly and untidy. Now he is dapper and immaculate. His snow white hair, which reaches almost to his shoulders is brushed carefully back from his high forehead, formal morning dress of impeccable cut is his favorite wear and as the final touch of distinction the broad black ribbon of his pincenez hangs like a band of some order across his chest.

No one, not even Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, attracts the House of Commons as an orator as does Lloyd George. He begins a speech quietly and speaks for the first few minutes in the hypnotic, almost sing song cadence of his race. As he warms to his theme and speaks more rapidly metaphors of supreme aptness creep into his discourse.

Critics say that a mere designation of Lloyd George as the greatest orator in Europe is a gross inadequacy. There is only one who has anything remotely resembling his skill and the honeytongued Aristide Briand is at last beginning to show signs that he is tired while Lloyd George seems to have bathed in the fountain of perpetual youth.

Political observers generally see little or no chance of his ever regaining the power he once held—although stranger things have happened in British politics.

GOLD STANDARD IS NECESSARY

Only Way China Stability Can Be Restored, Says B.C. University Professor.

ESTABLISH CENTRAL BANK.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 5.—(CP)—Until the maladjustment of China's rate of exchange is rectified through adoption of a gold standard and until a stable government takes control of the country and a central bank is established, Canadian exporters will find it impossible to get buyers with sufficient silver to purchase their goods, stated Prof. G. F. Drummond of the University of British Columbia department of economics, commenting on a Washington despatch referring to the Hon. Herbert M. Marler's report on trade possibilities with China.

Citing the deflation in India during 1876 to 1893 when that country was on a silver standard, Prof. Drummond states that following the decision of the British Government to adopt a gold basis for India stability was gradually restored. He believed that solution for present economic chaos in China lies in adoption of a gold standard in the form of gold certificates issued by a standard central bank under international supervision.

MADOC AGAIN ARE WINNERS OVER MAROONS

Campbellford Takes 3-1 Beating at Hands of Visitors in T.V.L. Tangle.

SEVERE CHECKING.

Home Towners Lose Many Opportunities to Score Through Lack of Team Work.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Again dropping before the Madoc squad, Campbellford went down to defeat by a 3 to 1 count in a Trent Valley League fixture staged last night in the Davidson Arena, Campbellford.

Played on fast ice, the game was featured by severe checking. The Black and Whites played a splendid game showing their superiority in combination and a very fast forward line. Each man played up to his position which formed a very formidable aggregation for the Maroons to face. The Home Towners, on the other hand, although playing fast hockey, lacked team work, which made their attacks ineffective and lost them some nice chances to count. Back checking was indulged in heartily by both teams, and the two men in the nets did their share of work before the final gong.

Only nine penalties were given, a low count this season. All of these were for minor offences. Ross Burt of Trenton was the official referee and handled the bell in good style, making a nice game for the fans to watch.

Take Offensive

The first period opened with a Campbellford offensive, Whitton taking the puck through and forcing Hulin into action. Barkey returned the compliment, taking a wallop at the Millers' net, only to be returned again by Cowall. So the play continued until the visitors got into action in the Campebellford house, piling in three shots in succession which Sanders stopped. Whitton broke up this scramble, taking the puck over the ice toward the Madoc defence, only to be checked by McGuire. Campbellford then got possession of the rubber and made pretty play, Ingram passing to Whitton, who passed in turn across the front of the visitors' net to Flemming, who shot but failed to count. Andrews got the visitors out of this tangle, carrying the puck up and passing the Millers' defence, only to be stopped by Whitton, who doubled back and cleared the rubber behind the net. Barkey got a leg hurt in this play and was forced off the ice for some minutes. First blood was drawn by Madoc when Heureaux, their pivot man, shot a tally with an assist from Johnson. Ingram now started in to do some heavy stuff and made several fine rushes and shots, drawing near goals. Tough luck is all that can be said for his efforts, which deserved to be rewarded. Henderson for Madoc played well up to his position, cutting in and making some splendid shots, but

PILES

Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.

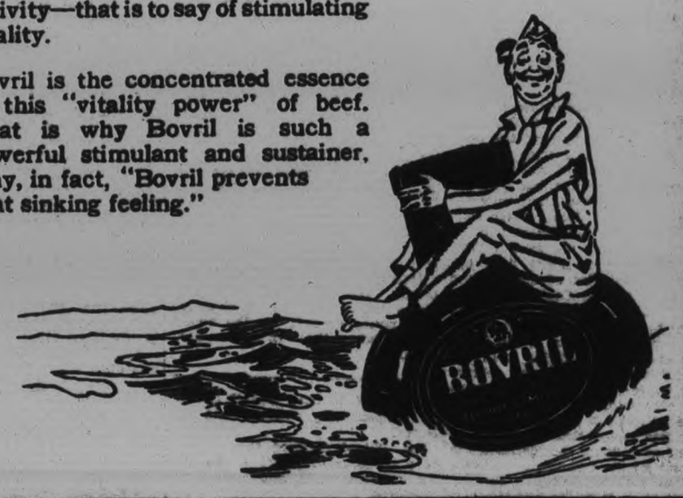
Why BOVRIL prevents that Sinking Feeling

Why is it that one has such a fine feeling of buoyancy after drinking a cup of Bovril? Modern research has shown that in addition to proteins of exceptionally high food value, beef has certain unique powers of stimulating cellular activity—that is to say of stimulating vitality.

Bovril is the concentrated essence of this "vitality power" of beef. That is why Bovril is such a powerful stimulant and sustainer, why, in fact, "Bovril prevents that sinking feeling."



VICTORIA COUNTY ORANGE LODGE ELECTS L. EVERSON 1931 MASTER

Efforts of Separate School Supporters for Assessment Act Amendment. Opposed.

Suggest Cobourg For "12th."

LINDSAY, February 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — J. W. Elliott, P.C.M., and Warden of Victoria County, occupied the chair at the annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of Victoria held on Tuesday, when the following officers were elected:

County Master, L. V Everson, of Oakwood; Dep. County Master, Thomas Suddaby, Burnt River; Chaplain, Fred Johnston, Omemee; Recording Secretary, H. Brown, Lindsay; Financial Secretary, E. Wood, Reaboro; Treasurer, E. W. Moore, Lindsay, Marshal, P. Chase, Lindsay; Lecturers, H. Owens, Cambray, and R. Smith, Reaboro; Committee Chairman, G. Parkin, Cameron.

The retiring County Master, P. A. Lowes, of Emily, in his address made reference to the world-wide financial crisis as well as the wave of crime which was passing over the countries. It behooved the Order to educate and train the youth of the land into the true spirit of Orangeism in order that the principles of the Order might be maintained. Reference was made to the efforts of the supporters of Catholic Separate Schools to secure an amendment to the Assessment Act in order to secure a division of taxes paid by incorporated companies. Such a division of taxes as was sought was termed an intolerable injustice and the members of the Order were urged to protest against such kind of legislation.

In connection with the annual celebration of the Twelfth of July, all lodges in the county were allowed to celebrate where they deemed most good to the Order would result, keeping Cobourg in mind.

Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, famous Australian explorer, is here seen going aloft in an army plane. After coming down near Connecticut he said, "It is colder up there than around the South Pole."

FRANKFORD BEATS STIRLING 1 TO 0

McLean Tallies Winning Goal For Visitors at End of Second Period.

STIRLING, Feb. 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—Stirling, at the head of the Trent Valley Hockey League, went down to defeat on their own ice to the Frankford sextet by 1 to 0 count last night.

Puck was faced off at 8.20. Referee Keneally carry the bell. Davis started out with a shot on goal. The visitors then possessed the puck for a time until one got boxed for tripping.

Ingram came back with a second rush, shot, lost. Davis tried a solo rush, but to no avail. Frankford put up a brace of rapid-fire goals.

Dib Little got the rubber for a minute but was checked. Davis and Ingram tried a little combination work but with no results.

The play seemed to centre on Frankford territory for a time, Ackers here got a shot on goal, but was turned aside. T. Little got a rest for tripping.

First period ended with play favoring the visitors.

Second Spasm

Morton was here called upon "to one-step, two-step, side-step, lie down—do anything to keep a counter out. Rushes were made by Ty Little, Davis and Ingram, but the Frankford goalie was never caught napping.

Morton did his best, but the shots fell around him like bullets, until the counter was finally pocketed.

This lone tally was scored at exactly half time by McLean of Frankford.

Beatty sat out a while for slashing; visitors, much encouraged, made several splendid shots. Ingram made a solo rush, got through the defense, but failed to score. Ingram, Davis and Beatty all made individual rushes, but made no tally. Ackers drew a penalty at last moment.

Final Flurry

Stirling tried desperately to make a counter, the visitors just killed time by driving wild, long high shots and playing a defence game until period ended.

The teams:—

Frankford.—Goal, Prevost; centre, Felion; defense, De Gault and O'Malley; wings, McLean, Borland; subs, "Mum" Snider.

Stirling.—Goal, Morton; centre, Davis; wings, T. Little and D. Little; defense, Ingram and Batty; subs, Askers and White.

TANKARD TROPHY WON BY GRANITES

Hamilton Victorias Beaten in Finals—Fourteenth Victory For Winners.

ORILLIA IN BURDEN FINAL.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—For the fourteenth time in 57 years of the Ontario Tankard competition, Toronto Granite Club curlers carried off the laurels by defeating Hamilton Victorias in the final play at the Toronto Victoria Club late yesterday afternoon. Margin for Granites was 9 shots, despite the fact that Hamilton curlers succeeded in winning one of the two games. Skip Smith's Hamilton four defeated Ed Brower's Granites by 5 shots, but it remained for Charles Bulley's Granite quartet to offset this by handing Dr. Walkey's Hamilton rink a 20 to 6 beating. The total was 31 to 22.

Orillia in Burden Final

The Burden Trophy final will be played this afternoon at the Toronto Victoria Club. One semi-final game will be played this morning, Sarnia meeting Lindsay. Galt defaulted, and gave Orillia a bye to the final round. In yesterday's games Lindsay defeated Grand Valley, and Orillia ousted Oshawa. In the afternoon Orillia met Stouffville and won decisively.

Following the competition of the Tankard final last evening, D. B. Duffield of Detroit, President of the Ontario Curling Association, presented the Tankard and first prizes to the winners.

On behalf of the Granite Club, Skip Charles Bulley accepted the trophy and spoke briefly in reply.

Lone Pacific Isle Is Awarded France

PARIS, February 5 (C.P.).—After twenty-two years, the King of Italy, Victor Emmanuel, agreed upon by France and Mexico as an arbiter to determine ownership of tiny, desolate Clipperton Rock, Pacific Ocean island, has found against Mexico, and awarded the island to France.

MAKING OF SALT LANDS 5 IN JAIL

Indian Nationalists Immediately Form 23rd War Council in Bombay.

GANDHI'S PAPER SEIZED.

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 5.— (C. P. Cable.)—Police acted promptly when the Working committee of the Nationalist Congress to-day attempted to carry out the threat to renew the illicit salt-making campaign in a public square here to-day. Five members of the committee were arrested. The Nationalists then formed a new "war council"—their 23rd.

The police also raided the offices of the weekly paper Young India, formerly edited and managed by Mahatma Gandhi, at Allahabad, arresting five persons. The police also seized the cyclograph machine on which the paper had been printed since the printing presses were confiscated, as well as taking copies of an issue containing messages from Gandhi congratulating the staff on maintaining publication by this means.

The Nationalists are attempting to intensify their civil disobedience campaign in various ways here, and have increased their picketing of the foreign cloth shops. A number of minor clashes between pickets and police have resulted.

MADOC AGAIN ARE WINNERS

being unable to get clear through the Campbellford defence, which played a fine game. Two minutes before the gong sounded Flemming and Barkey were fenced.

Scores Second Goal

The second period started off slow with Whitton again taking the puck forward only to be checked by Barkey who returned the play. McGuire was penalised for tripping which was the signal for the Millers to crowd the visitor's net in which scramble Whitton was put on the fence. Blue played a fast game when subbed, giving Copperthwaite some fine assists and being well supported by Smith, who gave some splendid exhibitions at stick handling and carried the play into the visitors' area. However, his time on the ice was short, and when the regular forward line-up returned McArthur made a fine lone rush, passing the Madoc defence, placed a pretty shot in the visitors' net which was saved by Hulin, Johnson drew second blood for the visitors, netting a pretty goal from an assist by McGuire.

This caused the Madoc squad to press forward. Moon and Watson doing some pretty passing but being unable to get through Cowall and Ingram. Ingram returned to the fray with a lone rush and shot, this staging a scrimmage in the visitor's area. Barkey cleared but Whitton caught the puck and netted the first Campbellford goal a few seconds before the gong sounded.

Heavy Going In Third

The third period was fast and heavy, with both teams trying for an advantage. Heavy checking was the order of play, Barkey being fenced for tripping two minutes after the session started. Johnson played his head off while Barkey was on the fence. Smith made some fine play at this time, keeping Hulin busy and causing the play to warm up, until he was handed a penalty which created a vacancy which the visitors took advantage of to crowd the Miller's net. Play soon returned to center ice, and during some heavy checking on the right wing Barkey carried the rubber forward and netted the third count for Madoc, being fenced after the face off for tripping.

This was the signal for the Marconis to crowd forward which they did, keeping the Madoc squad busy in their own area, until they seemed to get the wind up and clear the ice every time they got possession of the puck. The final gong sounded on a 3—1 victory for Madoc.

The teams:

Madoc: Goal, Hulin; defence, Barkey and Andrews; center, Heureaux; wings, McGuire and Johnson; subs, Henderson, Moon and Watson.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—Prices were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday in a very light trading.

On the egg market carlot prices of fresh extras were quoted at 29c to 30c a dozen, and fresh firsts and fresh pullet extras at 25c to 26c, while fresh seconds were 20c a dozen. Storage eggs were 14c to 16c a dozen. Quotations to retailers were unchanged. Receipts were 652 cases.

Current arrivals of butter, in carlots, were quoted at 32c to 32½c a pound and to retailers solids were 34c and prints 35c a pound. Receipts were 1,772 boxes.

Winter white cheese was quoted at 12c and colored at 14½c a pound, while summer cheese was 15½c to 16c a pound. Receipts were only 7 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were 75c per 90 lbs. bulk, and to retailers 85c per 80-lb bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—An abatement of buying fever in grains late yesterday accompanied likelihood of moisture relief last night for drought territory southwest. Reports said foreign buyers of wheat refused to follow price advances. Slackness of eastern demand for corn was also a drag on values.

Wheat closed irregular at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance; corn ⅛c to ⅜c down; oats unchanged to ⅜c up, and provisions 10c to 20c off.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—The local butter market showed a firm tone yesterday, with quite a little trading in No. 1 and No. 2 creamery at 31½c and 30½c, respectively. There was not a great deal of No. 1 moving at 32c, though that price was in effect for high scoring lots. The general range of prices was 31½c to 32c for No. 1 creamery solids and 30½c to 31c for No. 2.

Cream.

Cream prices were steady at 30c to 31c for special, 29c to 30c for No. 1 and 26c to 27c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

Quotations on new cheese were steady at 14¼c to 14½c large, 14½c to 14¾c for twins, and 14¾c to 15c for triplets to shippers, and 15½c for new large, 15¾c for twins and 16c for triplets to the retail trade.

Eggs

There was a good demand for all grades of eggs and receipts were clearing well at steady prices. During the past few weeks receipts have been accumulating, and reports that the demand was sufficient to take care of most of them at firm prices indicated a much stronger market than previously.

Prices Steady

Some local dealers were not quite ready to follow the 2c advance quoted for Tuesday's trading. Country shippers were quoted 24c to 25c for extras, 21c to 23c for firsts and 16c to 18c for seconds, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Most of the larger dealers were paying the higher prices. Retailers were offered fresh supplies at 32c to 33c for extras in cartons, 30c to 31c for extras loose, 27c to 29c for firsts loose, 23c for pullet extras and 21c for seconds. Brokers found a good demand for fresh graded supplies, in free cases, at 29c for extras, 25c for firsts, 22c for pullet extras and 20c for seconds, but were asking 30c for extras and expected to get it owing to the good demand. They reported an excellent demand for candied out of storage supplies at 17½c for extras, 15½c for firsts and 13c for seconds.

FISH AND GAME ORGANIZATION

were placed in Clear Lake. These fish were received as a surprise gift, from the Department.

In October a rearing pond for trout was built and equipped on Mr. Carver's property. The site was secured at a nominal rental, and the Government inspector approved the plans and the pond itself, and commented on it as one of the finest locations to be found anywhere.

This pond will now enable the association to plant mature trout instead of small fry. Small lots can be taken from the pond weekly and planted over a large territory.

For the success of the venture the association tendered their thanks to Mr. Weddell who was largely instrumental in securing the location. Thanks were also tendered to Mr. Peck who also offered valuable legal aid, free of cost.

"We had a fairly active year but naturally wish we could have done even more," said the president in drawing to a conclusion. "I wish to take this opportunity of saying how I am indebted to the Fish and Game Department, through Mr. McDonald, for the most cordial co-operation extended to us in 1930, and I also wish to thank the officers and those members of the committee who took the time and trouble to attend so many meetings during the year. A very special debt of thanks we also owe to the Peterborough Examiner," he said, "who have always taken an interest in the affairs of this association."

It was resolved that the date of the annual meeting be changed, and that it be held each year in December. A further motion provides for a recommendation to the Government that they be asked to declare 'gaffing' illegal. It was explained that such a practice is actually an offence, but that the Government would not press the enactment of this law unless they received such a recommendation as that endorsed by the association.

For furthering the educational work of the Ontario Federation of Anglers, who propose to send out a man through all districts to give lectures on fish conservation and to arrange the formation of Fish and Game associations where there is a need for them in places in which they do not already exist, it was decided that the Peterborough Association will send $25 now and a further sum of $25 at a subsequent date, as Peterborough's allotment to a general fund from all clubs in the province.

At the close of the business session a reel of moving pictures of the planting of pickerel and large trout by the Government men from the Fish and Game Department, was shown by Mr. Roy, by whom the pictures were taken last spring. It is interesting to note that these scenes were incorporated in the Trent Waterway film which was shown to thousands of people at the recent Motor Boat Show in New York City.

The reel showed the details of the planting of half a million pickerel fry in the river just above the dam at Nassau, and also at the dam above that one. Some artistic scenes of Clear Lake were also included, showing the planting of some good healthy fish with which these waters were stocked.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Graham for the use of the room at the Empress Hotel in which that meeting and previous meetings were held.

THE HOBBY SHOW.

The fact that the dates of the annual Hobby Show, sponsored by the boys' division of the Y.M.C.A., have been announced will be welcome to a good many local boys who have learned to look forward with keen interest to this event.

Can. Can. is worthy of note that the local show has each Dom. creased, not only in the number of departments, DeFon the quantity and quality of its exhibits, indicatFog that the spirit of competition engendered by the annual exhibition has served the desired purpose of making the boys of the city more enthusiastic than ever about the hobbies they are interested in most.

A good hobby is a most excellent thing for a growing boy; it keeps him out of mischief, gives an outlet for that pentup energy that must burst out somewhere, and furnishes exercise for his hands and his brain.

The boys' division showed an accurate appreciation of boy pyschology when it launched out this Hobby Show enterprise some years ago, and it is to be commended upon in corporating it as a regular activity in the program for each year.

The show deserves community support as an event that is of admitted value as a community asset.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

In view of general conditions, it will be a matter of satisfaction, not only to the City Council, but to the ratepayers, that the Board of Education's estimates for the current year show a contemplated expenditure of $3,100 less than for last year.

The actual decrease is not large, but at all events it is a decrease, and educational costs have been advancing so consistently that a halt in the upward climb will be hailed with a sign of relief.

The estimates indicate an expenditure for 1931 of $178,200 for the city's Public Schools, while the Vocational School and Collegiate Institute will be operated on a budget of $27,500—a total expenditure of $205,700.

Toward these costs the Ontario Government makes a grant of $13,000 in the case of the Public Schools and $19,500 toward the cost of the Collegiate Institute, while non-resident pupils contribute $1,100 and $10,108.36, the latter amount being paid in by non-resident pupils of the Collegiate Institute.

These substantial contributions are responsible for taking care of nearly one-sixth of the total expenditure on education, the balance $252,300 having to be raised by local taxation.

In reducing their estimates the Board of Education has set a good example, and the burden of educational costs is by no means a light one, and there will be satisfaction that it is not to be increased this year.

TAXATION RELIEF.

The attention of the Ontario Cabinet has been directed, through the medium of a delegation from the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, to the desirability of the municipalities of the Province being relieved from the present highways tax.

It is to be imagined, in view of the present condition of Ontario's finances, that greater pressure will have to be brought to bear if action along the desired lines is to be obtained.

The municipalities themselves should find common ground in this matter and link themselves up into a movement that will impress the powers-that-be at Queen's Park that this demand for relief from taxation burdens is not a mere gesture, but is a concrete expression of the sentiment of civic governments everywhere throughout the Province.

The Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce showed themselves alive to their responsibilities when they urged consideration for the municipalities, and it is the duty of the latter to add weight to the representations that have been made by organizing an impressive demonstration that will register effectively.

So long as the request for a change does not impress the Government as whole-hearted and generally shared in there is little use in expecting the provincial authorities to voluntarily assume obligations that up to the present they have succeeded in shelving upon the municipalities.

SAFE COASTING FACILITIES.

The coroner's jury which investigated the death of a Peterborough child who was fatally injured when the sled on which she was coasting on a city street ran into a truck has included in its verdict the following recommendation:

"We recommend that places be supplied in the city to allow the children to sleigh-ride without placing themselves in danger of motor traffic."

The jury's suggestion is in line with public opinion in this matter, and the decision of the Council, on motion of Ald. McNabb, to consider the possibilities of building slides within the city parks is evidence that the city fathers realise the desirability of doing something to deal with the question.

It has long been a problem.

The benefits and fun of coasting are generally admitted, but the question of how this recreation could be safely indulged in has never been satisfactorily settled so far as Peterborough is concerned.

The suggestion has been advanced in other years and again on this occasion that motor traffic should be diverted at certain hours on streets where hills offer a natural coasting course, but opponents of that idea have always been able to successfully oppose a trial of the plan.

It remains to be seen what can be accomplished in the way of providing slides in the parks where the children would be safe from traffic perils.

JOINT DEBATES.

The press of the Province is showing considerable interest in the challenge thrown out by Captain Philpott, Liberal candidate in the West Hamilton by-election, expressing his anxiety to meet Colonel, the Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario Attorney-General, in a joint meeting. There are those who believe that Colonel Price should accept, and others who cannot see how any good would come out of such a meeting. Colonel Price himself declines the invitation, although he has visited the riding and has offered his own defence against the charges being hurled in his direction by the Liberal candidate.

In the light of the political history of Kent County, such a joint meeting undoubtedly would arouse the enthusiasm of the voters, and advertise the fact that there is a fight in progress, but it is doubtful if the intelligent electorate would secure much information upon which to base their decision when they go to the polls. The hurling of charges and counter-charges is interesting for those who seek excitement, but they add very little to the sum total of political information when they are all over.

Joint meetings were tried in one Kent election—but never again. Herbert S. Clements, the then sitting member in the Federal House, arrived home from Ottawa with his whole system saturated with Conservative politics. At that time the late Senator McCoig was seeking a promotion from the Provincial to the Federal House, and Mr. Clements promptly challenged him to a series of joint meetings to be held in various parts of the riding. The challenge was accepted and the two politicians went to it with vigor.

Those who remember those joint meetings are not very enthusiastic over a repetition of such political tactics—and this applies to all political camps. There was no lack of attendance at the meetings, and the enthusiasm ran high, but it was not the sort of enthusiasm that led to serious consideration of issues. The crowds went to see fireworks, and they were not disappointed. The speakers knew what they wanted and they certainly gave it to them. Loyal newspaper supporters claimed victories on both sides, at every meeting, and when the whole thing was over, the people on the side lines who were more concerned in political issues than in personal censure were no wiser than when the meetings started.

Joint debates have their place in politics, but when they are based upon personal charges and counter-allegations and aspersions they do more harm than good, by detracting attention away from the real political issues.—Chatham Daily News.

CANADIAN TEXT-BOOKS.

The need of text-books for use in Canadian schools that reflect Canadian sentiment and review Canadian progress and development becomes more and more pronounced as complaints continue to be received from different Provinces of such books that furnish a wholly inadequate and in some cases quite inaccurate picture of Canadian life and conditions.

A writer in the Farmers' Sun, asking if there is not some Canadian qualified to write supplementary readers for use in Canadian schools, proceeds to tell of the contents of one such book shown her by a teacher as having been recommended by an inspector of schools. It is of English production and most interesting. In it the reader starts from home—that is, England—on a magic carpet and is carried over France, Switzerland, the desert of Africa, India, China and Japan until finally Canada is reached. One might imagine that the youthful reader would then be told something of the wheat fields, the forests, the mines or the Great Lakes of this Dominion. But all that he learns about his own country in this book that is recommended by one school inspector, at least, for use in the schools of Canada is that in the most northerly part of it Eskimos live in snow huts!

"These books," says this writer, "are, we believe, used quite extensively in our schools. The children visit a farm, but it is not a Canadian farm! There is not one word of the industrial development of Canada—her farms—there is a passing allusion to a ranch in Alberta. Not one word of our great mills, factories, electrical development. Nothing that impresses upon any child that our young nation does her full share in contributing to the world's need in both natural and manufactured products."

It should be possible for books to be written for supplementary reading and other instruction in Canadian schools that, while paying due attention to other countries, do not neglect Canada itself. We have no desire to limit the knowledge of Canadian school children to information solely related to their own country, a policy which inevitably results in the development of narrowness and a rabid type of nationalism, but those children should have the right to have full information concerning Canada placed before them, rather than have that country's resources and development ignored, and that holds good of other branches of instruction besides supplementary reading.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Sir Thomas White, former Finance Minister, has broken out into poetry. At least the stuff rimes.

A close scrutiny of the Globe's editorial columns these days leads to the conviction that somehow or other the Toronto journal is not altogether satisfied with the Attorney-General.

Learning that a safe in Sing Sing prison has been robbed, the Border Cities Star hastens to the front with the theory that it must have been an inside job.

And another cause of unemployment may be that there are too many Government leaders holding two or more Cabinet jobs.

Perhaps Mr. Bennett merely slipped up to Washington to tell the Senators where they could get a couple of pitchers for the next American League campaign.

Mr. Ferguson has been in London for a few days, but so far hasn't advanced any startling suggestions as to remedying present-day conditions in the Old Country.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

The next day Michael began his quest by going again to Washington Square. But again he was baffled. No one knew anything, neither the landlady or the new tenants. They had, the tenants said, rented directly through Mrs. Leonardi, they knew nothing of the people who had occupied the rooms. As for Mrs. Leonardi, she presented an uncompromising front.

"The young lady had her good reasons for not leaving her address. I ask no questions."

"But you could tell me if you would?"

"I have nothing to tell."

He knew she was evading the issue, and thought of a bribe. But there was about Mrs. Leonardi an air of sturdy independence, of simple dignity which held him back from an offer of money.

"It means a great deal to me," he said, still lingering.

Mrs. Leonardi was sympathetic. He seemed a nice young man, not in the least the predatory kind which goes forth to devour. And the young lady upstairs was not happy. It was not reasonable that such a beautiful young lady should be alone. And cook with those pretty hands. And write on that noisy machine until her lovely eyes were almost blotted out.

So Mrs. Leonardi, a plump angel against a background of the Monday wash, stood wit her hands on her hips and said, "There's a game my children play in the parish school It is called 'Hot and cold.' "

Michael was eager—"I know it."

Mrs. Leonardi nodded her head slowly, "It's a good game. I play it this way—with you. I say it is 'warm' when you look for the young lady."

"You mean she is near?"

"I mean nothing—" Mrs. Leonardi gave him a sidelong look from herfine eyes. "I mean nothing. I have told you nothing. I think only of my wash—and my spaghetti."

Michael's laugh was like a boy's. "I'll find her—and you shall dance at our wedding."

"I dance at nothing—"

"But our wedding, Virginia's and mine?"

She spoke in a whisper, "Is it to be that?"

"If I can see her long enough to tell her that someone has made trouble—"

Mrs. Leonardi wrung her hands, "But I have promised—I do not lie.'

And not another word could he get out of her.

Yet it was something to know that Virginia was not far away.—in the neighborhood, perhaps. He would walk the streets until he met her. Each day he would come and patrol the square at twilight. That was the hour she usually did her marketing. He remembered she had told him.

Failing that, he would write to Rickey. The boy hated him, but there must be some sort of compromise. Michael felt he could do anything, now that he knew of Virginia's love for him. Yet as he stood alone in the hall and looked about him, he was swept by a sense of desolation. It was raining hard outside. He would have to take a taxi. No chance to-night to continue his search. Virginia would not walk the streets in such a storm.

As he leaned against the post the light from torch of the Bronze Knight shone down on him. The door opened and dreary figures began going up the stairs, but Michael did not move. At last a boy in a slicker came in with a gust of wind and a sprinkle of rain. He threw a twist of sodden paper on the floor and as he went out, the door banged after him. The sound echoed and re-echoed in the shadowed space. The empty stairs stretched up and up, three flights to the attic. To Michael standing at the foot of them, they seemed to go on and on, interminably, through the darkness to an unknown goal.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

The Wanderer Returns.

Mary Lee, coming back from Memphis, asked Virginia, "What do you hear from Rickey?"

Virginia did not answer. She stood looking out on the rain which slanted across the roof and washed over the cornices in a steaming flood. The pigeons flew hardily away through the pelting storm and came back wind-blown to the shelter of the chimneys. At last she said, "I had a letter this morning."

"What did he say?"

Virginia turned and faced her friend. "He is going to marry Marty."

Mary Lee was white as a sheet! "When?"

"Very soon—Before they come north. Quietly—on beach by the moonlight.'.

"Oh!" It was just a faint sigh, but Virginia crossed the room and took in her arms the forlorn little figure. "My dear, my dear—"

"I had thought," Mary Lee said in a sobbing whisper, "that he might some day, if we saw enough of each other, come to care for me. And I could help him. I am going to give up trying to have a voice. I have a bit of talent for acting, and if Rickey could write plays—do you see? We might do things together."

The rain splashed again the windows in a mournful obbligato to the troubled confidence.

"I'm being very silly," Mary Lee said at last, "but it will be the end of him—this marriage. 'I told you she was a silver witch and she's put her spell on him. But some day he'll cast it off and find himself sucked dry, like the fly and the spider. She won't let him write, you'll see. She'll want him to worship her. And when she finds he can't do both, she'll hate him."

"I know," Virginia told her tensely. "Marty has so much money—and I can't see Rickey accepting everything at her hands. He's proud and self-centered."

"And selfish." Mary Lee's cheeks were flaming. "Don't forget that, Jinny. He's selfish. But he wouldn't be if someone showed him the way." She sat silent for a moment, then asked, "May I stay to luncheon, Jinny? It's such a dreary day."

"You can always stay," Virginia told her. "You know that. I need you as much as you need me."

The little room was cozy with its shaded lamp lighted against the gloom. The gold coin of a cat sat in the window and watched the pigeons flying through the rain. But the little Scotch dog followed his mistress as she moved about intent on household tasks. "He's like Mary's lamb," Virginia told Mary Lee. "I don't know what I would do without him."

Weenie wagged his tail and trailed Virginia into the next room. He had a feeling that if he stayed by her he might keep her from harm. He was not very big, but his soul was valiant.

"It seems strange," Virginia said as she poured the tea, "that even now Rickey may be married.

"I hope it is raining pitchforks in Florida," was Mary Lee's vindictive response, "and that there isn't any moon.' Her remark would have been amusing, had she not been so much in earnest. "I am—afraid to be alone," she said, with a touch of breathlessness. "I don't want to think. I've got to go up to town as soon as luncheon is over, but may I come back? We'll dine some where together and go to a play."

Virginia agreed and they kissed at parting. Virginia, going back to her desk, was aware of the stillness about her. She went on with her work, writing steadily, hour after hour, while thoughts of Rickey flickered across the pages.

Why should she work while Rickey played? And what would he care about Burning Beauty when he would have all of Marty's money with which to pay Michael the debt he owed him?

Michael—Michael, who had forgotten her!

Oh, he would have come if he had cared. Any man who cared would find a way to win the woman he loved. It was a man's place to win even if she had run away from him. Couldn't he have followed? Tony had found her. And if at this moment Tony should come walking up the stairs, bringing all his brightness and charm into the blackness of her desolation, what might she not say to him?

No, no! She would never tell Tony that she loved him. It was Michael she loved, Michael.

Early twilight was coming on when Mrs. Barlow and Roger came home. They had been to a moving picture and Roger was ecstatic. He came in to tell Virginia about it and his mother came too and the three of them sat about the little round stove. The moving picture had had a swashbuckling hero and Roger showed how it was done. "You see," he explained, "he was in love with the lady and he carried her off and she was glad."

"Of course she was, Roger."

"And he put her on a horse and she pretended she didn't want to go, but she did."

"Most of them do, my dear."

The child went on with his play and Mrs. Barlow, keen-eyed, noted Virginia's depression. She spoke with solicitude. "Has anything happened?"

"My brother it to be married?"

"Is it bad news?"

"I think it is. Perhaps I'm selfish. I want him to be happy in my way, not in his."

"You could never be selfish."

"I am not sure. His marriage will separate him from me and I love him."

Her voice broke on that, and Mrs. Barlow laid a quiet hand over Virginia's hand. "You are very brave, my dear. You will meet this as you have met the rest."

After Mrs. Barlow and Roger went away, the phrase lingered in Virginia's mind—"You will meet this as you have met the rest." Oh, it was all very well to be brave, but she wanted to be happy. She dropped down in the chair by her desk and buried her face in her hands.

Again the little dog was anxious. He pushed against her dress and got his head under her hand. He felt the movement of her fingers caressing him and was faintly aware, back in his little dog's mind, that his presence comforted her. He hated to hear her cry, yet she was crying. He whined softly. Then, suddenly, from far down at the foot of the stairs, his quick ear caught the thud which proclaimed the arrival of the afternoon paper. He always went for it, making a ceremony of it when he came back, holding it in his mouth until his mistress took it, expecting to be thanked for it, to have his ears rubbed in appreciation.

There were three long flights for him to travel and his legs were short. His nails clicked on the bare wood as he went down and down and down. The stairs were empty all the way until as he reached the last landing, he looked below and saw a man standing by the newel post.

The man was Michael. He had heard the sound on the stairs of those little paws. He had glanced up idly and his heart had given a great leap, for there, gazing at him with bright eyes, was Virginia's dog.

"Weenie?" he said, uncertainly, and Weenie wagged an inquiring tail. When he reached the lower hall, he took the paper in his mouth, gave Michael a slanting glance, made a slight circuit to avoid the detaining hand and trotted off up the stairs.

Michael followed The room was dark when he came to it. He stood on the threshold of the open door and called into the shadows, "Virginia."

She answered in a whisper, "Michael!"

She rose and met him in the middle of the shadowed room. His arms went about her. She knew then that he was real and not a specter called up by her need of him. She clung to him, "Michael Michael!"

For many long minutes the little dog stood unnoticed with the paper in his mouth. Then he dropped it at Virginia's feet and with a sigh of content dropped beside it.

Michael and Virginia sat by the window and talked. It was dark outside and the rain streamed. But Michael was saying, "Didn't you know that nothing Rickey might do mattered? It is you and I who matter. Don't you know that, my dearest?"

Oh, she did know it. She was saying it over and over. She had been so stupid; but she loved him.

Mary Lee, arriving at six, found the lamp lighted and Michael waiting to take them both out to dinner. "We'll make it a feast—I know a place. Mary Lee, I might as well tell you, I am going to marry Virginia.'

"Everybody," said Mary Lee, "is getting married. She told you about—Rickey?"

"Yes."

"Has she heard anything more?"

"No."

"No."

"I thought there might be news of th —wedding." But there was no news, because there was no wedding—and there would never be, not of Rickey and Marty Van Duyne. And so it happened that while Virginia and Michael and Mary Lee were dining in state and elegance, Rickey Oliphant came up the stairs of the old house in Washington Square. He reached the attic, and found the door open and the little Scotch dog on guard and the primrose cat asleep in front of the round stove.

Rickey was haggard and unkempt. He threw himself on the couch and flung his arm across his eyes. He had not slept for two nights and even now he could not sleep.

Weenie came and sat beside him and licked his hand. Next to his adoration for Virginia, the little dog adored Rickey. At last Rickey drew him up on the couch and they lay there together, dog and man, silent in the dark.

What To-day Means To You

"AQUARIUS"

If February 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 7 30 p.m

Astrological influences affect the business world on this date more than other phases of life. There will be an element of surprise in business interests—unsuspected difficulties occuring on the one hand, and entirely unforeseen advantages on the other. Emotionally, the influences stimulate both great love and great hatred.

The child born on this February 5th will have an original mind, and will be mentally positive and combative. It will have a love for educational or scientific work. Determination and energy combine to win it success.

You have a very gentle nature, but a very stubborn one. For you a page turned, is a page turned. An idea absorbed is never disgorged. It is seldom that you change your attitude towards anything. You love new things when they are made up of matter; mentally you stick to the old. You have a religious temperament, one which is incapable of imagining spiritual wants in others that cannot be satisfied by what satisfies yourself.

You are never an alarmist. If anything, you err on the side of not being alarmed until it is all over, and there is no longer any thing to be alarmed at, or when remedies are useless. Your imagination does not easily take fire, and you do not see farther than is absolutely needful. You have that kind of stoicism that will die with its head up rather than live with its tail down. You have the power of accepting the inevitable, and nobody is more determined to make the best of a bad job than you are.

You take a reformer's interest in people, and you would sincerely like to remedy some of the economic ailments of the world. Your purse strings are not drawn tightly, and your hand often reaches into your pocket for the material aid of some unfortunate. You hate to be "done," however, and you like to feel that the recipients of your help, are both worthy and grateful. Cupid will not leave your heart untouched, and you will taste both the joys and disappointments of a great love.

SONS OF GOD

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—If you will kindly insert the enclosed in your valuable paper, you will greatly oblige.

Who were the sons of God mentioned in the Bible (Gen. 6-2)? Does the Bible give us any light as to who they were? Yes, I think it does.

First, after Adam and Eve sinned, the Lord God said unto Eve, "I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception. In sorrow thou shalt bring forth children and thy desire shall be to thy husband and he shall rule over thee."

Previously there had been no sorrow but in the future there shall be sorrow. Before their fall they were equal, but now he either made the man stronger or the woman weaker, as the man was to rule over the woman. And in verse 20 it says that Adam called his wife's name Eve because she was the mother of all living. How could he say that she was the mother of all living when there were no children and Cain not yet born?

Then Cain slew his brother Abel and the Lord God said unto him, "A fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth." And Cain made reply unto the Lord and said, "My punishment is greater than I can bear. Behold thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth. And from thy face I shall be hid and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth. And it shall come to pass that everyone that findeth me shall slay me" and the Lord said unto him therefore, "Whosoever slayeth Cain vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold." And the Lord set a mark on him lest any finding him should kill him.

Now if there were no people on the earth save his Father and his Mother, and he was driven away from them, whom was he afraid of? Why did the Lord put a mark on him? Now we will try to find out whom he was afraid of. First, we must remember that Adam's age is recorded from his fall and not from his creation. He may have lived thousands or millions of years and the earth populated by his descendants who were without sin, called the Sons of God. Now turn to chapter 6:1-2, "And it came to pass when men began to multiply on the face of the earth and daughters were born unto them that the Sons of God saw that the daughters of men were fair. And they took them wives of all which they chose. Now the difference between them was that the Sons of God were like Adam and Eve before their fall, without sin and in the intermarriage they all became sinful. Hence God on account of their wickedness determined to destroy all and brought on the flood. Now the question might be asked and quite properly too, "Why have we not been told more concerning the Sons of God if they were the decendants of Adam and Eve—for the reason that it does not petrain to us. It is only mentioned as a connecting link to show us the reason why man became so sinful and why God brought on the flood.

SLURRING EACH OTHER.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

Please allow me space in your Voice of the People column.

This is a wonderful world made up of every kind of people. Of course, some are very good but none are perfect, as we see by the movements around us. We are all human and are likely to yield to temptations. Some of us are strong enough not to fall but one thing we can do is sit down and look over our past and see how many of us can slur one another. Let me say that those who can see always the ones who always think of the slogan, "Let he who can, cast the first stone."

DUKE D'ORMO SERIOUSLY ILL

ROME, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Duke Borea D'Ormo, Europe's best known master of court ceremonies, who is 100 years old, is critically ill of influenza. The Duke has been Prefect of the Palace of the King of Italy for forty years and has served under four kings. He was born in October, 1830.

A Thought

AN ACCOUNTING

Do you make every motion count? If not you'd better get the habit. It is this capacity that enables some men to get through such vast amounts of work every day and yet have time for necessary play.

Perhaps you think you do not waste any time, but try sitting down and accounting for every half hour of your working day. I think the results will surprise you. This does not mean that one should make himself a slave to schedule and routine; it means only that direction and order will improve the results and give him more free time.

Free Trader Enters East Islington Fight

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 5.—(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Brigadier-General Alfred Cecil Critchley, a native of Calgary, Alta., and holder of a distinguished record with the Canadian Corps in the Great War, entered the East Islington by-election fight to-day as an Empire free trade and United Empire Party candidate, with the support of Lord Beaverbrook.

His entry shattered Conservative hopes of a united Conservative vote, following the recent withdrawal of Paul Springman, United Empire Party and Empire free trade candidate who withdrew in order to support the Conservative. The three other candidates are Miss Thelma Cazalet, Conservative, Mrs. Leah Manning, Labor and Major H. E. Crawford, Liberal.

TONG WARFARE FEARED

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (C.P.)—Alarmed by the ominous quiet of the streets and by rumors of impending tong warfare, police kept a close watch on Chinatown during the night and searched all Chinese entering On Leong and Hip Sing Long headquarters.

Action on the On Leong executive board in barring 24 members from office at the recent national conference in Cleveland and the more recent narcotic raids in Newark, N.J., were said to be responsible for the uneasiness.

KIRKLAND GOLD IN MERGER DEAL

Latest to be Added to Finance Rumors on the Street—Details Lacking.

LORRAIN MEETING.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. (Special to Examiner.)—The chief subject of conversation around board rooms these days is the number of companies in the prospect stage figuring in deals. It would appear that American, particularly New York brokerage interests are identified with a good portion of these financing arrangements, and operators of smaller mines report a ready interest in Canadian gold prospects across the border.

Kirkland gold belt, holding a property in Libel township, east of the main Kirkland Lake zone, is the latest to be mentioned in connection with a financing deal. Details are lacking at present, but an announcement is expected shortly. It will be recalled that N. A. Timmins at one time held an option on this property.

The present Ritchie deal it is understood will provide the company with approximately $65,000. An option on the company's remaining 500,000 shares has been given and the first payment under the agreement received. To further plans it is believed shareholders may be asked to approve an increase in capital from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares.

The annual meeting of Inspirational Gold Mines will be held in Toronto on March 11.

A special general meeting of shareholders of Canadian Lorrain Silver Mines Ltd., has been called for the same day to consider plans for a voluntary windup of the company. The 4,120 acres in northern Ontario, acquisition of which is to be considered at a forthcoming meeting of shareholders of Algonquin Mines, are reported to be located in the townships of Tyrrell, MacMurchy, Turner and Seagram, all in the Shining Tree section. One block is said to be tied to the claims in Tyrrell staked by McIntyre Porcupine last fall. An official states the properties are being acquired without cost or obligation excepting assessment work to keep titles in good standing. It is believed that later one or more subsidiary companies will be formed to develop the company's holdings, including the original Churchill property.

James A. Hazelton secretary treasurer of Hazelton Porcupine Gold Mines, Ltd., states an agreement has been entered into with a group of New York financiers headed by R. H. Von Stein, one of the original founders of McIntyre, for financing of a thorough development campaign on the company's properties. Mr. Von Stein has taken an option on 400,000 treasury shares at an average price of 28.75 cents per share. The stock has been approved for listing on the New York Mining Exchange.

WILL FLOAT LOAN FOR GRAIN BONUS

Australia Gov't Makes Proposal Involving Over $25,000,000.

AID WHEAT GROWERS.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 5. (C. P. Cable via Reuters).—The Commonwealth Government will propose to the Loan Council the flotation of a loan of between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in order to pay a bonus to Australian wheat growers.

This decision was reached to-day after a conference between the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. James Scullin, Hon. E. G. Theodore, treasurer, and Sir Robert Gibson, head of the Commonwealth Bank. The bank, it is understood, adhered to its determination that it could not afford to advance more than 50 cents a bushel as initial payment on the present crop of wheat.

Two 'Quakes Felt Over New Mexico

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 5. (CP)—A 30-second earth tremor in New Mexico last night was reported in Kansas City before the windows of Albuquerque stopped rattling.

L. B. Laisure, Kansas City amateur radio operator, was talking to Donald Drake of Albuquerque, when Drake abruptly left the air. He returned soon with: "Just had an earthquake, I ran outdoors for fear the house would fall on me. No serious damage. Am signing off. Have to pick up the broken dishes."

Ruins Rock Again, New Zealand City Under Martial Law

HASTINGS, New Zealand, Feb. 5 (A.P.)—Another sharp earthquake shock rocked the ruins of this town at ten o'clock to-night, throwing the already frightened populace into further panic.

Martial law has been declared and no one is permitted to enter the business district without a permit, for fear that what is left of the buildings may collapse at any minute.

There has been looting, but armed sentries were posted at various points throughout the town to-night.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was fairly active during the first period yesterday morning and prices were up 1 ¼ cents above the close Tuesday night, but while there was some good buying that was credited to export or seaboard houses, the bulk of the buying orders came through commission houses and was belived to be largely short covering and credited to country account. The opening bulge was evidently too rapid and many buyers of wheat yesterday were inclined to take profits and the buyers of today became filled up, and the market sagged off, more than losing earlier gains. The Chicago market made an advance in the new crop months of abqut 7-8 but declined about 1 ½ later. While there was no precipitation received over the winter wheat belt there were indications that a break in the weather was coming and rains are expected in the South West at the end of the week.

There was a fair export business worked overnight, estimated at around 400,000 bushels, but actually this is very ordinary business. There was a fairly good demand for cash wheat, mostly from terminal interests and a fraction better was obtainable for the top grades, but offerings were very light. Domestic flour sales are fair but export business is slow and forward bookings are reported to be small. A private cable from Tokio to the New York Times stated that China offers no market at present for surplus Canadian or American wheat, in the opinion of H. H. Maler, Canadian Minister to Japan, after investigation of the trade. China has become a large buyer of flour and offers a valuable future field, Mr. Marler believes, but at present she is purchasing large quantities of Australian wheat, owing to a break in exchange is obtaining at four dollars a short ton under the Canadian prices.

Liverpool closed ¼ to 7-8 higher, and Buenos Aires was unchanged at 3 o'clock. Broomhall estimates the world requirements of wheat for the present crop year at 768,000,000 bushels, of which 343,000,000 bushels has already been shipped. This is an increase of 32,000,000 from his previous estimate, the increase all going to non-European countries.

Coarse grains.— Outside of a few odd cars of Oats and Barley worked overnight for domestic account, the coarse grains continued very dull and featureless with little pressure on the futures Oats closed ¼ to 3-8 lower, Barly ¼ to 3-8 lower and Rye ¼ to ¼-8 higher Flax was dull and featureless closing 1-8 to ¼ lower.

Liverpool Cables due 3-8 lower to unchanged, based on Winnipeg.

Faithful Dog Goes After Dynamite Stick

YORK, S.C., Feb. 5. (CP)—Armed with a stick of dynamite and followed by his faithful dog James Smith, a farmer, went fishing.

He tossed the sizzling explosive into the stream and stepped back to watch the fish blown to the surface. But the dog, an expert at retrieving objects, swam out, seized the dynamite and headed back for shore.

Smith took one look and ran for his life.

When he fell from exhaustion after a futile effort to outrun the dog, he found the fuse had been detatched in the scramble.

"DARE DEVIL SAMSON" IS DEAD.

SALISBURY, England, February 5 (C.P.). — Air Commodore Charles Rumney Samson, known to all England as "Dare Devil Samson," died suddenly here to-day.

He was a picturesque figure with a short pointed beasd, and his cap always set at a rakish angle. He entered the Navy in 1898 and was the first man to fly from the deck of a moving battleship. During the war his exploits in the Royal Naval Air Service made him nationally famous and won him decorations from both England and France.

important that the "rather academic motions" of the Conservative and Liberal parties, he continued.

Motion Make Things Worse

"I am ready to give time for any motion which will help conditions in the cotton industry," Premier MacDonald curtly replied, "but I am not prepared to give time for a motion which, instead of helping the situation, will make it worse."

Maxton shot back a question as to whether Labor, when in opposition, had not been afforded opportunities for discussion.

"Yes," the Prime Minister sharply answered, "but when the motion is put down in a responsible way, after consultation with responsible leaders in the Labor movement."

Another left-winger asked if the Government was prepared to re-open the cotton mills under the Emergency Powers Act, and whether the Prime Minister was aware the great majority of ballots of the Lancashire workers favored such a course.

"The answer to both parts of the question is 'No'," the Prime Minister replied.

The cotton motion is sponsored by A. Fenner Brockway, member of the I.L.P., and urges that pending settlement of the dispute the entire cotton industry should be placed under control of a board of representative of owners and workers, the Government availing itself of the authority conferred by the Emergency Powers Act.,

The House was stirred by the battle between Premier MacDonald and Maxton, rather than the Brockway motion, both sides keenly await the next move.

WHEAT RECEIVES.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. (CP)—Forecasts for rain or snow likely to afford widespread relief from drought in domestic winter wheat territory turned grain prices downward early to-day. A reduction of 20,000,000 bushels in estimates of the Argentine wheat exportable surplus, however, tended to check selling pressure. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent lower, wheat afterward underwent an additional sag, corn started ¼ off to 1-8 up and subsequently showed declines all around.

IMRIE SUGGESTS MARKETING BODY

Commission Would Be Fact Finding and Advisory Only Under Proposal.

SEEK NEW OUTLETS.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5 (C.P.) — Organization of a farm products commission as a corollary of the Agricultural Credits Corporation recently proposed by E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was advocated by John M. Imrie, of Edmonton, in addressing the Empire Club to-day.

The Commission would be fact-finding and advisory only, under Mr. Imrie's proposal. It would seek to co-ordinate production and marketing and to stimulate and support existing marketing services rather than to create any new marketing mechanism. It would endeavor to secure for Canada's own farmers the largest possible proportion of their own domestic market, thus displacing substantial imports of secondary farm products from other countries. Outside of Canada it would seek to expand present markets; to find new ones, and to study requirements of both.

Mr. Imrie, who was chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Trade Commission to the Orient, addressed his audience on "New Markets Across the Pacific."

He was made R.C.A. in 1890, R.C.A. in 1902, and was elected member of the Council of the Academy in 1906. In 1924 his work "The Sand Bar," was purchased for the permanent collection of the National Gallery of Canada.

IODINE IN SALMON IS AID TO HEALTH

Marine Fish Contain Much More Iodine Than Fresh Water Fish.

ANTI-GOITRE ELEMENT.

SAINT JOHN, Feb. 5—"The results of recent analyses prove beyond a doubt that iodine is to be found in all fish and fishery products, molusks and crustaceans. Moreover, science tells us that marine fish, such as salmon and shell fish, contain much more iodine than fresh water fish. It has been shown further that marine fish, such as salmon, molluska and crustaceans contain a higher percentage of iodine than any other common foods."

This information was given to-day by Clifford Thomas of Vancouver, when asked by a reporter to explain the nutritive value of canned salmon. Mr. Thomas is Production-Manager of the Clover Leaf Salmon Packers, and is an authority on all matters pertaining to salmon.

"British Columbia salmon, canned soon after it is caught, contains, in addition to the anti-goitre element iodine, the vital vitamins A and D, and calcium for bone-building," Mr. Thomas further stated.

"It is evident, therefore, that by using canned salmon at least two or three times each week, the amount of iodine and vitamins ingested would be increased considerably.

"These facts should be of interest to Canadians living in the so-called 'goiterous areas,' where the iodine content of the water and foods is below normal. This is vitally important in planning the diet of young people living in districts where disorders of the thyroid gland are common.

"One of the chief merits of canned salmon, besides its healthful properties, is that it is always fresh and can be obtained even in the most isolated districts, where other healthful foods are difficult to obtain."

OBITUARY

MRS. ELLEN TOWNS

DOURO, Feb. 5 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Mrs. Ellen Towns, who died at the home of her son John Towns on Friday morning, was held on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock to St. Joseph's Church and cemetery, Rev. M. J. McGuire conducting the service.

The late Mrs. Towns, who was in her seventy-sixth year, had been a life-long resident of Douro and news of her death came as a shock to her many friends.

Left to mourn her loss are two sons Jeremiah, of Englehart and John, of Douro; three daughters, Mrs. John McCauley, Mrs. Michael McCauley and Mrs. O. Daoust, all of Kirkland Lake.

Pall bearers were George Maloney, Patrick G. Towns, Daniel J. Kennedy, James J. Moher, Francis Kennedy and Daniel Delaney.

GEORGE E. INGHAM.

In the passing of George E. Ingham of 195 Crescent street, Peterborough, one of those kindly souls, a lover of peace went to his reward. And so this world is a better place because he has passed this way.

Many there are who will remember his kindly acts and deeds in the community in which he passed the major part of his life.

Surely the words of the divine Master would apply to such generous souls as his, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethern ye have done it unto me."

The funeral was largely attended, many from outside points being present and included: Bruce E. Ingham, M.A., LL.B., Bowmanville; Dr. George Ingham, Stratford; Mrs. Jennie McInroy, Mr. Earl McInroy, Strathroy; Miss Annie Brown, Mr. C. Brown, Mrs. and Mr. A. Brethwaite, Mrs. Brown and Mr. L. Downs, Roseneath.

The Rev. Mr. Moorehouse conducted the funeral service speaking words of comfort to the bereaved. A solo by Mrs. Kitney was beautifully rendered. The pall bearers were Messrs. C. Brown, Thomas, Parker, Noftall, Taylor and McInroy. (Contributed).

CONSIDERS AGAIN BANNING PRESS

Lindsay Town Council Gives Constable Raise and Vetoes Sunday Golf.

WONDERLAND INVITATION.

LINDSAY, Feb. 5.—Of the considerable amount of business transacted at the regular meeting of the Town Council Monday night, probably the most interesting is the decision that the motion barring the press from committee meetings should be referred back to committee for further discussion.

This was done when the report from the finance committee was read. Messrs. Bussey and Armstrong, both of whom were absent when the question first came up, moved that this question be referred back to commitee, and with Mayor Alcorn in the chair six voted for the motion and four against it.

Other business included recognition of Night Constable Alfred Hodgson, placing a license fee on miniature golf and banning local runt golf on Sunday, and reading correspondence. All important matters were referred to committees where they will be discussed.

OMEMEE Y.P.U. VISITS IN BETHEL

Entertaining Program of Recitations, Solos and Music is Put On.

CONTESTS HELD.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 5.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Bethel Young People's Union entertained the Young People's Union from Trinity United Church, Omemee, last Thursday evening.

Miss Marion Rea, the president of the Bethel Society, opened the meeting with a hymn. Dr. McPhee, the president of the Omemee Society, took charge. Several hymns were sung. Rev. Mr. Blanchard led in prayer and gave a short talk. Miss Margaret Werry gave a very pleasing solo, Miss Lillian Race and her sister, Mrs. I. Connel, gave a piano duet. Miss Mary Faulkner read the scripture lesson from a Psalm. Rev. Mr. Blanchard gave a recitation, "Little Tim's Tobacco." Mrs. Evelyn Cornell gave a very fine solo in her usual good voice. She was accompanied by Mrs. Garnet McMann at the piano.

A number of young ladies sang two pleasing numbers. Dr. McPhee then put on two contests and the Bethel young people served refreshmnts.

Miss Mary Faulkner then thanked the Bethel young people for their kind hospitality and refreshments. Harry Jackson replied on behalf of the Bethel young people.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

Junior Congregation of Wooler United Church Enthusiastic Over Memory Course.

WOOLER, Feb. 5 (Examiner Correspondence) — There was an attendance of one hundred and sixty-four at the Sunday School at the United Church on Sunday morning, held previous to the church services, in the auditorium.

The junior congregation is very enthusiastic over the course of memory work, the young people being led by Mrs. Poulter and Mrs. A. G. Austin. Rev. A. Poulter led the responsive reading from Psalm 51 and the choir sang an anthem. Following this the pastor read Ephesian 4: 8, his subject being, "Solution for the Problem of Temptation."

"It is considered that the book of Ephesians is the finest work Paul ever wrote. Ephesis was a remarkable city, the centre of trade, and the capital of Asia Minor; it was a centre for art and all religions were found here. That was why Paul wanted to go there and on his missionary journey he stopped there and established a church.

"We must guard our household for fear the thief of temptation creeps in. We are warned and we answer; we are on the watch, but many go too far and get in the under current; we plunge into dangerous pleasure and don't discourage it."

OMEMEE A.Y.P.A. HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET IN CHRIST CHURCH HALL

Pleasing Program Provided By Members—Rev. J. L. Hughes is Guest Speaker.

COUNCIL MEETING.

OMEMEE, Feb. 5. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The annual banquet of the A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church, was held Monday evening, February 2, in the Sunday school room. The tables looked very attractive with their decorations of daffodils and lighted candles. Covers were laid for eight and a sumptuous repast was served by the young people of the society.

The president, Mr. H. Hill, toastmaster, welcomed the guests and spoke briefly of the success of the society and proposed the toast to the King.

Norman Spencer of England, proposed the toast to Canada. Mr. Spencer spoke very highly of the hospitality and kindness shown him since his coming to Canada and feels sure he will never regret coming to this fair Dominion of ours known as the "Lady of the Snow."

O, Canada was sung. W. Stephenson Jr., replied. He said we have a great heritage and emphasized the great advancement of our country. Mr. Stephenson assured the young people coming from other countries to this fair Dominion. that if they proved themselves worthy they would receive a very warm welcome.

Community singin was led by G. Woodhead.

Norman Burgomaster proposed the toast to the church.

The Church's one foundation was sung. Rev. A. I. Weir replied in a very suitable manner, thanking the young people for their co-operation, giving them great encouragement in the work they were doing.

A humorous reading, entitled "Grin," by Robert W. Service, was given by G. Woodhead.

Toast to A.Y.P.A.

Miss Audrey Weir in a very able and pleasing manner, proposed the toast to the A.Y.P.A. Miss Weir said she was pleased to propose a toast to a society which meant so much to the young people of our church. Urging the members of the society to boost the Dominion Conference which is to be held this summer, at Regina. As this is the first time the conference has been held in a Western Province.

John Bent replied, telling the young people "Push" was one of the most essential points necessary in our lives to reach the goal.

Howard Bent favored the banquet with an interesting reading. H. Burgess proposed the toast to the Ladies. Mr. Burgess could not understand why this honor had been confered upon him, when knowing so little of the ladies. Nevertheless many complimentary remarks were confered upon the fair sex.

Mrs. F. Bent replied in her usual pleasing and witty manner, pointing out some of the weaker, also the stronger points of the ladies.

Guest Speaker.

The guest speaker of the evening, Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector of St. Georges, Peterborough, now addressed the banquet, complimenting the young people of the church and was very pleased with the able manner in which they had conducted their parts. Mr. Hughes gave a very inspiring and instructive address.

One of the greatest events of the evening was the reading of the "Spot Light" by the president. This magazine known as the official organization of the society is the paper in which the activities of the members are made known. Several members were quite surprised at the news, which was revealed in the reading of this paper, and added much merriment to the evening's entertainment.

H. Hill then made a brief address on behalf of the society and presented Mrs. F. Bent with a beautiful table lamp as a mark of appreciation for the assistance Mrs. Bent had rendered in the play, given on New Year's night.

Mrs. Bent replied, thanking the members of the A.Y.P.A. and hoped that she might be able to assist them at some future date. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Hughes, for his able address. At this juncture the members and visitors joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne.

Council Meeting.

Monday night, February 2, the council met in the Council Chambers, Coronation Hall, with Reeve Magee and Councillors W. L. Moncreif, I. Fee, Wm. Burgess and F. Parker, present.

The following accounts having been examined and found correct were ordered paid:

Repairs to jail, $4.80; Street lights for January, $77.00; Insurance premium on jail, $4.30; Good Year Tire Co. (50 ft. fire hose), $17.50; two cords wood, B. Parker, $18.00; Thos. Newman, collecting taxes, expenses, $50.75; W. Morton, repairs for snow plow, $7.00; J. Morton for snow ploughing, $7.20; Public library grant, $50.00

That communication from good road Association and Township Road Association be filed.

By-law No. 566, appointing S. P. Mills, as assessor for the year 1931, at a salary of $50.00, had its several readings signed by the Reeve and Clerk and sealed.

J. W. Williams addressed the council regarding the Public Library and gave a report of same.

I. Fee, W. L. Moncrief, that the Public Library be given the usual grant of $50.00.

Thos. Newman tax collector, be given an extension of one month for the collecting of taxes.

The account of R. W. Mitchell, for accounts, be left over to the March meeting. The council adjourned to meet the first Monday in March at 7:30 p.m.

Enjoy Sleigh Ride.

The Young People of Trinity Church enjoyed a sleigh ride to the Bethel appointment, where they were the guests of the Bethel Young People. The Sunday School room was filled to capacity. Miss Marion Rea, president, of the Bethel Society gave the address of welcome and invited the president of Omemee, Dr. McPhee to take the chair and conduct the meeting. Dr. McPhee replied in a few well chosen remarks, and proceeded with the program.

The usual devotional exercises were conducted by the president. Miss M. Faulkner sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. G. McMann, in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. I. Connell and Miss Race favored the gathering with a piano duet. Miss Margaert Werry, gave a vocal solo, much to the pleasure of the gather. Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, gave a recitation. Choruses were given by the nine girls who accompanied the play.

Rev. Mr. Blanchard then gave a short address on the work of the young people. The meeting was given over for a social time when two contests were enjoyed. One on Reversible words, and a second on short hand letter. Refreshments were then served by the young people of Bethel when the evening's entertainment closed.

BRIEF SESSION FOR N.S. SOLONS

Third Meeting of Nova Scotia's Seventeenth Legislature Opens on February 10.

NO LENGTHY DEBATES.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 5. (By Canadian Press)—The third session of Nova Scotia's seventeenth legislature since Confederation, which opens on February 19, is expected to be brief. Last year's session, which opened on March 5, was drawn out until the end of April by extended discussion of the new Liquor Control bill, and to some extent, by the measure providing for regulation of the pulpwood cut, this year, however, anything in the way of legislation likely to provide unusually lengthy debate is unexpected.

Prominent as an incentive to sessional wordage during the past few years, Old Age Pensions will undoubtedly come in for increased attention at the coming session, with a likelihood that prorogation will find a pensions measure on the provincial statue books. Following the assertion of Premier Bracken of Manitoba that Prime Minister Bennett had assured the prairie premiers that the Federal Government was prepared to assure 95 per cent of the cost of such disbursements, Premier G. S. Harrington of Nova Scotia stated that if the Manitoba premier was correctly quoted, the Nova Scotia government would prepare legislation, to be introduced at the coming session, providing for the inauguration of an Old Age Pensions scheme in this province.

The Liquor Control Act, also, will undoubtedly be drawn to the house's attention on many occasions. Amendments to this measure are expected to be few, as it is believed the government will wish to see the Act in force a full year before altering its provisions or machinery of operation. Last year an opposition demand that the municipalities share in the profits of government sales was met by the suggestion of Premier Rhodes that after a year or two of operation, and consequent knowledge of the economic situation resultant therefrom, the question might be brought up again with a view to action. Net profits from the Act's going into force on August 18 to September 30, end of the fiscal year, were $23,000 on a $600,000 turnover, and although the opposition will likely renew a demand for municipal participation, it is unlikely the government will propose or accede to any such scheme this year. New return for the six weeks in question were cut, of course, by organization of the Nova Scotia Police and of the Liquor Commission machinery of administration.

The question of hotel and tavern sale of beers and wines is another matter to come under review. The New Brunswick Liquor Commission recently refused a request of New Brunswick hotel men for hotel sale, on the ground that the matter was properly a question for the government to settle. There is provision in the Nova Scotia Act for the taking of local plebiscites to settle this problem, the towns concerned to pay the cost of such a vote. So far Glace Bay is the only town circulating the petition necessary for the taking of a plebiscite. It is understood the government takes the position that for it to pay the cost of these plebiscites would be looked on as encouraging the sale of liquor, and no such course could properly be taken.

Since the house last met a new portfolio has been created Dr. George H. Murphy, previously a member of the executive council without portfolio, assuming administration of the new department of Public Health.

PRINCESS WILL RIDE MULE UP MOUNTAIN

In Argentine Visit Royal Highnesses' Tour to be by Aeroplane and Mule-Back.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (By The Canadian Press). — When the Prince of Wales and Prince George are in the Argentine this spring in connection with the opening of the British Empire Exhibition at Buenos Ayres by the Prince of Wales on March 14, they will have a varied means of transport, including mule-back and aeroplane.

They will first visit Santiago de Chile and then proceed southward to Puerto Montt, a seaport at the head of the most northerly of the magnificent fiords inside the Chiloe Archipelago. From Puerto Montt they will cross the Cordilleras, the southern continuation of the Andes mountains, by motor-car and mule-back to Nahuel Huapi lake, which is just within the Argentine border at the foot of the Andes, where the Princes are due on Feb. 27. There is no railway on this part of the journey.

After spending two nights at a ranch on the lake-shore their Royal Highnesses will go on to the Argentine Southern Land Company's ranch, farther down Lake Nahuel Huapi, where they will remain one night. Then they will travel by train to Puerto San Antonio, 400 miles distant, on the east coast of the Argentine, and on March 4 they will begin a 700-mile aeroplane journey to Buenos Ayres, which they will reach March 5. They will stop at Mar del Plata on the night of March 4.

The Prince of Wales, along with his brother, will be the guest of the Argentine Government for three days, March 6, 7 and 8, and the two Princes will probably leave on the night of the third day for Mar del Plata. They will stay, unofficially, at this Argentine seaside resort until March 13, and then return to Buenos Ayres for the official opening of the British Empire Exhibition, the principal object of the visit to the Argentine of the Heir to the Throne.

MEN COULD HAVE SAVED OWN LIVES

Veteran Sailing Master Says Deserting of Ship Was Fatal.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 5.—Exception to the opinions of those who saw the stranded hull of the schooner Warren M. Colp after the wreck at Burnt Point, Bay De Verde, and expressed the view that if her crew of six had remained on board until the sea went down, four of their number would not have been lost is taken by Captain John P. Horwood, veteran sailing master of St. John's.

The Warren M. Colp was lost in Conception Bay on December 15, and on the following day witnesses said men could walk around her in rubber boots, so low was the water.

"Some men declare that if people would stay by their vessels longer than they usually do in times of shipwreck, there would not be so many men lost," notes Captain Horwood in the Evening Telegram. "I cannot substantiate such a statement, simply because I have known so many men lost who waited for a better chance to get ashore in times of disaster. I wonder if the master or crew of the Warren M. Colp knew the depth of water around Gull Island when they jumped from the bowsprit to that Island rock? Did they know whether there were three fathoms or twenty-three fathoms under that cliff where she drifted in? If it were deep enough she would evehtually sink out of sight, as many others did."

Captain Horwood points to many wrecks as evidence bearing out his contention. When the Bonnie Lass struck at Pouch Cove in 1833 Captain Dan Hogan and four of his crew were lost. The captain's brother and another seaman jumped from the bow without delay and were saved. The schooner Hope well was lost on Biscayan Island in 1875. One man jumped to a rock and was saved, the other seven going down with the vessel.

The writer refers to many other sea tragedies of more recent date, and referring to the Warren M. Colp asserts that "in my humble opinion these men were lost, like many others, because they were overtaken by a snowstorm and tried to get into Conception Bay for shelter, but were unacquainted with the bay."

Captain Horwood points out that there is not a harbor on the northwest side of the bay from Bacalieu to Carbonear, a distance of 26 miles of coast, exposed to rough weather. Nor is there a haven from Cape St. Francis to Holyrood, 28 miles, on the southeast side.

"Be it far from me," he concludes, "to make any statement as to what time master mariners should abandon ship, when all sensible men know that that depends on the surrounding circumstances in time of trouble."

Famous Ship To End Days As Coal Barge

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 5.— Once the pride of the North Atlantic sailing fleet and one of the fastest vessels on the coast, the five-masted schooner Bright, built in 1918 at Seattle, Wash., will end her days as a coal barger.

With the exception of one trip on the Pacific Coast, the Bright worked between North Atlantic ports. Like many of the old siling ships, she had a hectic career. When owned by Walter E. Reid, Portland millionaire, in 1927, the schooner had her bow smashed in a collision with a steaner, and was towed to this port. Two years later she was towed to Falmouth Foreside, and plans were under way to convert her into a floating dance hall when she book loose from her moorings and crashed into The Brothers, two islands in the harbor. She was re-floated and again towed to an anchorage in the harbor. A few weeks later the vessel was dismantled, her rigging sold and her long masts shipped away to be used as hoisters in a granite quarry.

The Bright measured 258 feet in length and registered 2,100 tons gross. She had been anchored in the lower harbor for months when it was decided to moor her by a local coal firm for use as a storehouse for coal.

Australian Eggs Are Shipped To Britain

LONDON, Feb. 5 (By The Canadian Press). — Regular shipments of Australian eggs have been arriving in ports of Great Britain since the season opened in October, 1930, says Sir Granville Ryrie, high commissioner for Australia in London. Sir Granville says it is anticipated that altogether 200 000 cases, each case containing 30 dozen eggs, will be imported into this country before the season ends this month. This will be 86,000 cases in excess of the shipments in the previous year.

"Australian eggs," Sir Granville Ryrie states, "come on the British market at a time when home supplies are at their lowest. Despite the fact that they are transported more than 12,000 miles the eggs arrive in such perfect condition that they are sold for table purposes and not as 'cookers.' Australian eggs are all graded under government supervision before export, and the demand for this season's shipments has been far in excess of the supply."

The Australian high commissioner adds that this is the sort of encouragement the Dominion producers require, and the Australian poultry farmers, heartened by the success of this year's shipment, will confidently continue to develop the trade with Great Britain.

Steamers And Tugs Damaged In Wreck

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 5.—An unusual accident in which two tugs were damaged and two steamers escaped damage occured recently at the North Chelsea drawbridge.

The four-way collision happened as the steamer Sage Brush, attended by the tug, Nathaniel P. Doane, was proceeding through the draw for Charleston, and the steamer Sewalls Point, with the tug Tauras, was heading down stream. In some manner the Tauras swung into the path of the Doane, which forced her stern against the Sage Brush. The Tauras then turned about directly under the bow of the Sewalls Point, the steamer's sharp prow slicing off a large section of the towboat's stemhead and splintering her bow.

Pearl B. Crowley, cook on the Tauras, suffered a lacerated leg and Sam Justassen, cook of the Doane, sustained a hip injury.

With the Tauras in danger of sinking, she was rushed to a shipyard.

OSHAWA HOME IS HIT BY MISSILE

Large Piece of Metal Comes From 'Nobody Knows Where' to Strike Home.

REMAINS GREAT MYSTERY.

OSHAWA, Feb. 5.—Residents of Westmount, a suburb of Oshawa, were startled yesterday when a large piece of metal came hurtling through the air and crashed into the side of a house at 225 Gibsons street, owned by S. Naish. The metal measured about fourteen inches long by an inch and a half thick, and weighed 35 pounds. So great was its force that it penetrated the inch-and-a half sheeting on the house, and cut a wooden two-by-four in two, then fell to the ground. The family was not at home at the time, but Mr. Naish said that the projectile seemed to have been part of a solid wheel.

There are no factories within a mile or more of this house, so it does not seem probable that it was part of a fly-wheel that came hurtling through space. No explosions have been reported in the district. Residents of Westmount are unable to offer any plausible explanation.

Suggestion that the metal may have dropped from an aeroplane is not credited, as the course taken by the bolt was horizontal, not vertical. It struck the side wall at an angle which would preclude its dropping from a plane.

Too heavy to have been used in the perpetration of a practical joke by mischief-makers, the projectile distinctly resembles a piece of finished material, but inquiries at all neighboring industrial plants fail to reveal any clue to the secret of how it landed there.

Several people visited the home later in the day, but no explanation of a satisfactory nature was forthcoming, and the whole affair remains a mystery.

"WORK" IS SUBJECT OF MEETING TALK

Interesting Program at February Meeting of St. James' Church Society.

The February meeting of St. James' Ladies' Aid was marked by a good attendance and an excellent program. "Work for the Night is Coming" was the fitting hymn chosen as the theme running through the whole meeting was "work."

The Scripture lessons read by Mrs. W. K. Sloan were taken from the Acts of the Apostles 9:39-42 and St. John's Gospel, 14: 23. The topic was one of deep interest to every woman, especially to those whose lives seem filled to overflowing with both home and church duties, and was entitled "A woman's work is never done." Mrs. Sollitt dealt with this subject in a most capable manner, reading short sketches on the question from Fay Inchfawn. "It is the rush that is so wearing" said the speaker. "The sight of duty treading upon the heels of duty. And then the long queue of duties still waiting one behind the other; each one pushing and jostling and hustling for its turn, until we women get "fed up" with them all. We have no time for higher things. They are crowded out. Just to keep the home going is enough for any woman. How and when can she get time for spiritual life.

Doing the washing in snatches, making puddings with a crying baby on one arm. This is not life, it's drudgery. But there is a way of knowing and seeing and serving God right in the midst of this "pot and pan" life. He can pilot your spirit through the most tiresome day. "Keeping His Words" simply means doing the sort of things of which He approves. Accepting annoying circumstances without kicking. Showing love to unlovable folks and having no personal resentment.

"Just lay them down to-day,
Just here and now, the toil, the worry;
The all-too-anxious heart, the tearing hurry,
Just lay these down to-day.
I think that He who made the stars and sun
Can mind the things you've had to leave undone.
So lay them down to-day."

The very duties which were so wearisome before take on a kind of spiritual beauty if women would only take this attitude.

When we women have seen Jesus for ourselves we will be able to convey Him to others by little loving ministries of hand and feet. Caring for the children entrusted to us, the man of the house. Truly a woman's work is never done. It is women who sets the barometer in the home. Let her see to it that it never rests at "stormy". "Set fair" must be the atmosphere of our homes. Then we will be able not only to care for our own house and home but to carry blessings into other homes through our society and its work. Our work will never be 'done" because it will outlast the ages.

This splendid talk exemplified the spirit in which the Ladies' Aid members should start out on the duties of a new year.

The business session included the secretary's minutes and treasurer's report, the appointment of committees and convenors of sewing circles.

The day of meeting, by vote, was changed from the first Thursday to the first Tuesday of each month. An invitation was extended to the Ladies' Aid by Mark Street ladies and accepted, and as many as possible would arrange to go.

Another gracious invitation was given by the treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Fry to the Ladies' Aid to hold an "at home" in her beautiful new home 634 Weller street on the 19th and was accepted.

This very helpful and inspiring meeting closed with singing a hymn and the benediction.

PRICE OF BREAD IS INVESTIGATED BY DEPARTMENT

F. M. McGregor of Department of Labor, Ottawa, Holds Enquiry in City.

REPORT TO MINISTER.

In answer to the Examiner's enquiry, the Honourable G. N. Gordon stated this morning, that F. M. McGregor, the Registrar under the Combines Investigation Act, an investigator from the Department of Labour, with an official and a court reporter, held a sittings to investigate the matter of bread prices, in Peterborough.

Mr. Gordon said he had made a complaint, sometime ago, against the uniformity of prices that prevailed in Peterborough, after the price of wheat had dropped to one-third of what it was when prices were, apparently, fixed at the figure that now stands.

The Attorney General of Ontario, according to Mr. Gordon, refused to investigate or to have any charges laid, under the provisions of The Criminal Code, as he was testing the validity of the Combines Investigation Act before the Privy Council. The situation became acute and Mr. Gordon stated he finally telegraphed Senator Robertson, the Minister of Labour, advising him that eight of the H. J. Boyle Stores, six of the E. F. Mason Stores, and seven of Fitzpatrick & Geraghty Stores, had been cut off and refused a local's bread because they had decided to sell bread at one cent less a loaf, than the management of the bread company would permit.

The A & P Stores and Dominion Stores have been retailing the pound and a half white loaf for eight cents, an express is paid, from Toronto to Peterborough, on these shipments.

Reduced Bread.

These stores desired to sell their bread at the same price, but when they decided to do so they were cut off and refused Peterborough made bread, and it was stated the manager, has declined, ever since, to sell bread to these large businesses.

A meeting was held, in the Chamber of Commerce, of the Bakers, and what took place there is probably only known to Mr. McGregor, but apparently he had enough information to make a complete report, which requires to be made to the Minister of Labour, before proceedings can be taken under the Combines Investigation Act.

The last step in the case, Mr. Gordon said, was that the Minister of Labour had written to him that possibly now the Honourable W. H. Price, the Attorney General for Ontario, would be prepared to take proceedings, in view of the fact that the Combines Investigation Act was declared valid by the Privy Council, a few days ago.

Under the Act a combine is described as follows:

(I) Combines which have operated or are likely to operate to the detriment or against the interest of the public, whether consumers, producers or others, and which (a) are mergers, trusts or monopolies, so called; or (b) result from the purchase, lease or other acquisition by any person of any control over or interest in the whole or part of the business of any other person; or (c) result from any actual or tacit contract, agreement, arrangement, or combination which has or is designed to have the effect of

(I) limiting facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing, or dealing, or

(II) preventing, limiting or lessening manufacture or production, or

(III) fixing a common price or a resale price, or a common rental, or a common coast of storage or transportation, or

(IV) enhancing the price, rental or cost of article, rental, storage or transportation, or

(V) preventing or lessening competition in, or substantially controlling within any particular area or district or generally, production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, storage, transportation, insurance or supply, or

(VI) otherwise restraining or injuring trade or commerce, are described by the word "combine".

Under the Act the Registrar has the right to enter premises, with his officials examine books, and compel any person to give evidence before him.

Mr. McGregor spent a day and a half in Peterborough in his investigation.

Penalties provided in the Act, for any person guilty of an infraction of it, are in section 32.

Offences and Penalties.

Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to a penalty not exceeding ten thousand dollars or to two years imprisonment, or if a corporation to a penalty not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, who is a party or privy to or knowingly assists in the formation or operation of a combine within the meaning of this Act.

No prosecution for any offence under this section shall be commenced, otherwise than at the instance of the Solicitor General of Canada or of the attorney general of a province. 1923, c. 9, s. 26.

CONSERVATIVES MEET IN CAUCUS

FOLKLORE IDEA TRACED TO 1878

Lord Dufferin Took First Steps to Revive Old Canadian Songs.

AT FAREWELL BALL.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4. — A somewhat faded letter was handed to E. Z. Massicotte, Court House archivist and folklorist, who laughingly admitted he has now direct proof there is nothing new under the sun.

"When I proposed the first Soiree de Folklore here in November, 1918, to bring before the people the old music and songs of French Canada, rendered by compatriots in costumes of the country, who had received our traditions art first-hand, I thought I had an idea. Perhaps I did, but this letter shows me that Lord Dufferin, the Governor General of Canada, had the same idea just forty years before me," he said.

The letter of Lord Dufferin was transmitted to Mr. Massicotte by deLary MacDonald, also well known in the folklore field. It is marked "Private," dated February 18, 1878, from Government House, Ottawa, and is addressed to Robert de Lotbiniere Harwood, at that time deputy for Vaudreuil. The letter says:

"My dear Colonel Harwood: Ever since I came to Canada, I have been wanting to do something to revive the popularity of the old Canadian boat songs and their national ditties, and in consultation with Lady Dufferin I have thought that something to this end might be accomplished by our arranging for a chorus of French singers, dressed in voyageur or snowshoeing costume, being planted in the supper room to perform a programme while my guests are at supper at the ball on the 27th inst.

"There is, however, great difficulty in getting hold of any persons who have cultivated this species of music in this neighborhood. It seems to have fallen completely into oblivion, even among the French population, and I am told that Quebec perhaps would be the nearest place where we could obtain recruits

"Do you think you could help us with your advice and counsel in this matter, for I am sure you will sympathize with the object I have in view?

"The matter would, of course, have to be arranged upon a business footing, but I would willingly spend 20 or 30 in forwarding the object which, in the first place, would be agreeable to my guests, and, in the second, aid so desirable an object as the revivification of our characteristic Canadian romances.

"Believe me, my dear Colonel,
"Ever yours sincerely,
"DUFFERIN."

The ball to which the Governor-General of the time refers was the farewell ball of Their Excellencies. The Gazette of February 28, 1878, says that a thousand guests were present, including members of the Cabinet, judges of the Supreme Court, the military, and officers of the Dominion Rifle Association, which was in convention at Ottawa at the moment. Great stress is laid upon the sumptuous atmosphere in which the ball took place, the beauty of the ladies' dresses, the masses of flowers and the "exquisite" music.

WOULD REPEAL ALL DRY LAWS

Massachusetts Democrats Behind Bill Proposing Elimination of All Prohibition Provisions.

HAS GOOD SUPPORT.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 5.—The most sweeping anti-prohibition law ever proposed in Massachusetts is offered in a bill filed by Representative John S. Derham, of Uxbridge, and supported by 42 other House Democrats, calling for repeal of all provisions of the existing statutes regarding liquor sales. With minor exceptions, the bill would leave entirely to federal authorities the enforcement of statutes relating to the manufacture, transportation and sale of liquor.

Derham, who is entering his third two-year term as a member of the House, was one of the leaders in the last Legislature who figured in attempts to repeal the "baby" Volstead Act.

"In view of the overwhelming sentiment of the people of Massachusetts as shown at the last State election, in favor of leaving entirely to the federal government authorities the responsibility for enforcement of prohibition, I believe the time has come to present such a measure as I have filed," he said.

"With the Baby Volstead Act repealed, all that is left of the statutes of Massachusetts, except those which provide protection against the sale to minors and the right of public authorities to prescribe that liquor shall be sold under proper conditions, amounts to little any way. The people of the State have shown their complete disapproval of the restrictions imposed by the 18th Amendment to the federal Constitution and the National Enforcement Act. In my opinion they have given us a clear mandate to remove from the statute books of the Commonwealth those provisions which would impose penalties upon persons who engage in the manufacture and sale of liquors containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol."

KNOX CHURCH ORG ANIZATIONS REPORT YEAR OF FINE SUCCESS

Receipts For Missions Were Well in Excess of $2,300.

W.M.S. RAISES $1,097.41.

The annual meeting of Knox United Church was held recently, when the pastor, Rev. William McDonald occupied the chair and John D. Buyers was secretary.

The Session report showed that every organization was working together in harmony and that the membership roll was now 444, being practically the same as last year.

For the Missionary Fund, William Watt, treasurer, reported that receipts were in excess of $2,300. The statement of the church treasurer was presented by Robert Mulligan, showing total receipts to be $6,261.55 and while the expenses showed an increase over this amount, it was stated that the two items of repair undertaken this year more than covered the overdraft, and thus denotes a year of progress.

The Women's Association, through Mrs. R. F. Laing and Mrs. G. Davis presented interesting reports of its work. Total receipts for the branch amounted to $1,097.41. The Women's Missionary Society which embraces the senior organization, the Helen Roger Auxiliary, Volunteer class, Mission Band and C.G.I.T. reported a very successful year. Mrs. Ego announced that the various allocations had been met and the total receipts amounted to $1,366.95.

A report of the various Sunday School classes and departments read by William Herd, Jr., gave the receipts amounting to nearly $800. For the choir, J. M. Gerard reported receipts of approximately $350, derived mainly from the musical play presented last year.

The Young People's Society, newly organized, was represented by Miss K. Benson. Receipts amounted to $15.67 and the Dramatic Club through Mrs. Huffman reported raising more than $375 by play productions.

The Board of Trustees received a handsome legacy by the will of the late Mrs. Ellen Walsh, a beloved member of the church, this to be applied to the mortgage on the church buildings.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Board of Managers for period of three years, H. J. McCannan, George Davis, Joseph Lancashire, E. G. Johnston and W. G. Lockie; representative to Nicholls Hospital Board, H. J. McCannan; Central Charity Board, Robert Mulligan; Protestant Home Board, Mrs. William McDonald; Bible Society, J. Morrision and D. A. Bain; Missionary Treasurer, William Watt; auditors, H. Clegg and A. Pitchford.

A resolution was passed, expressing confidence in the leadership of Rev. Mr. McDonald and this was heartily endorsed. In reply, the Reverend gentleman stated that it was a pleasure to give leadership when all organizations were working in harmony.

The serving of light refreshments terminated one of the best annual meetings ever held in connection with the church.

21 Suffer Paralysis Drink Jamaica Ginger

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 5.—(C.P.). — With 21 cases of paralysis from the drinking of Jamaica ginger extract already reported, city health department heads expressed fear to-day that the number of victims of the extract may go to 50 before a warning broadcast takes effect.

PASTEURIZATION BEFORE BELLEVILLE ALDERMEN

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 5.—The city council yesterday tackled the problem of pasteurized milk. A deputation consisting of Dr. Cronk, M.O.H.; Dr. N. H. Sutton, district health officer, and Dr. A. E. Barrie, chief of the sanitary engineer's department, Toronto, waited upon the city fathers advocating immediate steps for the passing of a by-law making pasteurization of milk compulsory here. George Graham, proprietor of the Montrose Dairies here, spoke in opposition to the move, and argued that raw milk properly handled was cleaner and had a better taste than the pasteurized type. The move for pasteurization is supported by a large body of citizens following an outbreak of typhoid here in the Autumn, during which three deaths occurred. It was established that the germ had its source in a local dairy.

The first reading of the pasteurization by-law took place and a copy will be forwarded to the department of health for approval.

MANY OBSTACLES BLOCKING PATH OF U.S. PRESIDENT

Has Had More Troubles Than Any Other White House Occupant Since Lincoln.

DRY STAND GOOD MOVE.

Distress Conditions Seen as Possible Big Issue For 1932 Election.

(By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5. — President Hoover, Washington concedes, has possibly more troubles than any occupant of the White House since Lincoln. With the 1932 election looming up on the horizon, observers are wondering whether Mr. Hoover's control of the Republican machine and his stand as a Dry will be sufficient to ensure him the Republican nomination and re-election.

In 1928 Mr. Hoover rolled into power on the crest of a wave of "Republican prosperity.' With apparent control in both legislative branches it appeared that the President was in a position to carry forward the policies contained in his election program vigorously and without hindrance.

Foreign Trade Drops

In the Hawley-Smoot Bill Congress generally revised the tariff disregarding in many instances the suggestions which were said to have emanated from the economist President. In the meantime "Republican prosperity" collapsed like a pricked balloon and whether the Hawley-Smoot tariff had any thing to do with it or not United States foreign trade fell off one third.

A few weeks ago the President's Law Enforcement Commission presented to Mr. Hoover a report upon prohibition in which they freely granted that eleven years after its inception was neither observed or enforced. The President in transmitting the report to Congress virtually declared himself and out and out dry. Washington thinks this was a pretty good political movement.

But now the sting of the bad times gadfly which has bitten the United States people begins to reach directly into the White House. In agricultural states afflicted in addition to the general economic depression by drought people have not enough to eat and to wear. The President holds that this situation should be taken care of by the Red Cross and other organized charity. Senators from distressed States insist that the conditions should be relieved by the Federal Government.

Obviously the matter of individual distress is something that appealing to the emotions of the people, will make a first class political issue.

Naval Circles Dissatisfied.

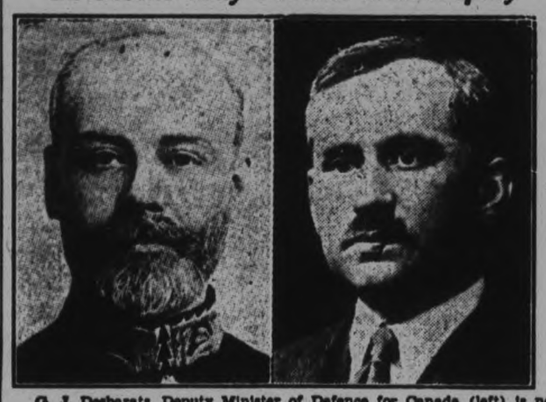
Other difficulties which have been laid on the White House doorstep are many. Among them might be mentioned the dissatisfaction in naval circles over the result of the London Disarmament Conference. The naval people at the moment are also bristling over the fact that General Smedley D. Butler of the Marines is to be court-martialled because he told a story about the Fascist Dictator of Italy, Benito Mussolini.

The Southern States are aroused again over the entertainment at the White House of Representative Oscar De Priest, a Negro.

There is no doubt that the Quaker President from California is not popular with the wets, the low tariff people, the southerners, those in army and naval circles, and many agricultural sections of the country.

Nevertheless, it seems probable that the Republican convention in 1932 will nominate Mr. Hoover for re-election, and if times are better by the time the elections roll around the Republicans of the old line and the Drys may very conceivably be strong enough to send him back to the White House.

La Fleche May Become New Deputy



G. J. Desbarats, Deputy Minister of Defence for Canada (left) is now over seventy years of age, the retiring age for deputy ministers, and it is understood that he will shortly be succeeded by Col. L. Fiche (right), a member of the Federal Pensions' Appeal Court, and for some time president of the Soldiers' Legion.

LAND BILL RAISES LONG DISCUSSION

Conservatives Put Up Strong Oppostion—House Sits All Night.

MEMBERS FALL ASLEEP.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 5. (AP) Worn and weary, the House of Commons adjourned after an all night session marked with frequent outbursts of bad temper and jaded nerves.

The session began at 2.45 p.m., yesterday for discussion of the agricultural and land bill, in report stage. The Conservatives who see in the measure a long step toward nationalisation of the land—although this is not its avowed purpose—put up a strong resistence and began obstructionist tactics which did not cease until the Commons rose long after dawn to-day.

Several amendments were submitted by the Conservatives but these were all turned down by large government majorities and the government's position nover was endangered. Finally the opposition attempted to bring the debate to an end and moved adjournment, but the Government balked at this and the debate dragged on.

Everybody became very tired and some members went to sleep in their seats. Occasional sharp remarks from speakers would bring them to their feet and result in angry outbursts. Both sides of the house shared in the bickering.

Eventually an arrangement was reached by which the remaining stages of the bill will be taken late to-day and next Tuesday.

The agricultural lands utilisation bill, argument over which kept the House of Commons sitting all night, is one of the Government's measures for dealing with unemployment. It proposes the establishment on the one hand of large-scale, up-to-date farms, and on the other the development of a large number of small land-holdings on which it is proposed to place some of thep resent unemployed men, after a period of farm training under Government supervision.

PRICE ENTERS BY-ELECTION

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 (C.P.)—The advent of Attorney General Price into the riding has stimulated interest in the Provincial by-election in Grenville County, and the speech which Colonel Price will make to-night at Kemptville is awaited with considerable interest.

M. F. Hepburn, M.P., Provincial Liberal leader, spoke at Oxford Mills and Acton's Corners last night.

COMPANY ENTERS IN CEREAL FIELD

Carnation Representative Highly Pleased With Business Conditions in City.

IN MILK FIELD ALSO.

A Mendoza, Ontario representative of the Carnation Company, of Aylmer, Ontario, formerly the Carnation Milk Products Company, was in the city to-day on business, and in an interview with The Examiner, stated that business conditions in Peterborough looked to him to be most promising in comparison with many other points he had touched.

Peterborough's fine list of diversified industries must be a great source of satisfaction to those in charge of the city's affairs as it greatly reduces the problems of the present time where localities are more or less dependent on one major industry.

Mr. Mendoza further stated after more than thirty years' fame as makers of evaporated milk "from contented cows," the Carnation Company, of Seattle, Wash., Oconomowoc, Wis., and Aylmer, Ont. recently completed consolidations on the Pacific coast which brings it into the whole milk producing and cereal manufacturing fields as well. Vigorous sales efforts on both evaporated milk and Carnation cereals will eventually be launched throughout the United States and Canada, Mr. Mendoza continued. A feature the public will instantly recognise is the change in the corporate name from the Carnation Milk products Company to the Carnation Company.

$2,500,000 ON PUBLIC WORKS

Construction Program Last Year in Ontario Was Heaviest Since Confederation.

DAY LABOR IS USED.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Outlining the activities of the Public Works Department for the fiscal year, 1930, in a statement issued yesterday, Hon. J. D. Monteith points out that the capital expenditure for the year was $2,500,000, exceeding the total for 1929 by $1,500,000.

He states that the construction program last year was the heaviest since Confederation. "Besides the growing demands for accommodation in the various departments," he explained, "it was thought prudent on account of the acute unemployment situation not to delay necessary building operations in various parts of the Province.

Day Labor If Possible

"The Government deemed it an obligation to contribute its share of relief to the present-day urgent demand for labor," he went on. "Additions, extensions and new structures have been undertaken and completed during 1929 and 1930, and many more are in course of construction. The new section to the East Block has already given employment by shifts to over 1,500 men. The new structure at Orillia will relieve the congestion in that institution; 1,400 feeble-minded, seriously overcrowded, with a waiting list of 1,100 will, in a measure, be taken care of by the present new accommodation provided. The expenditure at Guelph has been long overdue. Here, as elsewhere, day labor is resorted to where possible. The revamping of the plant, together with th new central administration structure, will modernize the Ontario Agricultural College, the leading institure of its kind in the world."

The Irish Free State now has 46,462 miles of improved highways.

STRING QUARTET HIGHLY PRAISED BY MUSIC LOVERS

Hart House Music Organization Makes Big Hit With City Audience.

EACH MAN A SOLOIST.

(By Jeanette)

"The design of Chamber Music", it is said, "is to lead the music lover into the sanctuary of art, where perfection of execution, loveliness of detail and highest mental participation become the sole aspiration. Each performer is a soloist, and the composers of the best Chamber Music have so worked that the extreme skill of the player, the characteristic quality and capability of the instrument, as well as the spirit of the author, are brought out to perfection. The string quartet is the perfect form of all Chamber Music."

The sentiments in the above paragraph convey very excellently an idea of the impression gained by the audience of two hundred or more people who listened last night to the Hart House Quartet, playing in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club.

The large hall of the Collegiate is a wonderfully fine interior, but it is not as suitable for this "Musica di Camera" as a smaller auditorium. The compactness of tone, the effect of playing to one focal point, the atmosphere of artistic sensibility in which the players and listeners combine to form one perfect ensemble in which the music radiates and lives, is, to a certain extent at least, nullified by a large hall.

The quartet was a satisfying as usual. The personnel includes the four well-known names, Geza de Kress, first violin; Harry Adaskin, second violin; Milton Blackstone, viola, and Boris Hambourg, violoncello. They play with vivid absolute absorption in their beautiful music, striving to maintain always that impression of one instrument playing with all the shades of expression possible to three types of strings that have been likened in turn to the tenor, the baritone and the bass tones of a well-balanced vocal quartet.

They chose for their feature numbers compositions by Franz Joseph Haydn, that Austrian composer who has been termed the master of Chamber Music. There is a sense of perfect proportion and completeness in his work, combined with matchless melodic expression, that makes it perfect for this type of instrumental quartet where strings alone make the tonal picture and where collective mastery of form and expression, rather than individualistic skill, are the things striven for.

Opening their program with the calm, pellucid English music of Purcell, in "Chancony", (an old Spanish dance), they progressed to three Traditional Tunes arranged by Gerrard Williams: "Fairest Jenny", with the plucked strings of the 'cello as a background for a rollicking little dance tune on the higher-pitched strings; "The Sheep Under the Snow", a soft, pleasing harmony done with muted strings, the viola carrying the air; and "The Pits Come on Me Now", its queer title borne out by the jocund, crescendo music that overlay the bagpipe atmosphere of the violoncello undertone.

Then came the Haydn quartet in B minor, with the composer's simple naivete, irresistible humour and unromantic buoyancy illustrated beautifully in the varying movements; the andante, the allegro and the swift scherso. Here were demonstrated to perfection that soft, pliant bowing, that smooth, flowing, cantabile tone, that ease and skilful mastery of difficult instrumentation, that makes this type of music such a delight, when perfectly done, as these players do it.

As an encore to the lengthy number, they played another bit of Hayn; the Minuet from the F minor Quartet.

Their third appearance brought an illustration of the strongly marked rhythm and the striking harmonies of the Bohemian composer, Dvorak, when they played one of his compositions, inspired during his stay in America, when he was principal of the National Conservatory at New York, and when he composed, among other works, the "American Quartet". The Lento and Finale movements from this presented, in the first instance, the prominent, delicate song of the violin, and in the second, a striking treatment of crescendo and diminuendo effects, with a simulated swift rushing wind of sound in the concerted finale. Much applause greeted this number.

Old Favorites

Five number that appeared on last year's program of these musicians, when they came here under the auspices of the Women's Music Club, formed a portion of their concert last night, in concluding numbers that had three old favorites as a base for two encores to a hearty burst of enthusiastic applause.

As a contrast in method and arrangement, their first two presentations were outstanding. The haunting "Londonderry Air" was lost in the irritations of a web of unrelated tone that lay over its familiar beauty until the brief finale, when the magic violin of de Kress finally lifted it from obscurity and brought it forth in all the charm of its lilting cadences. Then came the noble melody and well-defined air of that old favorite, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes", demonstrating the power of artistic simplicity. And finally, the gay, prestissimo music of a Percy Grainger characteristic bit, "Molly on the Shore", with all the charm of an old-time sarabande in the, dancing music of a sautille violin low and on unusual syncopated mood in the 'cello.

Two encores followed, both done "con sordini", with muted strings. One was that always wonderful Andante Cantebile, by Tchaikowsky, its absorbing melody drawn forth in delicate, creamy violin voices against the back drop of the pizzicato 'cello. And the last was the dainty, buoyant music of the Boccherini Minuet.

Mr. De Kress announced the numbers on the program, which was introduced to the audience by the president of the Kiwanis Club, John Allen in a neat, brief little speech.

Famous Travellers State That Planes Will Never Wholly Supersede Them.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5. — (C.P.) Airplanes will never wholly supersede dogs as a mode of travel in Canada's northland, according to champion mushers who were here for the running of Ottawa's International dog-sled derby.

This opinion also is corroborated by two of Canada's most famous Arctic travellers, Major Burwash of Franklin expedition fame, and Inspector A. H. Joy, in charge of the Arctic patrol of the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All were unanimous in declaring that both the airplane and dogs have their place in the winning of the northland.

PROVINCIAL CONTROL OF RADIO LIKELY TO GET ONTARIO'S AID QUEBEC PREMIER OPENS ISSUE

Premier Henry Has Declined to Say What Ontario's Stand Will Be.

SAME AS AVIATION.

Quebec Government Has Submitted Several Questions to Courts.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5.—(CP)—While Premier Henry has declined to say what Ontario's stand will be in regard to radio control, it would not be surprising to Parliament Building's authorities to see Ontario fight side by side with Premier Taschereau of Quebec for Provincial control. Quebec has already placed before its courts, a claim for Provincial control.

Control of radio by the Provinces it is pointed out by an official of the Attorney-General's department, may be treated the same as aviation in which Provincial control and jurisdiction was recognised by the Supreme Court of Canada, despite the fact that the Federal Government attempted to maintain its control.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

You are reading a great deal these days about the value of lime to the body. Just as lime is essential to plant life, so is lime absolutely essential to the human body.

It is necessary for the proper formation of bones and teeth, the underlying structure on which the other tissues of the body are built.

And likewise, it is essential to proper blood formation; in fact physiologists tell us that every cell in the body must have its portion of lime if it is to do its work properly.

It would seem that Nature knowing exactly the needs of young life in animals—human and others—gave the natural food to supply lime in the form of milk. Milk is the standard food for all young animals in that it is not only gives strength to the growing bones but to the blood and other fluids so essential to the cells of the body.

And young animals like milk, not only because it answers the needs of the body, but milk has a vitamin that actually stimulates the appetite for food.

However, as you grow older, you still need lime in your diet, not so much to give strength to bones and teeth, but to keep the tissues and fluids of the body in an alkaline condition. An acid condition or rather a condition that is mearly acid, means ill health and poor working of the various parts of the body.

Now, while milk is good food for children, as much as a quart a day being consumed by many thousands of youngsters, it hardly answers the requirements of the adult.

And so you must turn to other foods for your supply of lime. Naturally milk products come first in lime content. Good hard cheese is rich in lime as also is cottage cheese and buttermilk. Egg yolk also is nearly as rich in lime as the milk products.

Then come dry beans, almonds, and peanuts followed closely by celery, cauliflower, and cabbage.

After these, walnuts, oatmeal, whole eggs, string beans, carrots, lemons and lettuce.

And finally barley, asparagus, bread, potatoes and cornmeal. Fish and meat are comparatively poor in lime.

The point is that you need lime every day. If you are in good ordinary health, eating almost any kind of food will give you sufficent lime as the above list shows.

If you are in poor health and need lime, your doctor will prescribe it in drug form.

JUICE OF TOMATOES CONTAIN SAME VITAMINS AS ORANGES

Medical Directors Say it is One of Most Nutritious Fruits Known.

HAS MINERAL MATTER.

The tomato is one of the most nutritious fruits known, and is valuable in certain vitamins, including mineral matter which has both constructive and preventative qualities. These facts were learned by The Examiner in recent interviews with C. B. Waite, M.D., C.M., director Provincial Department of Health and physician, and with Dr. G. M. Fraser.

Tomatoes are just as good as oranges, as they contain the same vitamins. Babies who are generally fed orange juice may also be given tomato juice, as the latter is equally nourishing and safe. Up to a short time ago, babies were fed bottled food, and hence they were easy prey to scurvy. Similarly children and adults were subject to this disease, owing to the lack of fresh vegetables or fruit such as oranges or tomatoes.

The question naturally arises, how are tomatoes to be obtained fresh when the season for them is only three months at the most. It is true that they may be grown in hothouses all the year around, but are for this reason expensive. Tomatoes are imported from the southern states of America, but these fruit are only artificially ripened. Green tomatoes are picked and treated with ethelene gas, thus giving them the familiar sickly pink hue. These do not contain the same vitamins as home grown ones, as the sun has not yet chemicially acted upon them and given them the natural rosy red color. Imported tomatoes have only the food qualities of the green ones, although they have been colored. And besides they are by no means as valuable, even when they are ripe, as the Canadian fruit.

Buy Canned Tomatoes

The one answer to these questions is to buy canned tomatoes. Modern methods of canning have been perfected to such an extent that fruit may be hermetically sealed when ripe, and will not change in any way for months, or even years. Thus Canadian tomatoes are grown, and when fully ripe are bought by the canners. The canning factory, by a careful elimination of dangerous fruit and by a series of sterilizations, is able to preserve the tomatoes perfectly. This product may even presume to be more pure than fruit picked from the vines and kept for a few weeks, for the latter may lose in vitamins through exposure. Thus Canadian canned tomatoes are absolutely safe, and are perfectly preserved, so that when the tin is opened the fruit is just as good as the day it was picked.

The tomato is classed as a "five percent vegetable" although botanically it is a fruit in structure. However, the percentage refers to the ratio of carbohydrates in the actual solid material of the fruit—the tomato being 94 percent water.

Vitamins B and C are contained in the tomato. B vitamin is valuable in the prevention of infectious diseases. C vitamin is the scurvy preventative, through its mineral matter content. Of course each mineral element is present in a single tomato in a describably small amount, but the continual use of the fruit will produce the real purpose of each element.

Iron is present to a small extent, and is beneficial as a blood tonic. Chlorine exists in small quantities, and its value is that of a stabiliser. Calcium goes towards the growth of bones and teeth. Potassium is valuable in the healing of ulcers. It is a well known fact that patients ailing from ulcers are given medicines with a comparatively high percentage of potassium, and so tomatoes may be used as a preventative measure. Phosphorous is also present, and like calcium is used by the body for the making of bones and teeth. Sodium and magnesium are also found in tomatoes, and are valuable in purifying the blood.

Another classification of the structure of tomatoes is as follows: water, 94 percent; protein, .9 percent; fat, .4 percent; carbohydrates, 3.9 percent; oxalic acid, etc., .8 percent. The fuel value of tomatoes is 105 calories.

Thus tomatoes possess food values which are in every way beneficial to the human body, and, as fresh tomatoes cannot be bought all the year around, Canadian canned tomatoes may easily and safely be substituted.

The economic side of purchasing tomatoes is also a great factor in their usage. The question of healthful and economic foods for the family menu is one of very live concern to Canadian women at this time. The average housewife must make the most of a "depleted budget" and select foods which are reasonably priced, are notable nutritious and, in the interests of the national welfare, are Canadian produced.

The spring and winter months are critical ones for the family's health as well as for the wife's pocket book, and in this connection the record low prices of canned tomatoes would appear to be a fortunate fact under existing economic conditions.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Recently I came across a letter written by an English woman to a visitor overseas and it was so interesting, I thought I would record some of the letter here.

* * * * * * *

We have been discussing things pertaining to housekeeping for so long now that I think we need a little change, and I am sure you will find the letter interesting.

* * * * * * *

The writer starts off: "It is very good to be in England in March."

* * * * * * *

There are a great many of us who will never be privileged to travel to England and so the next best thing is to read about it, isn't it.

Continuing the writer says: "London has then thrown off the garb of winter; although women are wearing furs, and high-up-to-the-neck collars still, flowers are echoing the sunshine which is warming the days.

* * * * * * *

"The parks are gay with hyacinths and daffodils and narcissi, and the opening almond blossom buds. Everything is freshened, dirty buildings have had a new coat of paint! And there's such a magic crispness in the air that it is good to be alive."

* * * * * * *

Just reading those few lines makes me feel as if Spring were right here now—it sort of makes one forget the depression of the winter, with all its trials and troubles, doesn't it.

* * * * * * *

"Tea dancing you can enjoy at shops as well as hotels and restaurants. Midget golf, skating and real golf will fill in many an hour. Then you'll simply have to attend one or two of those informal 'At Home' Committee Meetings, which are such a feature of English Society entertaining nowadays.

* * * * * * *

"You will meet all sorts of notables at these gatherings and will have the entree to many a famous house thereby. And if you are an American, perhaps you will have time for a lecture at the American Women's Club—that wonderful house with its handsome carved oak panelling and grand staircase, which was once the town house of an American millionairess.

* * * * * * *

"There are plenty of outdoor things to go to in March, if you are coming over then.

* * * * * * *

"You won't want to miss the thrills of the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race, when the crowds are just as much fun as the race is exciting. Then you will see the opening of the flat racing season which starts on March 25, as well as the Grand National three days later!

* * * * * * *

"When you are up at Liverpool it's an easy journey to go into Cheshire and see the Duke of Westminster's famous home, Eaton Hall. Back in London you will find invitations have piled up during your absence and everywhere you go you will be greeting those, who like yourself, are ready to enjoy the pleasures of London for 'the season'."

* * * * * * *

As I read the letter my mind went with the writer and I had imaginary visits at the different places she mentioned.

* * * * * * *

Perhaps you have just returned from a visit to Europe or you may have recently visited some other winter resort, and if you have, will you please write and tell the neighbors about it, because I am sure they would be very interested.

ST. LUKE'S AYPA PRESENTS PLAY WINDY WILLOWS

Direction of the Play Was in Able Hands of W. Hepburn.

QUILT IS RAFFLED.

The struggle of the bourgeoisie of a small country town with the aristocratic newcomers, and the final triumph of the former, was ably portrayed in a play entitled "Windy Willows" presented by the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Anglican Church in the Parish Hall last evening.

The scene of the play is laid before the country store of Scarcely Nuff. The part of Scarcely, a jocular old man, the constable of the village, was well acted by R. Krant. Hubbell Tibbs portrayed by Douglas Bethune, acted the part of a bashful inventor, a trifle absent minded, in a very realistic manner. The "idle loafer" of the first three scenes of the play, as characterized in Billy Fortune, was convincingly played by N. Heath. The role of Carrie Tibbs was well taken by Miss C. Long. These form a happy society in Windy Willows, until the coming of the "dowager" and her satellites is heard about.

Mrs. W. Hepburn fitted into her part of an aristocratic widow of some means, as pictured in Mrs. De Peu, in a realistic way. Hre niece and protegee, Gladys Wellington, played by Miss E. Thompson, was the direct opposite of the upper-class Mrs De Peu. The villain and would-be lover of Gladys, as characterized in Donald McAdam, was well acted by A. Worboy. The role of his father, Glover, was equally well portrayed.

From the first, Gladys is interested in the country folk, and becomes especially attached to Carrie Tibbs and her brother Hubbel who at the commencement of the play is preparing to introduce his new dish washing and drying machine. The invention turns out to be a failure, but Gladys determines to afford her favored one the opportunity to try again. She also takes in Billy Fortune as a laborer on her estates, thus proving her kindness to the poor and unfortunate.

Hubble Decides to Study.

Hubbel, amid the confusion of embarrassment, finally decides that since Gladys loves him he must study to come up to her level. At the same time Donald McAdam tried to win Glady's hand, but finds the country boy has already gained her affections. Meanwhile Scarcely Nuff is forcibly stormed and ejected from his store by the aristocratic Mrs. De Peu. Due to the McAdams' inability to pay Mrs. De. Peu certain money, the villain plans a robbery in which Hubbel will be convicted, thus serving the double purpose of getting money and doing away with the obstacle in the way of McAdams' gaining Glady's hand.

The enemy succeeds for the time. Hubbel is the victim of a fractured skull in the melee, and is held on bail. Gladys' forfeits her bonds in order to release him, and the remaining $2,000 in the De Peu's possession is given to Billy to take the patient to the city for an operation.

The aristocrat with her niece, move into the Nuff house, and lose their upper-class unpleasantnesses. Mrs. De Peu is finally reconciled to Scarcely, and his appearance in a fine dress suit and apparent change in manner for the better, finally decide the widow in favor of marriage with him. However, the McAdams come to inform them that unless Hubbel turns up, his friends will be jailed as accomplices.

Billy Fortune turns up at last, and tells that he has found out the plot of the villains. He announces himself as a detective who came in the first place to follow the suspicious McAdams, and Carrie Tibbs is delighted to know that she is going to marry a detective.

Finally Hubbel returns, dressed as a city man. He is completely restored to health, and has successfully remedied the mistakes on his former dish washing machine. As a result he is the happy recipient of $10,000, plus the royalties from time to time, and is ready to marry his benefactor, Gladys. He pays back the convicted Donald McAdam with a good hiding, and it is left to our imagination to picture the jailing of the villains and the marriage of the three happy couples.

As an amateurs play, the presentation of "Windy Willows" was a great success. The direction of the play was in the hands of W. Hepburn, to whom great credit is due, both for the excellence of the production and his untiring work in directing several plays in the past. Jack Marshall played several piano numbers between the scenes of the comedy. After the play, a quilt which was made by a woman over 80 years of age was raffled, and Miss Rose Buddick was the winner.

Shaw Film Trifling; Dialogue Is Stagey

"How He Lied to Her Husband," Thus Criticized by London Writer on Shaw Talkie.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (By The Canadian Press). — Bernard Shaw's film play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," is "trifling" and "the dialogue is stagey," according to E. A. Baughan, drama critic for the News-Chronicle, writing about it after its first presentation at the Carlton Theatre, London. It is very well acted by Vera Lennox, Robert Harris and Edmund Gwenn, he says.

"The dialogue, strangely enough, sounded very stagey," he says, "and no use has been made of the cinematograph beyond photographing the play. That is not the way to make films. I hope Bernard Shaw himself saw his play and afterwards Ernst Lubitsch's exhilarating 'Monte Carlo.' There is as thin a story as 'How He Lied to Her Husband,' but what comic art has gone to the making of this screen version of the main episode of 'Monsieur Beaucaire.' Lubitsch, who has genius as a film director, manages to give a natural air to musical comedy by his consistently fantastic treatment."

Present Conditions Affect Middle-Aged

Secretary of Family Welfare Association Says Young Girls Getting Work.

MONTREAL, FEB. 5 — Present unemployment conditions are affecting the women verging on later middle-age and older, more than those who can be classified as young clerical workers, said G. B. Clarke, Secretary of the Family Welfare Association. He pointed out that the widow or the deserted mother with several children, has, in many cases up to this year been able just to make ends meet, but without it being possible to save anything much against either illness or tiding over an emergency with the result that when the wage-earning mother is out of work, there is nothing to fall back on and the family comes at least temporarily under the Family Welfare's care. Again, in the case of the older woman coming under the category of casual household worker, this year in countless cases she has been the item of expense the employer of such help has decided to start economizing upon. The loss of even one place means a big difference to these people, who quite possibly have only just been paying their way from day to day and now find themselves getting deeper and deeper in debt, with the result that there has been a big increase in the number of such cases which have to be helped. As Mr Clarke pointed out, the great difficulty is that, owing to continued lack of nourishing food over a period of months, when these women do get a chance at odd jobs, they are not physically fit to do hard work such as a younger person might do.

In the case of the young clerical worker, she seems to be faring better than her brother in the same classification, there not being nearly the same increase of calls for aid in this group as in the others. It was suggested that one reason for this might be that land-ladies were giving room and board in some cases in return for assistance in work about the house, until the girl secures a position at her own occupation of stenography, filing or other office work.

New Gold Discovery May Prove Valuable

Mining Men Think Possibly a Second "Rand" is Located in Southern Rhodesia.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 5 (By The Canadian Press). — Rumors of a "second Rand" in Southern Rhodesia have been filtering into Bulawayo, and among mining men there is a supressed feeling of confidence that the new gold discovery may prove valuable, according to the Bulawayo correspondent of the Cape Argus. Two qualified mining men, it is known, have pegged an area of 2½ miles of country 10 miles south of Fort Victoria, and prospectors and miners are hurrying to the district.

"At this stage it is impossible to say anything definit about prospects of the discovery," the Bulawayo correspondent says, "but it is understood that samples are being assayed in Bulawayo at present with a view to determining whether gold exists in payable quantities. Banket is vouched for by mining officials, and quartz and chert pebbles typical of the Rand formation have been revealed."

WEALTHY BROTHERS DROP GOOD ADVICE

Invest $150,000 Lottery Prize and Refuse to Go "High Hat."

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. (By the Canadian Press)—Pearls of wisdom, rough and unpolished, have fallen from the lips of the Doughertys—Sam Sr., Dan Jr., and Edward. They scattered advice to the winds for the benefit of those who drew starters in the recent Dublin Sweepstakes.

The Doughertys, you remember, won about $150,000 last summer in the Epsom Downs Sweepstakes of the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans.

This is the message the Doughertys gave to those among whom sudden fortune, they feared, might occasion cerebral swelling.

"Tell them," said Dan Jr. as he settled back in the soft cushions of the new parlor set, 'that they might do what we did—live a little higher in the social scale than before, but not to go high hat. Tell them to go in for a nice, modest place like this, and they can't go wrong."

With a sweeping of his right arm, Dan took in all the new furnishings in the new four-room flat in the walk-up apartment house which the Doughertys took after wealth fell in their laps. On the walls were four brand-new paintings on black velvet, one of a full-rigger coming headon out of an ochre sea, the others depicting love scenes, with lots of shooting stars and meteors for background.

In a stroll through the steamheated flat, Dan and Ed pointed out the other modest decorations, street scenes in Montreal done in mother-of-pearl, the real hand-painted landscape with lots of palms and a lone chicken and the red plush and stain lamps with beads, that the boys forced the furniture man to throw in with the parlor set. In the bedroom the walls were decorated with banners from southern cities and with a Harvard pennant.

"It is swell, ain't it?" asked Ed. 'It's nice and comfortable and no one could ask for more. We stay in the same neighborhood and live a little better than we did before, but we don't go high hat."

Ed. has kept his $20-a-week job with a firm in the financial district and Dan, who works for the same house, issatisfied with his $37 a week. He told how he and Ed. had taken out only $7.000of the money they won to furnish the new home and for incidental expenses, and had invested the rest in stock of the firm for which they work.

Ed. and young Dan each have a $1,900 roadster and have bought life memberships in the K. of C., but they have not been reckless with their money. They still 'hang out with the same old gang" in the neighborhood and spend a dollar or two for a lottery ticket, but they denied reports that they were buying them by the book.

'We had one ticket in the Dublin sweep," said Young Dan, 'and we've had all kinds of tickets sent to us from everywhere, from people who want us to be their agents, but we haven't been spending our money foolishly on them."

He said, somewhat wistfully, that he would like to study law, but was afraid it would mean too long a pull. 'Takest least ten years before I could get my high school credits and get through college," he declared, "and that's too long. I'm 22 now."

A picture of Blenheim, the 14-to-1 shot that brought the Dougherty's fame and fortune, is to occupy a place of honor in the parlor. It is printed on silk with the legend 'Blenheim by Blandford—Malva, winner of the Derby. Trained by Dawson, Ridden by H. Wragg, property of H. H. Aga Khan, "and will be placed under a glass panel on the parlor table.

Ed. has as a souvenir of the family's luck, a Canadian dollar on which reporters and other prominent persons he has met, have written their autograph. He called off the various names and said they were 'The names of good skates," Ed. is an enthusiastic youth.

NEW CALENDAR

See, here are days to come, clearly defined,
Twelve pages filled in orderly array;
While glancing through them, questions flood my mind:
What will I gain, what lose, on such a day?
Will joy return upon that April morn,
Will friends be kinder, tasks be sweeter then?
Does ardent August wait with pride or scorn,
And will October's fire light hope again?
Here are the days to come, this calendar
Holds the full list of hidden mysteries,
Plots something farther than the farthest star,
The future, that no seeking vison sees.
Inscrutable, the figures smile at me,
Nor tell one secret of the days to be.

OPEN CLAIMING OF HORSES ASKED FOR PRAIRIE TRACKS

Present System Allows Illegal Claiming, Declare Horsemen.

MORE RACES FOR WEST

(Special to The Examiner.
Copyright, 1931.)

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5.—In an effort to curb the practice of illegal claiming of race horses on Western Canada tracks, the Horsemen's Association of Canada has petitioned the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders Association to inaugurate the open claiming system during the 1931 season.

If this system is adopted any member of the general public can claim any horse entered in any claiming race for the purchase price marked on the program. Under the present system in Western Canada, claiming of horses is restricted to owners of horses entered in some particular race.

Decision to press for the open claiming rule was reached by members of the association following alleged irregularities in the claiming of several horses on western tracks last year.

In numerous cases, horses, which had run earlier in the year for a claiming price ranging from $1,000to $1,500 were dropped to as low as $400 and$500 in the closing days of the season and owners of cheap horses found themselves caught between two fires.

Their stock was not good enough to compete with these dropped down horses and they had no money with which to claim even if they wanted to.

With the advent of the open claiming rule, horsemen argue that there would be less chance of owners trying to slip one over knowing their horses would be subject to anyone interested, they would have of necessity to run them just where they belonged and this action alone would have a beneficial influence toward the evening up of the quality of the various fields.

Another suggestion has been advanced that the management of each track give one or even two races a day with the conditions reading "no apprentice allowance." Under the rules in force at present, the "bug" boys receive a five-pound pull in weights and experience riders have been grounded day after day in favor of in-experienced boys by owners anxious to secure the apprentice allowance.

The Horsemen's Association also intends to seek more races for Western Canada breds. In the 1931 season, there will be close to 300 of these running on prairie tracks and it is felt that at present there are not enough races to accommodate this number.

A Bedtime Story

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BOUNCING STONES

Once upon a time Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the jolly squirrel boys, came running into Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow as fast as they could scamper.

"Hightity tightity!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, who was twinkling his pink nose and just getting ready to go out and look for an adventure. "What's the matter, my little squirrel friends?"

"Boys!" chattered Johnnie, who was quite out of breath.

"Stones!" chattered Billie, who was just as much out of breath as his brother was. Uncle Wiggily saw the hearts of the two squirrels beating hard and fast beneath their fur coats.

"Ha! Boys and stones, eh?" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Well, that is too bad! I suppose," he went on "the boys were throwing stones at you, Billie?"

"At me and my brother Johnnie!" chattered Billie.

"And they hit us, too!" went on Johnnie. "I got a whang on my poor little nose!"

"And I got a stone on my big, bushy tail!" added Billie. "We came to ask if you couldn't stop the boys throwing stones at us, Uncle Wiggily."

"Why should boys want to throw stones at us?" asked Johnnie.

"That I don't know," Mr. Longears answered. "It is a queer thing, but I have often noticed that whenever a boy sees a stone he likes to pick it up and throw it. I mean real boys, not animal chaps such as you squirrels are. Boys like to throw stones."

"Yes, I've noticed that," said Billie.

"But the worst of it is," said Johnnie, "that boys like to throw stones at us!"

"Yes," went on Billie, "that is the worst of it! If the real boys would only throw stones up in the air, or in the water or on the ice of the duck pond it wouldn't be so bad. But it hurts to be hit with a stone."

"Indeed it does," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "I was hoping, now that we have winter here, when the ground is covered with snow and ice, that the boys wouldn't find so many stones to throw at us animals."

"In some places the snow is melted," explained Johnnie, "so the boys can easily find stones to pick up and throw."

"And if they couldn't find stones they'd make snowballs, I suppose," continued Billie. "Come out and we'll show you, Uncle Wiggily, where the boys stoned us."

"Maybe they'll throw at Uncle Wiggily," suggested Johnnie. "Maybe he hadn't better come out."

"Oh, I'm not afraid!" said the rabbit gentleman. "It will be an adventure for me. And I may think of a way to stop the boys from throwing stones at you squirrels. Come, now, show me where it happened."

Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow with Johnnie and Billie. The squirrels led him to a tree where they had been playing. The tree was near some empty lots where, in summer, the boys played ball. In winter they had snowball fights there and made snow men and snow houses.

No sooner had Uncle Wiggily and the two squirrels reached the tree than some boys, who were running around the lot, saw the animals.

"Come on, fellows!" cried one big boy. "Get some stones and peg 'em at the squirrels and rabbit! Let's hit 'em!"

"Oh, no!" said another boy. "See, that rabbit is all dressed up in clothes and so are the squirrels. Maybe they're from a show and it will spoil it if we peg stones at 'em!"

"No matter!" said the big boy. "Come on! Throw stones!"

So the boys threw stones. One hit Uncle Wiggily one struck Johnnie and a third stone bounced off Billie's nose.

"Oh, wow!" cried the little squirrel. "That hurt! Can't you do something, Uncle Wiggily?" He rubbed his nose with his paw.

"Yes," said the rabbit gentleman, "if stones can bounce like that I will make them bounce more and fix those boys. Come with me!"

Uncle Wiggily took the squirrels back to his bungalow. There he made Johnnie and Billie and himself a thick coat with leaves from the rubber plant. In these rubber plant clothes Mr. Longears and the two squirrels went back to where the boys were playing in the lot.

"Oh, here's that rabbit and those squirrels again!" yelled the big boy. "Come on! Chuck more stones at 'em!" The boys threw stones, but Uncle Wiggily and the squirrels did not run. Instead they stood there and let the stones hit their thick, rubber coats. And when the stones hit the coats, made from the rubber plant, the stones bounced off again, like tennis balls and banged the boys themselves on their noses. Oh, how hard those boys were hit by the bouncing stones!

"Wow!" howled the boys. "I guess we don't want to throw any more!"

So they ran away with their achin noses and never again bothered Johnnie and Billie.

TRIBUTE PAID TO CANADIAN WRITERS

Majorie Pickthall Hailed as Greatest Poet Dominion Has Produced.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5. — Marjorie Pickthall was the greatest poet and playwright Canada has produced, and Mazo de la Roche the greatest novelist. Professor Howard Dayne Brunt, associate professor of English at Macdonald College, claimed in the course of a lectur at a meeting of the Maritime Women's Club. Picking out what he considered the best writers in the several branches of literature in Canada, Professor Brunt compared them with many masters of English, and in many cases found literature of Canadian origin the equal of any of a similar type from other countries.

The greatest defect in Canadian literature was that it was likely to appeal only to Canadians, by virtue of a somewhat provincial and perhaps too patriotic outlook, the speaker went on, adding that many people seemed to take pride in this defect. This does not mean that Canadians should not write about Canadian characters in Canadian scenes, but that they should be able to "look beyond their own cabbage patch," he pointed out. They could be patriotic and yet produce works of universal appeal, like Shakespeare, whose characters were always fundamentally English men, but nevertheless were so true to human nature that they were appreciated the world over, he said.

The speaker dwelt at some length on the contribution of Maritime writers to Canada's literature. Classing in this division books dealing with Maritime characters and themes, and any books by a Maritime author, the speaker found several authors from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in the front rank of Canadian literature several authors from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in the front rank of Canadian literature.

Naming Marjorie Pickthall, Bliss Carman, Archibald Lampman and Charles G. D. Roberts as Canada's greatest poets, the speaker remarked that two were of Maritime origin; Bliss Carman and Charles G. D. Roberts. Professor Brunt paid tribute to Marjorie Pickthall for the artistry of her work. Charles G. D. Robert's poem on the occasion of Shelley's centenary deserved to be ranked with the four greatest elegies in English poetry, he said. Marjorie Pickthall won the honor in the field of Canadian playwrights, by virtue of her play, "The Woodcarver's Wife," he believed. In addition, her "flawless short stories" were the best produced in Canada as yet, he said.

In the realm of folklore, the Maritimes could claim two outstanding figures, Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, for his "Wonder Tales of Canada," and "Fairy Tales of Canada," and Archibald MacMeechan for his "Everybody's Alice," and "Porter of Bagdad."

Of the two great Canadian humorists Stephen Leacock and Thomas Haliburton, the latter hailed from Nova Scotia the speaker went on, referring to Haliburton's "Sam Slick" as the beginning of typical American and Canadian humor.

Although Mazo de la Roche could not be classed as a Maritimer, Professor Brunt remarked, another front-rank novelist, the author of "Ann of Green Gables," was of Maritime origin, as was John Oxley, famed writer of stories for boys. Other prominent novelists classed with Maritime writers were the author of "Beautiful Joe" and also Miss Alice Jones, the author of "Gabriel Praed's Castle."

In the class of political essays, those of importance were the work of a Nova Scotian, Joseph Howe, the speaker affirmed. He concluded with reciting Bliss Carman's "Low Tide at Grand Pre."

YOUNG ATHLETE BREAKS HIS NECK

As Team Mates Looked on Abner Howard Swansea Leaps Over Bars.

FELL ON HIS HEAD.

SWANSEA, Feb. 5.—Earl Howard, aged 20, second son of Abner Howard, grocer of 33 Lavinia Avenue, Swansea, was instantly killed at 8.45 last night at the gymnasium of the Swansea Public School.

Along with a number of other young men, he was taking part in a class which is conducted in the district for the benefit of youths of after-school age, and was looked upon as a promising athlete.

As his team-mates looked on, Howard took a run and leaped over the parallel bars, only to fall on his head. When picked up by Instructor G. S. Chellew, who was in charge of the class, it was found that he had broken his neck, and Dr. J. A. Whillans, medical health officer of Swansea, who was summoned, found life extinct when he arrived. Dr. Emmerson Bull of Lambton, district coroner, was notified, but decided, upon investigation, that death was purely accidental, and no inquest will be held.

HOW TO GET RELIEF FROM CATARRH

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength); take this home, add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant, and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need.

BIG COLLECTION DONATED

WINNIPEG, Man. Feb. 5. (By Canadian Press.)—Rare specimens, some of birds almost extinct, are included in the mounted collection donated to the province by the late Lady Whyte, which were installed in the office of Hon. D. G. McKenzie, minister of mines and natural resources, a few days ago. The collection was the property of Sir William Whyte.

Addition of the Whyte collection to the fast-increasing exhibits of Manitoba's natural resources, is considered a big step forward by Mr. McKenzie, who believes that within a few years Manitoba will find it necessary to have a provincial museum.

St. John's 3 Goals Up In First Of Junior Play-Offs

FOLEY AND MILLER GIVE SPECTACULAR DISPLAY IN NETS OF TWO CONTENDERS

Petes Put Up Much Tougher Battle Than That of Week Ago.

FINAL COUNT 3-0.

Saints' Second String Forward Line Register Two Goals in Final Frame.

(By F. D. C.)

St. John's will go into the second game of the play off series on Saturday night with a three-goal lead over the Peterborough Hockey Club as a result of their 3 to 0 victory over their local Junior O.H.A. rivals in a thrilling battle at Brock street rink last night.

It was the most exciting local contest of the season with the pace lightning fast and one goal or the other nearly always in danger. The players did not spare themselves, skating at a dizzy pace while solid body checks frequently met the attackers. On top of this the two goalers, Tommy Miller for the winners and Tommy Foley for the Hockey Club turned in spectacular performances, pulling off stops that had the crowd into an uproar.

The Saints won easily over their blue-sweatered opposition a week ago but found the Petes a much tougher aggregation last night. Their checking was decidedly more effective and the winners, who a week ago sailed in on top of Foley repeatedly for shots, discovered the path to the goal not nearly so smooth. So close was the Petes' defensive work that they kept Calladine and Gardner, the Saints' leading marksmen off the score sheet for the night. In the first period especially the blue team checked St. John's crew up into the corners and at times had them bottled up behind their own blue line. The Saints, it is true, did some effective checking on their own account, but in spite of the close guard each team tried to keep on the other both outfits were inside for shots on numerous occasions and both tossed away golden opportunities or were foiled by the blocking of the goalies, who were giving nothing away.

Account for Goals

St. John's superiority last night, in addition to the rushing of Ellis, who tore in at top speed was in the combination of their second forward line. When the first string attackers failed to register the second line came to the rescue in the last period and uncorking some neat passing slapped home two counters and gave the Petes all kinds of trouble to handle their raids.

St. John's got the first goal half way through the first period when Ellis went the length of the rink to beat Foley at close range and there was no more scoring until the Saints' second line went to work in the last twenty minutes and drove home the pair of goals that gave the winners a respectable lead to carry over into the second game. It was a great battle, probably the best of the season from the standpoint of sheer interest and it ended in a riot of excitement with the Saints' two defence men penalised and the Petes storming in in a desperate effort to cut down the margin.

In checking and speed there was little between the teams on the night's play. The Saints' passing was better than that of the losers, although the first line was unusually ineffective in this department of the game.

Sensational Playing

For the winners Miller earned brackets by a sensational performance in the nets. The Saints' goaler was hit in the face in practice a few nights ago and sustained a fracture of a bone in his chin but the injury had no effect on his work last night for he threw himself into shots with reckless abandon and saved on at least a dozen occasions when his defence had been cleanly beaten. Howe and Ellis played well defensively while the speedy rushes of the latter were a feature. Four times during the game he sailed through the whole Petes' team on efforts that should have been rewarded with more than the one goal he is credited with. Three times he shot over the net with Foley at his mercy. Up in front Calladine, despite his lack of scoring success and the close attention he received all night from the Petes did some smart puck-carrying and stickhandling. Gardner and Cuthbertson both worked themselves dizzy keeping their team in the hunt. Merrett, Milliken and Wilshaw, the second attacking squad, were decidedly effective and they improved as the game went on until in the final period they were the Saints most dangerous threat. Milliken's steaming shots, Merrett's checking and some nice stickhandling by Wilshaw featured the work of Line No. 2.

Although beaten three times Foley stopped many a stinging drive and his blocking especially on close in efforts made goal-getting a tough task. On the defence Wood checked well and rushed repeatedly while Whatley, who replaced McCullough on the rearguard, turned in a good card. While Dallin and Epps were probably the outstanding forwards there wasn't a weakling out there. Dallin played nearly the full 60 minutes without relief and in addition to many dangerous attacks did an immense lot of helpful backchecking. Epps was a threat frequently on the defence and his poke checking in mid ice spoiled many a Saint attack. Hank Jones hurt his knee early in the game but came back in the second period and played smart, aggressive hockey, while Meagher, Thirnbeck and Tuck never stopped trying and were good both defensively and on the attack.

Peterborough Hockey Club—Goal, Foley; defence, Wood, Whatley; centre, Epps; wings, Jones, Dallin; subs, Meagher, Thirnbeck, Tuck.

St. John's—Goal, Miller; defence, Ellis, Howe; centre, Calladine; wings, Gardner, Cuthbertson; subs, Merrett, Wilshaw, Milliken.

Referee—Elwood Coombs, Lindsay.

Play Opens Fast

It was fast hockey from the start with both outfits stepping on the gas as soon as the puck was dropped. Epps had the first shot from well out but the first dangerous move was a rush by Ellis, whose pass to Calladine beat the defence, but went for nothing when "Cal" shot past the post. Jones was hurt when he collided with Howe in mid-ice and was carried off for repairs. Ellis tore through the whole Petes' team but his shot skimmed over the cross bar Then Tuck for Hockey Club stickhandled round the Saints' defence and went right in on top of Miller, who flopped in time to save a goal. Ellis drew first blood when he sailed down mid-ice, skated round the Petes' defence and drove one past Foley. A little later he was benched for slashing but the blue team failed to take advantage of the opportunity. It was nip-and-tuck hockey for the balance of the period but neither team could find the nets.

Early in the second session Ellis and Whatley tangled and both were benched. Both teams took turns in attacking and the excitement ran high as the attackers closed in and then were foiled. There were some close calls. Meagher and Epps had great chances for Hockey Club and at the other end of the rink the Saints missed by inches several times especially when the second line started their passing. Merrett took a pass from Ellis close in and shot by the post when a goal seemed certain. A little later he was robbed again by a jumping stop by Foley. And so the game went on with both sides missing chances and the moments rapidly flying. Neither outfit could beat the goalies and the period ended without a score.

Early in the last session Jones nearly tied it up for the Hockey Club when he worked inside and sailed in on Miller, only to have the Saints' goalie come out and block his shot. The Saints' second line came out and shortly after the winners increased their lead when Merrett slipped a neat pass to Milliken, whose swift shot beat Foley for the second goal of the game. Wood missed a great chance for the losers soon after when he sailed in on Miller, who again saved spectacularly. Merrett and Milliken combined through the Saints' defence and a goal looked sure but the final pass was missed with Foley beat. Thirnbeck drew a penalty for slashing at Milliken and while he was off the Saints went further in front. Howe, Wilshaw and Milliken went down together and Wilshaw slapped in the rebound off Howe's shot to make the score 3 to 0. Right after Jones was again beaten by Miller when he was right inside. With the game almost over the Petes tossed away a great opening when Ellis and Howe were penalised in quick succession, leaving the Saints two men short. The blue shirts bussed around but could not find an opening and they tossed away half their advantage when Wood was chased for crashing Cuthbertson. Gardner killed their most dangerous move when he foiled a four-man attack by a perfectly timed poke check that cut off a pass and the bell rang before the losers could stage another raid.

Markham Defeats Lakefield In Initial Game

Bus Drivers Challenge Postal Clerks To Hook-Up in Battle of Ice "Shinny"

"Hoot Gibson's" aggressive sextette of puck chasers who in the daytime guide the buses of the Border Transit Co., around the city are once again on the lookout for suitable opponents to engage in another midnight match. The last game ended rather disastrously for the Bus Drivers who received the tiny end of a lopsided score by the Taxi Drivers and as a result manager Gibson is being more careful in selecting the next opponents. However, he feels fairly safe in issuing a challenge to the Mail Men and hopes that prompt acceptance will follow the publishing of this notice. Monsieur Bennett and "Spot" Stuart, it is understood have been coaching their pavement pounders for the last few weeks in the art of body-checking and taken all round should be able to give the Bus Drivers a real battle. Bill Hunt, last year's net guardian for the latter team, is the only hold-out so far as can be learned but as Bill's stock in his hockey ability has been shattered somewhat due to a recent practice with some of the very younger set, it is more than likely that he will be out when the next battle takes place.

RANGERS-AMAZING AMERKS "GO" WILL BE FEATURE TANGLE IN TO-NIGHT'S NATIONAL PROGRAM

Keen Rivalry Exists Between Inter-city Teams in Battle For Honors.

CANADIENS AT MAROONS.

Quakers Journey to Chicago While Detroit Falcons Will be at Ottawa.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5. (By Geo. Maguire, C. P. Sports Writer).—Two intra-city matches feature to-night's National Hockey League schedule. Montreal Canadiens, front runners in the Canadian section, hook up with their rival fellow townsmen, the Maroons at New York, the Americans and Rangers clash in a tussle which promises to outdo the Montreal attraction in the matter of rivalry.

Philadelphia Quakers journey to Chicago and Detroit Falcons go to Ottawa in the other two contests.

The combatants in the tilt at Montreal have met three times before this season. The Habitants proved much the best, winning two and tieing one. In the first contest the Red Shirted hockeyists outclassed their husky opponents, winning 7 to 1. Maroons improved after that and managed to hold the Flying Frenchmen to a 1-all tie, but in the third encounter Canadiens again displayed the better teamwork and triumphed 4 to 1.

During the last few weeks the Canadian group leaders have been showing their best form. Tuesday they hung up their sixth straight victory by squeezing out a narrow 2 to 1 victory over Toronto. This game was even more strenuously contested than the score would indicate and it is possible the husky Maroons may have been gone a good turn by the Leafs. The Mumromen have shown erratic form during most of the season but when "on" are capable of downing any squad in the league.

A packed Forum will greet the metropoliton rivals and a bitter struggle is assured.

Even more keen is the feeling between the two New York outfits. They have met twice before during the current season and each game ended in a stalemate.

Eddie Gerard's Amazing Amerks are staging a close race with Maroons for third place honors in the Canadian group. They have been meeting with much better success in recent games than their rival blue shirts and a victory coupled with a Maroon defeat will land them in the coveted place among leaders.

CEMENTVILLE SEXTET SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT OF THE SEASON BY LOSING TO VISITORS 5-1

Smooth Combination and Fast Breaking Front Line Accounts For Win.

FOR O.H.A. HONORS.

Free-for-all Enlivens Game in Third Stanza—Heavy Checking Affair.

On their home ice last night Lakefield dropped the first of their two second round intermediate O.H.A. games with Markham by the score of 5-1.

It was a disappointing performance for the big crowd of fans, apart altogether from the fact that it was Lakefield's first defeat this season. Markham's style of play, a smooth working combination, a fast-breaking front line, and the long passing game within their blue line turned the spot light on to Lakefield's essential weakness, which has been mentioned in these columns in the early January district series.

The visitors played their positions through the whole engagement, while Reg Marduff's forwards followed the puck in bunches. This contrast in method and generalship was disclosed at the start, and when Markham had rung up their third counter they were apparently satisfied with that margin. Their defence men were content at times toward the end of the opening period to shoot the puck the whole length of the rink, a usual indication of unconcern about more goals.

In their district games Lakefield has passed up the blue line advantage, and last night's experience showed them their mistake. At that, Markham did not use it frequently after the first period, but it was one of their main threats all night. Their team play stood out all through the game, largely because their attackers worked up and down in their own groves, while the home town front lines showed their habitual inclination to wander in the direction of the puck.

Markham got three goals in the first period. One of them was well earned, another was a fluke, and the third was practically a gift, when two of their men were left uncovered in front of the Lakefield net for the expected pass that came out from a corner.

Enlivens Game

The second period was scoreless, and in the final Markham added two goals while Lakefield saved their record from a blank. And incidentally a fight stimulated the excitement with but two minutes to go. Nothing serious happened in this flurry that brought about thirty men over the boards, some of them evidently wanting to get into it, but the majority determined to stop it. The fistic diversion was a climax to irritations that developed as the game progressed, and that centred around the two Markham defence men. Max Reesor earned three penalties and D. Hare, his mate on the rear guard, was banished four times.

Lakefield ran into a defence that was too stout and alert to allow them any of the latitude they like around the enemy's goal. Their only counter was earned by that style, and they had several other promising chances, but on the whole they were checked too closely within the Markham blue line, and Lunau in goal blocked the best of their close in work, except on Stuffy Mahood's solitary goal. On top of that a lot of Lakefield's long shots boomed against the back walls.

Although the visitors scored five goals against him Junkins played his usual good game in the home net and the defense pair, J. Sabatino and Tom Wood played their positions effectively and started a lot of rushes. Stabler and L. Sabatino were the pick of the forwards.

Prentice and Hagerman were conspicuous in the Markham attacks, and the veteran Max Reesor on the defence helped materially in holding the Lakefield count down to one goal. Lunau in goal was just as good as the score indicates. He handled long shots easily, and turned back half a dozen attacks at close quarters.

First Period.

Stabler was dazed by a heavy fall in the first brush of action, and had to retire for a few minutes until he recovered from the jolt. Max Reesor was benched for a strenuous check of Wood, a penalty that indicated i nthe early stage Markham's willingness to mix it. Louie Sabatino and Stabler engineered a combination play that was carried beyond the Markham goal line, and Sabatino's pass out to Stabler in front of the goal went wide.

The first exchanges were slow warming up, but after five minutes of sparring the forward lines went into high. Neither goal was seriously threatened in the first five minutes. Clendenning finally shot one dead on the Lakefield target, and Junkin picked it off cleverly. The visitors then sent in their subetitute front line, and the three juniors started the scoring with the smartest combination play of the game. They broke through the Lakefield defence, and Hagerman held the shot until he got close in on the net.

Three minutes later Max Reesor carried an attack to the Lakefield end. Johnnie Sabatino manoeuvred him into the corner, and two of the Markham forwards camped uncovered in front of the goal. Reesor whipped the rubber out to Hagerman, and Junkin didn't have a chance to block his shot from close range.

For Lakefield, Wood got within firing distance but Lunau in Markham's goal batted the puck out. Markham's third goal was an obvious fluke. Hubert Crosby shot from the Lakefield blue line. It was on the net but had hardly enough steam behind it to carry it to the end of the rink. Junkins had cracked a big splinter off the end of his stick, and the puck slid underneath it into the net. That goal deflated the hopes and enthusiasm of the home crowd. It was one of the breaks that went against the Lakefield team.

Max Reesor broke up a White to Stabler combination. Hare was benched for tripping Wood. Stabler, Louis Sabatino and Mahood had shots on the Markham goal that went for nothing. Junkin stopped two hard drives from Prentice. The visitors began to heave occasional long shots the whole length the rink, apparently satisfied with their three-goal margin.

Second Period.

The second period was a blank as far as scoring went, but there was plenty of action and wasted chances mixed with good goal guarding at both ends. For a couple of minutes the visitors were minus their two defence men, who were temporary spectators in the penalty box. Lakefield could make nothing of this opportunity, and were themselves, two men short when Louis Sabatino and Stabler were sent to the sides. Junkins made a wonderful stop when Hagerman beat the defence with fast footwork, and went close in for what looked like a sure goal. Lakefield missed a chance on Wood's pass from the corner. It was fooled, however, in front of the Markham net. White got in close on one of his rushes, and drilled the puck right on the net.

Final Period.

The last period produced a string of penalties that kept Lakefield undermanned. Junkins stopped two in a row from Prentice, and Wood bumped Hare on a threatening solo rush. Wannamaker was penalized for a trip, and Reesor and J. Sabatino joined him for a flare up of temper. John Sabatino increased his sorties into Markham territory in quest of that first goal Lakefield needed. Wannamaker was benched for gabbing to the referee after he had been warned.

Markham broke the long tension of a scoreless middle period and eighteen minutes in the third when Prentice circled the net and hooked the puck around the post. Junkin was down on the ice after that goal apparently hurt, although there was no indication from the side lines that he had been hit. He was up again in a few minutes and continued. And on the next Lakefield attack Johnny Sabatino upset Lunau as he skated past the Markham goal. That stunt earned him a rest. The last couple of minutes smoked with action.

Stuffy Mahood got Lakefield's only goal on L. Sabatino's pass out from behind the Markham goal line. Less than a minute later and with only a few seconds remaining until the last gong ended the game. Prentice streaked down the left boards, and beat Junkin with a shot that looked a lot easier than some of of those the Lakefield boy had stopped.

Return Bout for Petrolle and Tut

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. (CP)—The return bout between Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N.D., lightweight and King Tut, the Minneapolis puncher who scored such a surprising one-round knockout over him probably will take place in Madison Square Garden Feb. 27. Tom McArdle, Garden matchmaker, announced yesterday that he had reached therms with Ernie Pleigel, one of Tut's managers and Jack Hurley, pilot of the Fargo express, over the long distance telephone.

Six Feet Six Of Portuguese Fighting Brawn To Stand Grilling Before Illinois Board

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — (CP) — Any plans for building Jose Santa, giant Portuguese heavyweight into a Carnera-sized attraction are at a standstill today, pending the regular meeting of the Illinois State Athletic Commission next Tuesday.

Santa, six feet, six inches tall and weighing 239 pounds, and Knute Hansen, his opponent at the Chicago stadium last night, were sent from the ring in the second round after Hansen had gone to the canvas four times, the last time apparently without having been hit. Referee Davey Miller refused to count him out, declaring the bout no contest. The purses of both fighters were ordered withheld by General John V. Clannin, president of the National Boxing Association and chairman of the Illinois commission.

General Clannin said both men would be required to appear before the commission Tuesday and "show cause why both of them should not quit fighting."

The bout was the last of four ten-rounders on a card that attracted the smallest attendance in the history of the stadium.

Lone Buffalo Boxer Wins N.Y. Ring Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. (CP) — Of Buffalo's big team of battlers who sought New York state boxing championship for 1931, only one, Joe Lyons, was able to carry a crown back with him. Lyons captured the 147 pound title last night by knocking out Eddie Doscher of the St. Mary's A.C. New York, in the second round. Ed. Mueller, Buffalo 126 pounder and Tom Baxter, heavyweight, reached the finals before they were defeated while Nofie Colombo went out in the 126 pound semi-final.

TAKE DEFINITE STAND TO BAR CHEAP HOMERS

Heavier Cover and Raised Stitches Expected to Cut Down 4-baggers This Year.

AID TO PITCHER.

Will Enable Hurler to Get Better Grip on Ball—Owners Adopt Schedule.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—What can be classed as the first definite move to eliminate the cheap home run from baseball was made Tuesday by the club owners of the National League in session at the Hotel Commodore. A new style baseball was adopted by the league with the idea of cutting down the crop which has grown annually until it has become a travesty and a burlesque.

The new ball will weigh the same amount as the rabbit ball which accounted for the bumper crop of homers, but the cover will be thicker and the stitches will be raised through the use of a heavier thread. This will enable the pitcher to get a better grip on the ball and the change will undoubtedly add the effectiveness of the moundsmen.

One difficulty which pitchers had for several years was the smooth cover. Back in the days before the rabbits invaded the big league parks the stitches were higher, much to the joy of the pitcher. Then the improvement in machinery put the stitching on the same level with the leather and the hitting increased.

Almost 1,600 home runs were made in the two major leagues during the 1930 season and the club owners decided the freak hitting had gone enough. Whether the American League will take any action on the matter has not yet been officially announced.

The club owners adopted a schedule for 1931, the feature of it being the early closing date, Sept. 27. This is the earliest that the league has closed in almost twenty-five years. The American League will cease firing at the same time. This will permit the start of the world series on Sept. 29 or 30.

Barney Dreyfuss was re-elected vice-president again, although illness prevented him from attending the meeting. All the umpires who officiated last year were reappointed.

ONE OF BEST IN THE GAME

One of the cleverest basket-tossers in the Dominion is "Bus" Haugh, sharpshooter of the West End Y.M.C.A. team, Toronto. Well-known to basketball fans from coast to coast, "Buss" (or "Bus," as some scribes put it) last year performed for the Regina Balmorals. Short and stocky, he has great strength and when near the basket is hard to keep down His brother, Wilson, is also a forward on the Y.M.C.A. squad and many a basket this year has filtered in from the hands of Haugh and Haugh on passing plays.

Although prominent in football, hardball, softball, hockey, running and basketball since he was barely out of the cradle, basketball has been his outstanding sport. Starting his career with the Rotakin class of Howard Park Methodist, Toronto, "Buss" attracted attention as a left handed pitcher of no mean repute, and his strike-out records in both junior and senior softball still stand. Unlike the majority of pitchers, he is also a hard hitter. He joined the West End Y.M.C.A. basketball team as a junior and after they won the Ontario championship he signed up with the senior team with whom he played until he was transferred to Regina in 1926. Arriving in Regina he immediately began to shine for the Regina Balmorals and assisted them in the winning of the provincial championship during 1928-1929 then to the position of runner-up in the following season. Since returning to Toronto last fall, Haugh has been the leading scorer on the West End Y.M.C.A. senior basketball team, and he is recognized as one of the most dangerous shots in eastern Canada competition. His big specialty is scoring from seemingly impossible angles from the side of the floor.

SCRAMBLE CONTINUES FOR THIRD PLACE IN INTERNATIONAL LOOP

Cleveland Indians Trounce Bisons 3-1 to Oust London From Among Leaders.

BULLDOGS GAIN A GAME.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5 (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer).—A hot scramble has developed for third place in the International Hockey League. Last night Cleveland Indians trounced the league leading Buffalo Bisons in the Ohio City, 3 to 1, and ousted London Tecumsehs from the third rung by a margin of one point.

In the other scheduled fixture Windsor Bulldogs gained a full game on the Bisons by outscoring Syracuse, 5 to 2, while the Buffalonians were absorbing their ninth defeat of the season. The Windsorites are now only four points behind the pace-setters compared to eight a week ago.

Doug Young, husky defenceman, literally carried the Clevelanders through to victory. Besides playing a sturdy defensive game he crashed his way through the usual iron-bound Bison rearguard for two tallies, the first and the last. Carl Voss tied the count in the first frame on a pass from Lloyd Gross, but an unassisted marker by Archie Briden gave the winners the lead, which Young increased in the final frame.

Alex Wood, spare goalkeeper of Chicago Blackhawks of the National League, displayed brilliant form in the Indian cage. The clever Bison snipers bombarded him with 45 shots during the struggle, but only one pierced his guard.

Starting aggressively the Bulldogs soon served notice they were bent on entrenching themselves in second place. Three smart goals from the sticks of Duguid, Earl Robins and Stan Brown provided them with a commanding lead over the hapless Stars in the first 20 minutes.

The Border City hockeyists added another brace of markers to their total in the final chapter. Paul Haynes and Duguid being the successful marksmen. The Stars notched their first counter in the second frame, Holmes skating right through the Windsor defence to easily beat Clint Benedict. Teasdale got the final goal in the last period.

VISITING TEAM WINS

KRYNICA, Poland, Feb. 5. (AP)—University of Manitoba Grads to-day defeated the team representing Poland by a score of three to nothing in the International hockey tournament being held here. The Boston team representing the United States defeated Sweden by the same score.

IRONSTONE STARS AS LEAFS BEAT PATS

Guelph Goaltender Gives Thrilling Display Against Oshawa.

GUELPH, Feb. 5—Sensational goaltending by Joe Ironstone gave the Guelph Maple Leafs a brilliant 3-to-1 win over the Oshawa Pats in a fast game here yesterday evening before a large crowd. The smart Royal City net-minder turned in a wonderful effort to hold down the fast-skating, tricky club from the Motor City, and he had to be good, for the team in front of him had run into a streak of hard luck that looked as though it might cost the game. "Babe" Morrison, regular centre, was unable to play being out through sickeness, and the team, playing with only three subs., was further handicapped when Eddie Carmody suffered a badly cut left ankle in the second period. He retired at the end of the frame with blood pouring from a cut that will keep him out of action for two weeks. It is feared that an artery was severed.

Rangers Sponsoring Fistic Art Classes

Boxing classes will begin to-night at eight o'clock in the Armouries, and will continue every Monday and Thursday nights at the same hour. Any member of the Rangers may enter these classes, and the boxers will be paired off according to their weights. Gord Garwood, boxing instructor of the "Y," has been obtained to train the boys in the manly art, and under his coaching they should develop rapidly. It is hoped there will be sufficient interest shown to warrant a boxing tournament being run off around the end of March.

Kansas City Pla-Mars In Tie With Chicago

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 5. (CP)—The fighting Pla-Mors of Kansas City today still ranked in a tie with Chicago for second place in the American Hockey League. Tulsa and Kansas City last night fought 20 minutes without a score.

Meanwhile, Duluth Hornets moved up right behind the deadlocked Kansas City-Chicago duo by setting back Buffalo Americans 2 to 1.

ARTILLERY WINS FROM "A" COMPANY

Winners By 20-17 Count in Heavy Hitting Garrison Softball Loop Fixture.

In a heavy-hitting Garrison Softball League fixture at the Armouries, Artillery emerged victorious over "A" Company by a score of 20 to 17. It was batters' night and they slugged the pill to all corners of the diamond. There was four doubles, three triples and a home-run among the extra base blows. Whitnell, for the Artillery outfit, got the circuit drive.

"A" Company led until the fifth inning, getting four in the first, seven in the second and five in the fifth. For the last two innings they were held to one run. The winners only collected three in the first four innings, but they batted in seven in the fifth and in the sixth, and three at the last, to give them their margin.

Dunkerly went the route for the Rangers and helped himself to to ten strikeouts, while Thirnbeck and Hilliers, for the Artillery, divided nine between them.

Rangers "A" Company—Dunkerly and Mintz.

Artillery—Thirnbeck, Hillier and Hickey.

DUNDAS LEADS CAR MEN TO 37-24 WIN

Counters Nine Points in City Basketball League Fixture.

In a game that was fast and close, for the first half, Chevrolet defeated Grafton's 37 to 24 in a City Basketball League tussle last night on the "Y" floor.

The first half was back and forth, with Ira Dundas, for the Chevrolet, playing his first game of the year, getting no less than ine points and checking persistently. Both quintets played fast but too much individually, missing some nice chances. The half ended, 13 to 9, for Chevrolet.

Grafton's started strong in the second half and kept their opponents on the defensive. But the winners finally began a nice passing game and were soon tossing them in from all angles. John Dundas, for the Clothiers, did some good work both in shooting and checking, with Huffman also outstanding. For the winners, Ira Dundas was the big shot, getting 19 points during the contest. Lang hooped the ball five times to get 10 points to his credit, going especially good in the second half.

TERRY ON WAY HOME WITHOUT MAKING PEACE

Giants' Star First Sacker Seems Ready to Quit Game; Wants Salary Increase.

"BETTER PAY" IS CRY.

Both New York Ball Clubs Having Trouble With Holdouts This Year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Bill Terry is on his way back to Memphis and the relations between the National League's leading hitter and the New York Giants are more strained than ever. Bill calmly asserts that if Charley Stoneham is sincere in his attitude to date, then there is little to hope for from the men who run baseball, and he is more convinced than ever that he will be a lot happier working for William H. Terry.

Terry received $18,000 last season from the Giants and he expected a better contract after proving himself the outstanding player of the year with a batting mark of .401 and a star among first basemen. He sent the 1931 contract back when he saw it called for no increase, this being the usual procedure to start negotiations for more money.

It came galloping back without any change in salary and Terry intimated yesterday that a letter or two from the home office served further to burn him up. He seems a determined young man and also one of the few young ball players in a position to make his demands hold up. A good business and sound investments have placed Terry among the players who don't need a baseball contract.

No Interview Wanted

Terry came to New York to attend the Baseball Writers' dinner Sunday night and was in a kindly mood toward an interview with Stoneham. He learned that no interview was wanted and he refused to beg one.

As far as could be learned there was no break in the holdout situation affecting both Giants and Yankees yesterday. Both clubs are having a lot of trouble getting their players into line this year and both veterans and the youngsters from the minors are joining in the plea for better pay. One report had only nine Yankees unsigned, but at least that many have been mentioned in the hold-out rumors with some of them definitely known as such and it is probable that several other players are involved.

The demand for secrecy which the clubs have sent to the players has served to keep some silent, but others insist on their privilege of discussing their affairs with friends.

Lou Gehrig is still outside the Yankee fold. Lou, like Terry, had his greatest season in 1930 and figures this is the time to get the best that he can expect as a ball player. Lou backs away from all questions concerning his status, even as to the number of conferences he has had with the club officials. Apparently he has been warned against talking.

CANADA RAPPED ON DEPORTATION

London Paper Critical as 110 Men Return After Being Unable to Find Work.

SAYS MIGRATION RISKY.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 5—The return from Canada on board the liner Ascania of 110 men who had been unable to find work in the Dominion, provoked a critical editorial in the Manchester Guardian today. The newspaper, which had several tussles with Premier R. B. Bennett while he was in England last autumn, remarked that one might expect the Canadian Government to take the responsibility for those settlers who had been accepted.

"After all," the Guardian continues, "Canada is a country which exhorts and advertises for immigrants. It is not as if settling in Canada was a one-sided favor bestowed on unwanted clients by a benevolent authority at Ottawa. But though Canada needs men she is not going to take any risk. Deportation awaits any settler unlucky enough to be found within five years suffering from tuberculosis, blindness or any other prohibited disease, or who has become a public charge through lack of work. Eleven hundred people met this fate in 1929.

"Migration to Canada in these hard times is plainly a rather more risky business than is sometimes thought."

L.A. IN MILLBROOK LAYS PLANS AHEAD

Standing Committees For 1931 Work Are Arranged For—Social Hour.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5. (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. J Albert Brown was hostess for the February meeting of the Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church, the gathering being at her home, Tupper street, on Tuesday afternoon and the attendance being most gratifying, roads and weather considered.

Mrs. Brown took the chair, and Mrs. J McKnight read the scripture lesson during the opening devotional period. Business items under discussion had reference to means of raising money to add to the Association's funds, and it was decided to serve afternoon tea at Mrs. Milton Challice's home, King street east, on the first Tuesday in March; to this event the general public will be invited. A very brief business session will precede the tea, which will be featured by a good musical program.

Standing committees for the year's work were arranged for, the parsonage committee being Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. G. E. Burnham and Mrs. J. L. Byam.

The visiting committee was only partially completed, the names listed including, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, west end; Mrs. F. H. Smith, centre; Mrs. G. Locke, east end; Mrs. Stuart Fallis, Fallis Line; Mrs. Edgar Fallis, north of the village including the Seventh Line; Sick and shut-in folk, belonging to the congregation and not alone to the Ladies' Association, as well as strangers, will be visited by these appointed on this committee.

To Buy New Hymnals

On motion, it was decided to purchase one dozen new Canadian hymnals, and one copy with the music, for use at the ladies' meeting, thus obviating the necessity of carrying a supply of these books from the church at the time of each gathering.

The committee appointed to canvass for, and serve at the afternoon tea in March included Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. Weston Fallis, Mrs. R. H Edmunds, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. Stinson and Mrs. J. Spence.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer. For the first three months of the current year Mrs. J. Albert Brown will take the chair at the meetings, and conduct the business; for the next periods of three months each during the year the other members of the presidential committee, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. J. L. Byam, with probably one or other of the two vice-presidents, Mrs. Ross Edmunds or Mrs. J. McKnight, will take their respective turns.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed at the close of Tuesday's meeting. The new secretary, Mrs. I. M. Nattress, took her place at the table, and fulfilled the duties of her position in a capable manner.

WELLAND CANAL HAS BIGGEST LIFT IN WORLD

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 5.—(CP)—If the new Welland Canal, fourth to be built across the peninsula separating Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, is not the largest in the world it stands pre-eminently above them all in its total rise and in the lift of its locks, A. J. Grant, M.E.I.C., retiring president of the Engineering Institute of Canada told the convention meeting of that body today. The engineers from practically every Province of the Dominion will sit in convention for three days.

Mr. Grant in his address spoke of the new Welland canal as an outstanding engineering achievement.

HORSE COLLAPSES DRAWING A CUTTER

Expect Fenelon Falls Will Be Without Water Supply in Next Few Days.

FENELON FALLS, Feb.—A driving horse, owned by Mr. Harold Pearn, farmer in Fenelon Township on the Rosedale road, dropped dead in the shafts Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

It was just opposite "Welcome Inn" that the horse collapsed, and although Mr. Pearn, who was alone at the time, escaped unhurt the cutter was damaged.

Dr. J. W. MacKay, veterinary surgeon, Fenelon Falls, was called and gave the cause as heart failure.

Mr. John Barber, who has been absent on sick leave for the past month has returned from Toronto to his duties as lock master at Rosedale.

Water Supply Failing.

Although repeated warnings have been given, people perists in leaving open taps, until the supply of water is sadly depleted, the shortage from natural causes making the situation difficult.

Two more days and the entire water supply will be cut off.

It is a calamity when such a situation is brought about by selfishness on the part of some and carelessness of others by neglecting to regulate the taps.

GRAPE GROWERS VISIT OTTAWA

WARD ONE AND TWO LADIES ENTERTAIN

Pleasant Evening Spent at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A very successful entertainment and ward tea was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, on Tuesday evening, when a very good attendance was registered. This concert marked the first of a series of two entertainments that will be held this season. The program was varied and interesting and much credit is due to those who were responsible for it. The Rev. J. C. Robinson occupied the chair for the evening, performing his task is a very capable manner.

The program was as follows: Reading, S. A. Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—Catering to the convenience of the farmers, J. I Adams has established a saw mill on the farm of Herbert Tinney, which has proved a very successful venture. Up to date about 10,000 feet of lumber has been cut, and there is still considerable work to be done.

Mrs. (Rev.) N. Clark Wallace has returned from Toronto, where she has been visiting friends and relatives for the past week.

Col. A. Earchman is reported to be confined to his home with a sereve cold.

The Rev. L. M. Smith has been notified of his appointment as secretary of the Department of Religious Education, Peterborough Association, of the Baptist Churches.

Hydro Power Review Shows Big Increase

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—It is very evident that the farmers of the Campbellford district are fully aware of the benefits and cheapness of Hydro power as revealed by a check-up of extensions covering the past fifteen months.

This survey shows that in this district which covers the townships of Seymour and Rawden, including Healey Fall and Stanwood, that extensions have increased in the said period 119 per cent. Much interest is also being shown in the Wilson and Codrington settlements at present, where it is expected that new lines will be run in the near future. This is the time when those wanting power should sign up, so that the summer construction work can be arranged.

The new bridge over the railway at Berlin-Schoneberg, Germany, was opened by a race across it between school children.

Current Assets Position maintained during Consolidation Period—Marked Expansion is shown in Sales.

The first auditor's report issued by Silverwood's Dairies, Limited, indicated the remarkable growth of this Company in recent years. The figures given show the Company to be one of the largest units of the dairy industry from point of view of sales and earnings.

Sales for the six months ended 27th September, 1930, amounted to $4,370,276 and net profits, after all charges, were $328,875, according to the official report just released. This is at the rate of over $2.50 per share per annum.

The sum of $39,669 was appropriated to reduce fixed assets to depreciated values as appraised 27th September, 1930, leaving a surplus carried forward of $189,041.

Final Scheduled Games In Church Hockey Loop

The final scheduled games in the Church Hockey League will be played to-night at All Saints' rink. Two games are billed, both midget affairs. Mark Street and All Saints battle from six to seven, and from seven to eight Knox and Trinity strut their stuff. These teams are battling hard to get into the play-offs which begin next Monday night, and with fast ice there is likely to be some real hockey displayed to-night.

THERE'LL BE SOMETHING NEW TOMORROW

Every time you feel like muttering "There's nothing new under the sun," take up your daily paper and read through the advertisements. Chances are, you'll change your mind. Here's a new wrinkle in sanitary plumbing . . . there's a new kind of carpet that should have been thought of long ago . . . here's a decidedly better way of washing delicate fabrics.

These things concern you intimately—they affect your life and the manner in which you live it. They are new things under the sun. And advertisements are the arms with which they reach out and touch you. Read the advertisements regularly. There'll be something new tomorrow . . . and the day after . . . and the day after that. Something you wouldn't want to miss.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Stealthily, Paulvitch worked his craft forward until the ropes from the Kincaid's bowsprit were directly above him. He could just reach them. To make his canoe fast there was but the work of a minute or two, and then the man raised himself quietly aloft. A moment later he dropped softly to the deck. No sign or sound of the watch appeared upon the ship's deck, and as he crept toward the forecastle all was silent.

Thoughts of the hideous pack which tenanted the ship brought cold shivers along the spine of the prowler; but life itself depended upon the success of his venture, and so he was enabled to steel himself to the frightful chances which lay before him. Presently he slunk his way to the cabin and as he closed and locked the door behind him, his face wore a gleam of malevolence.

He lighted the lantern swinging from the beams overhead, then stooped and felt beneath the table top. A moment later he withdrew from its hiding place the thing he sought. Now he held the black box well in the rays of the lamplight, while he fingered at the clasp that fastened its lid. The lifted cover revealed a mechanism resembling the works of a small clock, a little battery and another apartment sealed in place with asphaltum.

In the bottom of the box lay a key. This Paulvitch withdrew, fitted to the stem and wound it several times. All the time he was listening intently, but none came to interrupt this wicked work. Setting a pointer upon a small dial at the side of the clockwork he replaced the cover upon the black box and returned the whole machine to its hiding place.

Introducing New Dance

A dance composed of the elements of tango and jazz is being introduced in ballrooms through Mr. Cecil da Costa, pictured above, with his pupil, Miss Eileen Cover, who are demonstrating what is known as the Habanero position. The Rumba is the national dance of Cuba originally, but with the addition of jazz movements, consists largely of the couple beating a tom-tom with the feet while effectively posing as featured.

PUTS OIL ON FIRE BURNS ARE FATAL

Mount Salem Man Rushed to Hospital By Neighbors—Trip in Vain.

HOME DESTROYED.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Feb. 5 (C.P.).—George Mathews, aged 56, was so terribly burned in a fire that destroyed his home at Mount Salem, 18 miles from St. Thomas, early last night, that he died in the Memorial Hospital here just before midnight.

Mathews, alone in the house at the time, poured coal oil on the fire in the kitchen stove, and an explosion followed, flames setting fire to the room and Mathews' clothing.

Mathews was rescued by neighbors and rushed to doctors at the hospital. The house was destroyed but some of the furniture was saved.

WILL LECTURE ON PASSION PLAY

Audience in Murray Street Church.

SHOW LANTERN SLIDES.

J. Mercer Denholm, B.A., proprietor and editor of The News-Tribune, Blenheim, Ontario, will be in this city Friday evening, of this week, to lecture on "The Passion Play." Mr. Denholm made an extensive tour of Great Britain and the continent of Europe during this past summer. His principal visit was at Oberammergau, that "famous little Bavarian village" in Germany, and there he witnessed "The Passion Play." The impression made upon him must have been profound, for he writes in his lovely booklet, "Oberammergau and Elsewhere": "I have been so awed that I am quite at a loss to know where to begin to tell my readers something about it." Mr. Denholm will appear in Murray Street Baptist Church on Friday evening of this week, where he will give his impressions of "The Passion Play." His lecture will be accompanied by lantern slides.

BISHOP CANNON'S TRIAL CONTINUES

Bill of Indictment Being Presented Contains 46 Separate Accusations.

G. P. ADAMS TESTIFIES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(A.P.) — The Board of Inquiry investigating charges against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, expected to-day to conclude taking documentary evidence against the accused prelate.

There are 46 separate accusations in the bill of indictment being presented. Much of the evidence deals with charges other than those made to the general Conference at Dallas last summer, when Bishop Cannon was cleared of stock gambling accusations.

To-day's chief witness was Frank Morgan, a Richmond, Virginia, detective. Morgan was said to have worked for months developing the evidence now being laid before the twelve elders, he charges. If the documents are found to have weight in the minds of the Board, Bishop Cannon will be suspended until 1932 and brought to trial before the General Conference.

George P. Adams, secretary and treasurer of Blackstone Female Institute, at Blackstone, Virgina, took up the time of a long night session held last night at the request of Bishop Cannon. The nature of his testimony was not revealed.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 5. — Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., reputed source of the Mussolini story what has resulted in General Smedley Butler being held for court martial, was on record to-day as saying the marine officer had "quoted inaccurately" something he heard at the Affiliated Lecture Bureau in New York last November.

Giving his first explanation of the silence regarding the Mussolini incident since it brought the General a court-martial summons, the young newspaper man last night said he would relate correctly what he said originally concerning the Mussolini anedote, if called as a witness in the court martial.

C.N.R. EARNINGS.

Best Ice In 15 Years Stored By Company

It's a long time to summer, but the Allin Ice Company is all prepared for hot August days, and feels confident that it has stored enough ice to keep the city's milk cool and butter firm for yet another year.

Between 7000 and 8,000 tons of clear crystal ice has been stored in the Allin Company's warehouses. It is the finest ice cut locally for more than 15 years, too. The ice is 18 to 20 inches thick and with practically no shell ice. It was all cut from Little Lake and with the stormless weather only took a little more than two weeks to secure the whole supply.

CAMPBELL SET NEW WORLD'S RECORD

Two Killed In Level Crossing Crash

TRAGEDY CLAIMS TWO NEWCOMERS TO DELHI VILLAGE

Belgian Bakers Were Trapped in Light Delivery Truck.

HIT BY M.C.R. EXPRESS.

Meagre Details of Accident Are Telephoned in by Farmer Living Nearby.

DELHI, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CP)—F. Baart, and his brother-in-law, J. Vandoselaere, who recently opened a bake shop here, were killed today when the light delivery truck in which they were riding, was struck by a Michigan Central Railway train at a level crossing about five miles northeast of here.

The accident happened shortly before noon but the only details known were telephoned to this village by Leon Noyzert, a Belgian farmer who lives near the scene of the crash.

Both men were Belgians and had come from Tillsonburg two weeks ago. They were apparently travelling northward when struck by an eastbound train.

Inquest Ordered

Coroner Dr. H. G. Downey, of Otterville will conduct an inquest.

The accident occurred less than a week after the accident on the same railway about two miles from Waterford, where three young farm hands lost their lives.

Await Canada's Reply On Waterway Scheme

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. —(AP)— The next move in the projected St. Lawrence waterway will be the Canadian reply to the United States note of September 2, asking the attitude of Premier Bennett's Government on the enterprise.

State Department officials asserted during the recent visit to Washington of the Premier and since that time that Canada has not indicated its position on the project.

In the event Canada approves a pushing forward of the waterway, commissioners will be named by each country to settle the important outstanding questions regarding financing and engineering problems connected with the waterway.

Captain Malcolm Campbell and His Bluebird II Which Set a New World Racing Record

Captain Malcolm Campbell, British car racer, yesterday drove his wonder racing car Bluebird II. over the Daytona Beach mile at the rate of more than four miles in sixty seconds. The official record was 245.733 miles an hour. The Bluebird is shown above with the crowds on the beach. It is probable that if weather and beach conditions are favorable Captain Campbell will try again to set a new record before he returns home to England.

FINANCE PLANS FOR AUSTRALIA DOOMED TO FAIL

Little Hope of Three Year Stabilization Scheme Being Adopted.

FARMERS NEED HELP.

Premier Scullin Makes it Plain Any Proposal Must Not Include Wage Cut.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 6. —(C.P. Cable via Reuter's). — The conference of Commonwealth and State Government representatives, which started to-day to discuss a three-year plan for stabilising Australian finances, apparently is doomed to failure.

Proceedings revealed there was little chance of the conference adopting the plan, which had been formulated by the Commonwealth Bank, and Sir Robert Gibson, chairman of the bank, has already left for Sydney.

Prime Minister James Scullin outlined the serious situation that exists in regard to public finances. He declared the national spending power must be increased. Farmers urgently needed help. He also made it plain that any plan adopted must not include reductions in wages.

Must Increase Wages.

Premier J. T. Lang, the extremist head of the new Government of New South Wales, went further than the Federal leader and asserted wages

Police Dog Saves Its Own Dog Pal

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 6 (CP)—Prince, a pedigreed police dog, owned by Abe Goldstein, to-day took his place among Niagara's heroes when he saved a dog pal from perishing in the upper Niagara river and going over the falls. The two dogs were playing with others on the shore ice along the bank of the upper river when sections of the ice broke away and started floating downstream.

Prince and two of the dogs scrambled from the ice and swam to shore but a fourth dog remained on the moving floe. Prince plunged into the water, swam to the moving floe, then about 15 feet from the shore, and gaining the floe, tried to shove his pal off into the water. Unsuccessful in this, he aided his pal with his teeth and dragged him from the ice and they both swam back to shore

PRISONER ADMITS PLANNING PLOT

Schirru Tells Police He Had Planned to Kill Premier Mussolini.

TAKEN IN GUN FIGHT.

ROME, Feb. 6. —(AP)— Michael Schirru, arrested yesterday for possession of firearms and explosives, confessed today, police said, that he had planned an attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini.

He had brought two high explosive bombs here for that purpose, police said he had told them.

Schirru was arrested Tuesday night after a gun fight with police and there were rumors at the time that he had planned an attempt on Mussolini's life, but these were vigorously denied by the authorities.

The police said Schirru drew a revolver while he was being searched at the police station, wounded three policemen and attempted suicide, inflicting a serious wound in his head.

Two Bombs Found

In rooms which he occupied at two hotels police said they found two bombs so constructed as to be used either as time bombs or percussion bombs.

The man was born in Sardinia but had traveled extensively. Police said he used an American passport and was a naturalized citizen of the United States.

In his alleged confession Schirru was reported to have said he had been an anarchist for years but began thinking of plans to assassinate Mussolini last summer while he was in Paris. He went to Belgium and got the materials with which he made the bombs.

He is recovering from his self-inflicted wound and will be tried by a special tribunal under the defense of the state act which provides a death penalty for the crimes of which he is accused.

MEGAN LLOYD GEORGE ILL

LONDON, Feb. 6.— (AP) —Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of Britain's Liberal leader and wartime Premier, probably will have to remain in her bed for a day or so until she has overcome an indisposition.

She is suffering from a chill. It is believed that she is a victim of the bad weather, which is blamed for a considerable increase in influenza in England the last few days. There has been a sharp upward trend in the mortality rate.

MENACE IS SEEN IN HUGE EXPORTS OF SOVIET GRAIN

To Attempt Competition in World Market U. S. Farmers Must Give Up Autos.

RUSSIA SEEKS LEAD.

Low Cost Water Transportation Big Aid to Australia, Argentine Says Legge.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(A.P.) — Chairman Legge of the Farm Board to-day said he viewed Russia's official grain exports statement as an indication that the Soviets were turned toward a dominating position in the world wheat market.

"The American farmer cannot compete with Russian wheat in the world market," he said, "and if he attempts to he will have to give up riding around in automobiles."

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the Board, joined in asserting that American producers could not compete with Russian wheat, because of Russia's "free land and free labor."

McKelvie said there was "no question but that Russia, with unlimited virgin land, could produce great quantities of wheat, cheaply for many years at least with no land and labor cost."

Russia Progressing.

The two agreed the latest report from Moscow showed Russia making more progress in its agricultural program, especially wheat than in the five year industrial plan.

McKelvie cited Soviet exports of nearly as much wheat since June as during any one year before the Great War as an indication of its growing importance in the world market.

Legge said also that the United States' farmer could not compete in the world market with Argentine and Australian wheat. Each of these, he said, had the advantage of low cost water transportation, particularly Australia.

Australian wheat, Legge said, was grown around the rim of the continent and could be moved long distances at low cost.

LIBERALS RALLY TO HONOR CHIEF

Affair in Hepburn's Honor Promises to be Largest in London's History.

LONG SPEAKING LIST.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 6. (CP)—Liberals from far and near in Western Ontario were arriving in this city today to pay tribute to their new Provincial leader, Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., at a great banquet to-night at the Winter Gardens. Mr. Hepburn himself arrived in the city shortly before noon, coming from Hamilton where he spoke last night.

About fifteen hundred persons are expected to attend what promises to be the largest affair of its kind in the history of the party in this city.

Large numbers are expected from Mr. Hepburn's home county of Elgin, from Windsor, Sarnia, Stratford, Woodstock and Brantford.

Speakers will include several youthful members and ex-members including E. G. Odette of Tilbury, Norman Hipel, M.L.A., South Waterloo, and Rose Gray, M.P., West Lambton.

Metal Mystery is Solved in Oshawa

OSHAWA, February 6. — Residents of Westmount had their worries set at rest last night, when the mystery of a large piece of metal, which crashed through the wall of the home of S. Naish, 325 Gibbon Street, was finally solved.

It appears that Charles Gerrard and two other men at the time were operating a sawing machine in a hollow about one-quarter of a mile from the Naish home, when the fly-wheel suddenly broke in three pieces, each of which was hurled into the air. Two pieces fell near the spot, narrowly missing Gerrard and his two helpers. The third piece landed in the Gibbon Street residence, passed over an empty [illegible] houses.

TORY RETURNED IN EAST TOXTETH

Conservative Candidate Has 11,400 Majority Over Labor Opponent.

LARGEST VOTE SINCE WAR.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (C.P. Cable).—The Conservative Party to-day was getting some satisfaction out of the victory of the Conservative candidate, Patrick Buchan-Hepburn, in the East Toxteth by-election yesterday. The Government forces, however, pointed out the seat was traditionally Conservative, and the election of a Laborite would have been on outstanding political upset.

Buchan-Hepburn received 17,040 votes and Charles Burden, Labor, the only other candidate, received 5,550 votes. The Conservative majority of 11,400 was the largest accorded any candidate in the constituency since the war.

East Toxteth, a Liverpool division, had been represented by Hon. Henry Mond, Conservative, who received a majority of 7,774 in the last general elections.

There was some significance for impartial political observers, however, in the fact that while the Conservative vote was on a level with that in the last general election, the Labor vote fell off by more than 4,000 votes.

The victorious candidate declared he had made it plain throughout his campaign that his election would mean a vote of "no confidence" in the Labor Government.

Carrell Would Ban All Russian Products

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 6. (CP)—The question of competition created in Canada by importation of Russian products was brought up in the Legislative Council yesterday when Hon. Frank Carrell gave notice of a motion as follows: "That this House, viewing with apprehension the increasing inroads of Russian imports, produced under abnormal and unethical conditions with convict and forced labor, in competition with Canadian product, thereby increasing our unemployment problem, should respectfully draw the attention of our Federal Government to this unhappy state of affairs which is dislocating business throughout Canada, and urge that Legislative measures be immediately taken to end this unfair competition which is affecting laboring classes throughout the country."

WOOLLEN MILLS ARE INSTALLING NEW MACHINERY

Remarkable Improvement is Being Shown in Woollen Industry.

MEET NEW FIELDS.

Peterborough Mills Are Having Additional Equipment Installed.

The remarkable improvement in the [illegible] which began several months ago is being strongly felt by both the Auburn and Bonner-Worth mills of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company here.

The immediate future is bright for both mills and with the steady increase in orders, company officials here assured The Examiner that in the very near future the mills will be operating at 100 per cent capacity.

To meet the new and greater field opening to the industry much new machinery is being installed in both mills and confidence was expressed that soon both will require an increased number of operators. Two sets of combs, which are used in straightening out the strands of wool, and other machinery required to prepare the wool to be made into yarn have been set up recently in the Bonner-Worth. Work is progressing rapidly at the present time on the installation of yarn dyeing equipment, which will increase the capacity of

The Auburn mill is being equipped

The Auburn mill is being equipped with new Fulling mills, machines used in the shrinking of woollen cloth by heat and moisture. Additional dyeing equipment and finishing machinery will be placed at once in this mill. All this machinery is being added by the company in the aim to operate to greater advantage in the various grades of cloth and so obtain even a greater share of the increased woollen trade being enjoyed throughout Canada.

NEW SUGAR RATE TO AID CANADA

Change Ordered By President Hoover to be in Effect For Maple Syrup Period.

BIG EXPORT TRADE.

WASHINGTON, D.C. Feb. 6. (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—About the time the sap begins to run in Ontario and Quebec the new United States tariff on maple sugar and syrup prescribed by the Presidential proclamation yesterday will go into effect under the 30 day clause governing such proceedings.

Canada does about $1,000,000 worth of export trade with the United States in these commodities.

The President's decision on recommendation of the tariff commission to cut the rates contained in the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act on sugar, from 8 to 6 cents a pound and on syrup from 5½ to 4 cents, falls out as a timely present from the White House to the producers of Canada. The new rate on sugar, however, is still 2 cents above that in effect before the Hawley-Smoot bill was enacted.

Four Miles Minute Is New Record Set By English Racer

Captain Malcolm Campbell is the First Man to Travel at the Rate of Four Miles a Minute in an Automobile, But He is Not Satisfied Yet.

NEW RECORD YESTERDAY WAS 245.733 MILES PER HOUR WILL MAKE NO FURTHER ATTEMPTS ON PRESENT RECORD

Scarcely Had the Noise of the Motors Died Out of His Ears Than He Looked For New Worlds to Conquer—All Other Great Racers With Former Records Are Dead.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6.—(CP)—Captain Malcolm Campbell has become the first man ever to travel at the rate of four miles a minute in an automobile, but he is not satisfied.

Coolly determined, despite warnings that conditions were not the best for super speed, Campbell drove his huge Bluebird II machine over the beach sands here yesterday to an astounding new world's record of 245.733 miles per hour.

From this dazzling height of speed, the dauntless 46-year-old Englishman surveyed his achievement and wanted to better it. Scarcely had the roar of the motors died away in his ears than he looked for new worlds to conquer.

All the Rest Are Dead

Campbell is the only man now living who has attained a speed on land of more than 200 miles per hour. The rest, Sir Henry Segrave, Ray Keech, Lee Bible and Frank Lockhart, have met death behind the wheel, Segrave while trying for a water speed mark in England.

It was Segrave's record of 231 miles per hour that Campbell wrested yesterday; Segrave had claimed it from Keech, Bible and Lockhart died on Daytona sands while Keech lost his life racing at Altoona.

Got A Great Thrill

Campbell, the daredevil driver who shoulders when danger is mentioned. His runs yesterday gave him a great thrill, he said. The best sensation came when he shifted from second into high gear and the car fairly took wings.

"That feeling was wonderful", he said. "A most wonderful sensation—as the car carried me away with it in that tremendous burst of speed. Really words cannot describe that wonderful sensation."

The first run Campbell finished through the measured mile at a speed of 246.757 miles per hour. He returned and was clocked at 244.897 miles per hour. Two runs are necessary for an official record, the mark being the average of the speeds through the measured miles.

Despite soft places in the sand left by a receding tide, the car held the course like a bullet.

So great was the speed of the machine that photographers signting it a mile away, barely had time to take focus and snap their films before it flashed by the grand stand.

ELGAR CRITICIZED PROTESTS RAISED

Shaw Claims Prof. Dent's Description of Composer's Works is Unjust.

MANY ODD VIEWS.

LONDON, February 6 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — Bernard Shaw and other outstanding men have joined in a public protest against the treatment accorded to Sir Edward Elgar, distinguished composer, in an article on "Modern English Music" contri-[illegible] which is supposed to become an indispensable work of music reference.

The writer of the article is Professor Edward Joseph Dent, who has been Professor of Music at Cambridge University for the past four years.

Associated with Shaw in the protest sent to the British and German press, are Emile Cammaerts, Belgian writer; John Goss, London singer Sir Richard Terry, Oxford music authority; and Sir Hamilton Harty, composer and conductor.

"Unjust and inadequate" is the description they apply to Professor Dent's references to Elgar. In comparison with 60 lines devoted to Joseph Parry composer, who died in 1903, Professor Dent gives but 16 lines to Elgar, and declares that "for English ears Elgar's music is much too emotional and not free from vulgarity."

Prof. Dent also describes Elgar's great orchestral works as "lively in color, but pompous in style, and of too deliberate nobility of expression."

SEE DIFFICULTY FOR U.S. FARMER IN GETTING LOANS FOR PRODUCTION

Blame Concentration of Capital in Big Money Centres For Situation.

COUNTRY BANK HARD UP.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 6. (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent). — A peculiarity of the hard times now visiting the farmer in the United States is shown forth by the annual agricultural outlook conference report from the Department of Agriculture. Because of the concentration of capital in the big money centers there will be, the conference has decided, great difficulty for the farmer in obtaining money for production and considerable ease in getting money for marketing.

The answer to this situation is that money to finance the growing of crops comes mostly from local banks and from creditors furnished by local merchants. Marketing funds on the other hand flow from central money markets.

Country banks in the United States have generally been placed in a position through the decrease in deposits and impairment of secondary reserves, commercial paper, bankers' balances, and investments, where they are unable to make advances with the same freedom they did in the previous year.

Country merchants have been extending considerable credit during recent months and they also may be expected to have difficulties in getting advances from local banks.

The agricultural conference report suggests that credit on farm mortgages will continue to be affected during 1931 by the decline in the value of agricultural land and the poor income enjoyed by farmers during the past year.

Misuses Gov't Pass, Labor M.P. Fined

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 6. (AP) Mardy Jones, Labor Member of Parliament for Pontypridd whose resignation from the House of Commons was announced in this morning's newspapers, to-day was fined £3 and Mrs. Jones a similar amount at the Marylebone police court for "Misuse of Government passes" on a railway between London and Wales.

Jones has been a member of the House of Commons since 1922, is an expert on local Government and a fellow of the Royal Economic Society. He was educated at Oxford.

Relief Association Acquires More Rooms

The lately-organized Peterborough Relief Association is now at home in its rooms over the Toronto Savings and Loan Company's George street offices. They have this week acquired two new rooms which will be fitted up for sewing. Many of the garments sent in are in need of repair and others could be profitably cut down for junior wear. There are a number of goods which might be made up in various ways.

The Association would like to get one or two sewing machines for this work. Would any person donate a machine, or would it be possible to lend several of them to the society during its period of hardest endeavor—the next few months. Please telephone The Examiner if such machines are available.

With the new synthetic dimple the owner can meet all style changes without fear. It can be placed on the cheek, arm, shoulder or chin if preferred.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT ARRESTED

MONTREAL, Que., February 5 (C.P.). — Sam Behan, 29, who was arrested here yesterday for alleged participation in the hold-up of two messengers of the Banque Canadienne Nationale on October 2, will stand trial on February 19 with Jack Miller, Morriss Weinbaum, and Leopold Warren, who are charged with the hold-up, police stated.

Behan, when arrested in an east-end apartment, was in possession of a revolver in a shoulder holster resting under his left armpit. He was later identified by the two bank messengers and a woman who was injured by a bullet during the hold-up.

NO SLAVERY CONDITIONS IN NORTH SAYS FEDERAL MINISTER OF LABOR

Senator Robertson Answers Charges Made by Hon. Peter Heenan.

PAID 35 CENTS AN HOUR.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6 (C.P.)—The Dominion Department of Labor has checked over the various road construction works in Northern Ontario in which the Dominion and the Province are co-operating to relieve unemployment, and in only one very small undertaking was it found that wages below 35 cents an hour were being paid. This was rectified, Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, made this statement, to-day when asked if his department was insisting on fair wages where the Dominion Government was paying a portion of the costs. Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor, charged last night at Hamilton that the men working on the roads in Northern Ontario were under slavery conditions.

Worked for 25 to 30 Cents

"For years the men employed on road construction in Northern Ontario," Senator Robertson declared, "worked ten hours a day and received from 25 cents to 30 cents an hour. Such wages prevailed in Mr. Heenan's constituency when he was Minister of Labor. He was unable to get his Government to lend any assistance to relieve distress. The present Government, however, has

Parley Delegates Arrive In Bombay

ACCEPT OFFERS BRITAIN MAKES INDIANS URGE

Sir Tej Sapru Heads For Allahabad to Confer With Gandhi at Once.

MANIFESTO ISSUE.

Appeal Seeks Examination of Constitution in Spirit of Mutual Confidence.

BOMBAY, India, February 6 (C.P.). — Twenty-six Indian delegates to the Round Table Conference which has just concluded at London arrived in India to-day, and, in their first word to their countrymen, issued an appeal for acceptance of the British offers of partial Dominion status.

The Bombay fortifications boomed a thunderous salute as their ship sailed into the harbor. Almost all entrained immediately for their native states. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru a friend of Mahatma Gandhi left for Allahabad where he will confer with the Nationalist leader and endeavor to persuade him to act favorably on the British offer. The Nationalists boycotted the London meeting.

Appeal to All India.

"We earnestly appeal to all sons and daughters of India" the delegates' appeal said, "to unite in bringing into existence an atmosphere of peace and goodwill so that all political parties in concert may complete the task begun at London, and help India secure her rightful place as an equal partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"If there are defects and shortcomings in the proposed constitutions they should be examined in a spirit of mutual confidence by a free exchange of views."

After noting that British opinion has recently undergone a remarkable change in favor of India the manifesto appeals to Gandhi and to the leaders of Congress to come forward and to make a solid contribution to completion of the scheme which it says contains proposals of substantial and far-reaching character."

"It is explicitly recognized by the British Government that the task of Governing India should in the future be entrusted to an Indian executive responsible to an Indian legislature.

The basis of the new constitution will be a federation of whole India that is, the provinces of British India and the Indian States on a footing of mutual equality.

Scheme Marks Beginning

"The scheme marks the beginning of the process of unification which is fraught with possibilities of incalculable benefit for our country. With regard to the safeguards (or reservations to the British Crown) it is our opinion that they will not affect the substance of the scheme which seeks to transfer political power into Indian hands. These safeguards are intended only for the period of transition and are subject to further examination."

LIBERAL LEADER AND HIS POLICY ARE DENOUNCED

HITS AT PHILPOTT.

Justice is Hindered by Tactics of Liberal Leader Declares Attorney General.

KEMPVILLE, Feb. 6 (C.P.) — Charging Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Leader of the Provincial Liberal Party, with seeking to "bedevil the administration of justice" in Ontario, and "prostituting the very best in the ideals of public service in this country," Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, last night addressed a campaign meeting here in the interests of James A. Sanderson, Conservative candidate. Colonel Price was accompanied by Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer, and A. C. Casselman, M.P. for Grenville-Dundas, in the Dominion Parliament. The election is rendered necessary by the resignation of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, who was appointd Canadian High Commissioner to London.

Mr. Price said, in part:

Answers Hepburn

The Attorney-General devoted a considerable portion of his speech to answering the accusation, launched at him by Mr. Hepburn last Saturday at Prescott. He denounced the Liberal leader for "capitalizing the distress and the losses of the Canadian people," charged him with making "vindictively cruel and false statements," and linked with Mr. Hepburn the Liberal candidate in West Hamilton, Elmore Philpott. Of the latter the Attorney-General said that "the apostasy of Philpott was never surpassed in the history of any country," referring to the candidate's attitude on prohibition.

Mr. Dunlop presented a statement of the Province's finances, explaining the character of Ontario's public debt and the methods adopted to provide for it. At the same time he

'QUAKE REFUGEES FLEE FROM CITIES

Single Highway Choked With Traffic—Many Die By Roadside.

CONTINUE HUNT FOR BODIES

NAPIER, New Zealand Feb. 6.—(AP)—Evacuation of Napier and Hastings proceeded to-day attended by almost every conceivable hardship and discouragement.

But one road is open and that is cracked and full of fissures. It is badly congested with hundreds of vehicles, all proceeding from the area stricken by Tuesday's earthquake and the tremors which have ceased for an hour since.

A number of the dazed and nerve shattered refugees, unable to continue along the "via Dolorosa" have fallen by the way and died where they fell. Pathetic rude crosses have been placed over shallow graves dug for them.

Search for Dead Continues

Within the two towns the grim work of excavation of bodies of victims and identification is proceeding. In many cases the bodies are so badly crushed that recognition has been impossible and it is believed probable that a number of victims who perished in the falling hotels never will be identified. Forty eight persons were buried yesterday in a single grave.

It became known to-day that one of the prisoners released from the city jail in the height of the terror climbed up the front of the hospital building as it leaned at a precarious angle and rescued G. Hughes, manager of the National Tobacco Company, from the third floor. Shortly afterward the building lurched over, the falling masonry trapping two girls in the basement.

Eight babies have been born to mothers in a public park where they went when the tremors forced them from their homes.

Securities, deeds and instruments worth millions sterling are believed to have been destroyed in banks and legal offices of Napier and Hastings.

Naval men are continuing their work of demolishing, often at great risk of themselves. They will use dynamite to-morrow in an effort to expedite their work, the search for remaining bodies being held up until tottering walls and other dangerous obstacles are removed.

ACTION PLANNED IN PRISON TRAGEDY.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6.—(C.P.)—County Prosecutor Donald Hoskins said to-day he expects to seek at least four first degree murder indictments when the grand jury takes up an investigation next month of the Ohio penitentiary fire which claimed 320 lives last April.

Evidence involving convicts in a plot to burn one of the prison cell blocks so they might escape in the confusion has been prepared and will be presented to the grand jury, the prosecutor indicated.

COMBINES AIDED BY ONTARIO GOV'T HEENAN CHARGES

Interests of People Neglected, Former Minister States in Hamilton.

ACT ENFORCEMENT HELD UP

Both Hepburn and Philpott Return to Attacks on Attorney-General.

(By Frank Flaherty, C. P. Staff Correspondent).

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 6.—When the Federal Government attempted to protect the people from exploitation by combines the Ontario Government supported the combines rather than the interests of the people, Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor said here last night.

Mr. Heenan, together with Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, spoke in support of Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate in the Provincial by-election in West Hamilton.

The Provincial Government, Mr. Heenan said, had spent the people's money assisting persons accused of violating the Combines Investigation Act to contest the validity of the act in the courts. The courts had ruled in favor of the act because of the position taken by the province the full enforcement of the act had been held up.

Price Again Seared

Both Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Philpott returned to their assaults on Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General in connection with the prosecution of stock brokers. Mr. Hepburn produced a letter from Harry Harcourt, President of Jackson Manion Mines, saying that he had asked Mr. Price for evidence in the possession of the Department which he believed could have been made the basis of criminal charges against members of an alleged conspiracy to manipulate the price of the stock and ruin the company. Mr. Price had refused and no prosecutions were launched.

Dealing with the case of the Harris Consolidated Gold Mines, Mr. Philpott read letters tending to show the Attorney-General had failed to act on information in his possession as to irregularities in that company. Both speakers contended the Attorney-General knew of irregularities in brokerage offices long before he took any action. The youthful liberal leader demanded an investigation by a Royal Commission to clear the matter up.

Replying to a charge that he had made a false statement in the general election campaign in connection with an order about to be placed with a large dairy products firm in his own constituency, Mr. Hepburn said he got his information from officials of the company. Pressure, however was brought to bear on the company by Conservative interests, and the order was cancelled or transferred to another plant of the same company.

PANDIT M. NEHRU DIES IN LUCKNOW

Indian Nationalists Lose Great Leader of Campaign For Home Rule.

NOTED AS LAWYER.

LUCKNOW, United Provinces, India, Feb. 6 (A.P.)—Death to-day took from the ranks of Indian Nationalists, Pandit Motilal Nehru, 69, who forsook ease and affluence to lead his countrymen in a passive battle for home rule.

He had been ill for several months and in January, in view of his condition, was released from Allahabad prison before expiration of a six-months' term imposed for his activity during the civil disobedience campaign.

His condition grew worse and he died this morning at 6.40.

In 1919 Pandit Motilal Nehru, who is the father of the Pandit Jawaharal Nehru, was a wealthy Allahabad lawyer, a Kashmiri Brahan, enjoying social intercourse with Europeans there. But after the Dyer massacre he forsook his luxurious mode of living, suspended his lucrative practice of law, and in 1921 was imprisoned for six months for breaking the law against seditious assemblies.

He accepted election to the Legislative Assemble in 1923 and became leader of the Swaraj (home rule) Party there. Upon the death of C. R. Day in 1925 he became president of the All India Swaraj Party which, under his guidance, became the National Congress Party.

TOKYO, Feb. 5.— (C.P.) — The Government to-day introduced a bill into the Japanese Diet which would grant women equal rights with men in elections for city, town, village and autonomous assemblies. The projected grant is intended as a step preliminary to the granting of national suffrage.

GANDHI WORRIED OVER OUTLOOK

States in Telegram He is Unable to Pronounce Opinion on London Parley.

Says Repression Continues.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (C.P. Cable via Reuter's).—The Daily News Chronicle publishes a cable from Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, in which Gandhi charges that unprovoked assaults are being made on innocent citizens and that "black repression" still continues.

The cable, sent from Allahabad, is as follows: "I am unable to pronounce my final opinion on the Round Table Conference, but what worries me is the look of things here. If the conference really offered freedom toward India, the reaction should have been felt here. On the contrary, I find black repression continues unabated Unprovoked assaults on innocent citizens still continue. Respectable people are being summarily dealt with, without apparent reason, they are deprived of their immovable and movable property by mere executive action. A procession of women was forcibly dispersed. The women were seized by the hair and kicked with boots. Continuance of such repression would make the co-operation of the Congress impossible even if other difficulties were gotten over."

Opposition Effort to Unseat Minseito Ministry Ends in Call for Police.

TOKYO, Feb. 6.— (AP) —Dagger play broke up a budget committee meeting in the ante-chamber of the House of Representatives today and in the ensuing melee about a dozen persons, including two members of the diet, were injured.

The attack was believed to mark a culminating point of several riotous scenes during the past few days occurring after remarks by Baron Shidehara in reply to questions regarding the London Naval Treaty.

Baron Shidehara recently has been protected by a bodyguard of six jujitsu experts imported from Osaka.

Ash Trays Hurled

Ash trays and other articles were thrown in the fight.

Police reported several persons suffered cuts on their heads and hands and others received bruises from clubs and cuts from crashing glass.

The skirmish started when the opposition launched an effort to unseat the Minseito (majority party) ministry with attacks on Baron Shidehara, Foreign Minister, who has been acting head of the Government since the wounding of Premier Mamaguchi by an alleged fanatic several weeks ago.

LENGTHY PROGRAM.

Youthful Players Enact Parts Well in "Barbara Makes a Splash."

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The reputation of the Campbellford High School for the standard of its Commencement Exercises was surpassed last evening when a capacity audience in the school auditorium witnessed the first evening of the event.

The program, although lengthy, was interesting enough to hold attention of the audience. The curtain was drawn at 8.15 sharp on an evening which was a little out of the ordinary for this function. The program was divided into two parts, the first being a series of features and novelties with the presentation of scholarships and cups; the second half being a comedy-drama in three acts, "Barbara Makes a Splash."

Making the presentation of the I.O.D.E. scholarship, Mrs. W. H. Ashton spoke briefly on the work of the order, especially that of the senior chapter, which was now non-existent. Stating that this had been formed during the war for that specific purpose, the speaker looked to the future when war would cease and the splendid manhood of the nation would not be called upon to settle the disputes of the nations. Congratulating the winners of the scholarships, each of which was given a cheque for $10.00, on their work, Mrs. Ashton presented the first award to Ferne Weatherill, the pupil standing highest in the middle school, and a second prize to Alta Hay, the pupil standing highest who wrote at the Campbellford Public School and continued on into the Campbellford High School.

Warden's Cup

In the absence of C. H. Davidson, Mayor J. M. Bygott presented the Warden's Cup, a trophy presented by ex-Warden C. H. Davidson of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham in 1928, to the winner of the senior boys' event in the field day sports, Donald Meyers. In making the presentation, Mayor Bygott congratulated all the winners of the different awards, pointing out that they were fought for in keen competion and earned by merit. He stressed the fact that physical training should play a very important part in school work for the development of the body tends to develop the mind. The speaker expressed sorrow that Mr. Davidson was absent through illness but stated that he was making progress after an operation.

In presenting the balance of the field day cups, T. E. Hall paid a high tribute to the prowess of the pupils in their physical training. He was surprised, he said, at the ability and strength that had been shown at the annual sports last summer, stating that many records had been smashed. The awards were as follows: Senior girls, Ruby Dunham; junior girls, Jerrine Malcolm; intermediate boys, Ronald Richardson; junior boys, Bert Mortlock; Strathcona medal, given by the Strathcona Trust to the best shot in the school, Basil Linton; Dr. S. A. Peake Memorial medal, given by the late Dr. S. A. Peake to the pupil standing highest in the middle school, Grant Meiklejohn.

The first half of the program was a riot of fun and music. Commencing with a balloon chorus, this number was a well-staged feature, with a color scheme entrancing to the eye, and a group of daintily dressed boys and girls who rendered a part chorus in perfect style. All of the Fourth and Fifth Forms, this number was comprised of: Elsie Connor, Georgina Davidson Dorothy Henson, Helen Thomas, Ruby Townsend, Doris Rannie, Gladys Stephens, Ruby Dunham, Ferne Weatherill, Edith Wallace, Nita Tucker, Irene Jeffs, Basil Linton, Harry Fowlds, Everett Maycock, Ray Thompson, Verne Abernethy, Ronald Richardson, Albert Inkster, Bernard Crosson, Donald Meyers, Lorne Scott, William Nelson, and Paul Douglas.

Youngsters Take Part.

Following this came one of the daintiest numbers that it is safe to say was ever seen in Campbellford, entitled "Topsy Turvy Land." It consisted of a group of junior girls, gaily dressed as clowns, performing acrobatic stunts with the assurance and perfection of professional artists. Turning wheels, forming figures and standing on their heads, they were one of the feature turns of the evening, and were recognized as such by the audience. The personnel of this troop was: Grace LaBrash, Lillian Runions, Viola Couch, Reta Dickson, Glenmore MacPherson, Ruth Kerr, Hesel Kerr, Lois Meyers, Helen Coxwell, Mary Coxwell, Aileen Linton, Virginia Lobb.

Next came a very pretty Newcastle dance performed by eight girls in Century costumes, with ease and grace. They made a pretty picture gracefully revolving to music, the color of their costumes blending in delicate shade. The girls taking part in this exhibition were:

Elsie Connor, Jessie Hay, Isabel Faux, Ella Cook, Helen Lynch, Dolmas Montgomery, Blanche Wright, and Jessie Graham.

And then there was the two "niggahs" themselves, Saltchay and Satchel, who put the pep into the first half and kept the audience in a steady ripple of laughter. Full of funny skits and uniform in action, they were a versatile pair, having deep in their makeup a streak of music which bubbled to the surface at times and found expression in a mouth organ and a Jew's harp.

"Barnacle Bill"

Another chorus that had a breezy atmosphere was "Barnacle Bill the Sailor" a duet between the two groups, the Jack Tars and their girls, which could rightly be called a musical with a moral. The costumes in this number were excellent and the self assurance of the performers splendid. Those taking part were: Helen Kelleher, Grace Cairns, Jacquelyn McEachern, Ruth Palliser, Eleanor Dawson, Willamene Russaw, Leah Blue, Margaret McGregor, Margaret Lancaster, Gladys McArthur, Bessie Johnston, Angus Robertson, Eric Scott, Bill Richardson, Roy Oddie, George Palliser, Russell Rowe, Donald Watters, Mervin Malcolm, Frank O'Sullivan, Bruce Haig and Stewart Blake.

Concluding this portion of the entertainment the first chorus appeared in a number entitled "At a Masquerade" which featured some very pretty costumes and a lilting musical rendition.

Play Well Acted.

"Barbara Makes a Splash" was in every way a success. Well staged and well acted, the performers had that happy nack of living their parts which is the essence of good acting, holding the attention of their audience. Full of fun, yet with an under note of pathos, the play was modern, featuring the crash of a motor car manufacturer through the desire of his private secretary who wishes to humble the man who ruined her parents. The love tangles are both dramatic and humorous, and form an even balance to the production.

Muriel Linton as Barbara Allison the private secretary plays the leading lady and endears herself to the whole audience. Handling a difficult role, she meets the situations as they arise and portrays the natural born actress in her simplicity of style and charm of manner. Playing opposite her is Grant Keiklejohn who is cast in the role of Jimmy Wescott, son of the car manufacturer and in business with his father. Having a role that covers many human expressions he acquits himself with distinction, playing up to the leading lady in a manner that is convincing and real.

And then there is Charlie Denton, a clerk in his office, and this role is taken by Stewart Anderson, who in his inimitable manner is the funmaker of the play. His chief occupation is proposing to Nonie Galloway, Joy Riendeau, who is kept busy refusing him. But together they make a great team.

Joseph Wescott, the manufacturer, is played by Owen Finlay, who handles a heavy and difficult role well. The man who sinned and whose sin found him out.

Franklin Linton as Horace Townsend, an old friend of Barbara's is the Englishman who isn't, and makes lots of fun in the way he portrays the character of the man who knows how to propose, and is accepted, when the girl, Marjorie Rennsler, Bernadetta Jones, makes up her mind.

Malcolm Hutcheon as Samuel Harris is cast in a heavy role and is very effective in his portrayal of the friend of Wescott. Doing his stuff as the rich business man he fills the bill in a very able manner. And then there is the lady who is out to make trouble, and does it. This is Helen McCredie as Evelyn Foster, who claims descent from one of the first families of Virginia. Taking every advantage out of a difficult role she portrays her character in a very able manner, making even the audience dislike her. In all, a play well staged and well acted.

Much credit is due to the teaching staff of the High school under the capable leadership of Principal E. H. Greig, B.A., who have put time and energy into the training and perfecting of what can rightly be termed a premier entertainment.

During the evening and between acts musical selections were given by a ten piece orchestra under the direction of Albert Hazell. This item of the program was a feature in itself, many of the performers being pupils of the High school.

The program will also be presented this evening when diplomas will be presented and also the Literary Society, Board of Education and A. L. Riendeau scholarships awarded.

WEDDINGS

HAWKINS—SHOPLAND.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 6.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, February 4th, at the United church parsonage when Dr. Edwin Smith united in marriage Rosa Shopland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shopland, Dartford, and Henry Hawkins.

On the basis of Baer's showing in his first two New York bouts, Loughran looks like the logical favorite to win despite the fact that overnight he was on the short end of 7 to 5 odds.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—There were no fresh receipts in live stock at the Union stock yards yesterday morning. The supply consisted of 120 stale store cattle and no sales were recorded up to 11 o'clock.

All killer cattle in Wednesday's offering were cleaned up at prices steady with the close of last week. The supply for the week was light and trading was slow.

Wednesday's closing market for calves was dull at a decline of 50c a cwt. for the week. Choice vealers selling at $10 to $10.50 a cwt., and plain downward to $7.

There were no sheep or lambs offered this morning. Lambs closed draggy on Wednesday at $8 to $8.50 a cwt. for good ewes and wethers.

Hogs sold yesterday at $8.50 f.o.b. and $9.50 a cwt. w.o.c. for bacon. Packers' bids yesterday are unchanged for such hogs as may arrive.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 6. — Erratic trading and a complete absence of any export business depressed wheat prices on the grain exchange here yesterday. Prices at the close of trading were ⅝c to ¾c lower for the day.

Trading was of a local character, with profit-taking accounting for most of the offerings. Reports from foreign markets had a decidedly bearish tinge and brought about a lull in the demand for Manitobas.

Limited demand and light offerings featured cash grain trading. Spreads showed no change.

Trading in coarse grains was dull and prices followed the trend in wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 6. — Extensive moisture relief promised for last night in domestic drought regions imparted a downward trend to grain prices yesterday. Weakness of securities counted also as a bear influence. Adding to the weight on values were advices that Russia was again offering wheat abroad on a large scale.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅝c off to ¼c up, corn ¼c to ⅝c down; oats at ¼c decline to an equal gain, and provisions showing 2c to 20c setback

Exports Are Small.

Export purchases of North American wheat amounted to only 300,000 bushels.

Despite prospective stormy weather likely to have a bullish rather than a bearish effect, the corn market gave way with wheat. Flowing for corn was reported in Illinois, Indiana, and Nebraska. Oats displayed relative strength, with offerings scant.

Provisions averaged lower as a result of packers 'selling.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Cream prices were higher yesterday, and country shippers were quoted an extra cent on all grades. Large creameries were offering 31c to 32c for special, 30c to 31c for No. 1 and 27c to 28c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points. These increases put the price for specialson a level with dealers' butter prices and placed No. 1 just ½c to 1c below the market for No. 1 creamery solids.

Butter.

The butter market was steady, with firm trading at the firm prices of 31½c to 32c for No. 1, and 30½c to 31c for No. 2.

Cheese.

The cheese market held firm at the recently increased prices for new makes of 14¼c to 14½c for large, 14½c to 14¾c for twins, and 14¾c to 15c for triplets, to country shippers, and 15½c for large, 15¾c for twins, and 16c for triplets, to retailers.

Eggs

Eggs were slightly weaker from the brokers' standpoint. They were quoting fresh receipts at 29c for extras, 25c for firsts, 22c for pullet extras, and 20c for seconds, graded, and in free cases, but reported that 30c was difficult to secure for extras. Brokers found a good demand for storage supplies at the steady prices of 17½c for extras, 15½c for firsts, and 13c for seconds. Country shippers were quoted 24c to 25c for extras, 21c to 22c for firsts, and 16c to 18c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were offered extras at 32c to 33c in cartons, 30c to 31c loose, firsts at 27c to 28c, pullet extras 22c, and seconds 31c.

FOUR MILES MINUTE IS NEW RECORD SET

Congratulated by Aunt

Among the first to reach Campbell's side to congratulate him after his record triumph were his aunt, Mrs. Ethel Cumbers, and his niece, Miss Yvonne Middleton. They kissed him. When the crowd rushed out on the beach Campbell was nearly swept from his feet. He shook hands with several scores of them, and after posing for news photographers, broke away from the wild demonstration and drove back to his hotel in his passenger car.

In making his first run yesterday, Campbell took a five and one-half mile flying start, one and one-half miles more than previous record contenders ever took.

The trim, low-slung car quickly gained momentum, and as he threw the machine into high gear after a two or three mile run, it fairly shot ahead with a tremendous burst of speed. Travelling faster and faster, the car first came in view of spectators in the grandstand when it entered the officially measured mile.

Car Not Inspected

With a mighty roar it flashed by the timing tower, riding the course with ease, and quickly disappeared in the heavy mist as it sped on down to the south end of the beach.

Then without waiting to change tires or inspect his machine, the driver ran up the course on his return dash, made from south to north. He stopped at the south end only long enough to turn around.

After completing his second run, official timers announced that a new record had been hung up, and the crowd cheered loudly.

Climbing out of his huge car at the north end of the beach, he then jumped in a midget, four-cylinder racing car which he had brought with him from England and made two runs over the beach in the hope of establishing a new record for machines with a displacement of less than 45 cubic inches, but failed by six miles an hour. The record for that class car is 87.76.

A WISE DECISION.

Toronto's City Council has very wisely decided not to press for a change in the composition of the Police Commission.

The present system by which the police department is administered by a board composed of two judges and the mayor may not be perfect, but it has the undoubted advantage that it keeps the control of the police out of the field of municipal politics, and that is a benefit that more than counter-balances any weaknesses that may exist.

Nothing would be more injurious to police morale or more seriously affect law enforcement than to let politics enter into the administration of police departments.

The story of police conditions in many American cities, the scant respect for law and order that is only too evident, the ease with which criminals with a connection with the municipal powers-that-be are "sprung" when they get into trouble, surely carry their own warning to Canadians to fight shy of methods that could not fail to menace their own cities with similar conditions.

"Hands off the police department," would seem to be a safe motto for the people of this country to adopt.

Toronto's Council is well advised to let well enough alone.

THE SLOW BRITISH?

Once again British skill and sheer courage and British engineering and manufacturing technique have given the world a new speed record.

Yesterday afternoon Captain Malcolm Campbell, British racing motor driver, hurtled over the sands of Daytona Beach in his Blue Bird II. at the amazing speed of 245 miles, breaking the old world's record held by his fellow-countryman, the late Major Segrave, by 14 miles an hour.

No machine in the world's history has ever moved over the ground at such a speed—that is officially timed speed—although Captain Campbell estimates that in a trial a day or two ago his automobile developed a rate of 260 miles per hour.

It is almost impossible to comprehend a speed of better than four miles a minute, of a mile every fifteen seconds, but some conception can be obtained of what it involves if it is realized that car travelling at that rate would cover the distance between this city and Chemong Park in about 90 seconds.

Captain Campbell has once again demonstrated the superiority of British invention and workmanship, and the cool nerve and daring of British sportsmen.

He has set a new record—and the world will hope that he will be satisfied with the laurels he has won and will decline to offer his life as a sacrifice to the demon of speed.

THE FARMERS' DEPUTATION.

It is announced from Kingston that farmers from Eastern Ontario are arranging a deputation to wait upon the Provincial and Federal Governments and request a share of the funds being spent for the relief of unemployment.

If conditions among the agriculturalists of the eastern portion of the Province are so serious that the farmers there are short of food and fuel, a measure of relief should undoubtedly be forthcoming, but it seems impossible to believe that anywhere in this Province there are farmers in such dire straits.

Everybody recognizes, of course that farming is in an abnormal condition at the present time with the price of farm products reaching new low levels, but the average farmer in Ontario who engages in mixed farming is probably, as Dr. Christie of the Ontario Agricultural College said here in an address a short time ago, in a better position than any other farmers of the North American Continent.

The man who operates a farm in this Province is at least sure of being warm and of being well fed, and is in a widely different position from the unemployed industrial worker who with his income cut off and his credit exhausted has nothing to fall back on and faces virtual starvation unless he is given a helping hand.

If the agricultural deputation that is to visit Ottawa and Toronto represent people who are in a similar plight they deserve a sympathetic reception, but all the evidence would go to show that rural Ontario is at least immune from the threat of no food and no fuel.

MR. SPENCE WILL TELL THEM.

Ontario people will be greatly interested in the announcement that Rev. Ben. H. Spence, former prohibition leader in this Province, has linked up with the Anti-Saloon League of America, and will engage in an extensive campaign in which he will denounce the Government control plan as it exists in Canada.

The Anti-Saloon League could have secured nobody who could denounce the evils of intemperance or the defects of Government control more vigorously than the same reverend gentleman, and there will be no tendency over here to question the astuteness of the organization in booking the services of such a forceful debater.

There will be some objection, however, to the fact that the Anti-Saloon League is heralding Mr. Spence as "the leading authority on Canadian liquor systems."

The majority of people in Ontario, The Examiner is confident, refuse to accept the former provincial temperance leader as a "leading authority" on this subject, but rather look upon him as a professional dry orator whose sizing up of the liquor question is narrow, one-sided and in many points far from accurate.

If Americans are wise they will decline to base their opinion of Canada's liquor laws upon the words of a spokesman who shuts his eyes tightly to everything but one side of the question, and whose description of conditions in this country are almost sure to be overdrawn and highly colored.

It is safe to say Canadians would never be able to recognise their own country in the picture Mr. Spence will present to his American audiences.

The figure a mannequin gets depends upon the one she has.—Montreal Star.

GETTING MONEY FROM A WIDOW.

W. G. Ebbs, described as a stock salesman from Toronto, was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory when he appeared in court at Woodstock.

It appears that this salesman visited Woodstock and transacted business with a widowed woman of 72 years. In the first place, his story was that a company in which her husband had previously bought stock was to amalgamate with another firm and a cheque for $1,000 was required by the Government as security. That security cheque, so-called, was cashed, leaving the woman a balance of $3.26 in the bank.

Then he proceeded to sell some more stock and took Victory bonds in payment. The price of the stock, of which this woman now has 13,500 shares, was 20 cents per share. In the report from Woodstock this bit of information is furnished:

"W. C. Cumming, of Toronto, a stock broker for whom Ebbs worked, when the stock was sold in 1929, testified that the stock now had no market value, and might not be worth anything."

So it appears that apart from what this Woodstock woman lost in having her security cheque cashed, she had stock for which $2,700 was paid, which is probably worth nothing at all.

We do not know if it would be possible for the laws of this country to have sufficient officers to watch all the stock salesmen who operate. It would seem the part of wisdom for the people themselves to build up some form of resistance based on suspicion of unknown salesmen who go around seeking to dispose of speculative securities. This feeling of suspicion could well be maintained until some reliable source of information has been consulted. Then, if the bona fides of the individual and what he had to offer were established, progress could be made and no harm done.

As far as we can see no order was made in this case for restitution. It will not do the widow in Woodstock much good to know that the Toronto salesman has gone to jail for six months or six years. It might mean a great deal more to her to have the cash restored.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

AN APPRECIATION OF CANADA.

Surprise is often expressed at the ignorance prevalent in any given country regarding the history, circumstances and position of its immediate neighbors. Individuals can, of course, be found who in various ways have become possessed of a degree of more or less accurate information, more especially if their business pursuits tend in that direction or they otherwise acquire some particular and personal interest that prompts closer investigation and enquiry. But unless something of that nature happens, the average citizen has little opportunity and less inclination to enlarge his knowledge beyond what is necessary for the ordinary purposes of his life work.

This is naturally somewhat distressing to people of larger vision and in all advanced peoples efforts are in progress to break down the intellectual barriers to larger and more sympathetic understanding. Doubtless associations formed for that end do make progress in achieving their object, but it is slow work and in too many cases the game is not worth the candle. But the process goes on, and even if all the information imparted is not retained certain highlights linger in the memory and, consciously or unconsciously, continue to influence earlier impressions.

Here, for example, is the National Conference Board of the United States, with its headquarters in New York, publishing interesting figures and comparisons "relating to the economic growth of our energetic neighbor to the north," Canada, to wit. No doubt many of them, possibly all, will justify the comment of the board and provide what may be or will be "surprising to the average United States reader." They may even prove striking and illuminating, certain of them at least, to the average Canadian reader, and help to convince him that Canada is a country whose present place, internationally speaking, is only an earnest of still greater things in store.

Manufacturing in Canada has increased 684 per cent. since the beginning of the Twentieth Century.

Canada's export trade by 1930 was 525 per cent. greater and its import trade 633 per cent. greater than in 1900.

Canada's manufactures, valued per capita, now stand at $390, comparing with $564 on a similar basis in the United States.

Canada's water power development, on a per capita basis, is five times greater than that of the United States.

Canada's per capita ratio of improved farms stands at 8.05 acres against 4.40 acres south of the border line.

Canada grows per capta five times the quantity of wheat grown in the United States on the corresponding basis.

Gold production on the same basis was last year valued at 38 cents in the United States and at $4.07 in Canada. This means that on the figures given the Dominion produced nearly as much gold as the vastly larger Republic. The latest figures show that Canada now ranks second only to South Africa.

Regarded from any angle these comparative figures are of a most remarkable character, for they illustrate not only the magnitude of Canadian natural resources but the vigor and enterprise the owners have shown in taking immediate advantage of the opportunities opened up by pioneer air exploration and of the latest scientific discoveries and inventions, stimulated as these have been by Canadian war experience. So astonishing has been the rate of progress and achievement that the present depression may easily be regarded as but a breathing spell while the nation girds up its loins for a nearer approach to its goal.—St Thomas Times-Journal.

BURNING BEAUTY

By TEMPLE BAILEY

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR.

Marty Faces Another Day.

It was Jane Bleecker, of course, who had done it. At the eleventh hour, as it were. With almost uncanny instinct she had known the night when Marty came to dinner in a diaphanous gown with a silver wreath on her hair that something important was on hand. Marty had planned a party for her guests on a neighboring yacht. And at the last moment had sent the others on and had stayed at home. And Jane had stayed. "My dear" she had told her young hostess, "I don't think it's proper for you and Rickey to be here alone with nobody but the crew."

Marty shrugged her shoulders. "Do as you like." She was standing by the rail, so absolutely resplendent under the moon that even Jane had been thrilled by the sight of her.

Jane went and stood beside her. "So you'r jgoing to be married tonigh t, Marty?"

Marty's eyes slanted down. "What makes you think that?"

"I don't think it. I know it. Marty, are you mad?"

"Yes, Rickey calls it a beautiful madness."

"Oh, that boy. Do you know what you are going to do to him?"

"I don't care what I do to him—I love him."

"If you love him, you'll let him alone." "What do you mean?"

"You won't make him happy. He can't make you happy. It will all bea miserable failure. And I can't associate you with failure, Marty."

Marty was listening.

"You've always been so absolutely sane," Jane went on, "You've known how to make the most of your beauty. You've kept away from all entanglements that might lessen your prestige. You've stood for success, for perfect technique, if I may call it that, in managing your life. And now you'll marry this mad young poet—and the world will laugh at you."

"Laugh?" Marty had turned a little, her figure tense.

"Yes, laugh." Jane knew Marty's pride and pressed her advantage. "A boy with nothing. Not even a book to show as an evidence of what he is. He talks a lot, but he gets nowhere. There might be some excuse for you if you could say to the world, 'He has genius. He has proved it.' But he hasn't proved it. He's done nothing since he came down but make love to you and write verses. If you marry him, Marty, the world will laugh.'

"But if I give him up? Jane, it will break his heart."

Jane flung out her hand in a little gesture of derision. "Men's hearts! You and I know something of them Marty. They don't break, and there's always another who will mend them."

"Don't!" Marty turned her head away and looked over the water, Far away she could see a stretch of silver beach and the palms waving in the slight breeze.

"Marty, you mustn't be here to meet him. Oh, I know you think I'm cynical and hard, and perhaps I am. But you're no young and tender child to be caught by romance. My dear, you'll forget it if you let yourself go. You know you'll regret it."

"Well, what if I do—I shall have had my moment." Her voice was sad.

"But who wants a moment—with a lifetime of regret after it? You'll be tied to him to the end of your days or else divorce him and have the memory of failure. Marty—"

Mart leaned closer to the rail; the boat was coming nearer. M"You're right, of course, Jane. But if you think I can give him up like this—!"

"You can give him up, and you mustn't say good-by to him," Jane spoke with earnestness. "Marty, come with me now, before he gets here."

And so it happened that Rickey, reaching the yacht, looked up at the rail and saw no silver figure under the moon. He had thought Marty would be waiting. He had picked out a place on the beach; the clergyman, a young fellow with a bit of romance about him had promised to be there. The two men who took them over would be witnesses. In the boat Rickey had orange blossoms, a great bouquet tied up with silver ribbons and perfuming the air.

He cam on deck and was handed a letter. "Miss Van Duyne left it," the man told him.

"Left it?"

"Yes. She went with Mrs. Bleecker to the 'Wanderer.' You're to follow them, I think, sir."

But Rickey was not to follow them and this was Marty's letter:

"Rickey, dear, I know I'm being cruel. But I am cruel only to be kind. At the last moment, I can't marry you, my dear. It is too much of a risk for both of us. Beneath the glamour you have woven about me I'm a rather practical person and when the romance wore off, you'd see me as I am, and you'd be disappointed. And when you no longer worshipped at my shrine, I'd hate you, I would, Rickey. I know myself better than you do. So this is best—to remember in each other all that might have been beautiful and not to have it spoiled by the everyday things—the disillusionments. You'll always be, my tragic young god and I'll always be your silver witch. Such a disappointing witch, I fear. But let me tell you this—I love you, and I am doing the hardest thing I ever done in my life.

Your friend forever,

Marty."

Rickey had torn the letter up like a mad man and had flung the pieces over the rail. Then he had packed his bag and had given orders to the men. He had to catch a train—they could take him over. And would they put the orange blossoms in Miss Van Duyne's room—with this note?

What he had had to say was in three lines:

"Some day you'll be sorry. When the world knows me, you'll be forgotten. Money doesn't count throughout the ages. But a written line may live forever."

He had signed it "Rickey"; had liberally tipped the men who took him to the train and had spent the last of his money on a ticket to New York. All the way home the pain in his heart had been an actual physical fact. He was like a man who suffers amputation, and every nerve cries out.

And so he had come to Virginia's attic to find her gone and only the little dog to welcome him. With Weenie beside him he fell into an uneasy sleep.

When he waked it was after nine. He had eaten nothing on his journey and was famished. He foraged in the pantry and found milk and meat and bread. He fell upon the food. The cat and the little dog sat sociably beside him and he fed them bits of meat and poured milk into a saucer. He seemed to be doing it all in a dream—a dreadful dream from which he would wake and find that this room with its poor furniture would vanish, and that the reality was Marty in a silver gown, the sea molten under the moon, servants in white slipping silently about, a table set with precious porcelain and crystal frail as a bubble, with fruit and flowers in golden dishes.

Again the pain at his heart stabbed him. He rose restlessly and walked to the window. The lights of the city shone above the roof, the rain slanted across it and washed over the cornices—a dreary prospect after all the enchantment of the tropic nights.

As he turned back into the room, his eye was caught by the neatly typed pile of manuscript which lay on Virginia's desk. He picked it up and began to read.

It was his own story—Burning Beauty But as he read he was aware that it was his story illumined by a talent which transcended his own. He was artist enough to know good work when he saw it and this work was good. Virginia had done it, of course. She had made his book something to be proud of. A book that was bound to be successful . . . a book to flaunt in the face of Marty. For, after all, it was his book—not Virginia's. His plot, his characters. The world would read it and call him great, and Marty's pride would be in the dust.

But he didn't want her pride in the dust. He wanted her as he had last seen her—his beauty—his bride.

He flung the manuscript from him and began to cry, clutching at his throat to still the pain. The worried little dog whined distressfully, then, as he got no response from that despairing figure, went back and forth from the door to the desk. If his mistress would only come things might be better.

It was late when Virginia came. Michael had taken her with Mary Lee to a play, and had returned with her to the old house and had watched her as she ascended the stairs. "It is as if you were going straight up to Heaven," he had whispered under the Bronze Knights' torch, "beyond the roof, up among the stars."

She turned at the first landting to look down at him and to blow a kiss from the tips of her fingers. What a strange day it had been, but how wonderful. And to-morrow would be wonderful and all to-morrows.

Then she went up and up and opened the door of her shabby rooms, and found the little dog waiting and Rickey lying on the couch asleep. She bent over him, and saw traces of tears on his cheeks. He was unkempt, unshaven. Oh, what had happened that he should be like this? She spoke softly, "Rickey"

He waked at once and held out his arms to her. She clung to him. "My darling, what is it?"

In stumbling words he told her of the last dreadful days. "Her letter was cruel. It broke my heart, Virginia."

She soothed him as a mother would a child. He was her child—Rickey.

"You shall sleep in my bed," she said, "and I'll take the couch. And you must have a hot bath and a warm drink."

He accepted her ministrations as a matter of course. She moved the little round stove, drawing water in the bath in the hall which she shared with the Barlows.

She had him comfortable at last on the fresh white pillows. She had said nothing of herself. Her thoughts had been only for him. He was so white, so spent— and he must sleep. She turned off the light and sat down by the bed in the dark. "I'll rub your forehead as I did when you were a little boy, Rickey."

He lay very still and after awhile he said: "I read the book."

"Burning Beauty—?" her voice showed her apprehension.

"Yes. It's good work, Jinny."

"Do you really think so, Rickey?"

"You know it is," he said with a touch of irritation. "But it's my book, Jinny, just the same—not yours."

She thought of her weeks of hard work, but said calmly, "Of course it's your book. And Michael wants it."

He flung off her hand and sat up. "McMillan?"

"Yes."

"Do you think I'll let him have it? There are other editors in the world, Jinny."

"I know. But this story, Rickey—he paid for it."

"A paltry thousand."

"That was only an advance."

"Then let me pay it back to him when I've sold it to someone else. Oh it is useless to argue, Jinny. The book is mine. You know that, no matter what you've done to it."

She saw his excitement, "Rickey, dear, lie down. We'll talk it over in the morning. You need all the rest you can get to-night."

He was completely worn out, and when at last he slept Virginia went into the other room and faced the situation. Rickey was home again, unhappy, needing her more than ever, and hating Michael. What was she going to do about it? Was she going to let Rickey rule her life as he had always ruled it? She knew the strength she would need to set herself free. Would she use it? Or was she to be caught again in the net of Rickey's selfishness?

She had not dared tell her brother what Michael had said about the manu script. He had read a few pages and had said: "It's really your book, my darling." He had said, too, "I must have it." And now Rickey had set himself against it.

But Rickey's word had been pledged that night in Annapolis, and he must not break it. The Oliphants had been men of honor. She would tell him that. She would make him see. Oh, surely he would see it as she saw it—as a matter of deep obligation.

She would telephone Michael in the morning. She had promised to lunch with him, but she would have to break the engagement. Perhaps later in the day, if she could get Mrs. Barlow or Mary Lee to sit with Rickey, she could have tea with her lover. She felt it would not be wise to leave Rickey alone.

She had made up the couch as a bed and from where she lay she could look out of the window. The rain had stopped and the wind was blowing the sky clear. She could see the clouds flying high—catching the glow from the lights beneath. The big city was still awake, with all the gay people coming and going to parties which would end at dawn. She wondered if everybody was still awake on the Van Duyne yacht. And was Marty missing Rickey? What kind of woman was she, that she could treat a boy like that?

And how could she know that Marty was at that very moment on deck, wrapped in a great gray cloak and watching the sun rise. Jane Bleecker had come out to her in pink negligee, her bare feet stuck into pink slippers. "Marty, if you act like this, you'll have everybody talking."

"Let them talk. I want him back, Jane."

"Call him back then, and be laughed at."

"I shan't call him back, you know that. But I shall love him all my life.'

She had risen then and had gone to the rail, and had stood looking out across the water. The sun came up in rose and gold, and lighted the world. Marty shivered and clenched her hands. "I don't want to face another day, Jane. I don't want to face it."

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Leaping Flames.

The next morning Rickey wakened to see through the open door his sister in her green linen frock, cooking his breakfast on the little round stove.

"Eggs and bacon, Rickey," she said as she looked in upon him. "I'm going to bring them to you when you've freshened up a bit."

"I don't want anything to eat," he said as he turned his face to the wall.

She came and stood beside the bed. "Rickeyy, darling, just a cup of coffee."

"No."

"But, my dear—"

"I'm not going to get up. Why should I get up, ever?" His tone was despairing.

She was patient. "If you'd put on your dressing-gown and come into the other room—the rain has stopped and it's nice and cheerful."

"Nothing is 'nice and cheerful.' Let me alone, Jinny."

She laid her hand on his, but he flung it off. She left him, then, and closed the door, and sat down to her solitary breakfast, pale and heavy-eyed.

Little Roger came in presently with the morning mail. He was very important. "Two for you. May I stay a minute? Mother said I might."

"Yes, but you must be quiet. My brother is here and he want to sleep."

Roger whispered. "I won't make the very little noise," and played with the primrose cat while Virginia read her letters. One was a line from Michael which lighted her eyes. She read it twice, then turned to the long letter from her mother. It was a rather surprising letter. Daddy was better and he wanted to go home.

"To Annapolis—with you and Rickey with us. Rickey could write and you and I could keep the house together. I know there isn't any furniture, but Daddy says he'd rather camp in the old house than live in luxury anywhere else. Our roots are so deep, dearest, it seems to both of us that we shall kneel and kiss the dear red soil of Anne Arundel county—we love every brick of the rough sidewalks of the old town, every shabby residence and straggling garden.

And so we want to come back. Can't you think it out for us? Jinny my dear we all seem to cast our burdens on you, yet your shoulders are slender. Tell me of Rickey. What about his book? And is he still in Florida? Of late we have had no letters from him. And you say nothing of yourself. Your letters are long and like you in your good sense and cheerfulness. But don't tell me what I want to know. I am uneasy, Jinny. Are you happy? You are so far away, dear child. I want my arms about you."

Little Roger had gone, taking the primrose cat with him, and Virginia was glad there was no one to see her tears as she finished her mother's letter. "You are so far away, dear child, I want my arms about you." Oh, for the shelter of those arms, the strength of that serene presence.

NO NATIONAL ANTHEM

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—As one of the few who attended a concert given by the Hart House String Quartet at the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday evening I think the Kiwanis Club must be commended for fostering attractions of this kind and it was a pity the attendance was not larger. I must remark however on the absence of the National Anthem being played either before or after the performance, this was a serious omission and one that must not be tolerated, if the Hart House Quartet make a practice of this at every performance they give throughout Canada it is calculated to have a disrupting influence and something should be done about it.

What To-day Means To You

"AQUARIUS"

If February 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 11p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10:45 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date are favorable the first half of the day. Take Kipling's advice and get your hardest work done before lunch and let the rest of the day look after itself. Those who have money to invest are advised to keep clear of speculation, and better still to wait!

The child born on this February 6th will be freedom-loving, mischief-loving, and pleasure-loving. It will have a live spirit, an active mind, and a keen sense of humor. It will be frank and straightforward in both its speech and actions, and it will make more friends than enemies through life.

You are one of the world's silent people, and you have the reputation, like many silent people, of having strong wisdom penned up somewhere within you. If your tongue is not always busy, your eyes and mind are. You know how to keep your finger out of the pie, and your tongue in your cheek. When you so say anything, however, it is usually worth listening to, and your words show thought. To attend to your own business, and to let others do the same, is your policy in life.

Nothing makes you more miserable than indecision, and no grass grows under your feet, when once a decision is made, and prompt action follows. Life to you is not all work and no play, and although you do not necessarily make a lot of noise about your fun, you have it nevertheless. You have a dry sense of humour, and you are more of a chuckler than laughter.

You have refined tastes, and are very particular about your person. The best is none too good for you, and quality means more to you than quantity, be it food, clothes, books, theatres or anything else. You are an intelligent reader, and a varied one. You are very devoted to nature, and passionately fond of animals, especially dogs and horses.

You will make your home all that the word implies—it will be a place of happiness and enjoyment to both you and your friends.

A Thought

THE MAN IN A HURRY.

Long ago the Latins said 'Hast'e is slow'; later the English said, "Done in a hurry never done well"; the Scots said, 'Aye in a hurry aye ahint"; and the Irish advised, "Keep your hurry in your fist." This age is, if possible, more in a hurry than ever. Yet it is a foolish and wasteful thing. What we do in a hurry has often to be done over again. When we are in a hurry we are prone to forget and we have to retrace our steps often at heavy cost.

We can't afford to hurry. If hurry meant speed it might be different, but this is just what it does not mean. Hurry costs too much for the ordinary man. Only those who can afford to do their work twice should practise it, for it usually means imperfect work and very costly blunders. The plea that we have not enough time is useless here, for this is just one reason why hurry is, or should be, under the ban. We have not time to hurry. For hurry means waste of time.

The chief reason for our hurry seems to be that we do not start soon enough to do what is to be done. We waste time, and then try to make it up by going at double speed. Better get an early start, and then one can proceed leisurely and take time to think Hurry is usually speed without thinking. The mind is not functioning as fast as the legs or the tongue—which is mostly an unfortunate thing. Better get the habit of starting on time.

B.C. To Change Policy On Beer Purchasing

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 6 (C.P.).—Abolition of the system of purchasing beer from a central selling agency set up by the brewing interests in favor of direct dealing with individual brewers of British Columbia and importation of outside beers by the Liquor Control Board for sale in quantities and brands to suit the public needs, is, in effect, the Government's beer policy, announced last night after a prolonged meeting of the Cabinet.

The policy does not, for the present, include establishment of further breweries in British Columbia, but does open the door for brews from outside the Province to be sold in competition with local products.

CLOSE COMPETITION IN BADMINTON TESTS

Ranking Players Eliminated in Men's Doubles—Entry List Reduced.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6. (CP)—Fourteen hours of steady play yesterday reduced the entry list of 435 to reasonable proportions in the annual Ontario badminton championships and play resumed to-day in the six events with the probability all classes will be brought down to the eights, at least.

Competition was exceptionally keen in the preliminary rounds but only one outstanding upset occurred. In this, T. Shepard, Toronto, and F. W. Percival, ranking English player who recently arrived in Canada and now represents the Sault Ste Marie badminton club, went down to defeat before B. Pearce and G. Bolton, Toronto, after three hard sets in the second round of the men's doubles.

The Canadian champions, Col. Blackstock and B. Andrews, head the men's doubles draw. There are 14 clever combinations still in the running.

The women's doubles has been brought down to the last 16 and indications point to some thrilling matches before championship in this event is decided.

The women's singles list contains the names of eight star performers. Miss M. Robertson, Ottawa, Miss H. Grant, St. Catharines, and six local entrants will fight it out.

Out of town competitors are strongly represented in the last 16 of the men's singles which is headed by Jack Purcell, defending titleholder. The contenders include Percical, Col. C. D. Grant, Kingston, Dr. R. Cramer, Guelph, J. Davis, and Doug. Grant, Kingston and Jack Cameron, Ottawa.

Lady Meichett has declined the nomination as candidate to Parliament from East Toxteth, Liverpool, England, to fill the vacancy caused by the succession of her husband, Henry Mond, to the peerage on the death of his father.

UNDERSTOOD NEW YORK INTERESTS NEGOTIATING FOR NORANDA STOCK

New Developments in Affairs of Companies Long Dormant Heard on Street.

Sherritt Meeting Postponed.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6. (Special to Examiner.)—Though higher priced issues were firm, penny stocks again saw the bulk of trading and price action on the mining market to-day. Deals and rumors of deals are still widely circulated around the street, and many new developments in the affairs of companies dormant for some time are talked of.

Noranda was the subject of gossip in several board rooms. According to one source it is understood the firm of Alderson-Mackay, consulting geologists of Montreal, made a report on the company for a New York group and that as a result these interests picked up a large block of stock and are in the market for more. The report is believed to have emphasized the substantial gold values recovered from Noranda ore.

Rumors regarding drilling results at Noranda continue to reach town from usually well informed quarters. It is said that diamond drilling around 2,000 feet has encountered the downward extensions of the "H" and other orebodies, and that values in copper and gold are good.

The meeting of directors of Sherritt Gordon mines, scheduled to be held yesterday was postponed until the latter part of next week. Members of the board are anxious that W. M. Archibald, Smelters representative on the directate be present and the meeting has been held over pending his arrival from the west.

A London dispatch states the Bwana Mkubwa mines in northern Rhodesia has been closed down and notice given employees as from February 1. Although no official statement is available it is believed to be the owners intention to concentrate on the N'kana properties. A few weeks ago Bwana M'kubwa merged with the Rhodesia Congo border and N'Changa companies.

According to a recent visitor to Kirkland Lake, Lake Shore is still encouraging lengths of unusually good ore in development work. On one level, he claims about 40 feet of extremely high grade material was found a small width down the centre being sufficiently rich to go straight to the refinery. The company is getting important quantities of ore in outside bodies paralleling the main break in which the old bodies are found.

GOLD LEADERS HOLD STEADY

Bulk of Turnover on Mining Market Done in Penny Stocks.

OILS SLIGHTLY EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6. (CP)—Though somewhat mixed in their movements, penny stocks saw the bulk of turnover on the mining market in the forenoon to-day. Higher-priced golds were firm and oils slightly easier.

Ritchie recovered a cent to 10 and Central Pat and Malartic, sold fractionally higher. St. Anthony was active and unchanged from last night at noon.

Small recesions occurred in Macassa, Bidgood and Bunker Hill Extension.

Dome was a strong member of the more important gold group, price moving up 20 to $1.70. Mining Corp, also gained 5 to $1.90, and Siscoe was firmer at 48. Nipissing sold up 6 at $1.46.

International Nickel eased 20 to $14.30. Noranda held steady and Hudson Bay was up 5 to $4.50. Waite-Ackerman and Chicougamau prospectors were 4 apiece to $1.85 and 21, respectively.

Point losses were registered in Calmont, Nordon and Associated. Balance of the lower-priced oils were holding in dull turnover.

TRADING LIGHT IN DULL SESSION

Nickel, Brazil, Ford and Oils Register Sales Below Usual Volume.

OIL STOCKS UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6. (CP)—Volume dried up as prices drifted listlessly over a small front on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Even such leaders as Nickel, Brazil and Ford and the oils registered sales below the usual volume.

Brazilian Traction continued to maintain in large measure the gains of this week, the price being fractionally above 24 this morning. Strength in this stock is attributed to recent announcements of the president of the republic proposing stabilization of the milreis and internal conditions.

Nickel, Ford, Page-Hersey Tubes, Service Stations, Walkers, were issues unchanged in price at the end of the second hour.

Bell Telephone, equalled the year's high of 151¾ and De Forest Crosley rose to 14¾, the highes: of the year to date.

In the oil group better support was forthcoming and most of the leaders were unchanged from last night.

C.P.R., soft on end Thursday, was stronger ar 42. Atlantic Sugar dropped 3 points to 20 on an odd-lot sale.

Stock Market Ticker Briefs and Flashes

LIQUOR STOCKS

With the establishment of a selling agreement especially as it affects the export market, it is estimated that earnings of the leading distilleries should show a marked improvement over the next few years. Although no official information is available, well-informed people advise Financial Service that the proportion of sales have been divided up as follows:

Distillers 38%, Walkers 27%, Alcohol 19%, Sundry 16%.

Such an arrangement is expected to facilitate the raising of the price by $3.50 a case, and if this works out satisfactorily, it is calculated that the Canadian Industrial Alcohol company, for example, could quite easily earn $1,200,000.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

Nickel was steady on the announcement of the dividend cut which was by no means unexpected. Most mining shares, in spite of dividend reductions and lower earnings, have been acting for some time as though prices were at levels which took into consideration about all the unfavorable news likely to come.

Investors who are buying the shares on the International Nickel Company at the present time are doing so for the long pull. Huge sums of money have been spent on plant and extensions and development work during the last five years and now that they have been completed this company is in splendid shape to reap the benefit from same with the return of normal business.

International Nickel and its predecessors have been exceptionally generous to their shareholders in the past and at this particular juncture it is interesting to recall that they have paid out $135,000,000 in dividends. This large sum represents the amount that has been paid to both preferred and common shareholders of the merged companies. Such a record speaks well for the future.

BELL TELEPHONE

The recent strength in Bell Telephone is attributed to the belief in some quarters that a new stock issue may be made. The other school of thought expresses the opinion that it would be more advantageous to do any required financing by the issuance of additional bonds as it is pointed out that the latter could probably be done on 4.85 per cent basis. Officials are very reticent to discuss the matter but admit that some $20,000,000 of new funds will be needed for improvements and additions this year.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of R. J. Sawiff Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Wheat prices were erratic at the start yesterday morning, and after opening about unchanged an advance of almost one cent was scored in the May future with a little buying in evidence that was credited to European account. However, offerings were fairly liberal on this upturn, and were coming from one or two large interests which quickly filled up the demand and the market gradually eased off, prices were 3-4 under the close Wednesday night and up against the daily bids which held the market from further declines for a considerable time. While European news was mostly favorable for a firm market, the news on this side was more bearish, rains or snows were predicted officially for the larger part of the winter wheat belt during the next 48 hours, and at the same time the New York stock market was decidedly weak, most of the leading issues breaking several points during the morning. In the local market the buying power appeared to have played out, with little export business worked overnight, but New York estimated sales at around 300,000 bushels and stated there was some good bids in the market, just out of line for Manitobas, although there was no evidence of such business here. Some fairly good selling around midsession that was understood to be coming from the south. The local cash demand was only fair, but terminal interests were after the top grades with spreads 1-8 to 1-4 better, offerings were very light.

Liverpool was steady, closing unchanged to 1-8 lower. Broomhall's agent cables that deterioration to wheat in Argentine is confirmed owing to the excessive rains during harvest and he reduces his estimate by 20,000,000 bushels. The surplus is now placed at 180,000,000 bushels, compared to 100,000,000 last year. Argentine estimated shipments this week are 3,675,000 bushels and those from Black Sea ports are 1,480,000 bushels, of which Russia cleared 1,392,000. Weather continues in France and India mostly favorable for the new crops. The winter wheat crop in the United States is generally understood to be in good shape and if the present drought is broken during the next few days, another big crop would seem to be in the making. This should be watched carefully.

Coarse Grains. — Oats and barley held fairly steady but rye was weaker. Flax very steady in the near-by and a little easier in the deferred months.

Liverpool due 1-8 lower to unchanged, based on Winnipeg.

Canada Northern Power Supplies District Whose Chief Product Will Always Be in Demand

Canada Northern Power Corporation supplies power to Northern Quebec and Ontario, two districts whose chief product will always be in demand. Many references are made these days to the fact that gold plays a very important role in the economic well-being of the world and many people attribute the periods of good and bad times to a declining or increasing supply of gold in the world.

Gold production during 1930 throughout the world was about $405,000,000 and it is estimated it will be only $370,000,000 in 1940. With about half the gold produced going to uses other than for monetary purposes and with world business increasing by about 3% per annum, it is estimated that there will be a deficit of gold for monetary use on the basis of present ratio of gold to credit by 1940.

With the great demand for gold in the future and the decreasing output of older mining areas, Canada will be called upon to supply more and more of this precious metal. Canada is rapidly increasing its output of gold and will soon be only second to Africa in quantity of gold produced annually. Of Canada's production, Ontario produces about 85%. Extensions to mining properties of some of the leading mines now taking place, will increase the proportion of gold produced by Ontario. This important mining district is situated in the territory served by Canada Northern Power Corp.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER.

Presbyterial Reports Read By Knox Delegates

On Thursday afternoon Knox Church W.M.S. held its February meeting, with the president, Mrs. Watt, in the chair. After the devotional period of hymns, Bible reading, and prayers, the routine business was transacted. Several reports of the recent Presbyterial were given by the various delegates and the allocation sent down from that Presbyterial was unanimously accepted. Ways and means of meeting this objective were discussed and the "cent-a-day" plan was agreed upon by all present, to be a good way to increase the givings. Mrs. M. Watson then read the devotional leaflet dealing with the clause in the Lord's Prayer, "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." The fifth chapter of the study book was explained in a very fine paper read by Mrs. McDonald, while Miss Morton and Mrs. Laing were Watch Tower heralds, and Mrs. McCurdy presented the temperance question. A very earnest prayer for medical missions brought this instructive and inspiring meeting to a close.

Dominion Glass has been the outstanding feature of the Montreal market the past few days, the issue recording a 13-point advance in two days. The Company, on January 31st, concluded four months of its fiscal year, and as far as can be learned, business has held up well. The excellent business being experienced by Canadian distillery companies has been an important facotr in the demand for bottles. For the year ending Sept. 30th, 1930, Dominion Glass showed $7.64 a share on common as against $9 93 the previous year. The small capitalization of the company lends itself to wide fluctuations.
